DISASTER SERVICES UPDATE

Friends and Partners,

Our hearts continue to go out to the many that have been affected by the spring storms, tornados, wildfires, flooding and most recently throughout the Northeast, Hurricane /Tropical Storm Irene. Our federal and nonprofit partners including FEMA, the State Service Commissions, Hands On, National VOAD members, all of our grantees and the National Civilian Community Corps (NCCC) have extraordinary disaster response capabilities and have been working tirelessly for many, many, months. I'd like to take this opportunity to recognize the dedication and commitment demonstrated by these extraordinary groups.

If you would like to learn more about you can help visit www.serve.gov or <http://www.fema.gov/rebuild/recover/howtohelp.shtm> If you would like to learn more about how to prepare your family and or community please visit www.ready.gov .

Over 400 National Civilian Community Corps (NCCC), Retired Senior Volunteer Participants (RSVP's), State Service Commissions and AmeriCorps State members have served in over 13 states in response to Hurricane Irene.

HURRICANE/TROPICAL STORM IRENE

August 20-August 29th Hurricane Irene wound up by most estimates as one of the top ten most destructive and deadly hurricanes to hit the United States since 1980. While ultimately not as powerful as many had predicted, the storm still killed at least 27 people along its path from the Caribbean to the eastern seaboard. Transportation was shut down all along the east coast, stranding residents and tourists in shelters, airports, and train stations. More than 5.8 million customers lost electricity, thousands of flights were cancelled, flooding washed out roads and destroyed homes, and evacuation orders were issued for hundreds of thousands. Gathered here are pictures from the Hurricane's path. -- Lane Turner

Rhode Island

Serve Rhode Island, the RI Commission for National and Community Service, remains very active in Tropical Storm Irene response. Serve Rhode Island is the Point of Contact for coordinating out-of- state and faith-based volunteer groups coming to Rhode Island. 2-1-1 takes requests by homeowners for assistance with debris clean up, targeting services to those unable to afford services (i.e. low income, disable, and elderly). Those requests are being forwarded to SRI who assigns the requests to the out-of-state volunteer teams. We are also recruiting from our Serve Corps Disaster Team, pre- registered and spontaneous volunteers to assist as pullers in the debris removal.

Volunteer Recruitment Efforts Include:

- RI Department of Health - Food Inspectors
- Red Cross - prepping, cooking and serving food to those without power and for the 1 remaining shelter
- RIEMA - answering phones for surge capacity
- 2-1-1 - collecting requests for volunteer debris clean up, priority given to those with low income, disabilities and the elderly
- Brush Haulers for Clean Up - SRI is pre-registering volunteers for cleanup and has deployed 1 team to a home in Providence
