

A QUICK WORD ABOUT THE QUIZ – A WAY TO SAVE YOU TIME!

Don't panic! We formulated the multiple-choice quiz at the end of the morning session to be a fun challenge and a way to reinforce the subject material covered in that session. By having the quiz, the MARA was able to allocate 6 core MARA CPD points to the morning session of the course. We have designed the quiz in such a way that all questions will be based on the subject material covered in the morning session. It is not a test that has been designed to trick people into failing.

Notably, given the MARA's CPD exemptions for practising lawyers and accountants, these practitioners will be able to meet their annual MARA CPD obligation in one morning if they complete the morning session of our CPD Express program. For further information about this CPD exemption and mandatory CPD requirements, see the MARA website at <https://www.mara.gov.au/Agent-Information/CPD-Activities/Types-of-CPD-Acivities/Mandatory-CPD/default.aspx> Other agents will save an entire day on their CPD by being able to complete their CPD in one normal business day instead of two.

LAWYER CPD/CLE POINTS

In addition to MARA CPD points, legal practitioners can claim lawyer CPD/CLE points in accordance with the CPD rules of their State or Territory Law Society by attending our CPD programs.

CPD Express

For experienced migration agents and lawyers

Earn up to 10 CPD points in one day
Practising Lawyers and Accountants - get all your annual MARA CPD points by lunchtime!

In December last year we promised that MPE would continue to provide accelerated, high-quality, practical migration CPD programs for experienced migration practitioners. We can now offer you our new CPD Express Course Programs that have been designed specifically for migration agents and lawyers with at least three years experience as a registered migration agent. We are also delighted to announce that MPE will be working with leading legal publisher LexisNexis to bring you our exciting new course programs in 2011. Presented primarily by Roz Germov and Peter Papadopoulos, the CPD Express course program is structured into morning (9am to 12.45pm) and afternoon (1.45pm to 5.30pm) sessions. The morning session is worth 6 MARA CPD points and the afternoon session is worth 4 MARA CPD points. Practising lawyers and accountants will be able to complete 6 MARA CPD points in one morning. The morning session will end with a 30 minute open book quiz of 20 multiple-choice questions which must be passed in order for any agent to get the 6 MARA CPD points allocated to that session.

CPD Express is for the more experienced practitioner who wants to complete their CPD efficiently with other like minded and experienced professionals. Our CPD Express program will be taught in small group formats and focus on workshopping and interaction between participants, rather than just lecturing all day long from presenters. Our classes will be strictly limited to 40 people and take place in a comfortable learning environment that is conducive to sharing ideas and networking with other experienced professionals. The course program is supported by course materials designed to be used as reference materials in your professional practice so you get on-going value from your CPD. We also make sure your energies are kept up with good quality catering throughout the day. Further information about CPD Express is available on our website at <http://www.mpeonline.com.au> and on the LexisNexis website at <http://www.lexisnexis.com.au/>.

CPD Express

For experienced migration agents and lawyers

COURSE PROGRAM

Part 1 – Morning Session (6 MARA CPD points)

Module 1: The Advanced Refresher
9.00am to 10.30am

This short module is an update on the latest developments in case law, legislative activity, policy and issues concerning the immigration portfolio generally including Court decisions, recent legislative and policy developments in immigration, public inquiries, media commentary and political debates.

Module 2: Interactive Case Study Workshops
10.45 am to 12.15pm

This module will feature our popular and enjoyable case study workshops. We have received resounding feedback from experienced practitioners that advanced CPD is best understood through case study examples that highlight how migration law, policy and procedure work in practice. Accordingly, our case studies are based on realistic scenarios relating to various visa subclasses and the more complex issues encountered by experienced agents when navigating through new and more difficult aspects of migration legislation and policy. The case studies will require participants to work through a solution using legislation, case law and other relevant resources.

Multiple-choice Quiz
12.15pm to 12.45pm

COURSE PROGRAM

Part 2 - Afternoon Session (4 MARA CPD points)

Module 1: Interactive Case Study Workshops
1.45 pm to 3.45 pm

The first module in the afternoon session will involve more case study workshops but the emphasis will be on realistic scenarios involving problems encountered in day-to-day practice by experienced agents such as difficult clients, client complaints to professional bodies, dealing with decision-makers, ethical dilemmas, conflicts of interest and professional discipline matters. This module is designed to help more experienced agents deal with those practice problems which aren't readily answered by a cursory look at the Code of Conduct but require consideration by other experienced practitioners.

Module 2: Experiential Workshop
4.00 pm to 5.30 pm

The final module of the day is our brainstorming activity where you will be able to raise issues of concern to your own practice for group discussion. This can range from "true confessions" where you have made mistakes to venting some steam about what irks you about working in the migration field. The module will be supported by stimulus materials and the ensuing discussion will be moderated by Peter and Roz so that it remains focussed and beneficial to all attendees.
