Chapter 06
Page 82	Added to an existing bullet to read (added text in italics): - Top tether anchors are located where the car body is strong enough to withstand crash forces. Top tether anchors have upper weight limits that vary. Always refer to the vehicle owner's manual and child restraint manual for installation guidance. Both manuals must be in agreement for tether and lower anchor use on seats with higher weight limits. When no guidance is provided, discontinue use of the lower anchors and/or tether and use the vehicle seat belt for a child heavier than 40 pounds.	81-84
Chapter 08
Page 109	Added another bullet following "- Recall lists and checklists need to be used for every seat check" that reads: - Remember that a recall may be initiated through compliance testing or through defect monitoring. A CR that has a recall may be crashworthy and useable until the repair has been made. Follow the manufacturer's recall instructions.	109-110
Page 111	Added another bullet to the Student notes, following "splitter plates" that reads: - As you look at and identify the different parts of the seat, remember to check for obvious defects such as frayed harnesses or other damage. When assisting parents and other caregivers and defects are seen, you will encourage them to contact the manufacturer and report the possible defect to the NHTSA hotline.	111-112
Page 124	Added a new Student note following "It is the shell of the CR itself that absorbs the forces in a head-on crash" that reads: - Refer to "Rear Facing Quotables: Guiding Parents to Keep Children Rear-facing Longer" in the Appendix for information technicians can use in the field to communicate with parents about keeping children rear-facing longer.	123-124
Page 125	a) Replaced the slide thumbnail with revised slide 9-7 (Reformatted bullets and added a final bullet on the slide): Rear-Facing Infant-Only CR - This CR is rear facing only - Use rear-facing CR to the highest weight or height allowed by the manufacturer's instructions - Note head should be 1 inch below the top of the shell - Use in semi-reclined position - Use harness straps at or below shoulder level - CRs should be used only for travel, not sleeping b) Added to the Student Notes: - CRs should be used only for travel. Sleeping children should be removed from their car seats in the home or at child care and placed in a crib that is free from pillows, blankets, stuffed animals, loose sheets, bumper pads, etc. c) Added another Appendix reference: Appendix—American Academy of Pediatrics' Clinical Report, "Safe Transportation of Preterm and Low Birth Weight Infants at Hospital Discharge"	125-126

Chapter/Page	Edits and Notes	Replace Pages
Page 135-136	Added a Student Note following "Many parents who mistakenly grab... that reads: - To reduce the risk of entanglement from unused seat belts, technicians should educate the caregiver to evaluate and note unused seat belts that may be within reach of a child. If possible, switch the retractor to ALR mode to lock the unused seat belt against the seat back. Refer to vehicle and CR owner's manuals for guidance.	135-136
Page 137	Amended the first bullet on the page to say: - Does at least 80% of the CR base (footprint) fit on the vehicle seat? Many manufacturers say that no more than 20% of the CR can hang over the front edge of the seat. At least one manufacturer requires that 100% of the footprint fit on the vehicle seat.	137-138
Page 196	Amended 4 th bullet on the page to read: "Seats on school buses must have flexible, energy-absorbent, high seat backs (about 20 inches from the seat reference point.)"	195-196
Chapter 14	Renamed as "Chapter 14: In the Field"
Pages 205-210	Replace the entire Chapter. Major edits were made and material was added to Chapter 14. Edited content required that 4 additional pages be added to the chapter in the Student Manual. Added pages were numbered with letters (210a – 210d) to prevent having to renumber the entire Appendix.	205-210d
