

The Delaware Museum of Natural History offers engaging programs for Boy Scouts, Cub Scouts, and Girl Scouts.

Each program is designed for Scouts to meet requirements and explore science and the world around them.

Programs offered at DMNH include:

- Boy Scout Merit Badge Workshops
- Scout Weekends
- Scout Overnights
- All-Scout Events
- Scout Outreaches
- Design Your Own Programs

Boy Scout Merit Badge Workshops

Under the direction of our merit badge counselors, Scouts will work towards their requirements for merit badges that emphasize science and nature. Please note that DMNH does not provide the actual badges.

2 hour programs:

Insect Study: Scouts will delve into the diverse world of insects and interact with live animals to learn what makes an insect different from other arthropods.

Reptile and Amphibian Study: Scouts will observe live animals to learn about reptile movement, methods for identification, and the differences between reptiles and amphibians.

Nature: Scouts will study a variety of animals and plants, getting first-hand experience identifying animals and understanding the connection between all living organisms.

Mammal Study: Scouts will get an up close look at DMNH's exhibits, work their way through mammal classification, and work on a project to help local mammals.

Bird Study: Scouts will practice the skills needed to study wild birds and learn why birds are an important part of the environment.

Cost: $15 per workshop per Scout;
$9 per adult; minimum fee of $99

4 hour programs:

Environmental Science: Scouts will explore the natural habitats outside DMNH and perform scientific experiments to see the effects of pollution on Earth's different ecosystems.

Sustainability: Scouts will work with the merit badge counselor to develop a plan to reduce household waste and explore what makes a sustainable community.

Cost: $30 per workshop per Scout;
$9 per adult; minimum fee of $189

Programs are available on Saturdays and Sundays, October through May, from 9:30 a.m. – 3 p.m.
