FCC RADIATION NORM

FCC

This equipment has been tested and found to comply with limits for Class B digital device pursuant to Part 15 of Federal Communications Commission (FCC) rules.

FCC Compliance Statement

These limits are designed to provide reasonable protection against frequency interference in residential installation. This equipment generates, uses, and can radiate radio frequency energy, and if not installed or used in accordance with the instructions, may cause harmful interference to radio communication. However, there is no guarantee that interference will not occur in television reception, which can be determined by turning the equipment off and on. The user is encouraged to try and correct the interference by one or more of the following measures:

- Reorient or relocate the receiving antenna.
- Increase the separation between the equipment and the receiver.
- Connect the equipment into an outlet on a circuit different from that to which the receiver is connected.
- Consult the dealer or an experienced radio/TV technician for help.

This device complies with Part 15 of the FCC Rules. Operation is subject to the following two conditions :

(1) this device may not cause harmful interference, and

(2) this device must accept any interference received, including interference that may cause undesired operation

CAUTION!

The Federal Communications Commission warns the user that changes or modifications to the unit not expressly approved by the party responsible for compliance could void the user's authority to operate the equipment.

Establishing a Connection

For Windows® Operating Systems Users

Before connecting your mouse, please make sure you have properly set up and enabled the Bluetooth® wireless technology enabled radio (e.g. a Bluetooth® wireless technology enabled dongle) onto your computer. To pair your mouse with your computer, follow the instructions below:

1. Turn on your computer and enable the Bluetooth® wireless technology enabled radio function on your computer if you have not yet done so.
2. Open the Bluetooth® settings on your computer and set it to search for Bluetooth® wireless technology enabled devices.
3. Turn on your mouse by switching the Power Switch on the bottom to the ON position.

4. Press the Connect Button for 3 seconds on the bottom of your mouse to make your mouse searchable, then place your mouse within 30 feet of the device that you are using to pair with your mouse.
5. Search for your mouse on your computer using the Bluetooth[®] software. Follow the on-screen instructions to complete the pairing process (NOTE: For more information, please refer to your Bluetooth[®] wireless technology enabled radio user manual for more instructions on how to pair). Your mouse is now ready to be used.

For Mac OS X® 10.3 and Above Users

Your operating system natively supports devices with pairing with Bluetooth® wireless technology. This section demonstrates one of the easiest ways to connect your mouse to your computer.

NOTE: The procedures listed below are for demonstration only and are based on Mac OS X® 10.4.8 with default settings. The procedures and screenshots may look slightly different than yours but with similar options. If you need further help to set up a device with Bluetooth® wireless technology, please refer to your computer user manual for more information.

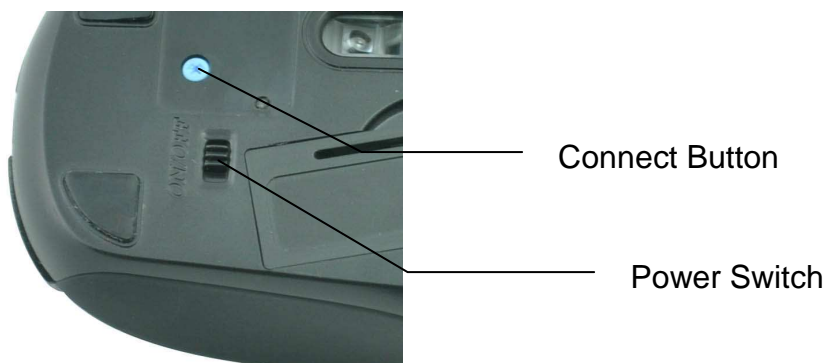

1. Turn on your computer and make sure you have properly installed your Bluetooth® wireless technology enabled dongle (if applicable).
2. At your desktop, click the Bluetooth® icon on the top-right corner of your screen, then select “Turn Bluetooth On” to enable the Bluetooth® feature. Click the Bluetooth® icon on the top-right corner of your screen again, and then select “Setup Bluetooth Device...” to open the Bluetooth Setup Assistant dialog box. At the welcome screen, click the “Continue” button to proceed.

3. At the welcome screen, click the “Continue” button to proceed.

4. Turn on your mouse by switching the Power Switch on the bottom of your mouse to the ON position then press the Connect Button on the bottom of your mouse to make your mouse searchable and place your mouse within 30 feet from the computer (or the Bluetooth® wireless technology enabled dongle if applicable) that you are using to pair with your mouse.

5. Select “Mouse” for device type, and then click the “Continue” button to start searching for your mouse.

6. Once your computer has located your mouse (your mouse is indicated with the ID “BT-Mouse” on the device list), click the “Continue” button to start pairing.

7. Once the pairing process is complete, click the “Quit” button to close the Bluetooth Setup Assistant and your mouse is ready to be used.

Changing the Speed of Your Mouse

Switching Between 800dpi & 1600dpi

Your mouse is designed to work smoothly in 800dpi, 1200dpi and 1600dpi modes; furthermore, you can switch between the 800dpi, 1200dpi and 1600dpi modes simply by pressing the DPI Button on the top of your mouse.

Changing Mouse Properties in Windows® Operating Systems

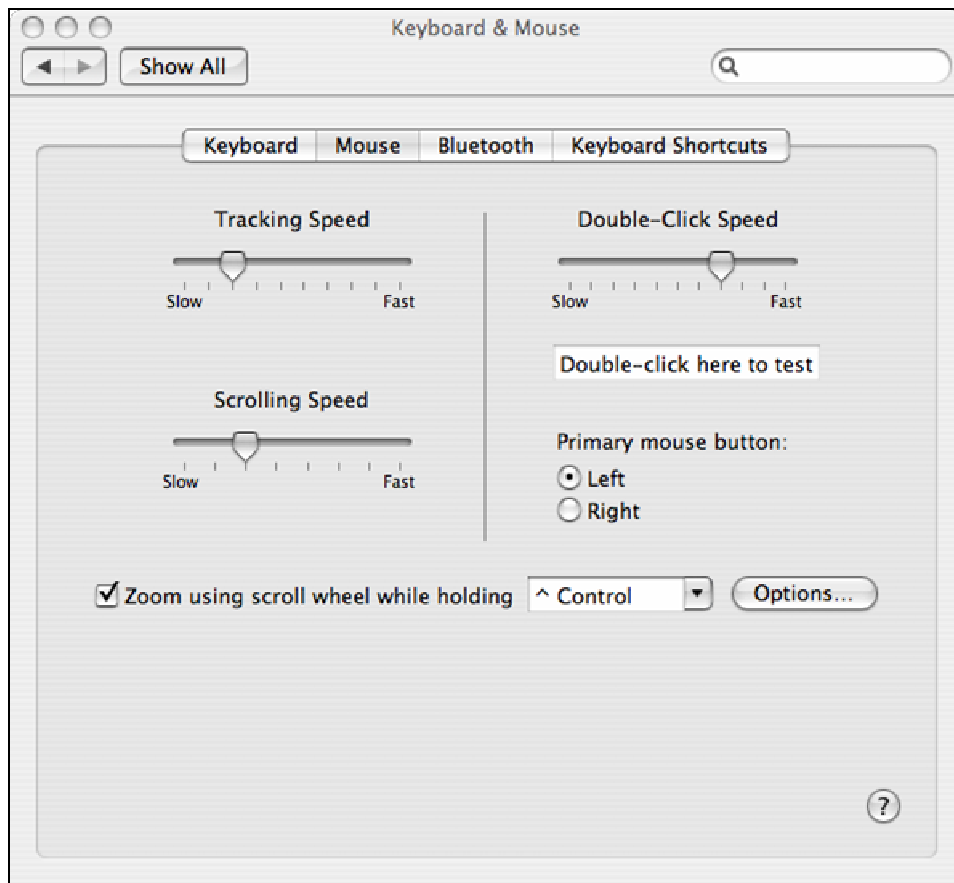

In addition to the built-in features of your mouse, you can also adjust the speed of the cursor or the scroll button features in Windows® operating systems. To change the speed of the cursor in Windows® operating systems, open the “Control Panel”, and right-click the “Mouse” icon to open the mouse properties screen, and then select the “Pointer Options” to make your changes.

NOTE: The screenshot shown above is for demonstration only and your screen may look slightly different but with similar options.

Changing Mouse Properties in Mac OS X® 10.3 and Above

In addition to the built-in features of your mouse, you can also adjust the speed of the cursor or the scroll button features on Mac® computers. To change the speed of the cursor on a Mac®, open the “System Preferences”. At the System Preferences screen, click the “Keyboard & Mouse” icon to open the Keyboard & Mouse screen, and then select the “Mouse” tab to make your changes.
