Connect devices to your TV

You have several options for connecting your TV to different devices. The method in which you connect will be based upon the type of cables you have and the available outputs on your device.

Check the jacks for position and type before making any connections. Loose connections can result in image or color problems. Make sure that all connections are tight and secure.

The TV may not be compatible with all external devices. To check compatibility, please refer to the user manual of external device.

Do not connect external equipment while TV's power cord is plugged in. It may cause electric shock.

Connecting Your TV to a Wired or Wireless Network

Connecting to a Wired (Ethernet) Network

Connect your TV to your network by connecting the LAN port on the back of your TV to an external modem or router using a LAN (Ethernet/Cat 5) cable. See the illustration below.

We recommend to use a modem or router that supports Dynamic

Host Configuration Protocol (DHCP). Modems and routers that support DHCP automatically provide the IP address, subnet mask, gateway, and DNS, so you don't have to enter them manually. Most home networks already have DHCP.

Connecting to a Wireless Network

Connect your TV to your network wirelessly, you need a wireless router or modem. See the illustration below.

The TV's built-in Wireless LAN Adapter supports the IEEE 802.11 ac/b/g/n communication protocols. We recommend using IEEE 802.11ac router. Low transfer rates for b/g/n may have the influence on the quality of streamed videos and other media.

NOTES

- You must use the built-in Wireless LAN Adapter to use a wireless network because the set doesn't support external USB network adapter.
- If the wireless router supports DHCP, your TV can connect more easily to the wireless network.
- If you apply a security system other than the systems listed below, it will not work with the TV.
Security system : WPA, WEP, WPA2.
- In order to guarantee smooth network, the distance between router and TV is less than 10 meters.
