IMPORTANT SAFETY INFORMATION

Review the Microsoft Band Safety and Handling information located at <http://www.microsoft.com/microsoft-band/support/safety-guide> before using the Microsoft Band. Failure to properly set up, use, and care for this product can increase the risk of serious injury or death, or damage to the device or devices.

LIMITED WARRANTY SUMMARY

Microsoft warrants that your Microsoft Band device or accessory will not malfunction under normal use conditions for the longer of: (i) one year or the warranty period required by law from the date you purchased your Microsoft Band device from an authorized retailer; or (ii) 90 days or the warranty period required by law from the date you purchased your Microsoft Band accessory from an authorized retailer. The warranty excludes normal wear and tear, and damage caused by accident or abuse. Other exclusions and limitations apply, including merchantability. To obtain service, call Microsoft at your country's customer service number available at

Please read the entire Limited Warranty, including more information about obtaining service, at <http://microsoft.com/band/warranty>. You may read and email a copy to yourself during product registration. Please read, print and save a copy of this Limited Warranty for your records because Microsoft won't save a copy for you.

This Limited Warranty is distinct from any statutory product warranties owed by retailers, resellers, and/or manufacturers under any national, regional, or local law applicable to you. It is intended to grant you specific, and as the case may be, additional rights, within the limits of what is permissible under such law, and not to restrict your rights under applicable statutory product warranty and condition provisions. The exclusion and limitations to the warranty apply to the maximum extent permitted by law and unless restricted or prohibited by law.

For US Consumers

If you live in the United States, Section 9 of the Limited Warranty contains a binding arbitration clause and class action waiver, available at:

<http://www.microsoft.com/microsoft-band/support/arbitration>

The arbitration clause affects your rights about how to resolve a dispute with Microsoft. Please read it. Parts of the arbitration clause are described below.

Any dispute not resolved by informal negotiation or in small claims court will be resolved only by individual binding arbitration under the Federal Arbitration Act before a neutral arbitrator whose decision will be final—not before a judge or jury, and not in a class action lawsuit or a class, representative, or private attorney general proceeding of any kind. The American Arbitration Association will conduct the arbitration under its Commercial Arbitration Rules. The Limited Warranty’s arbitration clause contains the rest of the terms, instructions, and forms for notifying Microsoft of a dispute or commencing arbitration.

For Australian Consumers

Our goods come with guarantees that cannot be excluded under the Australian Consumer Law. You are entitled to a replacement or refund for a major failure and compensation for any other reasonably foreseeable loss or damage. You are also entitled to have the goods repaired or replaced if the goods fail to be of acceptable quality and the failure does not amount to a major failure.

RADIO AND TV INTERFERENCE REGULATIONS

The Microsoft hardware device(s) can radiate radio frequency (RF) energy. If not installed and used in strict accordance with the instructions given in the printed documentation and/or onscreen help files, the device may cause harmful interference with other radio-communications devices (for example AM/FM radios, televisions, baby monitors, cordless phones, etc.). There is, however, no guarantee that RF interference will not occur in a particular installation.

To determine if your hardware device is causing interference to other radio-communications devices, disconnect the device from your computer or remove the device's batteries (for a battery operated device). If the interference stops, it was probably caused by the device. If the interference continues after you disconnect the hardware device or remove the batteries, turn the computer off and then on again. If the interference stopped when the computer was off, check to see if one of the input/output (I/O) devices or one of the computer's internal accessory boards is causing the problem.

Disconnect the I/O devices one at a time and see if the interference stops.

If this hardware device does cause interference, try the following measures to correct it:

- Relocate the antenna of the other radio-communications device (for example AM/FM Radios, televisions, baby monitors, cordless phones, etc.) until the interference stops.
- Move the hardware device farther away from the radio or TV, or move it to one side or the other of the radio or TV.
- Plug the computer into a different power outlet so that the hardware device and radio or TV are on different circuits controlled by different circuit breakers or fuses.
- If necessary, ask your computer dealer or an experienced radio-TV technician for more suggestions.

For more information about interference issues, go to the FCC Web site at:

<http://www.fcc.gov/cgb/consumerfacts/interference.html>

You can also call the FCC at 1-888-CALL FCC to request Interference and Telephone Interference fact sheets.
