Information on health

The U.S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA) and the U.S. Federal Communications Commission (FCC) published statements and questions and answers concerning mobile telephones and health. Microsoft Mobile encourages you to visit these websites for updated information. You can access the FDA website at www.fda.gov/Radiation-EmittingProducts/RadiationEmittingProductsandProcedures/HomeBusinessandEntertainment/CellPhones/default.htm and the FCC website at transition.fcc.gov/oet/rfsafety/rf-faqs.html. Additional health-related information is available from the World Health Organization (WHO) at www.who.int/mediacentre/factsheets/fs193/en/ and The National Cancer Institute ("NCI") www.cancer.gov/ncicancerbulletin/NCL\_Cancer\_Bulletin\_092308/page7. In the event that you are concerned about possible health effects, the FDA suggests that you limit your own or your children's radio frequency (RF) exposure by limiting the length of calls or by using handsfree devices.

Safety and texting while driving

Safety should be every driver's first priority. Drivers must obey all local laws that may include restrictions on the use of mobile telephones or accessories while driving. If use is legal, always keep your hands free to operate the vehicle while driving and use a handsfree device whenever possible. Suspend calls in heavy traffic or hazardous weather. Get to know your mobile phone and its features and make any necessary information inputs prior to driving. Do not input data or engage in text messaging while driving. Mobile telephones should not be used when use may be a distraction to the driver.

The Cellular Telecommunications & Internet Association (CTIA) has published further info and tips on safe use of cellular telephones at www.ctia.org/consumer\_info/safety, which we encourage you to review.

Certification information (SAR)

This mobile device meets international guidelines for exposure to radio waves.

Your cellular phone is a radio transmitter and receiver. It is designed not to exceed the limits for exposure to radio waves (radio frequency electromagnetic fields), recommended by international guidelines from the independent scientific organization ICNIRP. These guidelines incorporate substantial safety margins that are intended to assure the protection of all persons regardless of age and health. The exposure guidelines are based on the Specific Absorption Rate (SAR), which is an expression of the amount of radio frequency (RF) power deposited in the head or body when the device is transmitting. The ICNIRP SAR limit for mobile devices is 2.0 W/kg averaged over 10 grams of tissue.

SAR tests are carried out with the device in standard operating positions, transmitting at its highest certified power level, in all its frequency bands. The maximum recorded SAR values for this device are:

	Maximum SAR value	Frequency bands used when Maximum SAR value was recorded
When held against the head	0.60 W/kg over 10g	4-slot GPRS 900 and WLAN 5000
When operated at a separation distance of 1.5 centimetres (5/8 inch) from the body	0.73 W/kg over 10g	4-slot GPRS 900 and WLAN 2450

Your mobile device is also designed to meet the United States Federal Communications Commission (FCC) and Industry Canada SAR (IC) guidelines. FCC ratings for your device and more information on SAR can be found at transition.fcc.gov/oet/rfsafety/sar.html. Information on IC SAR can be found at www.ic.gc.ca. This device meets RF exposure guidelines when used against the head or when positioned at least 1.5 centimetres (5/8 inch) away from the body. When a carry case, belt clip or other form of device holder is used for body-worn operation, it should not contain metal and should provide at least the above stated separation distance from the body. To send data or messages, a good connection to the network is needed. Sending may be delayed until such a connection is available. Follow the separation distance instructions until the sending is finished. During general use, the SAR values are usually well below the values stated above. This is because, for purposes of system efficiency and to minimize interference on the network, the operating power of your mobile is automatically decreased when full power is not needed for the call. The lower the power output, the lower the SAR value. Device models may have different versions and more than one value. Component and design changes may occur over time and some changes could affect SAR values. The latest available SAR information for this and other Nokia device models can be found at www.nokia.com/sar. For more info, go to www.sar-tick.com. Note that mobile devices may be transmitting even if you are not making a voice call. The World Health Organization (WHO) has stated that current scientific information does not indicate the need for any special precautions when using mobile devices. If you are interested in reducing your exposure, they recommend you limit your usage or use a hands-free kit to keep the device away from your head and body. For more information and explanations and discussions on RF exposure, go to the WHO website at www.who.int/peh-emf/en.
