What You Should Know to Ensure Best Performance:
- Charge battery completely before first use.
- While the Google Play Store downloads new updates in the background, tablet performance may be affected until completed.
- Close unused applications. Open apps continue to run in the background so they will affect performance.
- Battery usage: Play times will vary depending on you display settings, apps that remain open, and internet usage (streaming over the web and playing HD action games will reduce battery time).

Software System Updates

Stay up to date when new software and configuration updates are available for your tablet. To ensure the tablet runs smoothly we recommend performing system updates periodically including the first time used.

From the Home Screen tap on Settings > About Tablet > System Update. Should a new version be available, it will take a few minutes to download. (Note: You must be connected to your WiFi network.)

Google Play Updates

The first time you sign on to Google's Play Store, updates will automatically start downloading on to the tablet. The download icon will appear in the Navigation Bar at the top left of screen. Installing a new application while multiple apps are downloading will reduce tablet speed and performance. After all downloads and updates have been installed, the tablet will resume normal operating performance.

To view the progress of downloads working in the background, slide your finger down from the top left edge of the screen.

Compliance Information

RF EXPOSURE INFORMATION (FCC SAR)

DEVICE MEETS THE GOVERNMENT'S REQUIREMENTS FOR EXPOSURE TO RADIO WAVES.
This device is designed and manufactured not to exceed the emission limits for exposure to radio frequency (RF) energy set by the Federal Communications Commission of the U.S. Government.
The exposure standard for wireless mobile devices employs a unit of measurement known as the Specific Absorption Rate, or SAR. The SAR limit set by the FCC is 1.6W/kg. Tests for SAR are conducted using standard operating positions accepted by the FCC with the device transmitting at its highest certified power level in all tested frequency bands. Although the SAR is determined at the highest certified power level, the actual SAR level of the device while operating can be well below the maximum value. This is because the device is designed to operate at multiple power levels so as to use only the poser required to reach the network. In general, the closer you are to a wireless base station antenna, the lower the power output.

The highest SAR value for the device as reported to the FCC when tested for body, as described in this user guide, is 0.728 W/kg.

While there may be differences between the SAR levels of various devices and at various positions, they all meetthe government requirement. The FCC has granted an Equipment Authorization for this device with all reportedSAR levels evaluated as in compliance with the FCC RF exposure guidelines.
 SAR information on this device is on file with the FCC and can be found under the Display Grant section of www.fcc.gov/oet/ea/fccid/ after searching on FCC ID:2AAP6M1066.
