ARTHRITIS

There are over 100 forms of arthritis that can affect people of all ages.

Arthritis can heavily impact on daily function including the most basic of tasks such as preparing meals, walking around the home, driving, tying laces and button up shirts.

Fortunately, there is a wide range of equipment available to assist with daily tasks to allow you to maintain an independent lifestyle whilst living with arthritis.

POST STROKE

A stroke occurs when the blood supply to the brain is interrupted. This interruption can be caused by a burst of an artery or a blockage, which then fails to supply the brain with sufficient oxygen and nutrients, therefore causing brain cells to die.

It is important to seek immediate medical advice and engage in a post-stroke rehabilitation program. These programs are designed to promote recovery of partially damaged brain cells and retrain skills that were affected. Depending on the severity of the stroke, some brain cells may not be repaired and long term functional implications may be present.

With the use of innovative adaptive equipment, assistive devices and daily living aids, a stroke sufferer has an opportunity to maintain as much of their independence as possible to lead an empowered and healthy lifestyle.

HIP & KNEE REPLACEMENT

Hip and knee joint replacements are helping people live active and pain-free lives. When an entire joint is damaged, a surgeon will conduct a whole joint replacement. The hip or knee joint is replaced with an artificial part known as a 'prosthesis' or 'implant'.

There are guidelines to remember for 6 weeks post-operation to ensure maximum recovery such as: sitting with hips and knees in 90 degrees flexion; do not cross legs; support hip and knee placement during sleep; avoid excessive joint mobility; avoid high impact activity.

It is important to consult with your Doctor, Physiotherapist, Occupational Therapist or other health professional and follow their recommendations. To make the process easier, you may purchase daily living aids, seating supports, pillows and mobility aids prior to surgery so that all the equipment is available and ready for you upon discharge from hospital.

FALLS PREVENTION

Falls are more likely to occur in older people and can result in injuries such hip and wrist fractures, dislocations, sprains, head injuries, abrasions and bruising.

The cause for falls varies depending on age, medical history, cognitive impairment, low weight, gait disorders or environmental hazards to name a few.

It is important to implement preventative measures to decrease the chances of a fall particularly for those who are identified to be at high risk. Such measures can include installing grab rails and safety equipment in wet areas, mobility aids and hip protectors, and removing clutter and other hazardous items around clearance spaces within the home.

CARER'S SUPPORT

Manual handling is any activity that requires the use of force exerted by a person to lift, carry, lower, push, pull, move or hold any item, including a person. It also includes work involving repetitive activities, sustained muscle exertion and fixed postures.

Injuries in health, aged care, rehabilitation and disability services due to the handling of people are a major risk. Poor manual handling practices can cause injuries to the body that affect the musculoskeletal and/or nervous systems. The most commonly injured part of the body is the back, followed by the shoulder, arm, hand and neck. But these injuries are preventable.

To understand how, we have put together this guide which helps you identify the equipment you need to eliminate the risks of injury.

PRESSURE CARE

Pressure injuries can develop in anyone with reduced mobility. They commonly occur when there is prolonged pressure on bony prominences such as the elbow, heel, shoulder, back of head, lower back and the buttock area. If left untreated, pressure injuries can lead to serious complications. Therefore, prevention is key to managing areas at risk of a pressure injury. Prevention tips include regular changes to position, good hygiene and skin care, and a healthy diet.

DEMENTIA

Dementia can happen to anybody, but the risk increases with age. It affects thinking, behaviour and the ability to perform everyday tasks. Some early signs of dementia include progressive and frequent memory loss, confusion, apathy and withdrawal.

Safety within the home is an important factor to consider when caring for a person with dementia.

The home environment should help them know where they are and to find where they want to go.

This can be done with large orientation signs and using colour contrast to highlight important items or areas in the home.

THERAPY & EXERCISE

After an injury, it is important to engage in a rehabilitation program designed by your Physiotherapist, Exercise Physiologist, Occupational Therapist or other relevant discipline. These programs will include a home based component which play a crucial role in the recovery process and can help you get back to participating in your favourite activities more quickly. Aidacare's therapy and exercise range provides you with the equipment you need to manage and maintain your physical rehabilitation needs in the home.
