
Hermione Granger

HERMIONE GRANGER, played by Emma Watson, was dressed by costume designer Judianna Makovsky in what she described as a “classically British style.” Costume designer Jany Temime made Hermione sportier as she grew older, although she continued to wear simple, practical outfits with touches of femininity.

FAR LEFT Most of the contemporary clothing the students wore throughout the film series was bought in stores and then altered in minor but significant ways (e.g., replacing buttons, dyeing fabrics, scuffing up jeans, etc). Emma Watson wears one such outfit in this publicity photo where she poses as Hermione in Harry Potter and the Prisoner of Azkaban.

LEFT Emma Watson as Hermione wears a combination of pieces designed for the fifth-year uniforms in Harry Potter and the Order of the Phoenix.

ABOVE RIGHT AND RIGHT The clothing Hermione (Emma Watson) wore when on the run from the Death Eaters in Deathly Hallows – Part 1 was contemporary but simple.
