Now Photo USA has entered into an agreement with Save The Whales of Seaside, California, an organiza on whose mission is to preserve and protect the oceans and its inhabitants, particularly the Orca whale.

Photo USA has developed a proprietary coating that preserves the photo image for years of use due to the powerful strength of the patented technology. The coating is called ORCA and represents the strength of the Orca whale.

Mr. James Peng, the CEO of Photo USA, has become very concerned with the Orca whale that is now on the endangered species list and will be donating to Save The Whales as well as giving a certain percentage of sales to help save the Orcas.

Mr. Peng stated, “When I created this special coating, which I named ORCA, it was because of the beauty and power of this amazing animal. As I witness the destruction of their habitat, I have decided to become a part of the solution by supporting Save the Whales, because together,

We Are Orca Strong!”

Photo USA is a leading dye-sublimation supplier in the World and has been in business since 1992. Our patented technology produces colorful, crystal clear images on a wide range of products. Finished products with the will not fade, even over time or after multiple cycles through a dishwasher.

For over 29 years, our company's global manufacturing plants have provided superior lines of products while significantly lowering the cost to customers. Photo USA has built long-lasting relationships with the top distributors and resellers in the world by serving every need of their business with the highest quality products, the most competitive prices, professional and responsive customer support, quick turnaround times, and industry leading expertise.

Why Sublimation?

Sublimation offers the ability to create low cost, high quality products ranging from ceramic mugs to stainless steel water bottles to full wrap phone cases. Sublimation allows you to create personalized products with higher resolutions and more colors than other methods, resulting in an amazingly vivid product. Sublimation is perfect for true individual personalization because of the lower minimum quantities and effectiveness in smaller, on demand custom production runs.

What is Sublimation?

Dye-sublimation refers to the chemical process of transferring the dye (or ink) from one medium to another medium. This is done by printing an image with a sublimation printer with sublimation ink, properly placing the printout on your specially coated sublimation product, and then applying pressure and heat to transfer the ink onto the product.

What do I need to begin producing customized products?

Specially coated sublimation ready blanks

All of the products we offer in our catalog are specifically designed and coated with our ORCA coatings®. This includes ceramic mugs, stainless steel travel mugs, glass cutting boards, polymer phone cases, and many more. Photo USA offers over 500 unique products to choose from.

Heat and pressure

With heat and pressure, you can transfer images printed from your sublimation printer directly to the sublimation ready products. We provide four different types of presses to help bring your photos, art, and images to life. We also offer high quality heat conductive rubber wraps that can be used in an oven. Please call for more information.

Sublimation capable printer

Epson and Ricoh printers work very well for sublimation. Photo USA only supplies printers only in starter kits. Please call for more information.

Sublimation ink

This special ink is available in cartridges and continuous ink systems. Photo USA does not sell sublimation ink. Please call for more information.

Will any ceramic or metal product work with sublimation?

No. Our sublimation products have special coating that is unique to our company and the sublimation process. When the ink on the transfer paper is heated to a specific temperature it will begin to evaporate from the paper and adhere onto the coating. Without the special coating, the sublimation ink will not adhere to the product.

Are your products dishwasher safe?

Products that use our specially engineered coating are considered dishwasher and microwave safe, unless the drinkware or product is constructed of metal. Please look for the ORCA in the product name and ORCA Coatings® logo on the product.

How do I create a finished product?

1. Take a picture, design a graphic or enhance an existing photograph using professional computer graphics software such as Adobe Photoshop, Adobe Illustrator, or CorelDraw. Format the size to fit the intended substrate.
2. Print the designed image (image is usually mirrored) to an inkjet sublimation capable printer that uses special dye-sublimation inks on dye-sublimation paper.
3. Attach the printed page securely onto the chosen sublimation-ready product with special heat tape.
4. Take the combined product and sublimation print that's securely taped on and apply heat and pressure with a heat press or heat conductive rubber wrap. For the best results, use the optimal pressure and time for each product on our website. As far as pressure applied, medium pressure is usually standard (30-40 psi).
5. After the time alarm on the machine sounds, remove the product, carefully tear away the transfer paper and check the quality of the image. Set aside for cooling. The product is now ready for sale.
