OCTOBER, 1982

Well, here we are again. After a bountiful month last month, we settle into a rather sparse month now. I run my explanation of "list-logging," which was run in SPEEDX in my column this last August. I apologize to those who also read SPEEDX, but I think that the subject is important enough to merit printing in FRENEX as well. Bear with us for this page or so. Bill Taylor writes this month about collecting radio literature (I am going to come up on a space problem in about ten years or so, but I can't bear to throw any DX literature away); Ed Shaw opines on the Kenwood R-1000 and Panasonic RF-4900 compared head-to-head; our own Stu Klein takes the podium of "It Sounds to Me" to respond to last month's "It Sounds to Me". And now. . .

LIST-LOGGING

LIST-LOGGING, (list-log-ig), n, the activity of refusing to listen to a broadcast for an ID, but rather looking in a list under the specified frequency to determine the identity of the station. Often engaged in by DXers with overactive imaginations. A cure can be obtained only by isolating the DXer from all lists until he can be trusted to use them wisely.

Facetious, but true. As an editor for too many years, I can compare editing to walking a tightrope. When a logging has been sorted, and you come to it while typing, you have a split second to determine whether you can print it or not. If you err too much on the side of caution, you have a column filled with everyone's routine DX. If you err too much on the side of permissiveness, you end up with a column filled with figments of DXers' imaginations. List-logging is the major cause of editorial upset.

HOW TO TELL IF YOU'RE A LIST-LOGGER

- You're a list-logger if the first thing you think of when you come across a new station is "What does the WRTH say about this frequency?"
- You're a list-logger if you ignore the possibility of catching a good ID because the list you use has pinned down the ID.
- You're a list-logger if you send in a logging as a positive, not a tentative, and say, "On that frequency, at that time, what else can it be?"
- You're a list-logger if you send 100 loggings to an editor, don't mark the tentative ones 'tentative,' and then complain because only 3 were printed.
- And, finally, you're a list-logger if you never EVER question the accuracy of the list you use. After all, why would they publish the list if it wasn't totally accurate. Your attitude is: "If it's on the list, it must be broadcasting."

List-logging is for a DXer what the heartbreak of psoriasis is to the American public. It is also very annoying to DX editors, to the membership, and to my self-image (I hate it when I publish a logging that later turns out to be questionable.)

THE FIRST STEP TO A CURE IS TO ADMIT THAT YOU HAVE A PROBLEM

If you saw yourself in three or more of the five criteria above, you have a problem. Once you've admitted that you sometimes list-log, you can pull yourself up, dust yourself off, and start all over again. Usually, by the time a DXer realizes that he has a list-logging problem, it is too late to save his reputation, and he has to take up CB or something of the sort. I am always ready to print loggings from anyone, and try not to damage anyone's reputation by overly questioning his logging. If I have a serious question, I either circular-file the logging, or run it without attribution and question it anonymously.

The cure continues when you listen to the broadcast for an ID before turning to the WRTH for confirmation. After you have heard an ID, you then rely on your list for additional information. When you hear a broadcast, listen for an ID, and don't hear one, you help your cure along by referring to lists sparsely, making a reasoned judgment on the ID ed on (1) What has been heard on that frequency recently (after all, that's why you members of NASWA, isn't it?), (2) What your list says might be on that frequency, The language you heard the broadcast in, (4) The time of reception, and (5) Any gram information you can glean from that broadcast (i.e., if you hear an ad for Inca a, you should be narrowing your search to Peru. If you hear a broadcast in Spanish, don't look in the Brazil section of the list.)

n you mark a logging tentative every time you hear a broadcast but don't ~~have~~ a positive you're cured.

ust be the bearer of sad news -- after a brief renaissance, C. Loudenboomer has decided retire again, for reasons unknown to many. It is sad, of course, but we should cheer After some hesitation, I have persuaded myself that perhaps I could write a short ce every once in a while as the "DX Observer," commenting on some facet of the hobby heretofore uncommented-on. The story you are about to read is not true, but if it were, names have been concealed because that is how every novelist begins his title page.

THE DX-PEDITION

hort while back I got an urge to go on a DXpedition. What a mistake! I should have ad that we DXers were indeed the "creme de la creme," that which had "risen to the top." better way than the ancient foghorn in the lighthouse tower?

ditions are common among the group of DXers which feels that its own usual site for ng is substandard. This group subsumes most DXers, including yours truly. My spouse not pleased over many of my DX habits, especially the one that I have of setting my rm to wake me up at 0600 GMT. Since the shack is in our bedroom, and I don't wear iphones (those darn things can make you go deaf), I have regular trouble with the War rtment.

I packed my handy DX-007 portable (the one with the LEDs which light up with "Time a brew, fellah!" every time you pin the S-meter), 1000 feet of wire, and the "Trusty o Log." My fellow expeditioners were similarly equipped, and the one who had the est verifications was the one bringing the most precious cargo, that mysterious wonder the zymurgist's art, the foamy liquid which comes in packs of six. Unfortunately, ound that overindulgence produces some strange effects.

ad chosen an abandoned lighthouse for our expedition camp. After we got the gas fridge ng, we began to DX. The icebox was beginning to look empty, since there was little ear and little else to do. One of the guys jumped up and knocked over his can of Tuningoil in his excitement. "I think I hear BBC news on 2370!" he cried. Since indulgence produces suggestibility, the rest of us could also hear BBC news on 2370 r a while.

d state of near ecstasy, I felt that something more should be done to signal to the d that we DXers were indeed the "creme de la creme," that which had "risen to the top."

ral hours later our spouses arrived to bail us out of the local lockup. Besides various and sundry charges of disorderly conduct, rude behavior, and public tiddlyness, adly concluded that the weekend had been a washout.

t, we hadn't heard Tristan (of course, we hadn't tried for it, either). Secondly, gendarmerie confiscated the rest of our stores of tuning oil. Third, we simply that we were being singled out for this treatment. After all, some DXers do what id every month. All we did was blow our own horn.

ARLUND FOOTNOTES -- The flurry of Hammarlund articles in the last few months prompted ral notes from members. Paul C. Gunn of Illinois writes that Hammarlund produced a called the HC-10 Converter, which from his description seems to be a tube-type Q- plier. It can be added to any receiver with an IF of from 450-500 kHz. Unfortunately it does not seem to be available even at most hamfests, where a sharp-eyed person can up almost anything. T.A. Dillon of CT wrote in a lighter vein of the HQ-180XE, h not only has the crystal bank ("X" in the model no.), but also has a power supply table to both American and European power systems ("E" in the model no.) He concludes ly: "It's a radio-controlled conspiracy. A high-frequency coverup, a veritable Ham- undgate! There's been a conscious effort to suppress (this) model. Perhaps it was ially ordered by the CIA. (However, its existence serves to) point out that, long re the Whopper, the HQ-180 proved you could have it your way."

VINTAGE VIGNETTES

ON COLLECTING RADIO LITERATURE

One of the distinguishing traits of a serious history buff is the extent of his library. This extends, of course, to those of us who collect and restore vintage radio gear. The following article is intended to serve as a primer for those of you who are interested in either beginning or expanding your collection of vintage radio literature.

The first category of literature to be examined should be the books of general interest. Morgan McMahon has written two books that are virtually indispensable in this respect. Vintage Radio 1887-1929 is an expanded revision of Harold Greenwood's radio album. This fine, well-illustrated book covers the early research and development of wireless communications, and follows through to the first AC models and superhets. A Flick of the Switch is the second McMahon book of particular interest. Picking where Vintage Radio left off, "Flick" explores the adolescence and maturation of radio from 1930 through 1950. The topics dealt with in this book include a short section on World War II military radio, a long chapter on amateur gear, and approximately 150 pages of photographs devoted to (mostly) all-wave wonders.

For those of you who are interested in the development of thermionics, Tyne's Saga of the Vacuum Tube is an invaluable reference. This tome is highly recommended for its depth of information as well as the fact that it is simply well-written and interesting.

Should you feel a yen to more thoroughly understand old battery radios, components, and circuits, try the Robertson-Cataract Radio Equipment and Supplies catalogue. This catalogue -- actually more akin to a book -- was first published in 1922. This well-done reprint covers TRF and regenerative circuits, components that were (at that time) state-of-the-art, receivers and kits then available, headphones, and much more.

All of the above-mentioned titles may be found in the Vestal Press catalogue. They offer 18 titles dealing with the collection, restoration, and history of radio. If you are interested in other areas, they publish and/or offer vast selections on player pianos, juke boxes, organs, music boxes, gambling machines, and many other hobbies. The catalogue costs $2.00, but it is well worth the price. Write to them at Box 97, 320 N. Jensen Rd., Vestal, NY 13850.

Another book, which I would most heartily recommend, would be Man of High Fidelity: Edwin Howard Armstrong, by Lawrence Lessing. Ask your local bookstore to try to locate it for you; it is a Bantam Book paperback. This enthralling story was last published in 1969 and, hence, is rather hard to find.

Armstrong's biography is rather well written. It takes the reader on a journey through his inventions of regenerative feed-back, superhets, and frequency modulation. Perhaps the most interesting point of the book revolves around the titanic battles to, first, establish the merits of FM radio, and, second, to wrest some of the rewards for this invention from the major electronics companies who denied him the due credit and royalties. This final clash would lead "the Major" to take his own life. Read the book.

Should you be unable to locate this Bantam edition locally, you may be able to receive a copy from the Antique Wireless Association. They have a limited supply on hand. Contact Bruce Kelley, W2ICE, Main Street, Holcomb, NY 14469.

Puett Electronica offers several booklets and pamphlets on vintage radio topics. Their titles deal with various aspects of collection and restoration. While their prices are rather high for the quantity of print provided, the printings are nicely done and well written. The Puett catalogue costs $1.00. Their address: Box 28572, Dallas, TX 75228.

No serious collection of library materials would be complete without a healthy acquisition of honest-to-goodness, genuine, original books and magazines.

The grand coup is to find a complete set of Rider's Manuals. These encyclopaedic volumes of service notes and schematics are, to the radio hobbyist, what a complete set of National Geographic maps would be to a cartophile.

Other collectable books would include Supreme Publications and Sams service books, as well as the service notes published by the manufacturing companies themselves. These types of book are valuable aids to resotrrers.

General interest books on radio are also of interest to collectors. They may describe radio from the perspective of science or hobby, but in either respect they give much historical insight. The photographs and circuit diagrams to be found in these books are of particular interest.

Magazines that dealt with either radio or electronics are also actively sought after. The new sets were reviewed and advertised in these copiously illustrated volumes. New and improved (a modest chuckle may be inserted here) components were widely heralded in these pages. DX catches were claimed (and decried at times). The announcement of new technical developments was usually made through the radio magazines. In general, the magazines represent your best, all-around value for entertainment, nostalgia, and technical information.

One of the reasons that led me to request the space to write these ramblings was an affection for history. That is, it is sometimes easier to see where you are going if you look back to see where you have been. It tends to place things in their proper perspective. The function of this column has been to perform this service, as well as to entertain and enchant you with a bit of nostalgia. If you've enjoyed my musings, try some of the real thing.

IT SOUNDS TO ME!

This month's It Sounds to Me begins with a short comment on last month's article by Russ Lay. LRA Editor Stu Klein gives his views:

A Log Report Editor's View

Log report is for loggings, not editorials, and I thank Chris for making this space available to me to respond to the opinions expressed last month in SWC by Russ Lay. To say that I disagree profoundly with many of those opinions would be a gross understatement! I think that I am in a position to speak about the Log Report sections in general, and LR-A in particular.

Carefully reading the previous article reveals one assumption made by the author: FRENDRX is not providing the NASWA membership with what it really wants. To view this assumption in perspective, we should realize that NASWA currently has over 2000 members, and that a very large proportion of these members renew their subscriptions. I think that this fact alone gives the lie to the foregoing assumption; if FRENDRX were not satisfying its subscribers, they would not renew. That they do says that they find the magazine worthwhile. No one will say that it is perfect, no one will say that it cannot be improved, but the facts do speak for themselves. With so many people sticking with NASWA year after year, we must be doing something right! Question is, what?

I would like to think that what gives FRENEX its strength and appeal is its diversity. We have something for everyone, not just the hard-core DXers as implied last month. Articles -- feature, technical, opinion -- in SWC; schedules, up-to-date corrections, station information in LR; and, yes, material for DXers in Update and the LRs. "The poor guy who . . . wants to find RSA's latest frequencies" can do so in LM. Glenn does a bang-up job of providing such information, as up-to-date as is available. Of course, it will not run every month; such material remains valid for several months, barring changes which are promptly reported, and space limitations prevent such repetition. The guy who wants to find out how to improve the reception on his portable-with-a-whip can, through various articles. The DXer who wants accurate information on what is appearing on the bands gets it, in LR. I think that it is the treatment of LR in last month's article which most sticks in my craw!

Log Report is designed as a showcase for members' loggings. It is not designed to be another WREX. It is to let you see what your fellow members are hearing (at least those who bother to contribute); it is not to constantly remind you, month after month, that Roloj is on 4832! I could go on, but I think that by now you catch my drift. Reading between last month's lines, the prime complaint would seem to be that editors cut common material to include the less common. Indeed, I get the sense that the author was saying, in effect, it is the editor's responsibility to print what is sent to him. Up to a point I agree with this, but only up to a point. What I say now goes for LR-A specifically, but I think it applies as well to the other LR sections.

I consider LR-A to be a news medium. As such, the material within it must be accurate, as accurate as I can get it. I consider it to be my responsibility to make sure that inaccurate material does not appear. Many times I must make a value judgment on an item, using all of the information at my disposal. If I believe that an item is incorrect, it will not run. If I am unsure, it probably will run, but I will insert a questioning comment to indicate that the accuracy of the item is uncertain. Lord knows, I am not perfect, and some of these judgments will be in error, one way or the other, but as the President said, "The buck stops here." In general, though, unless I have serious reservations about a logging, I will use it, since I do feel an obligation to the person who took the time to write it up and send it in. The only other reason for dropping loggings is lack of space.

Oftentimes, I will receive more material than I have room for in the column. First I will cut out any unnecessary editorial matter, then I go through the column compressing details. If there is still not enough room to accommodate all loggings, I must cut some out, although they might be good, solid material. Which ones? Last month's article would have me cut uncommon material in favor of the common, on the grounds that this is what is frequently heard. That is exactly why I do cut it; people know that the station is there, they know its format and transmission times. They may not be at all familiar with a more unusual station, heard during an uncommon opening. By publishing the logging, even if they do not hear it, at least they will know it is there and can be heard! That is exactly why I do cut it -- people know that the station is there, they know its format and transmission times. They may not be at all familiar with a more unusual station, heard during an uncommon opening. By publishing the logging, even if they do not hear it, at least they will know that it is there and can be heard! That is exactly the kind of news that LR is designed for, and that is exactly what was ignored in the column. Repetition of the same facts, month after month, is boring!

It was stated that "...we are now moving to make the hobby a 'science'" by dictating what and how to report. Poppycock! The hobby was, is, and will continue to be more art than science, with all of the imperfections that that implies. As an editor, I do not presume to dictate to people what to send. I am grateful for the contributions that I do receive, since there are far fewer contributors than members. The details that they provide are the details that I print, unless compression for space purposes is necessary. But, ~~can~~ more detail that is provided, the more interesting the logging is to read. You are sending the material to showcase it, and it reads better when it isn't just abbreviated 'wx, TC/ID' or some such. Believe it or not, people are interested in what you heard. That is the reason that editors ask for details; it is certainly not so that we can enjoy having more to type. More details are also of use when a value judgment, as I described above, must be made.

Another criticism leveled at LR was that mistakes are corrected, sometimes in print, so IV though this were some terrible way of humiliating contributors. As it happens, I prefer not to do this in print; some editors do. It is most assuredly not to shake a finger and say "shame on you!" as was assumed. As human beings we learn from our mistakes, but to do so, we first have to know that a mistake has been made. When I drop someone a line to point out an error, it is to help that person develop within the hobby...I would have little reason to bother otherwise. I consider helping members to enjoy the hobby and develop within it, if that is their desire, to be part and parcel of my editorial responsibilities. The correspondences which sometimes develop are one of the aspects of being an editor that I truly enjoy. I may be getting a bit ahead of myself, but I believe that I've just put my finger on NASWA's greatest strength, and the reason that it continues to grow and to hold on to new members. . . people in NASWA care! You need help in the hobby? It's there for the asking. The attitude shown in last month's article was that LR editors dictate; we do not, we serve! That is a major and fundamental difference, and one which I wished to point out.

To summarize then, and I emphasize again that this is my personal opinion, I see a FRENEX which continues to be strong in its diversity, which continues to be a bastion of accurate and interesting news in a sea of drivel, which continues in the tradition which it has thus far established, to be far more valuable to the hobby as a whole than what was advocated last month. I see that as advocating a FRENEX with the same international schedules, the same pages of identical loggings of identical stations on identical frequencies, the same lack of desire to help members expand their hobby horizons, month after identical month. In short, I find it to be an advocacy of mediocrity, and I find that, both professionally and personally, to be repugnant.

 O.K., Stu, thanks for your comments, which are a valuable perspective on this tortuous subject. I think that, now that both sides of this have been aired, I personally want to go back to the original subject of publicity. Many comments have been received on this topic, and here are a few:

ANDY REID, ON -- "What is needed is a reawakening (of awareness of shortwave) of the general public. This should start with the manufacturers of radio equipment that is readily accessible to potential hobbyists. In the Canadian Radio Shack catalogue, 2 pages are allocated to shortwave receivers. All the radio descriptions are completely technical -- not very eye opening to the beginner. Nothing is said about what is available to the new listener, and a diagram beside the DX-100 is a picture of a ham, to boot!!"

A few turned out to be one -- however, next month we will have a lengthy but very interesting analysis of the publicity problem of shortwave radio from the PR man's point of view, by member Randy Erickson, a management consultant in Pennsylvania.

	KENWOOD R-1000 RECEIVER	$460.00
This review is only one user's opinions	vs
	PANASONIC MODEL RF-4900	$440.00

What a task!! Here I am asked to make a comparison observation between two of hobbydom's most popular receivers. How does one accomplish this and keep peace in the family? Well, here goes nothing. Actually, I may have a biased opinion since I have owned one of the receivers, but if bias has been injected herein it was entirely unintentional...I even had several persons to review this work before releasing it in order to avoid weighted opinions.

First of all, we will list the standard specifications of each and show the illustrations. Readers may note immediately that the R-1000 is a pint-sized piece of equipment compared to the Panasonic. Don't let that influence you.

KENWOOD R-1000

PANASONIC RF-4900

200 KHz - 30 MHz (LW/MW/SW)
Note the R-1000 provides LW reception, but no FM service

2 uV approximately

12 KHz at 6dB, 25 KHz at 50dB
6 KHz at 6dB, 18 KHz at 50dB

The R-1000 is easily wired to incorporate the 2.7 KHz SSB
I.F. A definite advantage.

OBSERVATIONS: Having owned the RF-4900 and the earlier RF-4800, I was more accurately aware of some of the drawbacks and limitations of the Panasonics. On the other hand, I had opportunity to tune and use the R-1000 only over the space of one weekend, but I believe I learned enough to do the receiver proper justice.

As regards selectivity. Despite the specifications which indicate the Panasonic had a slightly "tighter" I.F., I could discern no appreciable difference by ear or 'feel' while tuning over equal strength signals.

One of the methods I use to make some judgement about I.F. selectivity is to observe S-meter deflection. Here's how I did it. First, one must have use of a crystal calibrator to generate a 100 KHz marker.

Disconnect the antenna lead-in wire, using only the crystal calibrator to generate a 100 KHz marker. Dial in a frequency multiple and center it well by obtaining the highest meter reading. Try to stay in the lower range of frequencies to avoid reception of strong higher-frequency stations on even a short antenna wire like that of the crystal calibrator. Note where the S-meter needle points..take notes. Next, tune down in frequency slowly until the S-meter drops 6 dB. Observe how many KHz you have tuned down. Do the same thing now, tuning upwards in frequency. Then tune down, then up for a 60 dB meter deflection. With use of graph paper, you can make a crude, but serviceable guesstimate of how to rate your i.f. filter.

I rather preferred the versatile arraignment of separate AF and RF gain controls of the Panasonic. The RF attenuation steps of the Kenwood seemed much too steep to suit me. There is a way to alter these 20 dB steps to 10 dB steps.

The selectivity of the Kenwood can be greatly improved by rewiring the SSB 2.7 KHz filter for use in AM mode.

The AGC response time for the Kenwood seems a little slow, but this also is easily defeated - or restored back to original whenever desired.

I am told by other R-1000 owners that the audio output is not all that great because the chip used wasn't the best choice. Q-28 audio chip MIGHT be replaced by an ECG 1284...no guarantees. The ECG is a slightly more efficient chip for the same power drawn.

The R-1000 is AC only as purchased. Any competent technician can wire in a means to use 12VDC. Why they didn't put it in to begin with shows me, unless it was because of the fact that the display unit draws one helluva lotta mA.

The Panasonic RF-4900 certainly is more impressive looking. The speaker and audio output are excellent.

The RF-4900 dual-speed main tuning knob is cute. It also has a small finger control nearby to calibrate the dial. I appreciate also the separate bass and treble controls.

The RF-4900 I.F. selectivity can be modified with one of several replacement filters. It requires a competent technician to do this, so don't tackle it yourself.

BFO pitch simply is not stable. I could never get the RF-4800 or the 4900 to stay on pitch or zeroed for more than a few seconds...it begins to climb in frequency nearly immediately.

There are more birdies and internal images generated in the Panasonic than the Kenwood. There are several in the 15-19 MHz band. Most annoying.

The AM sensitivity on the RF-4900, and I used a box loop antenna here, for medium wave is excellent.

Internal battery employment also was useful for field trips. One can turn off the readout display to conserve power.

JUDGEMENT DAY: For DX-ability alone, I have to lean to the Kenwood, especially since the modifications for I.F., AGC, and portability are simply done. The Panasonic, in my opinion, had too many false images and spurs, and could not sit still on SSB. The Kenwood was smaller, therefore easily portable. What's more, I have some interest in LW - moreso than FM for which I have another more sophisticated receiver.

One last observation. The Kenwood company offers a really heavy metal knob to replace the plastic main tuning knob...not the calibration ring, just the main knob. It provides a firm, professional heft.

A SPECIAL NOTE TO OWNERS...OF ALLIED SX-190: Many of you already have the technical manual for this remarkable receiver, but others who do not may wish to have a special comprehensive collection of SX-190 review notes and modification instructions. Eighteen pages with over twenty articles about the SX-190. Even if you do not have the technical manual (or even if you do) this collection should be of interest to you.

This Super-X 190 opus costs a fair amount to xerox, on long paper no less! I have to ask three dollars ($3.00) just for costs and postage. Ed Shaw

Photo-transistors have interesting uses in communications and circuits to be controlled by light/dark.

It's easy to MAKE photo-transistors! Every silicon transistor is sensitive to light if the junction was exposed.

Acquire an inexpensive TO-18 type such as the common 2N2222.

Using a SHARP pair of sidecutters, a ceramic circle saw, or sharp knife, cut tip off as illustrated.

Note the interior is encased in a clear resin. The junction is sensitive to light.

Twist the Emitter and Base leads together for highest sensitivity.

Suggested experiment: Use the photo-transistor as an input to any power amplifier. Point it at the sun and run a comb or piece of window screen over the exposed junction. What did you hear? Another experiment: Turn on a pocket penlite and shine it into the junction, then tap the bulb. What did you hear then? In both cases you have experienced modulated light turned into sound. The screen blanking action in the first case, and a vibrating filament in the second.

UNDERSTANDING SOME ASPECTS OF YOUR DX RECEIVER: What is AGC?

Some of you will already understand that AGC stands for Automatic Gain Control. But, not many understand what it is for, or how it works. To be a good DXer, one first has to understand his receiver. This brief explanation of AGC may be the first step you need.

Signals arrive on your receiver antenna in varying strengths, and pass thru the different stages of amplification and processing. Somewhere along the way, usually in the last I.F. transformer, a little bit of signal is bled off by a diode and capacitor and then smoothed out to nearly a pure DC voltage. This voltage is fed back to the RF amplifier at the beginning of your receiver's circuit where it controls how much signal is let into the circuit. If a very strong signal blasts in, the bled-off AGC voltage tells the RF transistors to shut down a bit. If weak signals eak in, the AGC voltage permits the RF section to do its maximum. It's a feedback circuit of sorts.

In the AGC circuit is a resistor and large capacitor which, together, determine just how fast the AGC works. For instance, you are DXing on a noisy day with lots of lightning crackle, and slow AGC response time may be useful; that is, a loud blast would be absorbed by the resistor/capacitor network, and the receiver would go silent for...say, 1 second, then would recover and continue to receive normally after the blast was over. A short response time on less noisy days might not need any more delay than say 200 milliseconds or perhaps none at all. Thus, you can see that more advanced receivers will have provision for choosing response times...sometimes up to three choices. Some modern-day receivers have fixed AGC response times often not to the discriminating owner's satisfaction. It can be remedied by changing the big response capacitor to something larger or smaller in value to suit tastes.

In April, Ron Gretz of Fayetteville AR wrote to R Gambia inquiring if they were testing on 4820; a reply dated 5/8 was headed "Verification of Reception Report" tho had been sent. A key sentence, "It is true that, our Radio Station operated on a frequency of 4820 KHZ," is rendered meaningless by the strikeover as shown above making unclear whether the tense is past or present. The signer looks like "A. Gurbake" but really legible, "for: Director of Inf. & Broadcasting". Ron also forwards a copy of booklet about R Gambia which includes full pgm sked and considerable detail but no men- of any fqs but AM & FM (gh) My roommate Bob Underdown, Mitch Sams and I have agreed the result of the letter should be that the stn needs more looking into because of conflicting info w/that received by Rolf Lövström (Ron Gretz, AR) Dear Friends at NAS- and enemies, hi!), I have been painstakingly reviewing my 3/2 tape of my reported R 1, Senegambia, hrd on 4821; also reviewing bits & pieces of fascinating 'teaser' on ± 1, sometimes marginally audible 0600-0730 fading. It would be easy to say how I was and make my humble apologies and to promise to be less "quick-triggered" en- iastic and to be a more precisely dedicated DXer in the future. And in fact I do pro- this! but I can not, in the interest of DXing, trash my logging "en todo". What I on my 3/2 tape is 1) African, 2) not Mauritania!, 3) the ID in part repeatedly re- to (X)ambia, and I feel this is in fact probably the word "Gambia"--but there is no- nence to Senegambia and on this I was making a 'quick-trigger' assumption. So what on? This I leave to all DXers hustling for a major challenge. I am thinking it is bly an illegal--the rebel Gambians? Only an hypothesis, but this, I believe is a hot- and yes, I still hear "Radio Banjul" IDs, I feel most strongly. Right now I suspect and 4828± are the same, as just when the 4821 carrier vanished, up popped this other coincidence? Perhaps. Much grist to remonitor on my tapes, like "This is R. MAURITIUS MBC has proposed a project to be undertaken in the framework of World Communica-ing part of the State of Mauritius. Present SW xmtr in use 25+ yrs and spare parts are no longer available. Several islands not reached due to poor sig strength. So isle residents and ships sailing in territorial waters of Mauritius are often experiencing severe hardships due to lack of info on wx forecasts and hurricane early warnings. Project provides for acquisition of new eqp, namely 2 HF xmtrs and 2 horiz log periodic ants, representing a 10x increase in xmsn power. Will also ensure over 100° quadrant coverage and allow for rapid change in fq or beam direzion to cope w/abrupt variations in prop condx or sharp increases in QRM level (WCY bulletin 7/82 via Sellers, DXO; Bob Padula, ADXN; Andy Sennitt, RNMN) What are these other islands they're so concerned about? Nearby Ro-

M Sept LN on the 18 MHz mysteries; after hearing them on World of Radio, David Newkirk says:
"Negative CW" can be decoded, somewhat by marking the dits, dahs and pauses on one line and filling in the blanks on the next line; one portion might read "CQ DE XB..." such as XBD492 listed in CFI5 as in Mex Cy but AJJ and not on 19955. I'm taken aback by the fact that the MW stns hrd are not superpowered on fundamentals; that would explain a lot.
Could be a fixed stn (or a stn that needs to be fixed) in the neighborhood with a ground loop in a synthesizer, resonant in the low 1500 kHzes; or maybe a long leaky piece of coax resonates around there and the sigs mix in the final of the ute xmtr; the possibilities are endless. They appear in reverse order below 19955 kHz because in effect they're being translated in fq; did you tune on the high side of 19955 for matching array? (David Newkirk, WA, 29/8) No; have frequently checked 18395 etc afternoons since but not a trace; but I was not the first to hear this and might reappear (gh) I think it's inter-modulation, as happens with local MW stns, or ham xmtrs like mine mixing w/local MW stn to put me on a third fq. Might be metal-to-metal touching of pipes, wires, etc., with this 'circuit' resonating at some other fq. Or something fishy is going on near Mexico

SWITZERLAND Once it has been decided that the installations of RSI in the town of Schwarzenburg cannot be built in the face of opposition by ecological groups, the Swiss PTI is looking into other possibilities. The modern transmitters which have just been put into service do not function satisfactorily through the antiquated antennas. SRI director has stated in an interview that they are thinking of obtaining transmission time on foreign stations, either in exchange or by rental. Negotiations have taken place with Radio Canada International, which could put its transmitter sites at the disposition of the Swiss as from 1983. QMC believe their new stn operating outside US and w/out govt support, can avoid Cuban retaliation. FM stn and one of AM would be in EG w/religious pgm, second AM in SP for Cuba. Plans to sell time to private organizations but refrain from editorializing (Norman Black, AP, via Ted Powers, Rusty Serenberg, and DXSF) On 9/7 Kitchen confirmed your report that they had decided against SW; "plans have changed". Would not confirm 1030 and 1570 AM fqs as 'this recent jamming has made all our plans indefinite'. QM is an 'interesting' operation (Ted Powers, GA) Caicos Beacon due on 1/12 with 50 kW EG 1570, 50 kW SP 1020, Creole on FM (Chris Martin, NZDXT Aug) In a 16/9 RNMN interview Dan Dunnigan of QMC said their SP to Cuba on 1030 would be non-political; implied a third MW xmtr would be the "R Marti" (he kept using "R marti" as a generic term for this type of opn). QMC has been talking to Cuban exiles in Miami and this would operate from there as voice of the Cuban community. While he said they had authorization from T&C Governor General and Council to put on stn there, he hedged when queried if they had authorized them to radio-marti. BCing 31/8 via SWNS also reports that QMC would accept compensation for allowing the USG R Marti to use its 1610 Anguilla fq. No doubt it came as a surprise to the USG that there was such a stn... U S A WRNO: Contrary to plans in Sept LN-25, conflict w/Moscow-Cuba at 2300-0200 avoided X by using 11965 instead, with 9615 possible replacement w/MUF decline. So WORLD OF RADIO remains Suns 2330, and GMT Suns 0230 when on 6155, but the Tues 1900 repeat is dropped. I hope most like this arrangement and would appreciate reports from all over NAM on how reception on these two airings compares. The pgm, however, does not issue a QSL. Thanks. If WRNO is carrying a west-coast Sunday afternoon football game after DST ends, chances increase that the Sunday repeat of W.O.R. be preempted. Some listeners have missed W.O.R. on either airing by not staying tuned, as WRNO sometimes finds it necessary to start the tapes late. Meanwhile, they've finally got permission to simulcast FM-100, resulting in a considerably different sound and lots of local New Orleans ads (gh) Sun 0230 6155 a great success and should get better w/longer nites; good idea keeping 2330 too (Newkirk)

WCVU FCC pulled plug on John Hart's unlicensed 15-watter in Virginia Beach VA during its first anniversary celebration 13/8 Friday. Agents feared WCVU would QRM aircraft xmsns at Norfolk Intl Airport; it already blocked sigs from NC & MD stns. 25-year-old Hart, an auto mechanic, operated the stn from a trailer park. It was on the air 3 nights a week, sponsored phone-in contests, had volunteer ancrs and aired net xcasts picked up from a legit stn. "It was good for the park," said Mike Freeze, asst mgr of the Colonial Run Mobile Home Park. "If people lost a dog or cat, they knew they could call and everyone in the park would get the word." Hart, who started the stn as a hobby, received a written warning from Jerry Freeman, Regional Engr-in-charge of the FCC's Norfolk office. He could face $10,000 in fines and a year in jail if convicted of illegally operating a radio stn. But Hart says he's trying to find ways to get his stn back on the air legally. Freeman said the FCC learned of the stn 3 months ago and used spl eqp to locate WCVU's signal (UPI 15/8 via Ken MacHarg, IN) FM I guess

A LETTER FROM THE EDITOR TO YOU:

Ladies and gentlemen, contributions to UD, never large at any time, have fallen to an appallingly low level. Further evidence of this can be seen below. This situation prompts me to speak to you all most candidly on a topic of significance to us all.

UD and NASWA generally is not a monitoring service in which a small group of individuals do work on SW in some fashion for profit or advantage. You would not know that, however, to look at UD. There at this point something over 2000 members of NASWA. Of this number something like 5 are regular contributors to UD. THAT'S ONE QUARTER OF ONE PERCENT, a shamefully low number. What it means is this: if one or two of the regular contributors to UD don't send in material, there IS NO UD. It is that simple. If you don't share your material, you don't get anything.

I do get excuses and I'd like to talk about them:

1. "My material isn't good enough." Bushwa! Material for UD is not judged by me on whether it is "good enough." I edit according to the following rules: (1) Is it a late breaking item? (2) Is it SW? (3) If two items are competing for the same space (i.e. I can only print one) which will be of greater interest in the hobby? THOSE ARE ALL THE EDITORIAL CRITERIA I USE. An item on VoA is as likely to be in UD as one on Bhutan, but only if I get it in the first place. You send material; I'll edit. That's what they don't pay me the big money to do.

2. "I don't have time." This one is facially compelling. Everyone, yr. ed. included goes through phases when SW time must be used for other purposes. But I think this excuse is really rather empty. Since you're reading this, it follows that you're interested enough in the hobby to want to spend some time with it. Surely if you can find the time to turn on the radio and listen, you can find time to send material to some NASWA column. You've invested in this club and if you don't help to keep it up and going you get no return. You've wasted money.

3. "When are deadlines?" UD deadlines are set up around the one tyrannical aspect of this club: the date at the end of the month when material must be in Levittown to go to the printer. THIS DATE IS ALWAYS THE LAST SATURDAY OF THE MONTH. I try to construct UD deadlines so that there will be about two weeks or so between deadlines. Because these dates vary, I put at the top of every UD, mid-month and Frendx, the next three deadlines. This makes it easy (I hope) for you to keep your calendars up to date. Allow five days for the Postal Store-age people to get your letter to me, and you've got it.

So let me reiterate: For NASWA and UD to succeed, you and only you must invest in it. This does not mean the money you pay for the bulletin; it means the time you take to help us fill it up. You pay for 60 pages of bulletin each month and those pages can be as empty or full as you want them to be. It is, simply enough, your choice. Every editor needs and deserves your support. Isn't it fascinating to note that the editors, those who presumably have enough to do running their own shops, often are the most prolific contributors to other NASWA sections. NASWA is and will be what all 2000+ of you make it. What do you want it to be?

Editor: Stu Klein, 642 Cranbury Cross Road, North Brunswick, NJ 08902

And so we come to the close of another issue. Our thanks as always to our contributors, who are the ones that make the column possible. On Latin stations, where we leave out the language, please read that to mean Spanish. Ditto for Brasil and Portuguese. Where a language is given once in a station logging, it is the same for all other loggings of that particular station, unless otherwise noted. This saves some on the typing. Back again next month, so keep the loggings coming in! Till then,

Some good loggings this month, including a new Peruvian on 9030 and a rare logging of the Venezuelan, R. Valles del Tuy, on 6129 . . .

- 4900 VENEZUELA R. Juventud, Barquisimeto, presumed the one here at 0240-0339 on 9-6, the no ID hrd. Romantic ballads till 0301, then jazz-Mingus, Ellington, etc. Exc sig (Gilster); tent. them with US pops. 0250-0305, 8-9, fairly clear but could not pick up any ID (Shortridge-IN).

- 4915 GHANA Accra, 2250-2305* on 8-28, comments, mx, NA 2305 and then off, poor sig; and am 8-29, fair, nx 2251, church mx 2255 (Bolland-FL); talk in vernacular at 0540 on 8-16, then mx, drums, ID, EG nx; poor, with weak modulation and RTTY QRN (Stidwell).

- 4930 GEORGIAN SSR Tbilisi is the most likely site, amazing level at 0005 on 8-23 with Mayak prgms, hrd past 0025. Olle Alm in Sweden says this is probably 50 kw. (Reinstein-FL); 0057 8-15, light instrumental mx, then Mayak IS, pipe, M&W alternating in RS to 0105, then instrumental mx. Decent sig, the somewhat fluttery (Moritz-OH).

Valles del Tuy." Then tropical numbers, s/off in mid-song. On LSB, just coming in arnd 2240, getting better as time went by. On 9-7 was trouble with R. Super de Cali on almost same fqy, but nothing from them on 9-8. Happy to have this, and a joy to play with the knobs on the RQ-180 to bring it in (Moritz-OR). And on 6128.5, SP talking at 2300, some mx to abrupt s/off at 2302. May be the Venezuelan rptd by Ralph Perry (Dayen). Who?

CANADA CHNX-Halifax, wx rpt 0645 8-11, C&W mx, TCs, ballads (Jordan); and at 1150 on 8-29, religious tunes, ID jingle, TC, nx, wx, sports, C&W mx; fair (D'Angelo-PA).

COLOMBIA R. Super de Cali, run of the mill LA mx at 0522 on 9-7, ID, "Buenos dias, Colombia." Fair rcn overall, no QRM (Jones-MS).

W. GERMANY DW, EG talk on uranium mining in Germany, 0140 on 9-7 (Pieper).

CHILE R. Nacional, Santiago, good on 8-10 at 0010-0020 with nx and armt of the winning lottery numbers (Rigas-IL); cmtry at 0455 on 8-17, fqy armt, TCs, IDs, possibly their anthem to 0503* (Samuel).

COLOMBIA LV del Huila, Neiva, LA mx at 0604 on 8-29, clear ID, fair in QRN (Stidwell); SP mx at 0655 on 8-17, 3 IDs at 0700 including one with the fqy, more pops; TC at 0703, quick ID jingle. Good sig overall (D'Angelo-PA).

ANGOLA Emissor Regional de Benguela, more than just a carrier depression most days, but 9-6 was the first time I can recall holding them till s/off. Hrd from 2205 with what seemed to be nx in progress, one gong at 2211, then into varied mx prgm including both African numbers and EG pops. Into close down sequence at 2255 with various armts by M&W, mx coming up at times, some organ-and-drum stuff here and there. Finally played Angolan NA at 2302-2303, carrier went off 2305. Careful tuning needed, not so much because of QRM but because of weak signal. Bassaconga-4885 was also hrd on 9-6 with the NA a little past 2200 (JB).

HAITI R. Citadelle, good on 9-11 from arnd 0930 with SP LA mx, quick IDs at 0940 and 0950; pretty good at that time, but had deteriorated alot by 1000 (JB); presumed this one at 1048-1102 on 8-26, EZ lstng vocals and instrumentals, dinner hr-type mx. Gal anncr between songs now and then, and that had mention of Citadelle but hard to understand (Moritz-OR); carrying R. Nationale prgm at 1102-1210, FR, many IDs, but had EG TCs at 1200:30 and 1200:45; 8-18 (Reinstein-FL); songs with armts and commls at 2215-2230 on 8-20, definite ID 2228 ("Ici R. Citadelle"), talk to 2230 (Buer-FL).

ANTIGUA BBC WS, EG World Xz at 0003 9-1, "Nx Abt Britain," "R.Nxrreel;" VG (Krist-VA).

ARGENTINA R. Nacional Mendoza, various types of mx (including Swiss vodds) at 0902 until ID and call ltrs, then talk, probably nx, not sure due to QRM. Note // to R. Nacional on 6060; 8-23 (Jones-MS).

GUATEMALA LV de Guatemala, fair at 1229 on 9-6 with ID and marimba mx (Lineback-TX).

VENEZUELA R. Turismo, Valera, 0010-0020 on 8-15 with adjacent channel QRM. Very lite and bouncy SP vocals by a man. Singing ID by group of women at 0016, then gal anncr, M with ads, back to similar mx (Moritz-OR); LA pops at 0915 8-14, IDs, OM DJ (Alexander).

USA WRNO, 0351 on 9-4 with sports net, vy good sig (Jones-MS).

IND. Hard rock arnd 0945 on 9-11, non-stop, still going when I tuned out at 1100. The pretty good strength, sig is a little tinny, and I suspect a pirate operation. Doesn't match anything that's supposed to be here. (JB).

PERU R. Oriente, Yurimaguas, surprised to hear this one at early hour of 0900 on 9-8, apparently shortly after s/on. Quite good sig, and no BBC-6195 either. Several clear IDs noted. One day only and not hrd again since; of course, tape recorder was not on and I figured I'd get em again "tomorrow" for a report. Usual 1100 s/on is almost impossible here, even at height of the season (JB). Same date, ID 1039, TC, pop mx, the sig, earlier than usual *1100 (Jones-MS); and on 8-9, *1100 with anthem, religious prgm, OA mx, to 1110 fade out. QRM from Mexico-6185 (Wilkins-O).

ception has improved considerably in the last few weeks, so now is the time to get back low bands if you took a summer sabbatical +++ A reminder to please include on your slips the date of your reception and the state where you live. Also, please do details of the programming that you heard. On the other hand, it is not necessary to describe the programming in the same detail as you would in a reception report. Try to be fair and balanced. +++ And a final reminder and request that those of you who are not submitting logs to LR each month please get in the swing of things and let us here from you. We need a tiny fraction of the membership that contributes to LR and thus assists all of our contributors in their DXing. Even in SW, tis better to give than receive. 73-

ANTENNAS/ACCESSORIES

EDITOR: MIKE AGNER 301 N. PROGRESS AVE APT G10 HARRISBURG PA 17110

Howdy! Before I get on with this edition, I recently got a letter from Harold Sellers of the DX Equipment Information Committee in response to my query regarding Mosley. They are indeed back in business, though not supplying their once-popular SWV7/SWL7 antennas at this time. Their new QTH is 4610 N. Lindbergh Blvd., Bridgeton Mo. 63044 and the phone number is (314)7313036. The president's name is Bill Haack. My thanks to Harold for this item.

Now to Wayne Thompsen's list. Since most of his stuff is homebrew, unless there is a manufacturer's name there, assume all homebrew u.o.s.:
Wayne Thompsen, Decatur Ga.

215 foot grounded horizontal square loop (what does this look like, Wayne? mja)
29 foot random wire
25 foot random wire
single cap antenna tuner w/RF amp double cap antenna tuner (switch, pi or l network) mini antenna tuner (only 4" w 1 1/2" h and 1 1/4" l - this I gotta see) low pass RF filter (30Mhz cutoff) passive audio filter (passband is 300 hz to 3 khz) active audio filter (ICs)-passband 500 hz to 2 Khz 5 transistor active audio filter.
this is the guy I showed you in that photo a while back. He says that it has a low/high pass at 1 khz peak. Impressive! mja various power supplies
8" speaker in an outboard enclosure
Realistic headphones (what, not homebrew?? hi mja)
Micronta digital clock
Akai x1800SD recorder
Roberts 770x recorder (both are reel to reel recorders. mja)

Wayne, that is a dandy list. How abt sharing with us some schematics for those audio filters, and also tell us abt that loop? I'm sure there are some out there just a little curious. I know I am.

ODDS AND ENDS DEPT.-- I hesitate to bring up a rather annoying item, but it is a valid item....Don Sutlers(sp?) of Oak Forest Ill wrote me after the article came out on the Slinky dipole and says that he built a version of it out of an article from CQ magazine December 1980. (Cringingly) I thank you for that item Don and also the kind words....Do you remember the Snake antenna for 60 m that I wrote abt a while back? I am working on building a tri-band version- one that will cover 120, 90, and 60mb. More on that when I have more definitive test results. Watch out when stringing guy wires for verticals....metal guys tend to detune resonant verticals might be better to use clothesline with a nonmetallic core- Hey My Data Bank is really DRY!! I could stand to hear from all 2200 of you, OK? Before I forget, I understand the Sony corp. is bringing out their own version of an active antenna, as is Yaesu- one to match up with their popular FRG7700. The Sony antenna is supposed to be in the States this fall, according to the Sony rep at ANARCon 1982. Anyone hear anything more? This is the place to say something! 73e
