

Biodiversity is the fabric of life. Humans need the diversity of life on Earth for everything from clean air and water, food, fuels, and fibers to crop pollination, erosion control, coastal protection, climate stabilization, spirituality, and emotional well-being. However, our activities have pushed many species to extinction, and many others are on the brink.

At Re:wild, our mission is to conserve the diversity of life on Earth, where all of life – plant, animal, fungus, and human – has value and can together flourish. With your help, we can protect, restore, and revitalize our planet for future generations.

“We have brought species back from the brink and restored entire ecosystems, and I believe in the ingenuity of our species and our ability to turn things around. But we must make a collective pact to be a part of the solution, preventing more damage and urgently protecting those species and ecosystems in crisis.”

Benefits of a legacy gift:

- It costs you nothing today.
- You can change your mind if circumstances change in the future.
- You can honor or memorialize a loved one through a bequest.
- Since Re:wild is a 501(c)(3) public charity, bequests are exempt from federal estate taxes. If you have a taxable estate, the estate tax charitable deduction may offset some or all estate taxes, resulting in a larger inheritance for your heirs.
