The Company is permitted to recover 50 percent of charitable contributions benefiting Minnesota. Because charitable contributions are initially recorded below the line, an adjustment is necessary to include these costs in the test year and plan years.

In 2021-2023, the Company anticipates utilizing $17.5 million (Xcel Energy consolidated) in proceeds from the sale of the Mankato Energy Center (MEC) to cover Xcel Energy Foundation funding. This approach reduces the amount of charitable contributions included in NSPM rates while keeping the Company's charitable giving levels steady. Specifically, MEC proceeds are anticipated to fully fund the foundation in 2021 and 2022, leaving only the 2021-2023 Other Donations and a portion of the 2023 foundation funding in rates.

The Company's MYRP charitable contributions budget was then further reduced for ratemaking purposes by adjusting the test year and plan year budgets to reflect the actual 2019 contributions that should remain below the line. This application of a 2019 adjustment to the test year and plan years provides consistency and comparability across the MYRP years, bases the adjustment on the most recent year of actual data, and is consistent with the Company's employee expense adjustment process.

Finally, the Company makes the adjustment to include 50 percent of the net foundation funding and Other Donations in its revenue requirement.

Association Dues

ELECTRIC	2021	2022	2023
Association Dues Excluded	288,989.37	286,758.00	286,036.99

An adjustment is required to remove costs associated with organizational dues that are not allowed for recovery from customers. Consistent with the Commission’s June 14, 1982 Statement of Policy on Organizational Dues, the Company is required to reduce administrative and general expenses for either social organizations or organizations not associated with the State of Minnesota.

The Association Dues adjustment for the rate case was based on an allocation of 2019 actual allowances applied to the applicable test year or plan year budget. This was done to provide consistency and comparability across the MYRP years and to base the adjustment on the last year of actual data consistent with the employee expense adjustment.

The Company has included membership dues paid to various Chambers of Commerce in Minnesota in the 2021 test year and 2022-2023 plan years. Chambers of Commerce provide an essential link between the Company and the communities it serves, allowing for improved utility service. Because membership in these organizations provides benefits to all utility customers, recovery of membership dues paid to Chambers of Commerce is consistent with the Commission's June 14, 1982 Statement of Policy on Organizational Dues. Chamber of Commerce dues are initially recorded below the line; thus, an adjustment is necessary to include Chamber of Commerce dues in test year costs.

The Chamber of Commerce adjustment for the rate case was based on an allocation of 2019 actual allowances applied to the applicable test year or plan year budget. This was done to provide consistency and comparability across the MYRP years and to base the adjustment on the last year of actual data consistent with the employee expense adjustment.

*Xcel Energy has a contract with EPRI for a minimum $1.4M annually for non-nuclear related R&D activities. This contract expires at the end of 2024. The Company expects to renew the contract for approximately the same amount in future years. Please see Page 7 of this Schedule for details on the Company's non-nuclear R&D activities with EPRI. This list is representative of the types of R&D expenditures we expect to conduct in the future with EPRI that benefit Minnesota Rate Payers.

Nuclear	EPRI	10.1a Flexible Nuclear Plant Operations - The dynamics of the grid are changing due to increasing penetration of renewables, distributed energy, and changing consumer behavior. These changes may result in a greater need for increased flexibility of dispatchable generation to maintain grid reliability. Based on local grid conditions and utility fleet economics, flexible operations of nuclear power plants could become part of a utility fleet management strategy. Flexible operations also may emerge as a requirement for new plant projects; in some countries, new nuclear plants will represent a large percentage of load on a relatively small grid and will have to operate flexibly during periods of low demand. The Flexible Operations Program conducts research to inform decisions regarding flexible nuclear plant operations and characterizes the associated impacts on plant health and grid reliability. The program collects and shares operating experience on flexible operations, supports coordinated research among industry stakeholders, and executes EPRI R&D projects designed to identify and manage potential impacts from flexible operations on the plant and Its. Components. The goals of the program are: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Perform research to proactively identify and manage the potential impacts of FPO. • Collect global operating experience, evaluate how this experience integrates with research results, and incorporate into technical guidance related to FPO. • Engage stakeholders, subject matter experts, and research entities from around the world to ensure critical gaps are identified and addressed. • Publish technical reports based on the operating experience and research to help manage the impacts of flexible operations and support safe, reliable plant operations during FPO. 	$40,000	$29,169	$40,000	$29,169	$40,000	$29,169	86.9972%	83.8210%
Nuclear	EPRI	1.2 a SGMP - PWR Steam Generator Management Program Steam generator tubes are an integral part of the reactor coolant pressure boundary and have a number of important safety functions. <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. Maintain the primary system's pressure and inventory 2. Act as a heat transfer surface between the primary and secondary systems such that residual heat can be removed from the primary system 3. Isolate the radioactive fission products In the primary coolant from the secondary system 4. Help prevent uncontrolled fission product release under conditions resulting from core damage severe accidents The SGMP supports greater consistency in managing steam generator issues across the nuclear fleet, such as managing degradation with the more corrosion-resistant Alloy 600 TT, Alloy 690 TT, and Alloy 800 tubes. Program participants gain access to the following: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Strategic roadmaps outlining research gaps associated with key issues-such as foreign object management, tube integrity assessment, and steam generator life management-and the collaborative actions needed to address these gaps. • Guideline documents that reduce the potential for steam generator tube ruptures and forced leakage outages, which can cost an estimated $5 to $20 million per event. • Better tools for integrity assessments, Informing decisions regarding examinations, which can cost an estimated $1 to $2 million per plant. • Performance Information on steam generator examination techniques that can be used to optimize inspections, increasing the probability of detecting existing tube degradation mechanisms. • Chemistry controls that can delay the onset of corrosion and mitigate steam generator fouling. • A database of worldwide steam generator Information related to degradation, used to inform decisions on steam generator operation and maintenance. 	$116,500.00	$84,954	$118,830	$86,653	$121,207	$88,386	86.9972%	83.8210%

Nuclear	EPRI	2.1a FRP - Fuel Reliability Program Nuclear fuel cladding is the first barrier to a fission product release to the general public. Maintaining the integrity and performance of control materials is required for the safe shutdown of the reactor. The Fuel Reliability Program performs research in these areas and on other fuel assembly components. Research results are incorporated into guidelines, reference reports, training packages and software products that enable nuclear plants to operate their plants in a safe, reliable and cost-effective manner. About $45-$50 billion of nuclear fuel is operating in commercial reactors worldwide. Every year, fuel costs comprise approximately 25% of total nuclear plant costs (i.e., operations and maintenance, capital, fuel). Optimizing the use of this asset while ensuring its safe operation is paramount to reliable and cost-effective plant operation. Fuel Reliability Program participants gain access to the following: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • A strategic matrix that identifies gaps and coordinates technical efforts among nuclear stakeholders. The matrix is integral to identifying strategic research focus areas (RFAs) and technical projects where research is needed. • Technical guidance to improve fuel reliability and reduce economic risks associated with fuel failures, which have cost the U.S. nuclear industry more than $300 million over the past 15 years and the global nuclear industry two to three times that amount. • Insights derived from global operating experience with all types of nuclear fuel assemblies and reactor types to inform decision-making. • State-of-the-art software tools and methodologies using advanced modeling and simulation techniques to analyze fuel rod thermo-mechanical performance and assess crud and corrosion risk under a range of operating conditions. • Technical research to inform the development and modification of fuel-related regulations. • Assessment of breakthrough fuel concepts that could provide enhanced fuel failure margins during normal operation power maneuvers and additional response time before damage and fission product release occurs in accident scenarios. 	$137,273.00	$100,102	$140,018	$102,104	$142,819	$104,146	86.9972%	83.8210%

Nuclear	EPRI	5.2i STE - Standardized Task Evaluations for Portable Qualifications Organizations use the STE evaluations to assess the competency of their workforce, thus eliminating unnecessary training or retraining. Utilities have reported improved performance of the supplemental workforce and reduced costs. Further, because the STE program was developed according to a systematic approach to training (SAT) process, it reflects industry consensus standards for development and administration of knowledge and performance evaluations.	$25,613.00	$18,677	$26,125	$19,051	$26,648	$19,432	86.9972%	83.8210%
Nuclear	EPRI	7.1f Risk-Informed Classification & Treatment (Option 2) Users Group EPRI's efforts are expected to provide value by increasing the efficiency and reducing the cost of conducting the risk-Informed categorization, and by increasing the consistency of the categorization process to support more efficient Implementation and acceptance. By applying alternative treatments to a large number of safety-related but non-risk significant components, nuclear plants can potentially eliminate these components from the scope of treatment for a number of regulations. Pilot plant results indicate that as much as 75% of safety-related SSCs could qualify for alternative treatment, yielding potential savings of $3 million per year per unit or more.	$0.00	$0	$0.00	$0	$0.00	$0	86.9972%	83.8210%
Nuclear	EPRI	7.11 FTREX Other cut set generation engines are available to use in a risk analysis. In FTREX, many unique ideas have been implemented into the fault tree restructuring, gate expansion, subset deletion, subsuming, and data storage. This greatly accelerates the quantification process of a fault tree. FTREX provides significant improvement in quantification speed for large models, especially at low truncations, and can easily generate millions of cutsets for typical PRA models	$7,200.00	$5,250	$7,344	$5,355	$7,491	$5,463	86.9972%	83.8210%
Nuclear	EPRI	7.1m External Hazards Data Collection Detailed awareness of external hazards and their potential impacts on nuclear plants can help Inform decisions affecting safe plant operation. EPRI tracks evolving information related to external hazards and compiles periodic reports. Benefits include: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • An efficient, shared resource for understanding changes in external hazards • Regular reporting of relevant updates to inform decisions regarding preparations for external hazards • Interpretation and analysis of information to identify technical insights and to clarify potential uncertainties 	$24,000.00	$17,501	$24,480	$17,851	$24,970	$18,209	86.9972%	83.8210%
Nuclear	EPRI	9.2f Radiation Management and Source Term Technical Strategy RMST TSG participants gain access to: (a) cutting-edge technology and expertise, (b) expert advice on emergent issues, and (c) the benefits associated with the implementation of assessment recommendations. Insights into specific technical issues, best practices, and other learnings also helps to inform the Radiation Safety Program base research. RMST TSG participants also gain access to workshops, associated deliverables, and one site-specific radiation management assessment per the three-year participation period. The assessment's detailed review of the site-specific parameters can help Identify potential gaps and delineate actions with the largest potential benefit. Assessment results may provide economic, performance, and/or regulatory compliance benefits. EPRI source-term reduction and ALARA technologies have realized significant benefits in personnel exposure control. EPRI's radiation field control technologies help reduce ex-core radiation fields and minimize worker dose. The Radiation Management and Source Term Strategy Group provides an opportunity to drive exposure performance success that, in tum, can support regulatory compliance and positively Impact performance metrics and worker protection.	$48,500.00	$35,367	$48,500.00	$35,367	$0.00	$0	86.9972%	83.8210%
Nuclear	EPRI	9.3b Groundwater Technical Strategy Group EPRI research supports public radiation safety and environmental protection, and can contribute to optimized costs and reduced waste due to groundwater monitoring and remediation. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Provide technical input to inform discussions among communities, government, and regulatory agencies about radiation safety and environmental protection • Inform technical decisions that may improve safety and achieve cost savings: (1) at the decommissioning stage due to actions taken while the plant is still operating; (2) through the use of advanced and efficient monitoring and remediation technologies; and (3) by preventing radioactive liquid leakage to the environment The assessment included once during each three-year commitment period delineates actions with the largest potential benefit to the site and identifies potential gaps that, If closed, could provide economic, performance, and/or regulatory.compliance benefits. Nuclear	EPRI	9.6e PWR Chemistry Technical Strategy Group (includes PWR Zinc & Resin/Filter Groups) The group provides participants with a forum to benchmark their programs with others throughout the industry, and to take advantage of collaborative research efforts with plants sharing similar needs. Sharing of lessons learned and annual updates related to EPRI research programs provides participants with valuable information to guide planning and implementation. This includes both optimization and modification of existing programs, as well as first-time implementation of specific technologies. Lessons learned have resulted in reduced radiate and worker exposure, fuel performance optimization, mitigation of stress corrosion cracking, and enhanced overall plant performance.
