WANTED
A Pal by the Name of Mary

New 1925 copyright waltz-song that is making the pace and already in the second edition. Feature number with all the big users of popular songs. On the air with the broadcasters, on the floor with the dancers, in the Southern parks with the bands, on the stage with the singers who sing a song because it "gets over," and in the homes because those who hear it like to take it there and sing it for themselves. Published by the Roat Music Co., of Battle Creek, Michigan, who are picking the winners of late. Get a copy from your dealer, or send direct, 35c, postpaid. Orchestration, 35c.

"It's a Wow"

BEING "almost good" will never get you reports like that. You may be getting your work across—after a fashion. You may hold down a pretty good spot on occasion—and even get a bit of billing—in the three-a-day. But who wants to spend a lifetime in the three-a-day?

Even in "Big Time" there are acts now opening the show, or spotted second or third, that might move down on the bill and be a knockout. Often it's a mighty small thing that marks the difference between a passably good act and a sure-fire hit.

It may be simply a new dance that's needed—or new business—something different or startling that can be worked into the routine. Acts needing such a work-over can certainly get it from that master of stagecraft

AN EXTRAORDINARY SONG!!!
Somebody Laughs

When Somebody Cries. Even in the small, backwoods towns music dealers want it! Is it an account of radio? Can it be that the stars of magic radioland are demanding their favored music dealers to secure this newest hit for them? Or is it on account of the song having a toe-to-life title? Is it a human trait that Somebody Laughs—

WHEN SOMEBODY CRIES?
Certainly, the song has immense possibilities for any class of vaudeville act. Boy and girl versions now ready. Send us your route.

Los Angeles, Feb. 24.—The opening of the annual Orange Show February 19 drew the largest first-day attendance of the past five years, and the show was voted the best of all the exhibitions. The show being held in a permanent building this year, the decorations were of better class and more detail into the artistic. The attendance has been above previous years and on the 22d the building was overcrowded. Never has more care been taken in the arranging of the exhibits. Ahner K. With the Shows

Boston, Feb. 26.—All the shows in town, with the exception of Kid Boots, which just opened here this week, gave a Washington's Birthday matinee and grabbed off some extra money before the Lenten slump set in. Most houses have already begun to feel the effect of Lent, while a few managers state it has made little difference in their box-office receipts so far.

The only attraction coming in next week is a new play called Bachelors' Brides, which replaces Peter Pan at the Tremont for a two weeks' stay. Marilyn Miller got a poor reception in this town.

A. E. Thomas' new play, Spindrift, is booked to reach the New Park on March 9, following New Brooms. This makes two new shows being tried out on Boston audiences.

The Goose Hangs High comes to the Plymouth March 9, when Simon Called Peter takes to the road.

As far as can be learned, the Shubert Theater will remain dark for several weeks with the closing of the Greenwich Village Follies.

Censoring Plays

The agitation over unclean and immoral plays in New York is causing much comment around town, but Boston has nothing to worry about on that score with Censor John Casey on the job. The shows coming in usually have their instructions as to what is to be deleted or changed before they reach town and if they defy orders, no one attempted to do recently. Casey is out front to call them. A few weeks ago he refused to let the second act of one of the musical shows start until certain changes in costume were made.

Hub-Bub

Another one of the Donahue family of Charlestown has broken into the business. Walter, kid brother of Jack, of Be Yourself fame, and Joe, a vaudeville performer, is due at the Howard next week in the dancing act of Morgan and Donahue. It was at the Nickelodeon in Boston that Jack got his start.

Mike Garrity, who looks after things for the United Artists in down Maine way, dropped in for a short chat while in town recently. He can go back a good many years.

Sam Shuman, who has a couple musical tabloid shows working in the East, arrived recently to secure some talent for one of his shows and made this office one of his stopping places.

Will Stone, old-time dramatic reader and stock actor, is seen in these parts a good deal of late.

Fred Bowman announces that he has put together a musical tabloid show, called Bowman's Musical Revue, and is playing Anderson's Theater in Mattapan square this week, with other bookings to follow.

Word comes from Prof. Floyd that he is around Pittsburgh, Pa., doing his magic act. He is booked solid for 10 weeks in that territory and reports that his act is going over great.

Things seem to be progressing well with the new picture house going up in Tremont street and with the new Keith house at Essex and Washington streets (a former office building being remodeled). The picture house is supposed to open shortly after Lent and the Keith theater likely will be ready for opening in the fall.

THURSTON HAS RECORD WEEK

Grosses $17,432.50 in Cincinnati—Claimed More Than $7,000 Greater Than Receipts of Any Other Magic Show

A world record for one week's receipts for a magic show was registered at the Grand Opera House, Cincinnati, last week when Howard Thurston's show grossed $17,432.50. This figure was limited by the seating capacity of the theater and exceeded by almost $1,000 the previous high mark of Thurston, made last season in Detroit, and, it is claimed, surpasses by more than $7,000 the takings on a week of any other magic show.

During the seven days Thurston gave 11 performances, a Washington's Birthday matinee being offered Monday in addition to his usual Sunday, Wednesday and Saturday afternoon shows in Cincinnati. The ticket scale ranged from 50 cents to $1.50.

This season Thurston is presenting the most costly and what also is generally considered his greatest program of mysticisms since 1908, when, after a tour of the universe, he became the successor to the late Harry Kellar and began his annual tours of the United States and a portion of Canada. The paper now used by Thurston is regarded by those in the know to be the flashiest advertising to herald a magic show.

JOSEPH JEFFERSON MEMORIAL WINDOW

—WIDE WORLD PHOTOS.
 This picture shows the unveiling and dedication of the Joseph Jefferson Memorial Window in the Church of the Transfiguration, lovingly called "The Little Church Around the Corner", New York City. The theme window is the parable of the Gnat Samaritana. It represents the story by which the Church of the Transfiguration got its popular name. Jefferson is shown in his tattered brown leather costume as the awakened Rip Van Winkle, supporting his actor friend, George Holland, wrapped in a shroud. The window was presented by the Episcopal Actors' Guild and their friends and admirers of Joseph Jefferson. Left to right are seen Charles Stevenson, John Drew, Lorette Jefferson, great-granddaughter of Joseph Jefferson and wife of the window; Frank Gillmore and Walter Wilson. They officiated at the unveiling.

FRED BARNES TO RESIGN

Leaves W. A. S. A., of Which He Was One of Founders, December 31

Chicago, Feb. 28.—Fred M. Barnes will retire from the World Amusement Service Association at the end of this year, according to a statement he made to The Billboard today. Mr. Barnes did not amplify his statement in any way in making his announcement to this publication.

Mr. Barnes was one of the founders of the World Amusement Service Association. He had previously been in the fair booking business for many years and has long been known as one of the very fastest salesmen of entertainment bills in the outdoor world. Beyond saying he will sever all connection with the W. A. S. A. December 31 next, and that he is not ready to announce his plans after that time, Mr. Barnes was silent and unresponsive to reportorial queries.

SURCHARGE ON PULLMANS STAYS

House Decides To Allow Extra Fee Despite Country-Wide Editorial Comment Against It

Washington, Feb. 28.—After editorial comment against it all over the country and numerous arguments put forth in the House of Representatives why it should be taken off, the latter body decided to allow the 50 per cent Pullman surcharge.

The extra fee was added to the regular sleeper rate during the World War as a war measure to discourage, to a certain extent, the common usage of sleeping cars. Those who spoke against the surcharge emphatically emphasized this, but all to no avail.

Showmen in general will be affected by this, to say nothing of the thousands of commercial companies which have men on the road. It is estimated that the surcharge nets more than $40,000,000 a year.

The repeal of the act which allowed the extra fee was instigated by the House Interstate Commerce Committee, 16 of its members having signed a document whereby they believed that the surcharge was excessive and un-American.

Among those who stood out for eliminating it was Senator Reed of Missouri. He intimated that if the railroads needed this $40,000,000, which they were extracting thru the berth charge, then let them obtain it some other way, but don't make folks who could afford to sleep in a Pullman at the old rate sit up.

TENT SHOWS ARE TARGET OF PROPOSED TAX BILL IN TEXAS

Motion Picture Exhibitors of State Pushing Measure Making License Fee $150 in Each City of 40,000 or More Population—Flooring of Tents Also Required

New York, March 2.—Motion picture theater owners of Texas, who about two years ago almost succeeded in putting thru legislation that would have kept all traveling tent shows out of that State, have again taken steps to accomplish this end. Evidence of their renewed activity in this direction is contained in a circular letter sent out from the office of the Motion Picture Theater Owners of Texas, Inc., to movie theater owners of that State under date of January 18, reading as follows:

"Dear Exhibitor—Col. H. A. Cole has just returned from Austin, where he was instrumental in having a friend introduce a tent-show bill.

"It is very important to us that this bill be pushed thru as promptly as possible. It has been referred to the taxation committee of the House and the hearing will probably come up some time this week.

"I should appreciate it if, immediately upon receipt of this letter, you would wire your representative care of the Texas legislature at Austin asking his support on Representative Covey's bill taxing tent shows.

"With very best wishes and kindest regards, sincerely, H. G. McNeese, secretary M. P. T. O. of Texas, Inc."

The bill in question, if passed, would require tent shows to pay a license fee of $150 in each city of 40,000 or more population visited, and also would require tent-show managers to floor their tents in order that tents may be either nailed or screwed to the floor. This excessive taxation, which is as much in each city of that size as movie houses would be required to pay for a whole year's license, will bring hardships and disaster upon tent-show companies, to say nothing of the impracticability of fulfillment.

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN WILL BE RAZED AFTER CIRCUS ENGAGEMENT

Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Combined Shows To Start Five and One-Half Weeks' Run There March 28--- Will Pass Up Brooklyn This Year

NEW YORK, March 2.—Within one week after the Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey Circus closes its last engagement at Madison Square Garden work on the destruction of the historic old building will be started. May 6 has been definitely set for the day on which the wrecking crew will begin operations. The circus will open March 28 and play five and one-half weeks in the Garden this year. This is a week longer than its customary New York engagement has been for the past few years. This year it has also been decided that the big show will not play Brooklyn.

Madison Square Garden, as it is at present, has been the permanent New York showing place for the big show since it opened in 1891. Prior to that time, before the show was combined with Ringling Bros. and was known as just Barnum & Bailey's, it had played for years at the old Garden, missing only the year of 1908, when it played under canvas at 110th street and Fifth avenue. During that year the present Garden was under construction.

Next year it will play the new Garden to be erected on the car-barn site at 50th street and eighth avenue. The New York Life Insurance Company owns the site of the present Madison Square Garden, having secured it thru a foreclosure. When the present building, which was designed by Stanford White, has been completely torn down work on the construction of a new skyscraper to be operated by the New York Life Insurance Company will be started.

At present much discussion is being held over the disposal of the statue of Diana, which has graced the top of the tower on Madison Square Garden for years. Many schools and museums of art have requested that it be given to them, while others are bidding for it. One suggestion being given consideration is to have the statue placed in City Hall Park, adjacent to the statue of Civic Virtue.

Assists Prima Donna

Former-Emperor William has joined in giving assistance to Rosa Sucher, once famous as a Wagnerian opera singer in Berlin and at the Metropolitan Opera House, New York. Frau Sucher is now living on a small pension at Aix-la-Chapelle.

The inflation period wiped out the savings of the former soprano, whose late husband, Joseph Sucher, was director of the Royal Band in Berlin. Her pension from the Berlin Opera has been supplemented by an annuity of 900 marks from the private funds of the former Kaiser.

Tragedy of Collins Filmed

Hays Aids Stricken Families

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 28.—Will H. Hays, head of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors, arrived this week at his home town, Sullivan, Ind., from California and immediately entered into the work of giving aid to the families stricken in the coal mine disaster there, when 51 were killed. The first word of the disaster came to Mr. Hays when he was at Gallup, N. M. He had the train held while he wired $100 to the relief fund.

Cleveland Theaters Must Close at Midnight

Cleveland, O., Feb. 28.—Cleveland Theaters must close at midnight, Safety Director Edwin D. Barry ordered yesterday. The order affects six all-night motion picture houses. Barry claims the all-night theaters are harboring places for criminals and that scores of them meet there nightly.

To Raze President Theater

Chicago, Feb. 24.—Many movie houses are built here in reality and more built on paper, but they seldom tear one down. However, the President Theater, in East Garfield avenue, built 15 years ago, is to be razed to make way for another structure. It was at the President that Sophie Tucker, Gene Green and others made their early day appearances.

Spokane Election Involves Theatricals

Spokane, Wash., Feb. 28.—Politics and theatricals are becoming involved in the new city election, due to statements of several candidates and the coincidental showing here of The Birth of a Nation for the fifth time.

As soon as the Griffith film was announced the local branch of the National Association for the Advancement of the Colored People appealed to the city council for censorship. The council uncovered a ruling made against the film in 1916 and ordered the film censored by the department of public safety to conform to the Negroes' wishes.

The Spokane Theater Managers' Association has endorsed three candidates for election, not including the present commissioner of public safety.

A. T. Dishman, dancing pavilion and resort owner, is also a candidate for city office, but kept clear of the censorship angle. Louis Longbotham, operator of an amusement arcade, is in the race, stating he will "pop up the town" if elected. He had difficulties with the present safety commissioner last year.

Mrs. J. T. Burcham, commissioner candidate, is stressing in her talks that she encourages "better moving pictures" and particularly "better pictures for the children of the city and nation."

Globe Dark for Week

New York, March 2.—The Globe Theater will be dark for a week following the close of Ed Wynn's Grab Bag there March 14. The new Dillingham production, The Little Minister, goes into the house a week later after an out-of-town tryout. Ruth Chatterton and Ralph Forbes are featured in the Barrie play.

Another San Francisco Theater

San Francisco, Feb. 27.—For several years the triangular parcel of land, bounded by Market, Hayes, Larkin and Polk streets, has been sold on an average of once every six months for a theater site, that is, according to rumor. A few days ago the site was actually purchased by the Capital Company from the Doc Estates Company and it is understood A. J. Rich & Company have been authorized to contract for the erection of a theater building to seat 2,600 persons.

Will King at Casino Again

San Francisco, Feb. 27.—Will King has signed a contract with Beatty's Casino Theater and his first performance, scheduled for March 8, will be in the nature of a welcome home, for it was at the Casino that King and his company appeared in a record-breaking engagement of five years. The future policy at the Casino is to be road shows of vaudeville from the Western Vaudeville Managers' Association and tabloid comedy-dramas.

Redecorating the Central

Oppenheimer Renews Lease on Garrick

Mutual Burlesque Franchise for St. Louis Retained by New Arrangement

New York, Feb. 28.—Storm clouds that have for some time been gathering ominously in the burlesque sky at St. Louis appear to have been happily dispelled by diplomacy on the part of President I. H. Herk, of the Mutual Burlesque Association.

For several months it has been known in theatrical circles that Oscar Dane, former manager of the Gayety (Columbia Circuit) Theater, St. Louis, and lessee since last summer of the Palace Theater, Minneapolis, and Empress, St. Paul, both playing Mutual attractions this season, had secured a lease of the Garrick, St. Louis, Joseph Oppenheimer, who recently took over the Lyric Theater, New York, has held a lease of the Garrick, St. Louis, which expires shortly. Under the direction of Mr. Oppenheimer, and presenting Mutual shows, the Garrick has become a popular and successful burlesque theater. Meanwhile, Mr. Dane has been successfully operating the Liberty Music Hall, St. Louis, with a musical stock company, and he made no secret of his intention to personally operate the Garrick when his lease became effective.

Mr. Oppenheimer's franchise with Mutual for St. Louis was obviously too valuable to consider abandoning, and since his Garrick in Des Moines had become a profitable venture and gave to Mutual attractions a week between Kansas City and Minneapolis, and as his Lyric in New York was soon to be added to Mutual's chain he had made all preparations to build a new theater in St. Louis in the down-town section.

President Herk evidently felt that since Messrs. Oppenheimer and Dane were both vitally interested in the continued success of the Mutual Association the atmosphere could be clarified and all differences adjusted at a meeting of the parties in this city. This was accordingly arranged, and after two short conferences in the offices of President Herk Mr. Oppenheimer returned to St. Louis with a long lease of the Garrick in his pocket, and a bond of fealty established between all concerned.

It is understood that under the conditions of the arrangement Mr. Dane should profit to the extent of nearly $150,000 during the period covered by the new leasehold. Meanwhile, Mr. Oppenheimer, who took over the Garrick at an absurdly low rental when it was unwanted and developed it into an amazingly profitable institution with Mutual attractions, is spared the inconvenience and expense of having his season interrupted, and will soon come to New York to devote his time to the operation of the Lyric. That his ideas of presentation will be radically different from anything Broadway has known is generally conceded.

Lotta's Alleged Niece To Open Will Contest

San Francisco, March 1.—Carlotta Crabtree Cockburn, who is seeking her mother thru the medium of want ad in the "missing person" columns of Pacific Coast dailies, is the niece of Lotta Crabtree, famous actress, according to David J. Aaron, local attorney. He represents Boston attorneys in what promises to be a sizable legal battle. The opening gun in the skirmish to break Lotta's will is said to be the want ad, which reads: "Will my mother, Annie Crabtree, who lived in Tombstone, Ariz., during the years 1879-'80-'81-'82-'83 and later in Phoenix, communicate with me? I need my mother's help now more than I ever did. Carlotta Crabtree Cockburn, address Room 618, 68 Post street, San Francisco."

Object to Theater Poster

Holyoke, Mass., Feb. 28.—A poster advertising one of the local motion picture houses made its appearance on a private house on Dwight street recently and has set the whole town talking, many residents of the section objecting to such advertising. Both sides have appealed to the city government and the disturbance promises to become a local political issue. Some contend that inasmuch as the poster is on private property the city can do nothing about it. The theater is getting lots of publicity thru the agitation.

Face Theater Robbery Charge

New York, March 2.—The three men who were foiled in an alleged attempt to rob the safe of the Victory Theater, a motion picture house, last week have been indicted by the Bronx County Grand Jury on a charge of first-degree robbery. The men, nonprofessional, are Patrick Kenneley, Charles Clark and James Tighe, all of this city.

Beatrice Lillie Sails

SYMPHONY PLAYERS GET ADVANCE OF $5

New Contract To Run One Year Makes Minimum Scale $80 a Week—Extras Also Get Increase

Chicago, Feb. 28.—Thru a contract signed yesterday the 92 members of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra will receive a salary increase of $5 a week. The new contract is for a year. The old minimum scale was $75 a week. Some of the members of the orchestra are said to receive as high as $200 a week. The extra men who play two or three concerts a week with the Symphony were given an increase from $50 to $55 a week. The regular men play 126 concerts in a season of 28 weeks, or an average of more than four concerts a week. They are also required to take part in four rehearsals a week. Another point gained by the players was an uninterrupted season of 28 weeks. Heretofore they laid off a week at Christmas.

In the last two years the members of the Symphony Orchestra have received wage increases totaling $20 a week.

Al Woods Sued for Alleged Rent of Theater

New York, Feb. 28.—Al Woods has been named defendant by the Boardwalk Realty Company of Atlantic City in a suit for $7,500 for rent of a theater in the summer resort. The dispute arises over the payment of rent from December 15, 1921, to May 15, 1922.

Woods had a lease on the theater and, according to Alfred Beckman, of House, Grossman & Vorhaus, attorneys for the producer, the Fire Prevention Board of Atlantic City investigated the house and found that additional exits were required and other repairs necessary. Woods claims that he notified the realty company of the needs, but that it refused to make any repairs.

The house was known at the time as the Woods Theater. It was formerly the Savoy and then the Cort.

Woods said that he did not occupy the house after December, 1921, because of the fire bureau's decision and therefore does not owe rent for it. The case came up before Justice O'Malley in the Supreme Court and was adjourned until March 3.

Schenck and Grauman Plan For Chain of Movie Houses

Los Angeles, Feb. 28.—A chain of 10 or 15 first-run motion picture theaters is planned by Joseph M. Schenck in association with Sid Grauman, the former announced upon his arrival from New York yesterday. Construction on three of the houses will start immediately, one being located in New York. In connection with the plans of William S. Hart to distribute thru United Artists it was stated that the Western star will finance and produce himself, with Schenck exercising approval over the type of stories used.

Speaking of the new theater chain Schenck said that he and Grauman will furnish part of the capital and the remainder will be secured thru Blair & Company of Wall street. In reference to the initial house to be erected in New York he stated that negotiations are under way for a site on Broadway "further down than the Strand Theater".

Denies Sale of Giants

To Syndicate Headed by John Ringling

New York, Feb. 28.—Reports from Washington that Charles A. Stoneham's majority holdings in the New York Giants had been sold to a syndicate headed by John Ringling, the circus man, have been denied by Judge Francis X. McGuire, treasurer of the club. The buying of Mr. Ringling's name with the sale of the Giants has been done on several occasions. He is a personal friend of Manager John McGraw, and the Giants have used the circus magnate's name for the last two seasons. McGraw, who is now in Sarasota, also denies the report.

Passion Play Opens

New York, March 2.—America's passion play, Veronica's Veil, presented annually during the Lenten season by the Passionist Fathers at St. Joseph Auditorium, West Hoboken, N. J., opened last night for the 11th season. Other performances will be Tuesday, Thursday and Sunday evenings until April 8.

The Rev. Father Bernard, C. P., director of the passion play, has made numerous improvements in the scenery and electrical effects for this year's production.

Veronica's Veil is a spoken drama of church tradition portraying the sufferings and crucifixion of Christ.

Great Reception for Paul Whiteman in Frisco

San Francisco, Feb. 28.—The arrival yesterday of Paul Whiteman and his concert orchestra in this city was the cue for one of the highest receptions ever accorded a notable from any field here. A parade was held in his honor, following the reception, which was attended by Acting Mayor Rainey, Chief of Police O'Brien, and hundreds of Shriners. In addition, Whiteman was greeted by the Municipal Band, and every well-known orchestra and band in town. More than 50 automobiles were in the parade. This is Whiteman's first time in this city in six years.

Whiteman and his orchestra are to give a series of five concerts at Scottish Rite Hall. The first was held last night, the second and third will be given this afternoon and evening, and the others tomorrow afternoon and evening.

STRAND WILL OBSERVE 11TH ANNIVERSARY

New York, March 2.—The Strand Theater, the first million-dollar motion picture theater in the country, is making preparations to observe the 11th anniversary of its founding. Its anniversary week will begin Sunday, April 12. Special elaborate presentations are planned in connection with the observance, and it is possible that Charlie Chaplin's new comedy, The Gold Rush, will be the film feature of the week, thus having its New York premiere.

It is estimated that approximately 62,000,000 persons have paid admissions at the house since its inception. The theater, which has a slogan of "A national institution", employs about 170 persons. It is said to be the first moving picture house to use a ballet in addition to films as part of its entertainment.

The theater project was started in October, 1912, by Michael H. Mark and Mae Mark, the original officers of the company being Mitchell Mark, president; Mae Mark, vice-president; and Eugene L. Falk, manager. The board of directors included Walter Hays and Joseph M. Levinson. Since its opening some of the best box-office pictures seen in this country have been screened there.

Among the well-known members of the house staff are managing director, Joseph Plunkett; secretary, Anatole Feldman; house manager, James J. McCormack; assistant, Kirk McLean; director of publicity, Fred E. Hamlin; assistant, Paul Raphael; secretary, Mildred Goodman; ballet master, Anatole Bourman; premiere danseuse, Mile. Klementowicz; art director, Jay W. Weaver; assistant art director, Al Bernstein; scenic artist, Henry Dreyfuss; treasurer, Jacob Endel; conductor of orchestra, Carl Edouarde; associate conductors, Alois Reiser and Jack Gruenberg.

Thomashefsky Threatens To Sue if "Chazente" Is Shown

New York, Feb. 28.—Boris Thomashefsky, thru his attorney, Abner Greenberg, has wired Julius Nathanson, manager of the Opera House in the Chelsea section of Boston, Mass., to refrain from showing his play Chazente or he will start suit against the manager.

Thomashefsky informed Nathanson that the play was copyrighted and that he did not have his permission to produce the Yiddish piece. Nathanson stated that he paid the author $200 for it about three years ago so therefore thought he was entitled to use it.

Nathanson wired that he would turn the royalties over to the Yiddish Play-right League in New York, as has been his custom. If Thomashefsky would permit the manager to continue Chazente, but the author refused.

JOHN B. SEARLES MADE SUCCESSOR

Fills Position of Equity's Traveling Secretary Made Vacant by Death of George Trimble

New York, Feb. 28.—John B. Searles, who has been active counsel for the Actors' Equity Association for the past two years, has been appointed to fill the position of traveling secretary made vacant by the death of George Trimble last Monday.

Searles is the first man to hold a secretaryship that has not been appointed from the actor ranks. It was explained that thru his long experience handling legal matters for the association he had so qualified himself for the vacated position that the organization's authorities appointed him without further question.

The attorney is a young man who has enjoyed the acquaintance of good fortune rather than misfortune. He has handled numerous difficulties that have arisen both in legal and arbitrary channels. A search of the records of the association proves that his successes are far in advance of his losses and the latter only petty or minor situations.

Nobody has been appointed to succeed Searles as yet. William Glancy, the new secretary's assistant when he was in the legal department, has severed his connections with Equity and has gone into business for himself. He took leave of the association the first part of the week and will specialize in theatrical law in the Knickerbocker Building, Broadway and 42d street.

Revising "Miracle of Wolves" To Increase Box-Office Value

New York, March 2.—Criterion Theater audiences late this week will see a revised edition of The Miracle of the Wolves, produced in France by the Societe Francaise d'Editions de Romans Filmes and released thru Paramount. When the picture had its American premiere Monday evening, last week, the critics were unanimous in the opinion that the film needed cutting and other revision in order to give it pulling power at the box office.

Work of changing the film, which was 12 reels in length when it had its Broadway debut, is now nearing completion. After the cutting it will measure between eight and one-half and nine reels. Some of the too many minor characters will be eliminated and an effort made to concentrate the plot around the character of King Louis, thus making the picture easier for the audience to follow. The film will also have a set of new titles, the original ones having been treated unkindly by the reviewers. Possibly the impressive miracle scene will be placed at the end of the story rather than about three-quarters of the way thru.

Retired Actress Remembers Actors' Fund in Her Will

New York, March 1.—According to the will left by Eldora F. Goldthwaite, retired actress, when she died at the Brunswick Home, Amityville, L. I., in August, 1922, $10,000 of her estate with a year's interest goes to the Actors' Fund of America. This was revealed in Surrogate's Court yesterday when disposal of the estate was made. The remainder will go to the establishment of a life bed in a nonsectarian hospital for American-born actors and actresses, to be under the control of Actors' Order of Friendship and known as the Dora Goldthwaite Bed. The executive of the estate, Abbott Graves, is given $1,000 as commissions and costs and approximately $5,502.50 is charged to creditors and funeral expenses. Among gifts distributed is one to the Bide-a-Wee Home for Animals.

Win Sunday-Closing Fight

Bedford, a suburb of Detroit, handed a setback to the Sunday theater closing movement recently when its citizens voted three to one to keep their new Bedford Theater open on the Sabbath. Prior to the election a warm contest was staged between Rev. H. W. Kuhlman of the Bedford Methodist Church and Henry J. Steffens, councilman and owner of the Bedford theater. Steffens constructed the house at a cost of $150,000 and faced a huge loss provided Sunday closing was ordered.

Graduated Occupational Tax Bill Up in Texas

E. L. Covey, of Goree, Tex., Representative in the Texas Legislature, introduced at Austin last week an occupation tax bill on motion pictures, musical comedies and practically every form of amusement, to be graduated according to the size of the city or town where the shows are given. Theatrical, dramatic and musical comedy shows, motion picture shows, opera houses, theaters, tents and airdomes are all subject to this tax. The annual occupation tax is graduated as follows: Towns under 1,000, $5; 1,000 to 2,500, $25; 10,000 to 15,000, $30; 15,000 to 20,000, $40; 20,000 to 30,000, $50; 30,000 to 40,000, $60; 40,000 and over, $75. Counties, cities, towns and villages are authorized to impose a tax of one-half the amount of the State tax.

When a show moves from one town to another the occupation tax is to be collected for each move.

Fortune Gallo Sues Titta Ruffo

New York, Feb. 28.—Titta Ruffo, grand opera baritone, has been named defendant in a suit for $26,000 in connection with the singer's appearance in Havana, Cuba, in 1923, by Fortune Gallo, well-known manager and conductor of the San Carlo Opera Company.

The contract price agreed on previous to the baritone's sailing was $4,000 an appearance. This figure was arrived at, according to Gallo, upon the assertion of Ruffo that he had drawn as high as $20,000 and $21,000 to the box office for an appearance when last he sung in Havana.

Gallo asserts in his claim that he was forced to pay a fee of $1,000 to Robert E. Johnston, a concert manager, and $340 to Yvonne D'Arle. The singer would not go to the winter resort, it is alleged in the suit, unless Miss D'Arle accompanied him.

The legal action is brought to try and recover $20,000 for misrepresentation, $1,000 demanded for an extra appearance, the $1,000 paid Johnston, the $340 for Miss D'Arle and $150 miscellaneous expenses, declared Alfred Beckman, of the law firm House, Grossman & Vorhaus, attorneys for Gallo.

Mr. Beckman explained the situation in regard to payment of both Miss D'Arle and Johnston by saying that after contracts had been signed and money spent by Gallo in Havana to advertise Ruffo's appearance and book the opera house and many other details the baritone refused to go unless these two persons were paid.

The contract called for five appearances during the visit and that everything above $60,000 taken in at the box office would be split 50-50. Gallo informed his attorneys that he lost heavily on the venture.

Theatrical Guild Aiding Tragedian

New York, March 2.—The Jewish Theatrical Guild of America has taken up the case of Prof. M. W. Tester, a tragedian and teacher, who is suffering from injuries received in an accident in a theater recently and is unable to earn a living. Prof. Tester conducted a school for the drama for several years, but since the accident six months ago has exhausted his means. He received some aid from the Actors' Fund and the National Vaudeville Artists' Club.

The Jewish Theatrical Guild inquired into the circumstances of his case and is inclined to believe that he has a cause of action against the theater in which he was injured. It has therefore engaged counsel for Tester to prosecute a suit for damages and in the meantime is giving him financial aid.

More Debts Than Estate

New York, Feb. 28.—An appraisal of the State Tax Commission Wednesday revealed that George Randolph Chester, well-known short-story writer, author of several plays and creator of Get-Rich-Quick Wallingford, left a gross estate taxable in New York of $5,585 against which are debts and other deductions aggregating $23,399. The commission lists the deductions as follows: funeral expenses and administration, $3,887; debts, $19,323; commissions, $189.

Chester died a year ago Wednesday, leaving $25,000 life insurance. His widow, Mrs. Lillian E. Chester was named as the sole heir.

Three Badly Injured in Giant Racer Accident

New York, March 1.—An investigation by the District Attorney's office will be conducted, according to report, into the accident at Coney Island yesterday afternoon, which resulted in severe injuries to three persons when the Giant Racer, a reconstructed ride, which was being given a test preparatory to opening to the public today, became uncoupled and three cars lunged back down a steep incline. The injured, taken in an ambulance to Coney Island Hospital, where it is said they will recover, are: Samuel Freestone, manager of the railway; Samuel O'Brien and Gus Youngclaus.

The coaster, located at Surf avenue and West 10th street, had been closed for the summer. It was reconditioned last week and Freestone decided to give it a test. The train, consisting of five cars, broke as it reached the summit of a steep incline, two cars going forward, the remaining three rolling back until they crashed into heavy beams at the bottom. Shortly after the accident Joseph A. Guider, Boro President and Albert E. Kleinert, superintendent of buildings, were on the scene. It is reported that an investigation is being brought about following their cursory examination of the records, which showed that no permit from the building department had been obtained to test the coaster, nor had an application for such a permit been made, and that, also, no inspection had been made by the building department authorities of the structure and its equipment.

Many Columbia Burlesquers Going With Mutual Circuit

New York, Feb. 28.—As previously announced, conditions on the Columbia Circuit during the current season under Sam A. Scribner's management have caused much dissatisfaction among franchise-holding producing managers and their performers, with the result that several producing managers and many performers are not waiting for the close of the current season to plan for next season, but making overtures to I. H. Herk, president and general manager of the Mutual Circuit, to take them on for next season, some of the producers with franchise-holding producing rights and many performers to be featured.

In addition to those previously reported by the Mutual Burlesque Association are: Kitty Warren and Joe Lang, Sam Micals, Fred Binder and Al Golden.

Largest Individual Second Mortgage Ever Underwritten in Chicago Filed for Record

Chicago, Feb. 28.—Ascher Brothers yesterday purchased the half interest in the Roosevelt Theater held by the Metro-Goldwyn interests of New York. A second mortgage of $725,000 for three years at seven per cent was negotiated to make the purchase, it being the largest individual second mortgage ever underwritten in Chicago and is placed on the property of the Ascher Bros. Theater Corporation of Illinois. The junior mortgage covers all of the 16 Ascher properties and as additional security has a pledge of all the stock of the corporation.

The negotiation closes out a half interest held for six years. In 1919, when the Roosevelt Theater was erected, the Goldwyn Picture Corporation secured a half interest in the Ascher string of theaters for approximately $1,000,000. In connection with the deal a new Ascher Bros. corporation has been incorporated in the State of Illinois to take over the stock and to be headed by Nathan Ascher. Security for the loan covers fees of the Portage Park, West Englewood, Frolic and Columbus theaters of Ascher Bros., as well as a pledge of stock in the other theaters owned. It is understood that the above transaction absorbs the Goldwyn interest in all of the Ascher properties.

Havana Cop Censors "White Mice" Filming

Havana, March 1.—While the company filming White Mice for the Wilson & Wetherald Company was at work a police captain at the Havana Docks made objection to the way in which one scene was being "shot". The scene represented two young men in torn clothing and barefooted as being Havana porters in the act of carrying tourists' baggage. The police captain stated this would not be an exact representation of what takes place in Cuba and would misrepresent Cuban custom in regard to the treatment of visitors and demanded that several Cuban porters in their proper uniforms be used. After some discussion the director agreed to the demand and the work proceeded. White Mice is starring Jacqueline Logan.

Two Major Revues for Film Theater Same Week

Milwaukee, March 1.—Due to an irremediable conflict in booking dates two major revues will be presented at Saxe's Wisconsin Theater the week of March 14. Six months ago George Behan contracted to bring his large act in conjunction with his latest picture at the earliest possible date he could open a Saturday booking. Subsequently Ned Wayburn's Dance Revue, staged especially for the Midwest Theater Managers' Club, was booked for the same week. Behan sent word he would bring his act March 14. Efforts to postpone either engagement failed.

Los Angeles, Feb. 28.—Sponsored by Cosmic Productions Corporation, 12 screen stars are on a three months' transcontinental tour to boost Hollywood, Los Angeles and Cosmic. They are traveling on board a special train of Pullmans and visiting the larger cities in the country. The trip is being heralded widely by the press and radio.

In the evening a huge movie frolic and ball was staged, with entertainment numbers furnished by the stars. Similar programs are planned for all stops on the itinerary, which provides for visits to about 50 cities.

Harry Tighe is acting as master of ceremonies. The project is regarded as one of the biggest attempts ever made to bombard the North, South and East with advertisements of California. It has the backing of the Hollywood Chamber of Commerce, Los Angeles city officials and others.

The radio is offbeat as a national publicity purveyor for the tour. Nightly Station KFI, operated by The Los Angeles Examiner, is broadcasting stories concerning the daily activities of the party.

Injured Players Carry On

New York, Feb. 27.—A story of the bravery of players was brought to Broadway this week from Boston which fits in well with the best stage traditions. It concerns Leon Gordon and Annette Margulies, both of the Boston company of White Cargo, playing at the Selwyn Theater.

Gordon shook hands with George Duryea, who is a particularly strong individual, and giving him a limp arm and getting a particularly cordial grasp, discovered that his arm was useless. Doctors diagnosed it as a dislocated arm and a snapped ligament. A brace was fitted to the wounded member and Gordon continued playing at all performances without betraying that he was suffering exquisite agonies.

Miss Margulies threw her knee out of joint about the same time that Gordon received his injuries and she had to have it bound and unbund three times each performance in order to continue playing. At one time there were five doctors waiting in the wings to attend to the players in case they gave out.

Receipts From Tickets for Party Still Coming in for Sum for Cemetery Fund

Chicago, Feb. 28.—At last night's regular meeting of the Showmen's League of America, President Barnes in the chair, a report was read by Edward P. Neumann, chairman of tickets for the party given by the league February 18. Mr. Neumann outlined the items of expense incurred by his department and the total receipts up to yesterday, which showed a net profit for the league of $1,644.08. He added that money is still coming in daily and it was the impression that as much as $700 or $100 may yet come in, all of which goes to the league's Cemetery Fund.

"Boris Gudonov" Premiere

London, March 1 (Special Cable to The Billboard).—A hundred years after Pushkin wrote the historical drama Boris Gudonov, the piece was presented for the first time on any stage Friday by the dramatic society of Birmingham University.

The translation is by Alfred Hayes, president of the local Midland Institute, with Stuart Vinson as the producer. With 22 scenes and 35 speaking characters Boris Gudonov is a great task for the theater, which probably explains why the line drama has never previously been performed, even in Russia.

Granville Bantock, one of the most imaginative and impressive of English composers, who also is professor of music at Birmingham University, composed a special new prelude for the work which created considerable interest in literary and dramatic circles.

"Hippolytus" Staged In Aid of Hospital

London, March 1 (Special Cable to The Billboard).—At the Regent Theater this week Sybil Thorndike staged a special matinee of the Hippolytus of Euripides in aid of the funds of Guy's Hospital. Miss Thorndike herself played Phaedra and, owing to the illness of a member of the cast, also played Artemis, wherein she made a great success. Nicholas Hannin played the name part. With ingenious use of light and shade and eloquent gesture he gave a supremely dignified and splendid performance. Lewis Casson was admirable as the messenger. His production and use of a chorus was highly skilful and expressive.

"Smaragda's Lover" Smutty, Feeble Play

London, March 1 (Special Cable to The Billboard).—At the Court Theater last Saturday the 300 Club presented Smaragda's Lover, a very smutty, pseudo-profound piece by W. J. Turner. It is a mere waste of time by a competent cast and it is unlikely that the public will hear any more of the tedious imitation of wit this feeble piece offers.

Non Grata in Oklahoma

Society of Composers' Music Taboo—
Asked To Aid Complete Ban

Shawnee, Ok., Feb. 28.—With echoes heard of controversies in other sections of the country over the collection of music royalties, motion picture theater owners of Oklahoma have voted to exclude the music of the American Society of Composers' members from their theaters, and a letter is being sent to all authors and publishers affiliated with the society, requesting their co-operation in making the elimination complete. A. B. Monand, of Shawnee, president of the Oklahoma Motion Picture Theater Owners' Association, signed the ultimatum. A copy has been sent to The Billboard.

Mr. Monand's proclamation reads: "We wish to request that you immediately notify every member of your society to discontinue the practice of circularizing theater owners of this State, and discontinue sending professional or sample copies of their music to theater owners in this State, as the theater owners of Oklahoma do not desire to play the music of any of your members and do hereby call upon you for your co-operation to the extent that you lend every assistance to us that will aid us in bringing about an immediate elimination of the music of the members of your society."

Vivian Musical Stock Opens With "Going Up"

Toronto, Feb. 27.—The Vivian Musical Comedy Stock Company, under the direction of George Mylan, opened its season at the Regent Theater February 23 with Going Up. A very creditable first performance was given and a good-sized audience received the players with all the enthusiasm of a first night.

From the standpoint of an all-season company there are three promising spots in the personnel. They are Fern Rogers, the prima donna; Dan Marble, who played in the original Going Up, and Charles Simpson. The manner in which these three performed on the opening night would have done credit to a regular company. Effriede Wagner also seems to be well suited to play matronly parts and Billy McLeod, the youthful lead, will probably become a matinee idol in due course. The individual singers, apart from Miss Rogers, are none too strong, but the ensemble work looks promising.

"Katja the Dancer" Successfully Staged

London, March 1 (Special Cable to The Billboard).—Katja the Dancer was successfully presented Saturday at the Gaiety Theater following a lively provincial reception.

The musical comedy was chiefly remarkable for the brilliant performance of Gene Garrard, comedian, who scored heavily with his extraordinarily resourceful fun. Ivy Tresmand and Lillian Davies sustained the principal female roles highly satisfactorily. It seems destined for a long run.

SCRIBES' FROLIC NETS $605.50

$100 Each Goes to Actors' Fund and N. V. A.—Monthly Meeting Well Attended

The second annual frolic of the Stage and Screen Scribes, held at the Hotel Gibson Roof, Cincinnati, Wednesday night, February 4, netted a profit of $605.50. It was announced at the monthly meeting of the organization at the Hotel Gibson Friday night, February 27. The committee's report showed an attendance of 610, and figured at $5 a plate the receipts amounted to $3,050. The expenditures were $2,444.50.

A motion was made, seconded and passed, to donate $100 each to the Actors' Fund and N. V. A. Alvin Plough was elected to membership by acclamation.

The meeting was graced by the presence of a long-absent and very popular member, his absence having been due to business connections that kept him out of Cincinnati. He was no other than "Colonel" Sam M. Dawson, who occupied the chair as honorary president for the meeting, which was well attended, probably because of the "Colonel's" presence. Howard Thurston, the magician; Wallace Munro, agent of Ma Pettungill, and Clarence Hyde, agent of the Music Box Revue, were guests at the meeting and made brief talks.

Six Picture House Managers in Elizabeth, N. J., Indicted

New York, March 1.—An echo of the Sunday opening war in New Jersey, which began more than a year ago when the theater owners defied the blue laws and kept open house, came yesterday when managers of six motion picture houses in Elizabeth were indicted by the Union County Grand Jury on a charge of violating the vice and immorality act in exhibiting pictures on the Sabbath.

The men indicted are: Raymond Cannon, of the Fox Liberty Theater; Henry P. Nelson, of the Capitol Theater; William O'Day, of Proctor's Theater; William B. Stein, of the Regent Theater; and Sariteros Cocalis, of the Strand and Royal theaters. They were directed by County Judge Alfred J. Stein to plead tomorrow, to indictments returned against them by the January Grand Jury.

It is understood their plea will be not guilty.

As spokesman for the group, Connor told newspaper men that they were going to fight the issue to a finish, defying a fine until all violators of so-called archaic blue laws of New Jersey had been similarly indicted. This was the stand taken by Jersey City theater owners when complaints were made to the Hudson County Grand Jury following their opening on Sunday despite the law, which resulted in wholesale arrests of druggists, bootblacks and others, closing up the courts.

Each term of the Hudson County Grand Jury since the inception of cases a year ago January has failed to return indictments, and the amusement places are continuing to operate seven days a week.

A bill legalizing Sunday shows in municipalities by popular vote, which lost out in the legislature last year by a few votes, was reintroduced at the present session by its sponsor, Assemblywoman May Carthy, and indications point to its passage.

Sloane, but owing to Dr. Butler's recent operation Prof. Brander Matthews, director of the Academy and former chancellor, took his place. Mr. Hampden responded with a brief address.

Chicago, March 2.—Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick and Al H. Woods have agreed upon plans for a new theater to cost about $1,000,000 and to be built on the west side of the Lake Shore drive across from the Drake Hotel, according to an announcement made today and believed to be authoritative. It is said that the venture will be financed by Mrs. McCormick and will be under the management of Mr. Woods. It is believed the project grew out of Mrs. McCormick's desire to build a civic theater for the presentation of the higher types of plays and that it was decided to incorporate such an institution with a theater for commercial use.

It was learned that Mr. Woods spent three days here last week and that he had several conferences with Mrs. McCormick. It is claimed no lease has been obtained as yet, but as Mrs. McCormick owns extensive parcels of real estate in the aforementioned neighborhood this is not surprising to showmen. It is further reported that arrangements between Mr. Woods and Mrs. McCormick have reached a stage where Lionel Barrymore and Lowell Sherman, both Woods stars, will give plays from an extensive repertoire if the project goes thru as planned; also that a stock company, headed possibly by Margaret Anglin, will have a season under Mrs. McCormick's auspices.

Mr. Woods has been pointed out by showmen for years as the most intrepid manager in the business when it comes to Chicago theater investments. He has also said he believes in Chicago as a theatrical center and has backed his opinion several times with a lot of good money. It is also said he has made big profits out of his Chicago operations.

Theater Tickets Sold On Pennsylvania Trains

New York, March 2.—Theater tickets for New York shows are now being sold on Pennsylvania trains by representatives of the Equity Theater Ticket Service. Maeterlinck Receives $40,000 In Goldwyn Suit Settlement

Paris, Feb. 25.—Dudley Field Malone, attorney for Maurice Maeterlinck, Belgian author, today announced that his client has accepted an amicable settlement of his suit against the Goldwyn Motion Pictures Company. The differences were adjusted by payment of $40,000 to the author, who sued for a breach of contract.

The suit arose out of a visit Maeterlinck paid to the United States in 1920. Goldwyn signed a contract with him to produce a number of his novels and to accept certain stories which the author is said to have agreed to write with special view of adaptation for the films. Goldwyn later refused to carry out its part of the contract, according to Maeterlinck.

THEATRICAL REAL ESTATE TRADING UNUSUALLY BRISK IN NEW YORK

Property and Leases Thruout City Change Hands During Week of Activity---Small Vaudeville and Movie Houses Mostly Affected

NEW YORK, March 2.—The past week was one of the most active of the fiscal year in theatrical real estate dealings. Several new sites for theaters intended for motion pictures and vaudeville policies, and combinations of both, were announced, and a few theaters exchanged hands, as did property of other kind owned by theatrical people.

Among the various deals consummated was the leasing of the property formerly known as Reisenweber's to David Weinstock by the St. Regis Restaurant, Inc., who will build a high-class motion picture theater after tearing down the present building. Weinstock recently acquired a motion picture theater at 993 Third avenue, this city.

Strausberg & Small, who control a chain of 30 theaters thruout Brooklyn and Queens, purchased a plot at Roosevelt avenue and Junction boulevard, Queens, L. I., on which they will erect a vaudeville and motion picture theater.

The Melster Builders, Inc. leased the corner at Stebbins avenue and Boston road, in the Bronx, on which it will erect a 1,700-seat motion picture theater. The total rental under the lease approximates about $1,000,000. It has been leased for 20 years.

Another Bronx deal was the purchase of the property at 180th street and Bryant avenue, containing 15 stores and a motion picture theater, by the Benenson Realty Company from the S. & L. Building Corporation. The property was held at $425,000.

The Star Casino Theater, playing independent vaudeville, was sold to Aaron Schiffman by the Peter A. H. Jackson Estate. Schiffman gets the house for 21 years from March 1, 1925, for $9,000 net a year.

A motion picture theater is to be built at 993 Third avenue by the Cadillac Theaters' Company, which purchased the property from Tancoos, Smith & Co. The property is at the northeast corner of 59th street and Third avenue. The house will seat 2,000, and the transaction involved $200,000.

The two-story motion picture theater owned by Max D. Steur, theatrical attorney, at 139 to 145 Housen street, was sold by him to Samuel Augenlick. This was held at $150,000.

Cyril Scott, the actor, sold his waterfront home at Bayside, L. I., to Willis H. Taylor, Jr., of Flushing, L. I., at a reported price of $60,000. The property consists of two acres, a ten-room house and a garage for four cars.

New York, Feb. 28.—The lease of the West End Theater cinema house, at 125th street and St. Nicholas avenue, has been sold to Louis I. Harris by Bernard K. Blumberg, both owners of a string of picture houses uptown. The price is $30,000 net, and the new lease is to run until 1939.

Harris is going to tear out the front of the theater and put two stores in. The interior of the house will be decorated and the seating arrangement changed so that the capacity will be increased.

The theater is owned by Joe Weber, of the famous team Weber and Fields. He has given his consent to the new tenant, having signed the agreement.

Harris discussed with his attorney, Alfred Beekman, of House, Grossman & Vorhaus, the advisability of adding vaudeville to the regular program. Harris hasn't decided the matter completely, but is investigating costs, etc., for the change.

George Leonard Retires

New York, March 2.—George Leonard, the old "rou" character actor, has been compelled to retire from the cast of a new musical comedy owing to a recurrence of injuries he received in an automobile accident last year. Leonard thought he had recovered sufficiently to resume work, but found that the ligaments in his legs were still too strained to permit his dancing or doing other strenuous work his role called for.

United Artists Get Hart

New York, Feb. 28.—Publicity Director Moyer of United Artists today announced that William S. Hart has signed a contract with the organization he represents, having received word to this effect from Joseph M. Schenck, general manager of the company. As yet he states that other information concerning the deal or Hart's program is not available. However, it is known that the Western star, in returning to the screen, will make his pictures at Hollywood.

"Charlot Revue's" 500th

Chicago, Feb. 28.—Charlotte's Revue, which closed its Chicago run at the Garrick today, reached the 500th performance of the present edition Thursday. The show opened in New York on January 5, 1924. This is something of a record for an English revue over here.

Bostonese Leave Theaters As Mother Earth Shakes

Several Women Faint in Hasty Exit From Back Bay Movie—No One Hurt

Boston, March 2.—The earthquake last night was worst here. The Harvard seismograph was shattered and many buildings were severely shaken. Back Bay experienced a near panic at the Exeter, a movie theater. Despite the fact that the audience rushed pell-mell to the street, with several women fainting, no one was hurt. Audiences of the Hollis, Majestic, Regent, Orpheum and other theaters were temporarily in an uproar, but action of ushers and other theater attaches averted disaster.

Rehearse Congreve Play

New York, Feb. 27.—The Provincetown Playhouse group has put Love for Love into rehearsal and will present it at the Greenwich Village Theater on March 25. This play is by William Congreve and no production of it has been made in this country for nearly a century. The cast will be made up of players now appearing in Patience and Desire Under the Elms. Stanley Howlett and Robert Edmond Jones will stage the play.

Mr. Exhibitor: When you have a real story why not send it to the Motion Picture editor of The Billboard, 1493 Broadway, New York City?

Joe Laurie Is Manager

New York, March 2.—Joe Laurie, Jr., star of Plain Jane, which is playing Brooklyn this week, has become a manager, having taken over that show by arrangement with Walter Brooks, who produced it originally and owned it.

Burlesque for Honolulu

"MOONLIGHT" CREW SHINES ON

I wish the managers would stop producing bad shows in the hope that they will turn out to be Abie's Irish Roses. Lightning does not strike often enough in the same place twice, nor do ugly ducklings turn into swans with enough frequency to warrant that.

There was once a time when a bad play was just a bad play, and the manager who received it threw it on top of the desk with the other bad plays. Nowadays the manager reads it thru at least twice and if it is downright terrible, figures he has another Abie's Irish Rose and rushes it into production. But after all a play has to be something else besides bad to be another Abie. This is one case where a rose by any other name does not smell as sweet.

Which brings us to Two by Two, a pretty terrible play which I fear was produced by Jessy Trimble in the belief that Abie's little sister, at least, was in his possession. Since rumor has it that he is the John Turner mentioned as one of the authors, perhaps he was swayed by this circumstance also. But whether or no, its production is simply additional evidence that the chain of reasoning: Abie's Irish Rose is a bad play; therefore, all bad plays are Abie's Irish Roses, is a howling non sequitur.

Two by Two is a comedy of mistaken identity about a mother and daughter who mix up their fiancés. A woeful attempt at comedy is made by lugging in scenes in a marriage license bureau. It is so bald and so full of hokum that it would not pass muster on a small-time vaudeville circuit. The play, as a whole, bears too little resemblance to actuality to be a comedy and is not ludicrous enough to be a farce. It is just a bad play.

The evening is saved from total loss by one sterling performance. This act of salvage is the work of Howard Lindsay, who is as accomplished a light-comedy player as I have seen in many a

COLLEGE MUSICIANS OUSTED FROM PIT

Public Disapproves Action of A. F. of M. Agent at Worcester, Mass., During Student Play

Worcester, Mass., Feb. 28.—Once again Walter Hazelhurst, business agent of the American Federation of Musicians' local here, is the center of a storm arising out of the Worcester Theater being rented to one of the many colleges in New England. He is the target for many shifts of public disapproval.

The Dramatic Society of Holy Cross College hired the theater for its presentation recently of Shakespeare's Richard the III, having an understanding with Manager Shea that the production would be "100 per cent college", with Holy Cross students as actors, stage hands, musicians and ushers. The contract drawn up stipulated that the college would pay the regular wages of all the theater employees, even tho they took no actual part in the work, this being quite agreeable to Rev. Daniel H. Sullivan, S. J., moderator of the dramatic society.

On the evening of the production all employees except the musicians gave way to the students as agreed, including the stage hands, who are also unionized. The members of the theater orchestra were quite willing to give up their places, but Hazelhurst insisted that they would have to stay, so the members of the college orchestra took seats in the first few rows of the house. It was intimated to Fr. Sullivan that the musicians would like to be excused from what was proving to be an embarrassing position in the pit, but the business agent made them keep their seats. To their credit it must be said that the musicians themselves displayed good sportsmanship and at times applauded the actors.

Hazelhurst when approached declined to make any statement other than to say that he was seeing that the contract between the theater and the union was observed. He had previously stated to Fr. Sullivan that, in accordance with this contract, only union musicians would be allowed to occupy the pit, and since the members of the college orchestra are not members of the union, they could not play in the pit.

Three years ago the Dartmouth College Dramatic Club had a similar experience with Hazelhurst during one of its productions at the theater.

"Starlight" Has Premiere

Atlantic City, N. J., Feb. 27.—A curious mixture of good and bad, of excellent comedy and stark realism holds forth in Starlight, which is playing at the Apollo Theater before its engagement on Broadway.

Gladys Unger wrote the comedy, a French concoction. The players are talented, the staging is frequently exquisite, but the story is more or less crude in its present form.

Junior League Revue

New Orleans, Feb. 27.—Under the direction of George Miles, of the John B. Rogers Production Company, the Junior League of New Orleans will present a revue at Jerusalem Temple March 20 and 21. The Junior League was organized by Mrs. Billiard Miller two years ago and numbers in its membership young society women. The cast will include 80 local members, aside from outside talent.

Chester Hale Goes Abroad

New York, Feb. 28.—Chester Hale, who staged the ballets for Hassard Short's Ritz Revue and also appeared as a principal dancer in the show, has sailed for Paris to resume his studies under Enrico Cecchetti, the famous Italian dancing teacher. In the spring Hale will be a guest star at the Diaghileff Carnival of Dancing at Monte Carlo.

In a rotten part, by dint of sheer knowing how, Mr. Lindsay delivered a continuously meritorious rendition of his character.

Charlotte Walker also gave an excellent account of herself and Minette Buddecke was very good. Beatrice Herford was badly cast in a small role and Lawrence D'Orsay did all that could be done with a stereotyped role, the sort of impossible Englishman he is generally set to playing. The balance of the cast doubtless did as well as they could with the poor roles put at their disposal.

I do not think Two by Two has much of a chance. It will not have much facination for the sophisticated playgoer. I am sure, tho, that it will please those folks who purchase caramels during the intermission and devour them thru the play. A pair of such worthies sat behind me, shucking and glomming such dainties after the first act and they had a perfectly lovely time.

A labored comedy; generally well played. GORDON WHITE.

ART THEATER FOR CHICAGO

Kenneth Sawyer Goodman Memorial in Grant Park Will Employ Many New Features

Chicago, Feb. 28.—In Grant Park, just a little back of the Art Institute, a theater is nearing completion which will embody a number of features that producers have thought about in their spare moments. It is the Kenneth Sawyer Goodman Memorial Theater and is being built out of a fund of $350,000 given for that purpose by Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Goodman, of Chicago. It is their wish that the theater be a memorial dedicated to the memory of their son, Kenneth Sawyer Goodman, playwright and poet, who died while in the navy during the World War.

The Goodman Theater is novel in construction, like the Criterion Theater of London, in being built almost wholly below the street level. It is almost finished and stands at the corner of Monroe street and the outer drive in Grant Park. In this theater drama will never be restrained by financial pressure. The theater is a part of the School of Drama of the Art Institute. Thomas Wood Stevens is director of the drama department of the institute. He was for 10 years director of the Art Theater of the Carnegie Institute of Technology at Pittsburgh.

Mr. Stevens formed a dramatic company January 1 and it has been in training ever since. The company will open the new theater about May 1. In the meantime the players are using Fullerton Hall for their presentations. Mr. Stevens said there will be one company of professional artists who will teach at the school and perform in repertoire plays. These actors will have a high standing in their profession and dramatic productions will be presented of the highest quality and merit. There will be a second company made up of students at the Art Institute school of drama. These student players will number about 20. They will be selected by competitive examination and will take a three-year course.

Howard Southgate, playwright and director, late of New York, will become first assistant to Mr. Stevens. Helen Forrest will be chief costume designer. She was formerly a player with David Belasco. Arvid Crandall will instruct in the school on electric light effects for the stage and act as chief stage electrician in the new theater.

The Goodman Theater is to have several striking architectural features. It is planned to be the safest theater in Chicago. The stage is immense—160 feet across. All stage settings will be done by platform sets. There is to be a skydome above the stage. This dome will be arched elliptically to conform to the spread of the light from reflectors in a pit below the stage at the rear. The stage will be lighted from a bridge above the proscenium with soft-edge spotlights lately developed for the theater and working in the "teaser" space. From another bridge across the ceiling of the auditorium floods of light may be thrown across the stage, making light effects heretofore impracticable. The auditorium proper will have 700 seats. This number may be increased by several rows of seats in a small balcony. A large foyer just outside the auditorium is intended to be the artistic center of the theater. Decorations, sculpture and paintings will make the foyer a proper expression of the theater.

Because of a building restriction that prohibits any structure in Grant Park from exceeding a specified height the floor of the stage, which is about on a level with the foyer, is 25 feet below the ground level.

The drama school of the Art Institute will be connected with the University of Chicago, according to present plans. The latter institution will give the academic instruction required by the course in drama for students of the Art Institute. This interlocking arrangement is yet to be worked out in its entirety. The full drama course will include acting, designing of costumes and scenery, playwrighting, stage carpentry work, stage lighting and other subjects of a practical nature. There will be an exhibition room in the theater for the showing of scenic and costume designs, which will be a unit of the usual art exhibits of the institute. There will be a large rehearsal room and a round-table room for the reading of new plays. A studio 78 feet long will adjoin the auditorium for the construction of scenes and costumes for productions.

Mrs. Ruby Reed, Notice!

The Billboard has been advised that the mother of Ruby Regina Reed (Mrs. Ed Kait) is very ill in Red Fork, Ok., and wishes her daughter to return home or write. Should this come to the attention of Miss Reed, or of anyone knowing her address, they are requested to communicate with Ruby L. Montgomery, Box 38, Red Fork, Ok.

E. B. Schneider, owner of the Gem Theater, Thordale, Tex., has purchased the Empire Theater in that town and will operate both.

A glance at the Hotel Directory in this issue may save considerable time and inconvenience.

One on "The World"

New York, Feb. 28.—The New York World, which has been very active the last few weeks in the agitation for the cleansing of the stage, and which claimed credit for bringing about the action that led to the revival of the citizens' play jury, was taken to task last Saturday by The Tablet, a weekly newspaper published by the Roman Catholic Diocese of Brooklyn.

The Tablet stated that while the editors and editorial writers on The World attacked obscene shows, two column conductors on the same paper defended the productions and the advertising manager accepted the advertising of the objectionable shows. The Catholic publication also declared that The World's editorial writer made a distinction between "artistic" and "gutter" profanity, favoring the first and opposing the latter.

Patrick F. Scanlan, managing editor of The Tablet, sent a long open letter to The World asking just where that paper stood and criticizing it for its double position, and The Tablet claimed that The World refused to print the letter.

Prepare for Actors' Show

Chicago, Feb. 28.—Harry J. Riddings, president of the Chicago Theatrical Managers' Association, is busy on the extensive plans for the Actors' Fund Benefit which will be held in the Auditorium Friday afternoon, March 20. Mr. Riddings is inseparably connected with the Chicago performances of the Actors' Fund Benefit each year and the success of the annual show is due in great measure to his fine executive ability and ripe showmanship. Mr. Riddings has two very able coworkers in Frank A. P. Gazzolo, manager of the Studebaker and who is also secretary-treasurer of the association, and Harry J. Powers. Owing to the exceptional array of talent in the Loop theaters this winter it is expected that the bill at the benefit will outshine any previous occasion of the kind.

New Little Theater Group

Chicago, Feb. 28.—The newest little theater organization here is the Temple Players, organized by Dr. Sheppard Remington, of Temple Judea. A program recently given by the players aroused much interest in the Lawndale district. Basil Crystal, a Balaban & Katz organist, is assisting the amateur actors in staging their productions. Two Crooks and a Lady, by Eugene Pliott, and Chekov's Marriage Proposal will be staged soon.

Stage Manager Hit by Man He Befriended

New Orleans, Feb. 27.—Joseph Galton, 47, stage manager of The Passing Show, playing the Tulane Theater this week, is in Charity Hospital suffering from a fractured skull and other serious wounds inflicted when he was struck by a panhandler, to whom he had just given a quarter. The assailant has not been captured.

Dallas Okehs "White Cargo"

Dallas, Tex., March 1.—The Board of Appeals of the Dallas censorship committee has reversed the decision of Mrs. Ethel Boyce, censor, who ruled that White Cargo be rejected after the first performance. Mrs. Boyce charged the play was "too dominant with its sex scheme, excessive profanity and offensive racial allusions." In view of the decision of the Board of Appeals the company will be allowed to play out its schedule in this city.

Radio Soothes Nome

San Francisco, March 1.—Letters brought to Seattle by dog team and steamer from the diphtheria-stricken populace of Nome conveyed appreciation for music broadcast by Eddie Harkness and his shiproom orchestra at the Olympia Hotel. The former San Francisco leader was unaware his dance programs were penetrating a district where a battle of life and death was in progress.

Flowers for Choristers

Milwaukee, Feb. 28.—The Florists' Association staged its annual theater party Washington's Birthday at the Davidson and presented each chorus girl in the Greenwich Village Follies with a costly bouquet of flowers, worn thruout the show. All Milwaukee theaters did an extraordinary holiday business Monday.

Rehearse "The Dunce Boy"

New York, Feb. 27.—Rehearsals of The Dunce Boy, Lulu Vollmer's new play, have begun. The production is to be the next offering of the Art Theater at the Punch and Judy and will take place about the middle of March. Renita Randolph and Eric Jewett have been engaged to appear in the play.

14 PRODUCTIONS FOR PLAY JURY

Four Dramas and 10 Musical Comedies Listed for Inspection---"Ladies of Evening" First

New York, March 2.—Four dramatic pieces and 10 musical comedies are listed for inspection by the Citizens' Play Jury, with Ladies of the Evening instead of Desire Under the Elms heading the list, according to Owen Davis, chairman of the Committee Opposed to Political Censorship, who has been requested to supply the police commissioner with 150 more names of volunteer jurors for the panel which will be used in drawing 12 jurors who will pass upon alleged indecent plays.

As the producers of plays to be passed on have the right to reject any three jurors by challenge, there may be further delay before all is set for the jury to begin work.

The district attorney today will map out the details of the play-jury system at a conference with the police commissioner. He also will receive reports from two of his assistants who were sent to act as censors on Ladies of the Evening and The Harlem. David Belasco last week rewrote these plays to meet the views of the district attorney and revised versions were viewed by the latter's representatives. If their reports indicate that the productions have not been sufficiently purified the play jury may be sent to pass on them.

Both organizations of managers have agreed to adopt the play-jury system and abide by it.

In the event it is up to Equity to call upon the members of a company to quit if the producer doesn't bow to the play jury's decision, or in the contingency that the producer decides to continue a production in some way, it is up to the district attorney and police commissioner to close it.

Theater Apologizes Thru Ads For Misleading Fox Publicity

Providence, R. I., Feb. 28.—A sample of the wrong kind of press book which gets an exhibitor in bad as well as misleads his patrons was revealed here recently. Local newspapers carried an advertisement of the Emery Theater, which plays pictures and vaudeville, reading as follows:

"Recently we advertised in the Providence newspapers 'A Flaming Story of the Blazing West.' We further stated: 'See Buffalo Bill in his most thrilling fights with the Indians. See Custer's last fight with all its excitement and tragedy. See Kit Carson pave the way that opened the great Wild West.'"

"We later discovered that: 1—Buffalo Bill did not appear in the picture. 2—There were no Indian fights. 3—Kit Carson did not appear."

"We regret that these errors appeared in our advertisement. The incorrect statements were taken from the so-called 'press book' or campaign book of The Last of the Danes, which was delivered to us thru the Boston office of the Fox Film Corporation and which we believed to be reliable."

"To prevent further incorrect advertising of this picture we have taken the matter up with the proper authorities and are taking this means of expressing to the patrons of this theater our regret that these misstatements appeared over our name."

D'Arcy's 82d Birthday

New York, March 2.—Hugh A. D'Arcy, author of The Face Upon the Floor, will celebrate his 82d birthday. For upwards of 60 years D'Arcy has given service to theatrical and literary art, has written more than 25 plays and sketches, also scores of stories, poems, epics and tales of theatrical life. His best known poem has been translated into several languages and has been told in music halls, cabarets and homes all over the world for years.

D'Arcy is a life member of the Elks, also a member of four or five theatrical clubs and organizations. Doubtless his birthday will be remembered by his many friends. Congratulations may be sent to the Hotel America, Broadway and 47th street; the Elks' Club or Green Room Club of New York City.

Ben Roberts Joins "Bat"

Joplin, Mo., Feb. 28.—Ben Roberts, for two seasons a member of one of the Wagenhals & Kemper companies playing The Bat, arrived here from New York this week to join the company that is playing thru this section and which will go into the Central Theater, Chicago, March 23 for an indefinite engagement. Roberts will play the part of The Unknown.

Glenn and Ferri Thompson will rebuild their theater at Wilson, Ok., which was destroyed by fire recently.

Prof. Sousa "Touched" for $350 in Havana

Havana, March 1.—John Philip Sousa, has returned to New York after enjoying his visit to Havana. However, one of the Havana sleight-of-hand brethren touched the marching for his pocketbook and the following humorous letter from him appears in a local newspaper: "My wife, daughters and I, have just returned from a trip to Cuba, embracing everything from Havana to Santiago and back again, and thoroughly enjoyed each day we were in the Queen of the Antilles. Will you, as no doubt you are read by both the just and unjust, convey thru this letter to the light-fingered gentry that skillfully abstracted somewhere between $350 and $100 from my pocket, that I will feel under obligation if he will return the keys found in my pocketbook to my office, 1451 Broadway, New York. If he will, secondly, give himself up to the Cuban authorities, give them the money he robbed me of and then commit harikari, all will be forgiven. In the meanwhile loving Cuba and mourning the loss of my cash, believe me, very sincerely, JOHN PHILIP SOUSA."

V. M. P. A. TO CLEAN UP PRODUCERS WHO "GYP" OUT-OF-TOWN ANGELS

Specific Instance of Clergyman Who Wrote Act and Advanced Money for Production Precipitates Action Against Unscrupulous

NEW YORK, March 2.—Following instances of unscrupulous methods on the part of persons who represent themselves as producers and gouge the unwary actor or writer, complaints on which have been filed with the Vaudeville Managers' Protective Association, this organization is out to clean them up in as short order as possible.

Pat Casey made this declaration after a flagrant case had been brought to his attention in which a vaudeville author, unaccustomed to the ways of the game, had turned over several hundred dollars to a small producer who contracted to produce an act from his pen.

"There is any number of these vultures around Times Square, and we are going after them," Mr. Casey stated. "I want every complaint and bit of evidence against them that I can get, and we'll put them out of business."

It is the small, unreliable producer, or those who represent themselves as such, who are harming the vaudeville business by their methods, and instead of trying to attach some blame to the more or less reputable producers, it is high time the source of the evil be attacked, the V. M. P. A. head declared.

He said that numerous complaints have come to him of late in which an actor, writer or other persons have been "taken pretty" thru every hook and crook known to the multibers using the vaudeville business as their ground of operation.

The case thought to have precipitated the clean-up move is one in which an out-of-town author advanced money in excess of $500 toward the production of his sketch, this money to be used in purchasing scenery, costumes and other items necessary in properly launching the act.

The money was sent to a producer occupying small offices in the Times Square district who, it is alleged, assured the author his playlet would be an immense hit. The producer was to arrange everything, get the scenery and costumes, cast the playlet, secure bookings, etc.

When after several weeks had elapsed and the opening of the act was continuously postponed the author came to New York to investigate, and it was found that merely a deposit had been paid on both the scenery and costumes, and that while a cast had been secured no effort apparently was being made to obtain a showing for the act.

A run in between the author and producer followed, with the former alleging that his money had been appropriated for the personal use of the producer in question instead of for the act. This led to various complaints, one going to the V. M. P. A. and another to the N. V. A. Before they could be acted on the author had secured the services of a lawyer here, and the producer made an assignment of royalties from another act working for him by which this act was directed to pay $30 weekly to the author until the money had been paid. The complaint to the N. V. A. resulted, it is understood, in denial to the producer at fault of that club's contesies.

The amount to be paid off by the producer is, according to apparently authentic information, $228.68. Of this amount $30 is said to represent a personal loan.

After the controversy over the money advanced the author took his act out of the producer's hands and obtained a showing at one of the proctor houses. There a Keith agent and bookers witnessed it, reporting that it did not have the slightest chance, and that the producer to whom it was originally taken would have known this were he what he claimed himself to be.

This report to the author was a blow to the artist appearing in the act, since they had spent weeks rehearsing and waiting for a showing, relying on their producer that the vehicle would be a hit.

Levey Circuit Arranges With R. R.

New York, March 2.—Following the decision by the Bert Levey Circuit to issue full-trip tickets to acts booked for a tour of its theaters, negotiations have been opened with several Western railroad companies to handle the business, it was learned this week.

Among the roads bidding for Levey's business are the Rock Island and Southern Pacific. Both touch many of the towns on the Levey Circuit, the former probably covering it more thoroly than the Southern Pacific.

The ticket to be issued by the Levey Circuit, covering the entire time, will cost $134.20. It will take the artists from Omaha, Neb., the first stop of the circuit, back to Chicago, where it ends, and is reported to be a saving to them of about $75.

In paying for the fare the artists will have deducted from their salaries 20 per cent at five different points instead of having it deducted, as in the past, during their engagements at Los Angeles and San Francisco.

Performing Animals Bill Likely To Pass

London, Feb. 28 (Special Cable to The Billboard).—The second reading of the Performing Animals Bill went to the House of Commons unopposed February 24, and there is every possibility of it becoming a law this year. Now that this question has been settled by agreement the extremists and the Performing and Captive Animals Defense League are urging the government to forbid the exhibition of films here wherein animals are made to perform stunts and like effects. This is directly aimed at American films.

The Bergen Beach Estate consists of 2,200 lots, forming a long peninsula with a mile and half frontage along Jamaica Bay. For many summers it has been a well-known amusement resort.

The employment of a large force of legal help was made necessary for the transaction owing to the complicated affairs of the estate. John H. Ward was the broker who negotiated the deal. MORE FILM HOUSES PUTTING IN ACTS AS OPPOSITION TO VAUDE.

Nation-Wide Circuit of Motion Picture Theaters Giving Added Attractions 30 to 40 Weeks of Consecutive Booking May Be Outcome

NEW YORK, March 2.—The increased number of vaudeville and musical comedians who are accepting engagements in motion picture theaters as added attractions at salaries frequently in excess of those paid by vaudeville houses indicates that the vaudeville industry is in for serious competition from this source. Motion picture houses which heretofore have confined the elaboration of their programs to slight diversissements only, in conjunction with their films, are now playing and seeking well-known vaudeville stars as added attractions.

The Fox Film Corporation has been experimenting for the past few weeks in its Philadelphia house with high-salaried artists. Last week Grace La Rue appeared at the house as an added attraction at a reported salary of $2,500. It is said that Miss La Rue has picture contracts for similar engagements at this salary in other houses and that her tour will consume about 30 weeks.

This week the Fox house in the Quaker City is playing Tom Burke, tenor, and the Ten English Rocketts. These acts are not booked by the vaudeville office of the Fox firm, which is under the direction of Jack Loeb and Edgar Allan, but from the office of John Zanft, general manager of the Fox Film Corporation.

This policy is to be continued for an indefinite period at the Philadelphia house. Within a few weeks it is expected that the Fox film people will inject similar attractions in their other theaters now playing films only, such as the Japanese Gardens and the Academy of Music here, their Newark house and other Fox houses thru-out the country, which extend as far west as Denver, Col.

It is believed that a trap will be effected between the Fox people and other motion picture exhibitors controlling chains of theaters playing films only whereby they will be in a position to offer these extra attractions consecutive bookings ranging from 30 to 40 weeks and stretching from here to the Coast. Low houses such as the Alpine, Pittsburgh, Pa., and others in the Middle West also are booking similar attractions.

The increase in vaudeville theaters thru-out the country which have added pictures to their vaudeville programs, making for a more varied form of entertainment, is thought to have brought about this move. It is whispered in vaudeville circles that future years may see the leading motion picture chains classed as strict opposition by the standard vaudeville circuits.

Auto Not To Blame

Chicago, Feb. 28.—Edith Ellotte has written The Billboard as follows: "I have a trained dog that I show from my motor car, which is my summer and winter home. It is a custom, parade-body truck in which I drive on dangerous ground, detours and slippery roads. I have never before had an accident, but on my way from Florida a fortnight ago I stepped from my car, fell and was picked up and taken to a hospital. An X-ray photo revealed three fractured ribs. That's one time an automobile was innocent. Hope to be back on the road when the season opens." Miss Ellotte's letter was dated at Grand Rapids, Mich.

Inmates of State Prison Stage Vaudeville Show

Trenton, N. J., Feb. 28.—On February 23, in the Auditorium of the New Jersey State Prison, the inmates held an old-fashioned free-for-all vaudeville show, every participant, musician and entertainer an inmate. It was a great time for all, plenty of laughter and fun, and the show seemed to meet the approval of everyone.

A jazz band, magical tricks, singers, a boxing match and a dramatic sketch entered into the program, supervised and managed by the Welfare Department.

Richard D. La Guardia, acting director of the Educational and Welfare Department, received hearty applause in response to the congratulatory address by the vaudeville master of ceremonies, but Mr. La Guardia wanted all to know the greatest factor of his success with the Educational and Welfare Department was the co-operation of Joseph S. Hoff, warden, and the keepers.

E. Rona, Jack Mills Music Publishers, M. Witmark & Sons, Harry Von Tilzer and Clarke & Leslie Music Co.

Pantages Complains Against Jack Wilson

V. M. P. A. Squawk Alleges Comedian Does Not Intend To Fulfill Contract

New York, March 2.—Alleging his actions indicate that he is not and does not intend living up to his contract, calling for at least 30 weeks' work, the Pantages Circuit has filed complaint with the Vaudeville Managers' Protective Association against Jack Wilson, vaudeville headliner, who it claims caused the postponement of his opening on the pretext of illness and the order of his doctor that he remain in New York.

The case will be heard this week and a decision, it is expected, will be rendered promptly.

According to Ed G. Milne, of the local Pantages office, Wilson, whose act is billed "Jack Wilson and Company", was signed for a tour of the circuit with the usual guarantee of 14 weeks. The act was set for opening in Toronto February 7.

When this date approached, Milne stated, they were notified that Wilson had suffered a collapse while playing an engagement near New York and would not be able to open as scheduled. After several days it was discovered, however, according to Milne, that Wilson was playing a few Fox dates around New York and therefore was recovered sufficiently to open for them. Consequently an opening date was arranged for the Pantages house in Newark. When apprised of this change Wilson, it is alleged, declared he would not be able to play the route because his doctor's orders were that he would have to stay around New York for treatment.

Investigation, it is claimed, revealed that Wilson played Wilkes-Barre and Scranton, Pa., last week for the Amalgamated Agency in spite of his alleged protest that he had to remain in New York and that also had signed a contract with the Low Circuit.

In complaining to the V. M. P. A., from which it seeks redress, the Pantages Circuit asks that Wilson be compelled to fulfill the terms of his contract with it, according to the "pay or play" clause.

Muriel Hudson, late member of the cast of Hi Son She Is, and formerly of the Ziegfeld Follies chorus, will act as hostess. Delphine Dawn, formerly at the Club Moritz; Nana May, a recent arrival from Canada, where she did cabaret work; Virginia Green and Mabel Clifford are the other girl attractions.

The place will have Lew Dorn and His Babina Orchestra to supply the music. The band, composed of six members, just completed an engagement at Bill Cook's Inn, Yonkers, N. Y.

The place is going to try out a low covert charge of $1.50 after the supper hour. It will open at 6 p. m. and operate until the early hours of the morning. This Week's Reviews of Vaudeville Theaters

Loew's State, New York (Reviewed Monday Matinee, March 2)

Brooks and Powers, those clever colored comedians, stopped the show with their gags. This tremendous house was a sellout before three o'clock, one of the first times in record, other than holidays.

Selma Bruatz and Company, a female juggler, opened the bill with what seemed to be a number of European tricks. She works full stage and goes thru her routine with many a fumble or failure in any trick she performs. Her stuff is rapid fire, cleaning up about 20 tricks in half that number of minutes.

Matthews and Ayres, comedians, stir up a lot of laughs with the slams on the nose handed Matthews by Miss Ayres. She hit him good and plenty today and not one of her wallops failed to fetch out a strong guffow. It all has to do with the alleged inebriation of Matthews, who has refused to buy the poor girl something to eat. The shrinking suit on Matthews, however, is old stuff and wouldn't be missed by this pair at all if omitted. The fun lies in the way the girl stabs her mit in the lad's cheek.

Stars of the Future, six girls who have been selected from the choruses of various Broadway productions, are given an opportunity in this turn to see if they are of starring quality. Among the shows from which the girls have been chosen are Music Box Revue, Keep Kool, Vanities and Kid Boots. Hazel Romaine outshone the rest of them today, singing My Kid, a sentimental ballad, according to the response. Ambition is the feature of the act and everybody loves it.

Brooks and Powers have a number of new gags that are sidesplitters. Practically all of the act was given over to them and the two songs sung were shot over hastily. This was excellent judgment, for the crowd wanted to hear all about what's what in Dixie-land, the subject of most of their ditties. Brooks has recently returned to vaudeville, having been one of the features in a colored revue. Several times during their 14 minutes it was necessary for them to stop and let the audience catch up, laughter was so prevalent.

Gellmann's Band Box Revue, featuring Ruiz and Bunnie, dancers, is an excellent closer for this type of house. A jazz band of seven lads plays for the two principals during their gyrations that drew forth plenty after their various tangoes, fox-trots and one-steps. The latter two are adept at interpreting the latest jazz steps, while their ballroom exhibitions rank among the best of this class of entertainment. The Argentine number, where Ruiz does most of the steps, brought out the greatest response for the turn.

Keith's, Cincinnati

(Reviewed Sunday Matinee, March 1)

Pathe News, Topics of the Day, Acrop Fable.

The vaudeville bill is comprehensive. Five original scenes using special eyes, are developed tableau fashion in The Antique Shop, the headliner, opening "in one" with Val Eichen about to exhibit choice bric-a-brac. The collector's assistants, all uncommonly good dancers, fantastically portray a porcelain clock, Japanese doll and Dutch mill. The windmill number is especially fetching, including wooden-shoe dancing by Francis Suzanne, Adeline Seiffert and Linton Hoppe in Hollander costume. Another feature, bizarre balancing of Marie Louise Lowe by Mr. Hoppe. Act closes with ensemble, the dancers popping out of a festive candy box. Special music directed by Tom Burke. Twenty minutes; two curtains.

Jack McLellan and Sarah, favorites in Cincinnati, annexed the greatest demonstration of the afternoon by means of a care-free act constructed upon Jack's roller-skate tricks, his musical eccentricities, and Sarah's extreme Paris costumes, amidst a steady chattering of very droll chatter. Twenty-three minutes, in one; encore.

Paul Ramos and his three wonderful midgets were not lacking in showmanship, embellishing their acrobatic repertoire with effective comedy. Fourteen minutes, full stage.

Low Oliver and Mae Olsen presented A Series of Scenes. Mae as a buxom belle and Low as a bashful swain produced gales of laughter carrying spongers and unwearying gags. Ten minutes, in one; encore.

The Interview, by Frank Davis presented by James Carlisle and Isabelle Larmal, is opened "in one", with a backdrop to represent a hearthstone. The girl as a reporter, interviews the champion champion. After clever parades, Miss Larmal steps out to do an Al Jolson, Mae Terrazzini, Harry Lander and Fritz Schell in song. Fourteen minutes, two bows.

Mae Coats caught the crowd completely with a breezy song program, Frankie's Poem, Paul's a Nature and Change in You. Revue of Motormen and Laugh at Me. Twelve minutes, in one; encore.

Bennie Franklin arrived in his A. E. F. outfit, with a variety of songs, accompanied with hearty applause for

(Reviewed Monday Matinee, March 2)

Heavy ten-act show, rich in comedy, dancing and novelty. Benny Leonard supplies a "name" for one, and there is Trini, a senorita with a whale of an act. The lobby was jammed with patrons long before two o'clock, those not being able to get tickets for the matinee availing themselves of the advance sale window.

Johnson and Baker, in "Practice", are appearing here for the first time in many months. The hat-scaling outfit is more of a comedy offering than ever, the comic getting no end of laughs from the first minute he came on.

Willie Covan and Leonard Ruffin, in "Poetry of Motion", scored heavily with their various soft-shoe steps, most of them being intricate and extremely difficult. As usual, the patrons gave early encouragement to the colored lads and they proved stronger as they went along, with the result that they trotted out an assortment of knee drops, ankle bending and triple winging, and the Charleston as well. They're long-winded, are graceful and go thru the lengthy routine smoothly.

Lillian Leitzel, "The Circus Girl", was on third. This remarkable single finds no competition in either circus or vaudeville. Her well-known routine on the web and rings, the famous one-arm pull-up flange in particular, held the patrons spellbound. The act was sold with better showmanship than we've ever seen Miss Leitzel display in her vaudeville engagements, and she was unusually attractive in a daring costume of pink georgette.

Bert Lahr and Mercedes, in "What's the Idea", created sensational moments of comedy, Lahr drawing some of the most deep-seated laughs imaginable. Mercedes, as a vivacious senorita, does little more than play straight for her partner, who does several times more than was done by the funniest of the keystone cops. He has a number of sure-fire pieces of business and as a comedian can follow anything on any bill. This is their first appearance at this house and they surely showed 'em something.

Trini, "Spain's foremost artiste", assisted by Hurtado's Royal Marimba Orchestra of Seville, with Warren Jackson and Darrio Borzani, is an outstanding example of what clever staging can do for show business when an artiste's possibilities are intelligently visualized and sold in the right kind of a production. The producers of at least one musical comedy recently failed to make use of her exceptionally fine personality and spot her accordingly, which makes vaudeville the richer thereby. Trini dances well enough, sings, wears her costumes nicely and, withal, is a real Castilian beauty. She is ably assisted by Jackson as a juvenile and Borzani in at least one number. The marimba band is there with great rhythm, shading and melody. The offering at all time is a powerful, colorful flash that can't miss. It is further reviewed under "New Turns" on another page.

Benny Leonard, in a one-act comedy with George Mayo and Charles Marsh, closed the first half. Mayo is a recent addition to the offering and makes an act that can stand fairly well on its own as a comedy skit, even if the lightweight champ, wasn't in it. Thus it is now twice as good as it was before, when the comedy end was done by others. Benny, being still stage struck, likes to linger a little while after the climax has been reached, reciting a little explanatory poem. Outside of that he plays straight for Mayo, does a few calisthenics and a bit of boxing on the comedy order. As the act now stands a patron feels as the more than a personal appearance of Leonard has taken place, for not a few good laughs are in the routine.

Gordon Dooley and Martha Morton, in their comedy, songs and dances, are rounding out an act far better than was indicated when they teamed together last season. Miss Morton continues to improve in various ways, especially her dancing, and Dooley is there with timely gags and new business. New raiment is in evidence, and the Spanish burlesque bit, also new, was a wow, inasmuch as two Spanish types had preceded them. The slow-motion exhibition used for the close was real funny also and required more artistry than most of their other stuff. This, too, has been added recently.

William Gaxton, in the one-act play "Kisses", by S. Jay Kaufman, is making his first appearance in vaudeville in about three years. This comedy is a revival and, like other acts written by Kaufman, it smacks thruout of cleverness. Material revolves around a bet between two men, one betting that he could get four women to kiss him of their own free will, all within 15 minutes. The staging by the author, that of a black drop background with the spotlight being the only one used, is effective. Gaxton seemed a bit nervous this afternoon, but it was not generally noticed and only resulted in giving the act a faster tempo.

Lillian Shaw, on next-to-closing, did several of her numbers to excellent returns, the comedienne getting the laughs regularly despite the fact that the songs and gags are more or less familiar to the average patron. A few new songs won't hurt the routine, nor will cutting the ones she retains.

The Mounters, acrobats, closed the show, the routine combining unusual feats, plus some comedy here and there. There are four in the cast, a boy and girl in sport clothes, a butler and old-man characters being the comics. They specialize on going up and down a pyramid of table and chair props, using their hands instead of feet for locomotion.

his fancy feats with rifles, including shots from both hands at once. Four minutes of fast work in full stage; three curtains.

Unfortunately, a little auto-suggestion was perpetrated upon the audience in that mention was made in two acts of the lateness of the hour, whereas the show actually closed earlier than it has for several Sundays. Thus many folks were led to start from their seats before the final act. But departing patrons paused and were held in their tracks by Ed and Jennie Kearney, whose flying trapeze performance, we venture to say, has never been exceeded for breath-taking stunts. Five minutes, full stage; bows and curtains.

Grand O. H., St. Louis (Reviewed Sunday Matinee, March 1)

The new program is another one of real merit, with Rainbow a pretty musical novelty, headlined and easily capturing the audience. Hayden, Donbar and Hayden, and a former number six spot, failed to bring in some for this performance.

Backless Business, feature photoplay, by Acrop Fable.

Bob and Lucy Gillette started proceedings with a variety of difficult juggling and balancing feats executed by the lady. Bob is the comedian and flops around the stage considerably and finishes with an eccentric comedy dance. Eight minutes, interior inn setting in four; one curtain.

L. Barton Evans in his powerful voice sang Just a Flower From an old Bouquet, See There's Not Another Kid Like My Kid, When We Were Seventeen and Sally. An unbridled lady accompanied at the piano. Thirteen minutes, in one; three bows.

Resista, a mite of a lady, gives a wonderful demonstration of the magnetic power of the human mind over body. A novel turn and she astounds with her ability to resist all efforts of those who seek to lift her from the floor. A woman introduces Resista and explains things otherwise. Two plants in the audience go upon the stage to furnish the laughs. Fifteen minutes, nifty settings in four; four bows.

Lazar and Dale, one in hunting costume and the other in blackface. Their comedy cross talk is woven about their sporting ability and the fun is created by the stuttering of the ebony member. As the finish they duct several numbers on the accordion and violin. Twenty-one minutes, special in one; encore in which

Palace, Chicago (Reviewed Sunday Matinee, March 1)

Sold-out house at the Palace today. Excellent bill.

Curtless' Animal Athletes disported themselves with surprising skill. Two well-groomed ponies and nine dogs did many unusual balancing and tumbling stunts with unusual rapidity. Colorful stage picture is result of bright costuming and glittering stage equipment. Eight minutes, full stage; two curtains.

Nell McKay in a Scotch sketch delivers some good chatter and excels in dancing. His Sailor's Hornpipe was unusually good. Ten minutes, in one, with two scenes, three bows.

Stuart Casey and Mildred Warren were delightful in a turn entitled The Fog. Casey does his English humor in a dignified and wholesome manner, while Miss Warren meets all demands as a chorus girl with the slang of the type. There is special scenery and the generous applause was well merited. A finished sketch. Twenty-four minutes, in one and three; three bows.

Al and Fanny Stedman are always a hit with their nut stuff; whether dancing, singing or grimacing, they are laugh-producers. Everything they do smacks of the cabaret, but it is well done. Not an idle moment with either Al or Fanny and every one a laugh. A hard-working pair whose every effort met with a hearty response from the audience. Seventeen minutes, in one; two encores, three bows.

Eddie Leonard and his minstrel bunch in Oh, Didn't It Rain, delivered to the entire satisfaction of his enthusiastic followers, as well as those to whom he may have been new. A big act, numbering 15 banjo players and dancers. All superb. Bounding on old-time minstrelsy, Eddie Leonard has an act strictly up to the minute. Leonard himself, the most charming dancer of a certain school, has assisted him three nifty steppers in Jack Russell, Gus Muleay and Charlie Oberle, as well as a number of others. He generously permits these youngsters to win plaudits that many headliners would never allow. Eddie, as ever, sang and danced himself into the hearts of his auditors. A big act, filled with action. Thirty-seven minutes, special set, full stage; five encores; stopped the show.

Robert Emmett Keane and Claire Whitney in a bright and light affair, Room 909. It is a sketch with touches of real snappy humor. Sandwiched in between two big acts, this entertaining pair was well placed and met all requirements of such a trying position on the bill. Full of real delightful dialog, it is fast and flashy. A well-written sketch, competently produced. Twenty minutes, special set, full stage; two curtains.

Van and Schenk remain another week and the same story may be repeated—stopped the show. With a seemingly inexhaustible repertoire of sentimental and comic songs, the audience insisted on the repetition of many old and popular ones. Hard workers, whose efforts have made them one of the big acts of vaudeville. Thirty-five minutes, in one; seven encores.

Eddie Weber and Marlon Ridnor closed the show with some nifty stepping. They were good enough to hold the audience to the final curtain. Well costumed. Seven minutes, full stage; two bows.

BOB MORNINGSTAR.

Majestic, Chicago

(Reviewed Sunday Matinee, March 1)

Travers Brothers, acrobats and equilibrists, opened the new bill. It is a performance of substantial fabric. Ten minutes, in full; two bows.

James Thornton did a little singing and quite a bit of storytelling. They liked him very well. Fifteen minutes, in one; one bow.

Dunlay and Merrill, man and girl, have a comedy and song offering. It is fast and lively. Fifteen minutes, in one and a half; special drop and two bows.

George Lowell and Company, man and two girls, have a mind-reading act. Man works the audience, one girl plays piano and the other violin. Idea is to play all numbers selected by auditors and written on slip of paper only. Act entertained well. Twenty minutes, in full; two bows.

Hamilton and Barnes, man and girl, have a comedy presentation with snappy and amusing dialog well put over. It is quite funny all along. Ten minutes, in one; three bows.

Taylor and Lake, two girls, have a dainty and effective harmony singing act. Eccentric man dancer is great and also plays banjo accompaniment. This act is strictly worthwhile. Twelve minutes, in one to two and back to one; three bows.

O'Rourke and Kelly, two men, offer songs and comedy that are entertaining. Act goes at good speed. Ten minutes, in one; two bows.

The Brick English Synecopators closed. It is a lively band with a number of novel comedy features. Ten minutes, in full; two bows.

From Coast to Coast by Special Wire

Orpheum, St. Louis

(Reviewed Sunday Evening, March 1)

The bill, consisting of only seven acts this week, is below the average in entertainment value in comparison to recent lineups.

Topics of the Day, Aesop Fable.

Fred and Anna Henning go thru a good routine of Indian club and hat juggling and throwing to be interrupted repeatedly by wise cracks from a youth in the audience, who finally comes astute and does his stuff. A real juggler, specialty dancer, comedian and musician, he's a wonder for his age and has all the earmarks of a corner. Fifteen minutes, special in full; three bows.

Warren and O'Brien have a hokum turn that wins 'em over. Their rough horseplay is dished out cleverly and when it comes to eccentric dancing these boys are there. Nine minutes, in one; four bows.

Mme. Bernice DePasquall, internationally famous prima donna and former co-star with Caruso in the Metropolitan Opera Company, in her beautiful clear soprano voice rendered a program of operatic selections and a medley of ballads. She was gorgeously gowned and made a stunning appearance for two well-deserved encores. Sang Bubbles of Constancy and All Alone. Twenty-two minutes, in three.

Emil Boreo, billed as "Europe's celebrated singing comedian and late feature of the Chauffeur-Souris". We are still unable to see his style of comedy, especially the grimacing—it's on the order of the stuff that many foreign performers try to impose on American audiences. He shows some talent in a short dramatic skit, and we have a hunch he'd make a better artist of the drama in this country. His only worth-while bit is a wooden soldier dance. Seventeen minutes, in one; forced talk in broken English.

Florence Reed distinguished stage and screen star, in Tinsel, a one-act comedy drama by Reginald Goode. The sketch is one of laughs and tears aplenty, depicting the rehearsal of a first-nighter and the heartbreaking cable that the leading woman's daughter had died on the eve of her supposed triumphal entry into stardom. Miss Reed is an emotional artist and is supported by an able cast in which the "panting, knee-quivering Roman runner" is the best. Seventeen minutes, five curtains.

Val and Ernie Stanton are a clever pair with a line of high-class comedy material in which the pronunciation and usage of words is all wrong. They thoroughly demonstrate how English should not be spoken, and adeptly interperse songs, dances and music during their foolish chatter. Annexed the most applause at this show. Twenty-one minutes, in one; two encores and prolonged applause.

Marion Wilkins, with Robert Heft and the Lido Orchestra, in a routine of eight synopacted musical dances. Miss Wilkins, an agile and graceful danseuse, has a genuine partner in Heft. Their smiles and beaming personalities help immensely. Six jazz numbers are in the orchestra ensemble and the violin solo is well rendered. Seventeen minutes, special in one and three; four curtains. Pathe News. F. B. JOERLING.

Palace, Cincinnati

(Reviewed Sunday Matinee, March 1)

Applause honors went to James B. Donovan and Marie Lee, followed closely by Ted Dooley and Co., the audience liking money acts best. Mention must be made of the house orchestra, which puts the show over smoothly.

Joe MacFarlane and Johnny Palace opened the bill with their standard turn, Volumes of Harmony. They used three numbers, apparently cutting to meet with the crowded-time requirements of acts here. Dandy and Belle gave them a nice send-off. Eight minutes, in one; one bow—would have had more.

Laurie Ordway, assisted at the piano by Irene Fisher, started the laughs going by her comedy song, Blushing Bride, followed by What Marriage Did to Me, attired in a ludicrous dress. Her baby-carriage bit garnered laughs. Fifteen minutes, in one; two bows.

James B. Donovan and Marie Lee, in The King of Ireland, soon had the house roaring with their comic byplay. Miss Lee put over three blues numbers to good results, after which Donovan made his appearance for some witty Irish stories that left the audience shrieking. His humor is clean and such that no one can take offense at it. Eighteen minutes, in one and a half; five bows.

Peters and LeBuff, trampoline and bar act, thrilled with their bounding and catching. The catcher is an exceptionally large man for this type of work and his feats greatly amused. Eight minutes, full stage; three bows.

Jed Dooley and Company, The Cause Comed has changed his act since last seen by this reviewer, and is much benefited by it. He is assisted by a shapely little miss who has improved her dancing considerably. She has added some

HIPPODROME ~ NEW YORK ~

(Reviewed Monday Matinee, March 2)

Never was a show at the Hippodrome run off with as little smoothness as this afternoon. It was really amateurish and looked as tho there had been no rehearsal whatever. Everything seemed to go wrong and the artistes were confused, being prodded out after they had wound up their finish and endeavoring to do a weak encore. This was particularly true in the case of the Four Bellhops, spotted second, and Frank Shields, in next to closing. Mile, Magda Brard, on eighth, also was so disconcerted after a bad and clumsy opening that it showed in her work. She valiantly played thru it all, however, and came out on the finish winning deep admiration. The backstage bungles served so strenuously to ruin the show that a good estimate cannot be made of its worth; the artistes were playing at a serious disadvantage. Too many full-stage offerings, requiring special setting, with the acts in one being short and snappy, doubtless had something to do with the loose cogs in the bill. May Wirth is the single holdover this week. Chief among the newcomers being Orville Harrold, tenor, whose engagement here last fall was interrupted by the sudden death of his daughter in an Indiana car collision; Lupino Lane, former Follies entertainer, and Mlle. Magda Brard, French concert pianiste.

The Five Avalons opened in an artistic wire-walking novelty, going over to good returns. The quintet, three women and two men, do various intricate bits on two wires stretched horizontally across the stage.

The Four Bellhops took the deuce spot by storm in their whirlwind acrobatic routine, speeding to a finish that is nothing short of sensational. Being rushed out for some more acrobatics so that the back-stage boys could complete the setting for the next act, a murderous edge was taken off their act.

Martha Pryor and Jack Denny, with his Hotel Astor Roof Garden Orchestra, truly a remarkably good band, followed in singing specialties and orchestral selections, with Denny and his trumpeter augmenting in solos. The numbers are of the popular melody mart type, with Miss Pryor at her best in Southern ditties. The Foster Girls decorated the offering in passing style.

Those ever-popular clowns, The Arnaut Brothers, pleased mightily in their distinct novelty, scoring hugely in their imitation of two songbirds. Entertainers is no name for these lads. They're a step higher.

Orville Harrold, American tenor, formerly with the Metropolitan Opera Company and making his second appearance at this house, offered in the next spot an aria from "Martha", "Swing Low Sweet Chariot", "Seventeen" and "Falling in Love". In the order named. Mr. Harrold's voice did not appear to be at its best today, several times missing the high notes, but he went over in sure-fire fashion. Nevertheless, his accompanist, William Conway, acquits himself creditably at the piano.

The Spanish Dancers, The Cansinos, Eliza, Eduardo, Angel and Paco, closed the first half in a colorful offering called "Fantasia Espanola". It has been staged, according to billing, by Claude W. Bostock. He has done it nicely, and George Hordlieks, who directs the orchestra from the pit, saw to it that the music for each number was played properly. The Cansinos offer a large variety of dances and prove that they are hard to beat as interpreters of the type they do. As senoritos the Hippodrome Girls were engaging, forming an appropriate background.

Meehan's Canines, "aristocrats" of animallom, opened intermission. The leaping greyhounds, featured in the offering, displayed excellent form in hurdling boxes nearly 10 feet high.

Mlle. Magda Brard, whose appearance here is for the week only followed in a short repertoire of piano selections, doing Grieg's "Concerto in A Minor", first movement, on opening. She got a bad start, being moved from upstage, position four, after the curtains had parted and loud voices backstage spelled a bone of some sort was being pulled, to position one, compelling the pit orchestra, directed by Max Bendix for this act, to start all over again. Getting into the Grieg Concerto, however, Mlle. Brard quickly made the audience forget the bad beginning. She played Saint Saens' Scherzo from "Concerto in G Minor", second, and after a short, catchy bit closed with "Ave Maria". Bendix soloed a portion of the number to her accompaniment and Orville Harrold sang in closing to the accompaniment of both, putting the act over nicely.

Lupino Lane, direct from Ziegfeld's 1925 "Follies", as the program says, was a good-sized hit following. Among the specialties he did was his Spanish, drunk and soidler bits, all clicking to good applause. The Hippodrome's dancing maidens were kept busy in Lane's act, doing several ensembles, among them a Tiller-type number that sent them over for an immense hand.

Frank Shields, rope manipulator, appeared in next-to-closing, dressed as clown and assisted by two others similarly dressed. We saw Shields here once before when John R. Agee's Horses played the first week of their engagement at this house. He did a brief bit in that act.

May Wirth brought the show to a close in her artistic equestrian presentation, holding 'em in nicely and repeating her success of the previous week. ROY CHARTIER.

high kicks that are very graceful. Dooley's dry, nonsensical humor caught on fine here and put him over to a big hand. Twelve minutes, special drop in three; three bows.

Billy Gross and Company in Oh, You Flirt. A neat dancing team, the company being a clever young lady whose results justify an equal share in the billing. Her dance to Gross' banjo accompaniment pleased. Nine minutes, in one; three bows.

The Dancing Humphreys, Morris and Mae, occupy the headliner spot with quite a pretentious offering. The act includes the Knights of Harmony, a five-piece band, led by Dick Latham. The opening is a mechanical doll number, with the Humphreys and the musicians effectively attired in quaint Russian costumes. A quick change is done and the lights flash on showing the synopactors in Chinese robes, playing Lighthouse Blues. Then follows a quick scene change of an old-time Bowery cabaret, the orchestra boys and dancers appearing as typical New York Eastsiders. A burlesque tough dance-hall specialty is their best bit and captured heavy applause. Seventeen minutes, special in full stage; three bows.

Photoplay, George Arliss in $20 a Week. GEORGE PIDDINGTON.

B. S. Moss' Broadway, New York

(Reviewed Monday Matinee, March 2)

Either the weather or the picture proved a big draw here, for the early show on Monday had them standing up several feet deep, with the ropes put up by 1:30 p.m. The picture is I Am the Man, starring Lionel Barrymore. There isn't a name on the vaudeville layout to draw the business which the house did.

The Equillo Brothers were an unusual opening act inasmuch as they worked in one. They do some remarkable hand-to-hand balancing, their last stunt being new and one of the most sensational gymnastic feats ever seen.

"Singing" Eddie Nelson is the new billing of the chap who formerly prefixed his name with the word "Blackface". Nelson still works in burnt cork and does practically the same routine of songs and talk. This baby "cries" a ballad in a manner surefire to get any audience. The talk portion of the act could be bolstered for better results.

Burt Earle and his eight girl muscicians scored on third. The same fault which applies to almost every lady orchestra seems to be the trouble here. They just can't seem to get the sense of rhythm in synopaction secured by the average male jazz band. With Earle's act the trouble is also partly due to the arrangements. They are at their best in the banjo ensemble and the saxophone sextet number. The setting of the act is very pretty.

There was a brief wait, which seemed unnecessary, before Wanzer and Palmer made their appearance. The orchestra quieted any impatient feeling in the audience until the act was ready. This pair does a quiet talking act, one of the most difficult kind of acts to do, and present their vehicle very effectively. It isn't the type of offering supposed to get riot laughs, but it entertains thoroughly, which is accomplishing its purpose.

Holland and Oden also are using the same vehicle they have been using for years. The girl isn't wearing the lights, but looks almost as cute in an abbreviated frock. The man still insists upon doing a type of comedy for which he never was intended. "Nut" comedians should be spontaneous, whereas all of his work is forced.

Jean Bedini, with two comedy assistants, one in hokum makeup, closed the show. Bedini juggles plates and various other props well, while the other two get laughs by breaking plates in a manner very satisfactory to hardware dealers' feelings. G. J. HOFFMAN.

Pantages, San Francisco

(Reviewed Sunday Matinee, March 1)

A feature picture of standard length and six acts of vaudeville of average worth. Shorter in running time than usual by 15 minutes, was competition here against ideal summer weather. Yet a capacity house. Master and Grayce won applause honors of the opening show. The cinema feature was Chu Chu Choe, with Betty Blythe and Herbert Langley in the leading roles.

Joe Reicher and His Wonder Dogs, three in number, in a series of difficult tricks, could not arouse the audience to much applause. Seven minutes, special, in two; two bows.

Carvet and Verena, tap dancers, English in appearance and accent, disported themselves in a series of hard-shoe dances, interspersed with humorous dialog and songs. A pair of hard workers with a good act, who keep on smiling when the audience does not warm up to meritorious work. Ten minutes, special drop, in one; two bows.

Fitzgibbon and Mahoney in piano and xylophone selections, Mahoney starting at the piano and Fitz at the xylophone until the audience is ready to hiss them off, when they change instruments and get off some melodious music which gets good applause after each number. Fourteen minutes, in one; two bows.

Six Anderson Sisters, who really look like sisters, in a headline act, furnished 15 minutes of entertainment without a dull moment. First as a six-piece orchestra—and the audience liked them best in this part. Three changes of colorful costumes, special scenery, drops and lighting helped put this act across. Three curtains.

Harry Master and Dorothy Grayce have a comic skit, A Picture for Two, by Clark Boris. It is in capable hands and borders on the high class. These two clever entertainers went over big. Dorothy, diminutive in size, proved a real big comedienne and made a hit on her own account. The singing and artistic dancing of the pair added zest to the humorous dialog, which got the best applause of the day. Sixteen minutes, special drop, in two; four bows.

Sandy Lang and Company gave as the closing number roller skating, preceded by a short film comparing dancing and skating; all blurry and scratched; should be re-wed. Three girls and Sandy gave a snappy act, including clever dancing on skates, the finale being a roller cakewalk, in black and white costumes, with lighting effects that spoke volumes for backstage if judged by applause. Ten minutes, special drop, full stage; two curtains. E. J. WOOD.

Keith's Fordham, N. Y.

(Reviewed Thursday Evening, Feb. 26)

Ned Wayburn's Honeymoon Cruise headed the last half bill here, surrounded by a noble array of talented artistes, including Mrs. Gene Hughes in a comedy sketch and those merry funmakers, Ryan and Lee.

Morell, Elynor and Jack opened in a fast roller-skating turn to good applause, clicking in prouet and trick specialties. Reviewed further under "New Turns".

Dorothea Nelson made good in the deuce spot in a routine of violin selections, assisted by Ollie Francis, composer-pianist, who doubles at cello and piano. She is good to look at, plays her music with a smile and handles the bow and strings in a competent manner.

Mrs. Gene Hughes followed in Be Alive, a comedy episode by Ned Heaney, which has its moments of laughter, tho not as frequent as they might be. Some of the lines are stale and the one "the love that lies in a woman's eyes and lies and lies and lies" might be taken as an example. On the whole, mildly entertaining is this vehicle, the balance of the cast of which includes Kay Barnes, Jack Lawrence and (Continued on page 16)

B. S. Moss' Franklin New York

(Reviewed Thursday Evening, Feb. 26)

The patrons certainly had no kick on the quantity of entertainment offered. A total of 12 acts, in addition to the motion picture part of the program, which included a big feature, was given. Six of the 12 acts were tryouts. In accordance with the weekly custom of having professional acts show their turns to the bookers on Thursdays here. The regular bill held such names as Trini, Lillian Shaw and Howard and Dobson. Hence there is no mystery attached to the fact that the Franklin does very good business and generally manages to fill almost all, if not all, of the 3,500 seats it contains.

The tryout section included Oben Dumont and Co., Ben and Bann, Laurie and Raynor, "Wee" Sandy McPherson, Hickman Brothers, and Mickey Bennett and Co. Owing to the fact that the reviewer was unaware that the tryouts were put on about 7 p.m., he did not get into the theater in time to see the first two of these. The other four are reviewed in detail under "New Turns".

The regular bill didn't drag for a minute, despite following six acts. A brief intermission between the try-out section and the last-half show gave the audience some rest. Three Emmerettes was the billing of the opening act, although only two men were in the act. One of them does some very good juggling and balancing, and the other is a freak, twisting his body completely around without moving his feet, and doing the same stunt later with his neck and head. If we remember correctly, we saw this chap with a sideshow down in Rockaway Park last summer.

One of the cleverest single woman offerings we've seen in a long time is done by Ann Clifton, who is assisted by a pianist. Miss Clifton opens with a male impersonation, and changes in view of the audience, with the stage darkened, wearing radium tights, singing a medley all thru her change. She does almost every type of number, from a sob ballad to a number about a model. She can step into any hill and be sure of being a hit. Howard and Dobson were a big laugh hit. Details under "New Turns".

Trini also scored solidly. Her act, too, is reviewed in the same department.

Lillian Shaw almost spoiled her chances of scoring the big hit she usually does by getting into an argument across the footlights with the orchestra and bawling out the drummer. Later she made a speech, telling the audience that she didn't have a chance to rehearse and therefore the orchestra harbored resentment against her. After admitting that she hadn't rehearsed, it was evident she had no right to find fault with the orchestra. The public scolding she gave and the speech were very unprofessional, to say the least. People who come to the theater want to see a show, not a fight, and such petty grievances should be withheld for the dressing room and not the stage.

Robettas and Deegan closed, doing sensational aerial work, winding up with an iron-jaw stunt that brought down the house. G. J. HOFFMAN.

they introduced a small novelty musical instrument.

The Andrieff Trio, two men and a lady. This well-known Russian act is nattily costumed and offers a fantastic and different cycle of single, double and trio dance numbers done with ease, speed and grace. Ten minutes, pretty setting in three; two curtains.

Sampsel and Leonard present a comedy skit in which the man is lecturer for the "Womanhaters' Club". During the discourse he is vamped by a sleek movie actress. The team closed with several songs and scored strongly. Nineteen minutes, special comedy set in one; encore and bows.

Benjoland. Behind a beautiful novelty hanging, with special lighting effects, seven neat tuxedoed banjoists tripped thru the instrumental opening and proceeded to stum their instruments. They know how to harmonize on the "African harp" and in singing as well, working fast and cleverly. Near the close one of the musicians proves to be a pippin specialty stepper. We could for hours listen to this act of high caliber. Sixteen minutes. F. E. JOERLING

Eddie Keenan, all of whom do quite well in their respective roles.

Ryan and Lee stirred the latent applause to resounding echoes in their unique comedy double. Miss Lee is one of the most irritating young comedienne in vaudeville and Ryan a most pleasing juvenile straight. The act proceeds with a variety of goodness taking in a laugh in every scene.

Next up was a rain-drenched scene. Miss Lee's scene, quite the most pretentious act ever seen in vaudeville, closed the show with a grand finale. The patrons fill a somewhat late hour about twice that of the ordinary revue. These are a few of the names of the personnel of the cast since the act

COLUMBIA BURLESQUE

COLUMBIA THEATER - NEW YORK

"SILK STOCKING REVUE", WITH FRANK X. SILK

(Reviewed Monday Matinee, March 2)

Review

As a production the scenic equipment, lighting effects, gowning and costuming surpass many of the so-called Broadway shows in costliness, attractiveness and color schemes. As a presentation it combines class, cleanliness and comedy in a series of musical-comedy ensemble numbers, musical revues, vaudeville acts, supplemented by fast and funny burlesque. The company is an exceptionally large one for burlesque and, taking them individually and collectively, principals and choristers alike, they have few equals in burlesque. A more co-operative combination would be hard to find in any theatrical presentation.

Frank X. Silk, the featured comique, is doing his customary tramp characterization with numerous changes of comedy clothes, and for a tramp comique Silk has few if any peers, for he is not only a comedian of extraordinary ability, but a singer and dancer who can hold his own with any of the big-time vaudeville acts in a specialty. Let it be said to Silk's credit, he shows no disposition whatsoever to hold the center of the stage at any time, but gives and takes with the other principals in garnering the laughter and applause that his work alone and in combination with the others fully warrants.

Frank Martin, for the greater part of the show, appears in comedy characterization, first as a tramp in clean attire and later in other comedy characters in which he evokes much laughter and applause on his own account. He, too, evidenced a disposition to play up to his coworkers in scenes and in his singing and dancing specialties.

Bob Carney, a clean-cut singing and dancing juvenile, appeared frequently, working in scenes in which he fully evidenced his acting ability as a straight man, likewise a light comedian, and in his singing and dancing specialties distinguished himself admirably as a dancer par excellence.

Jean Carr, a pretty, petite singing and dancing soubret, has all the pep and personality required for the role, and she stood out pre-eminently as a leader of numbers and equally as well as a leading woman in scenes in which she aided the comiques materially. This is especially applicable to a comedy scene with Comique Silk, in which they put over a clever burlesque on an apache dance. Miss Carr also appeared in several dancing specialties with Bob Carney, and a more personally attractive, talented and able dancing team would be hard to find on any stage.

Helen Kennedy, a personally attractive bobbed brunet prima donna, put over her numbers in a sweetly modulated voice, supplementing with graceful dancing and in a specialty danced to her own accompaniment on the violin for merited encores.

Ruth Gibbs, a statuesque, dazzling blond prima donna, sang several sentimental ballads emotionally and showed her versatility by a quick change to blues, in which she proved title to vocalist extraordinary and in scenes an actress of exceptional ability, and this was especially applicable to a comedy scene with Silk, Martin and Carney.

The Busch Sisters, two statuesque, bobbed, brown-haired singers and dancers, led several numbers in characteristic costumes and appeared in several specialties in which they showed notable improvement in personality, talent and ability over appearances in past seasons.

Loek and Wynn, a classy juvenile and personally attractive ingenue-soubret, appeared in two dancing specialties that evidenced the talent and ability usually found in big time vaudeville acts.

Armand Monte, in a clarinet-playing specialty, proved himself a master of that instrument. Monte also appeared with his clarinet as an accompanist for a comedy dance by Comiques Silk and Carney, likewise in various characters working in scenes, and as the wop gambler pulled a big laugh.

Paul Orth worked straight thruout the entire presentation and had an opportunity to distinguish himself as a singer in a quartet, in which he accompanied Silk, Martin and Carney, singing in harmony.

Johnny Dove, as an acrobatic roller-skating dancing specialist, has few if any equals in his respective line of work.

The chorus was exceptionally youthful, pretty, talented and able, working thruout the entire presentation in tights and opera-length silk hose, which set off their slender, symmetrical forms admirably, during which they sang in harmony and danced in unison.

The presentation ran along the lines of a musical revue, the comedy scenes being worked cleverly and cleanly and the specialties interpolated appropos to the scenic settings, which for gorgeousness have seldom been equaled by Columbia Circuit productions.

The "Golden Gardens" leading up to the finale of the first part was a scenic set of splendor, with the Misses Mannix and Mantell characterizing tulip girls in costumes appropos to the flower; the Misses Mapleton, Dove, Kennedy, Birsch, Price, Doney, Orth and Thomas as the flower mannequins and the Misses Lewis, Wilson, Wynn, Mae, Robinson and Saunders as the fountain girls upholding a realistic fountain of real water that enveloped the statuesque posing girls.

The second act was also a scenic set of splendor with an ocean background, a full-rigged ship and a foliage foreground for a pirate ballet and song, in which all of the principals put over a series of singing and dancing specialties that led up to the close of the show, with all of the masculine principals in full evening-dress attire. ALFRED NELSON (NELSE).

Proctor's 58th St., N. Y.

(Reviewed Thursday Evening, Feb. 26)

This house depends a great deal more on vaudeville than pictures for the star attraction. The six acts offered were evidently the proper choice, for, as usual, the theater was crowded ere the clock had struck eight.

The Five Jewels open the bill. They are five voluptuous misses who dance with an acrobatic touch. It is a new act and is reviewed fully under "New Turns" elsewhere in this issue.

Murray and Gerrish have a clean-cut piece in their impersonations of famous stars. Miss Gerrish shows marked ability when doing Ann Pennington. She is a most graceful and cute little dancer. Murray is the answer to the average flapper's prayer. His songs are well selected, but he appears to be a little too careful of himself. Miss Gerrish is by far the outstanding feature of the turn.

James ("Fat") Thompson and Company, in a one-act comedy all about how a colored man is forced to join the burglars' union, split a couple of sides here tonight. His loud speaker in operation while jimmying a safe, with a lot of riffs during the interim, touched exactly the right spot of this audience. He is ably assisted by two men, and the close where "Fat" comes on wearing the uniform of a cop who had come up to arrest him drew the laughter for a wow.

Margaret Ford, the two-voiced comedienne, had the audience's eyes popping out to try to detect some sign of masculinity. She does the deep baritone to perfection and roped in a harvest for it. Her higher pitch seems to necessitate a great deal of effort and failed her on several occasions. However, she was sent away with appreciation befitting a star.

Gladys Delmar and Band, Miss Delmar a cute little miss with an orchestra of five youths, all very young and energetic, with vivacity enough for a whole show. Reviewed completely under "New Turns".

The closing spot was filled by Alexander and Olson, a nut-comedian pair, who "burn in" the whole show on their act. There are six in all in the turn's cast, with four of them doing most of the work. Also reviewed under "New Turns". G. V. WALES.

FAILURE TO REHEARSE WILL MEAN CANCELLATION OF ACTS

Keith-Albee and Affiliated House Managers Instructed To Tighten Up on Turns When Gross Negligence Is Evidenced

NEW YORK, March 2.—Managers of Keith-Albee and affiliated houses were told to tighten up on acts which, thru gross negligence, fail to show up at rehearsals or have their baggage arrive late at theaters, at a meeting held recently. Their attention was called to the fact that the contracts with the artistes contain a clause permitting cancellation when acts failed to rehearse simply because they didn't feel like it, and the managers were told to enforce this clause if necessary.

The matter came up at a discussion held about orchestras and various other things pertaining to the music of acts. Several of the managers mentioned that oftentimes some of the artistes, particularly the headliners, either strolled in after 12 o'clock for rehearsal which had been called for 11 a. m. and made necessary the payment of overtime to musicians, or just sent their music up and in many cases called for the leader a few minutes before they went on to explain the various cues.

Managers at the meeting complained that talking to and reprimanding these artistes didn't seem to do any good. They were then told to make use of the cancellation clause.

Herman Timberg and "The Rebellion" Band are booked into the house for the whole week and will work thruout the entire show. Timberg will do comedy wherever possible in the show.

Should the idea go well in drawing business and entertaining it will be used in the other Proctor houses and reported with different shows at various intervals.

ADD $20,000 TO CATHEDRAL FUND

Many Stage Stars Take Part in Midnight Shows at Palace and Hippodrome, New York

NEW YORK, March 2.—About $20,000 was added to the fund for the Cathedral of St. John the Divine at two monster benefit performances held at midnight Saturday in the Palace Theater and the Hippodrome. The regular Saturday night price scale was in vogue for the performances and each house reported a capacity audience. The use of both theaters was donated by E. F. Albee, who also made the arrangements and originally suggested the benefits via telegram from Palm Beach, Fla. The benefits were given as a grand windup for the theaters in the drive to secure funds for the cathedral.

Elsie Janis was chairman of the committee in charge of the shows, assisted by Edward V. Darling, John Schultze and Elmer Rogers. Lionel Atwill acted as stage manager at the Palace. A tremendous show prepared for both houses was augmented by musical comedy, legitimate and vaudeville stars, who dropped into the theaters and did bits unexpectedly.

LILLIAN SHAW OBJECTS; ACT OUT

Reported Bridal Costume of Rita Pearl Aroused Ire of Comedienne at Try-Out House

NEW YORK, March 2.—Jack and Rita Pearl, an act which was booked into B. S. Moss' Franklin Theater last Thursday as part of the program of acts which were "showing" for the one day, were taken out of the bill after the matinee and not allowed to show at night owing, it is alleged, to Lillian Shaw, who was on the bill for the entire last half, telephoning the booking office and demanding that they be taken out, as Rita Pearl wore a bridal costume which, it is said, Miss Shaw claimed to be similar to the one she wore in her act. Jeff Davis, who books the one-day "tryouts" for the Franklin, is reported to have complied with Miss Shaw's alleged request, although the act is said to have scored nicely.

Acts which play the "showing" day at the Franklin receive no money for their efforts, but only the chance to secure booking on the Keith-Albee and affiliated circuits if the bookers like their acts. As a rule, few of them have any too much money and the one-day showing at this house is generally a desperate effort to secure work. There were three or four acts on the bill which played between the time Jack and Rita Pearl went on and Lillian Shaw, who was one of the headliners. The Pearls were scheduled to work just the one day.

Miss Shaw had an all-round lively day Thursday at the Franklin, it is reported. Aside from the Jack and Rita Pearl incident, she is said to have gotten into a public argument with the house orchestra during the night performance and bawled out the drummer from the wings in tones loud enough to be heard all over the theater. When it was over most of those present had the idea that it was just a new "bit" or a gag, but Miss Shaw dispelled that idea at the close of her act with a speech, in which she stated that she didn't have time to rehearse her act with the orchestra and therefore the men in the pit "felt resentment against me."

NEW TURNS AND RETURNS

Trini and Orchestra

Reviewed Thursday evening, February 26, at B. S. Moss' Franklin Theater, New York. Style—Dancing, singing and orchestra. Settings—One and full stage, special. Time—Twenty-one minutes.

The greatest asset possessed by Trini, and which after all is a combination of all her assets, is the fact that she is one artiste who, after being highly touted and exploited as to beauty and ability, does not disappoint the audience when finally seeing her. Trini may or may not be "Spain's Most Beautiful Woman" as she was once advertised, and Trini may or may not be "Spain's Foremost Artist" as she is now billed. The fact remains that Trini is very beautiful, and Trini is very accomplished.

Her vaudeville offering is produced by Ralph Farnum and has been staged by Harry Delmar. Both have done excellent work. She is supported by Hurtado's Royal Marimba Orchestra of Seville, an eight-men organization; Warren Jackson, a singer, and Darlo Borzani, a dancer. The act uses several sets, including a beautiful eye, in full stage, two drops in one and a place drop for an apache dance.

In addition to being a dancer, Trini sings pleasingly. She does this with Warren Jackson in a duo number and solos as part of an effective apache dance, which she does with Borzani. Jackson has a good voice and uses it well.

Trini appears first in a costume of gold lace, which is draped around her neck and is made doubly effective against a background of purple tights, hose and shoes. Her second costume is a dainty street frock, in which she shows she can be adorable as well as striking in appearance. Following the apache costume she appears in a tango number with an entirely different style of costume. And she is beautiful in all of them. Borzani makes a fine dance partner for her.

The marimba band, in which seven men play the marimbas and one a bass violin, is a novelty in itself and a relief from the overdose of the same style of orchestras.

The act was produced for the purpose of headlining bills, and it has accomplished its purpose. It is worthy of the featured spot in any theater. And for that matter so is Trini as an individual. G. J. H.

Morell, Elynor and Mack

Reviewed at Keith's Fordham Theater, New York, Thursday evening, February 26. Style—Roller skating. Setting—Special eye, in full. Time—Eighteen minutes.

Artistic roller-skating act of three people, two men and a woman, whose routine consists of some excellent trick and dance work. Man and woman open, concealed on the stage by Japanese umbrellas, going into a conventional double, giving way to a specialty by the third member of the act, whose fine work was unfortunately hurt at the finish, when reviewed, by a bad fall. Bits, singly and together, follow, leading to the windup in smart fashion, the trio not permitting their act to drag the least particle. Pirouettes with another member of the offering held from the neck by the heels stand out as rare accomplishments in their routine. The act is billed "grace, pep and speed", which it is in every sense of the word.

Of big-time caliber, much better than the average roller-skating turn in the two-a-day. R. C.

Howard and Dobson

Reviewed Thursday evening, February 26, at B. S. Moss' Franklin Theater, New York. Style—Comedy. Setting—One, special. Time—Seventeen minutes.

When two veteran showmen like Charlie Howard and Frank Dobson get together in an act a great deal is expected of them, and it must be said to their credit that they live up to expectations as far as laughs are concerned. The act consists of new bits injected by both, and hits which Charlie Howard has been doing in shows and in vaudeville for years and which are funnier than ever.

They are assisted by a girl, Virginia Reigel, who appears in a small-talk bit and does a dance specialty to good results. Dobson is doing straight for Charlie Howard's comedy and builds up each bit perfectly for him. Howard's "drunk" character is one of the funniest and most original to be seen. The various bits done are all howls.

The combination is a perfect one and the act sure fire with any audience. G. J. H.

Laurie and Payne

Reviewed Thursday evening, February 26, at B. S. Moss' Franklin Theater, New York. Style—Songs and dances. Setting—Full stage, special. Time—Fourteen minutes.

This offering is done by three people, altho only two are billed. Judging from the accents used in some talk bits, and the singing on the part of one, the trio, consisting of two men and a woman, is English. One of the men fills in between the dance numbers done by the other man and the girl with popular published numbers, rendering each in a pleasing tenor. The dance team does ballroom and eccentric work effectively. The most novel routine used was a "sleepy" number done at the finish.

At present the act is good for the better small-time houses. Perhaps the worst thing which could be said about the act is that it is rough, and the dancing needs more rehearsing. This fault will be easily remedied with more work. And the act is deserving of plenty. G. J. H.

Gladys Delmar and Band

Reviewed Thursday evening, February 26, at Proctor's 58th Street Theater, New York. Style—Song and dance girl with a jazz band. Setting—In full. Time—Fifteen minutes.

Youth is the predominant feature in this turn. From the first row, where this reviewer sat, it didn't appear as tho any one of the live lads or the girl was over 18 or 19 years of age.

The boys are in Eton jackets and play the piano, violin, saxophone, cornet and drums. The girl has several character song and dance numbers that are well interpreted.

When the front drop goes up Gladys is sitting in the band playing an instrument. They all play away for a moment and Miss Delmar snaps off the outer dress she is wearing and leaps into a net so funny are the feature of the turn, while a lot of slap-stick stuff is also on their program.

The lad playing the cornet does a solo while the girl changes her costume.

Very sweet, too, with the rest of the boys coming in on the chorus. Gladys is back again this time with a rube make-up and a lollypop about the size of a young pie. She sings Howdy Do and breaks into a few hick steps. Her tootsies are wrapped in puppies that are big enough for a dozen girls like she. This gave off a pleasing effect for the audience gave up on this number.

The violin player grasps a saw and with the aid of a bow plays the carpenter's tool effusively. The band comes in on the tail end of the piece and the young fellow drops his saw to help win appreciation in a medley of popular airs.

Miss Delmar rushes back in a costume looking like the latest bolshevik style and cavorts around the boards a la Kasse. This is quite good and had the customers in fine working order at the close.

As a finisher the clarinet is played by the saxophonist while Miss Delmar mingles her stepping with classic and jazz impressions. A whirlwind finish as it should be that burned the palms of many outfronters. A classy little bit and good for a long run, in my estimation. G. V. W.

Alexander and Olsen

Reviewed Thursday evening, February 26, at Proctor's 58th Street Theater, New York. Style—Not comedians. Setting—In one. Time—Twenty-five minutes.

The last act, and the entire show is in on it. This is a regular stunt with these fellows and it proved more than successful. Gags that are funny and not so funny are the feature of the turn, while a lot of slap-stick stuff is also on their program.

The turn opens with Alexander coming on with a number of tin plates and a xylophone. There is an extra sheet of xylophone sounders lying on top of the instrument itself that fall off a dozen times. The tin plates hit the floor just as he arrives about front and center, provoking a little mirth.

There are six men in all in the act. A midget of broad proportions is among them and he gets as many laughs, if not more, than the principals by the funny effect cast off as he runs across the stage. Little short legs and arms that take about 20 times the action that a full-grown would use.

One fellow is addressed as Fat. Another sings a mummy song while half his face is browned up and the other normal. Olsen plays the straight part, his partner the chief end of the comedy and the other two help out in whatever they get a chance at.

About half way down the long turn Alexander dons the garb of a female and climbs into the box on the left side of the house with one of his assistants, Margaret Ford, double-voice singer, and one of the lads from the band in Gladys Delmar's act were in the other on the opposite side of the house.

Olsen walks down in the aisle and announces that the midget is possessed of psychic powers and will tell what is on the minds of persons in the audience. A lot of old jokes are used for this, such as this man wants to know what kind of a car he has. You are losing your dress, Lizzie. The answer, it's a Ford.

The two persons in either box spring stories back and forth and Olsen is a sort of in-valuator. The house lights have been turned up and the familiarity with the audience seems to be the most pleasing feature as far as the customers are concerned. They continue to gag back and forth with a lot of banter and play on the part of Alexander during all of it.

The act ends with the two principals playing the xylophone ensemble. They bang out two syncopated numbers then rush off. The act has good qualities and should be suitable for medium-time vaudeville. G. V. W.

King Solomon, Jr.

Reviewed Thursday evening, February 19, at Proctor's 58th Street Theater, New York. Style—A one-act song and dance novelty. Setting—In full (eye). Time—Twenty-eight minutes.

There are six girls and two principals in this playlet that is similar to the one Franklyn Ardi did with the same title. The girls each represent a day of the week and are said to be a wife on that particular day that they are named.

A slide is thrown on the curtain at first stating that the time is supposed to be 1940, and a proclamation has been issued that a man can have as many wives as he desires.

The girls portray the various types of womanhood, vampire, simplicity, blonds and brunets, hard boiled, a singer, an old-fashioned kind, and the original wife who has been in that position before the new protocol went into effect.

After a few wise cracks as to what "hubby" is doing away from home, by the entire company, the girl supposed to be the hard-boiled egg sings My Best Girl. They drop back into gags again, and the man enters to tell of how he was abused before the new arrangement went into effect and he only had one girl to deal with.

He calls the roll, Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, and so on, to find that Sunday is out. He picks up the phone, which has a radio-aerial attachment, and calls up to try and locate the missing miss. The woman principal breaks into a song, You're To Be Seen and Not Heard, Henrietta, with the rest of the company in the chorus.

At this moment the man is away—to return with the seventh girl whom he has just married, she still wearing a wedding veil. He announces that there has only been a two weeks' courtship, and the new "baby" is to get the title of Saturday. The company sings a song about Good-night, and they all repair to the different rooms marked with their date on the door.

The act provoked a number of laughs for this house and was greeted with a goodly response at the close. It is still quite new, however, and needs more practice to wear off the sharp corners that are projecting here and there. G. V. W.

Mack and Velmar

Reviewed Tuesday matinee, February 21, at Proctor's Fifth Avenue Theater, New York. Style—A comedy skit. Setting—In three with aperture in rear for piano. Time—Fifteen minutes.

A Western dialect is used, Mack portraying a Western cowboy rube. The girl is a sweet little blonde who dances prettily and acts the part of a hotel coquette cleverly.

The scene is laid in the writing room of a hotel with the girl starting a letter to a friend. Mack comes on wearing a broad-brimmed black Western hat and picks up the little flapper. They have a few nifties together and the girl goes off with the man singing No One Knows What It's All About. He has a good tenor voice and his reception was most gratifying.

Miss Velmar comes back in a new white costume cut very low in the back which comes in for a lot of aspersions from Mack. A few more gags are used and the girl plays the piano while her partner sings At the End of the Road. The girl shows to advantage in a quick succession of high kicks with the dance tapering off into jazz steps here. Mack surrounds her with attention then and Miss Velmar announces that she is of a wealthy family with the last line explaining that he has been spoofing him.

An extra comes on wearing a uniform with a sign "Keeper" on his hat and takes the girl off. He explains that Miss Velmar is a nut for she thinks that she is the daughter of a millionaire. Mack starts singing a bit nutty himself and another keeper takes him back to the booby hatch.

A light little novelty that pleased immensely. G. V. W.

Baby Peggy

Reviewed at the Hippodrome, New York, Monday matinee, February 23. Style—Personal-appearance novelty. Setting—Special, in full. Time—Twenty-five minutes.

Another "meme", purely of the genre that is intended to attract people to the theater rather than to entertain them after they are there. Baby Peggy, well known as a child motion-picture star, who always and wide publicity and explanation, is ideal for the Hippodrome in the sense that she is a mighty draw, and for those who go to a vaudeville theater merely to be able to say they have seen a star and so in person, she is the star. The children, scores of whom will doubtless see the young star during her engagement here, will find her a good source of interest, but to the average vaudevillegoer who is seeking entertainment instead of matter to fill a diary, the interest is bound to be shallow.

A glance at the heading above shows that the offering runs 25 minutes. It must be explained that 15 minutes have become Baby Peggy puts in an appearance, part of this time being consumed in the production on the screen of a picture entitled From Hollywood to the Hippodrome, announced as chronicling the young star's peregrinations from the motion-picture colony to the Hipp. Close observation, however, indicates that the film was "shot" up in Massachusetts. License plates on cars used in the picture are of that State and the general atmosphere of New England is almost as unlike Hollywood as that in Eugene O'Neill's Desire Under the Elms. A railroad station also flouts its huge letters—Dorchester.

The film shows Baby Peggy in dire necessity of getting to New York. She is seen trotting into a country store with a basket of eggs which she desires to sell that she might get the wherewithal for a deuce to the big town. The eggs were, on examination, far from fresh, having hatched a flock of chicks. The kind groceryman tells her to go to the butcher up the block, which she does. He says he will buy the chickens after they grow up and she returns, dragging a goose behind her. This is purchased for a nickel and Baby Peggy goes to the station to get a ticket for New York, but the agent tells her he's sold out. Failing to "bum" her way to New York by crawling into a motor bus bound for there, she gets into a packing case which is about to be loaded on a truck for shipment and after the screen ascends, is carried onto the stage in this box.

Nine minutes had elapsed by now. The next seven minutes were taken up, when reviewed, in a pretentious display of color, with the Hippodrome dancing girls, the midgets and animals of Tootown and Tillis and LaTou, dancing team in the Land of Fantasy on the same bill, forming an attractive setting. Through the scene the box stood in the center of the stage, Baby Peggy peering over the top now and then.

Finally she emerges, walks to the footlights, bows, and goes off again, with out saying a word. Her father takes the stage in "one", and Monday afternoon indulged in a long-winded dissertation about Baby Peggy and how she became famous, etc., declaring among other things that she is not a super child, but merely a baby who has been very obedient, and that any child has the keynote to success in practicing this virtue. In illustration, he brings Baby Peggy forth and puts her thru a routine of motion picture accomplishments, such as registering surprise, gladness, gloom and tears. She is able to do these things competently because she has been obedient and concentrated on them, her father continued.

In closing, the youthful star tells a few brief doilies, among them one which the writer used to pull on his playmates when about her age, to wit: Three Irishmen, green as the Emerald Isle itself, learned to say "when first in this country 'I did', 'For nine cents' and 'The sooner the better' respectively, with the result when arrested that the cop asked "Who did this?", getting an answer from the first of the trio, "I did"; "What for?", with answer from second Irishman, "For nine cents", and when told "I'd better put you in jail", the third up and says, "The sooner the better". Another was about the cat eating a ball of yarn and giving birth to kittens with sweaters on. R. C.

Roger Wolfe Kahn

With His INAUGURAL ORCHESTRA Under the Direction of Joe Raymond (Permission of John McE. Bowman, Baltimore Hotel)

Reviewed Monday matinee, February 23, at the Hippodrome, New York. Style—Symphonic jazz orchestra. Setting—In full stage. Time—Seventeen minutes.

Roger Wolfe Kahn comes back to the jazz band limelight with what he calls his Inaugural Orchestra, so named because he has been engaged to play at the inauguration ceremonies in Washington in March. It is a modest array of talent Kahn has collected and the band's offerings are presented in a modest manner, altho Kahn is the son of Otto Kahn, the banker and art patron, who could well afford expensive settings and elaborate scenes. Even young Kahn prefers to be as modest as possible, hiding himself behind his saxophones and not so much as tooting to the audience until the very finish of the act. Joe Raymond directing the bandmen thruout.

This is all well and good, but there are many persons who doubtless get the impression Raymond is Kahn. A little low on the opening wouldn't be taking undue liberties, if that's the way the wealthy young musician feels about it. Knowing which of the bandmen was Kahn and thus being in a position to watch his work more closely, would increase the interest a good deal for those who do not recognize him.

The band, as bands of this kind go, is what might be called better than the average. There are many in vaudeville better than it is, and many that are worse. The numbers are played in popular jazz fashion, except for Waters of Minnetonka and The Stars and Stripes Forever, the latter probably include in the routine at Monday's show due to the fact that Washington's birthday was being officially celebrated on that day.

The popular Sousa march was the best thing the band did, when reviewed, the brass rising to stirring heights. The opening number was All Alone, followed by Pleasure Mad. A trumpet solo of Roses of Picardy was well played by a pleasant appearing young man whose trousers were in dire need of a tailor's touch, and for the number, When My Sugar Walks Down the Street, one of the Hippodrome dancing girls did a cakewalk specialty. The Waters of Minnetonka and Stars and Stripes Forever followed, the latter number closing the band to a good hand, when reviewed. R. C.

Sheldon and Dailey

Reviewed Tuesday matinee, February 24, at Proctor's Fifth Avenue Theater, New York. Style—Sister song and dance act. Setting—In one. Time—Twelve minutes.

These two girls harmonize exceptionally well while one plays the piano. They sing five character songs and all register a good response.

Miss Sheldon, opens singing I Never Care About Tomorrow, Miss Dailey harmonizing in the chorus. Some wise patter is shot over after the first stanza which tickled the flapper branch of the audience.

When My Sugar Walks Down the Street is next with the blended contralto voices getting them over in fine style. What a Life When Nobody Loves You is sung by Miss Dailey while her partner has a good time kidding her about the former's lack of sweethearts and why she has but few.

Miss Sheldon's singing of I'm a Hard-Boiled Rose, in which she wears an old and torn coat, gives her a chance to depict a "tough" girl. I Must Have Company is the closing number, with Miss Dailey singing the piece again and her partner injecting more witticisms, especially about the former's slimmness.

They are off to a fine close, the audience smiling and clapping its appreciation. G. V. W.

Clifford and Marion

Reviewed Tuesday matinee, February 24, at Proctor's Fifth Avenue Theater, New York. Style—Comedy, song and dance novelty. Setting—In one. Time—Fourteen minutes.

Marion is the Dumb-Dora type, while her partner plays the straight-man feeder. She wears a trick hat, a short blue waist and a white flannel dress, while Clifford has a blue, double-breasted suit and a straw hat.

A lot of gags are their first routine concerning the dumbness of Dumb Dora that are funny. They breeze along with a number of laugh getters and then she announces that she can recite. She does The Egg and then bounces off.

He sings a comedy song, Black Is Black, of four verses and then the girl returns with a red-hot dress of vermilion color. Some more nifties, all of them touching this audience's funny spot. Then in off key Come, Come, I Love You Always, is sung for a curtain.

These two are both naturally funny, for they get the audience going right off. The act appeared today to fit well in medium-time vaudeville. G. V. W.

Miss Rasch has produced ballet offerings for vaudeville before, namely, one for the Hippodrome last season, and another that is now touring the circuits. This act is unusually well done from a vaudeville standpoint, and contains elements more suited to such audiences. The music has been adapted from classical

(Communications to 1493 Broadway, New York, N. Y.)

Hearings before the Patents Committee in Washington regarding the Perkins copyright bill were concluded last week, further action being postponed until after special meetings are held in New York, next summer, before a committee of five. These five are to be selected from the Patents Committee.

Mrs. Ethelbert Nevin appeared at the last hearing and gave a full account of how she actually came to receive royalties on The Rosary, from the Victor company, which differed considerably from the version given by Attorney Paine representing that mechanical concern. Others also appeared, pleading for or against the passage of the bill.

Nathan Burkan and Gene Buck, general counsel and president, respectively, of the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers, were not heard in rebuttal as was expected, but will have an opportunity at the hearings in New York before the special committee. Others also will be heard and it is expected that the Patents Committee will then be in a position to present a more concise and clearer report to both houses of the new Congress.

At present the chief complaint is that those opposing the bill gave such diffuse testimony and condemned the bill as a whole, instead of picking out their particular angle and working along those lines, that the Patents Committee is swamped with testimony, many pages in length, which means, for the most part, absolutely nothing.

Not only were long speeches made by those opposed to the bill, but many made them without having thoroughly familiarized themselves with the contents of the measure. Yet they were anxious to show why the bill should not be passed. One member of the opposition frankly stated that he hadn't had time to study the bill, and retired, but it was brought out that he had refused to go over the measure with one of its sponsors before the hearings were started.

From the motion picture camp there was opposition, but it really proved to be nothing serious. They have made no serious complaint, as the records show. When the meetings are resumed in a few months there will be no excuse for any faction for not being prepared to either fight against or for the measure.

The publishers and writers will surely back the bill stronger than ever, for in the repeal of the compulsory license clause, which does away with the two-cent limit on mechanical records, is relief and compensation, not only from the small amounts they have received in the past and still are, for their product, but also the low statements now in vogue, because fewer records are being sold.

Harry Von Tilzer Music Company is reviving the old-time favorite, Mansion of Aching Hearts, in conjunction with a new motion picture of that title which will be released shortly. The title page will have three "stills" taken from the film, and a new edition is now on the presses.

Von Tilzer wrote the song just 22 years ago, and he really never stopped selling, for it is in his folio of old songs. Other old-time ballads have received a fresh lease of life when revived in connection with the films, and, according to the print order for the new edition, no small sale is expected. It also will be used as the theme song in the cued score that will accompany the picture's presentation.

The latest ballad from Von Tilzer's pen is entitled Wandering One, which also contains a sentimental story, as is his usual style, plus a pleasing waltz strain. The song must be good, according to the report of a demonstrator who worked at one of the chain stores. A songwriter lingered around the counter, requesting that his own be played and asked how it was selling. Before he left the girl played Wandering One again, and the songwriter decided to buy a copy as he was on his way home. This sounds funny, but happens to be true, for the writer in question was not in a position to go up to the Von Tilzer offices and graft a free copy.

Jimmy McHugh, professional department manager for Jack Mills, Inc., left last week to fulfill radio dates in the Middle West, after joining Irving Mills in Detroit. From there the Hotie Totie Boys will travel farther west and in addition to the radio concerts will call upon the trade and otherwise exploit the concern's catalog.

Sigmund Romberg, composer, who has been writing scores for musical comedies, as well as contributing interpolated hits for such shows for several years, has been signed to compose exclusively for Florenz Ziegfeld, Jr., for five years. He was formerly under contract with M. Witmark & Sons and his latest score will be heard shortly in the new Ziegfeld show, Louis the 14th, starring Leon Errol.

The W. C. Handy Music Company has two new numbers from Marshall Walker and Hy Heath, now on tour over a Southern vaudeville circuit. Who Calls You Sweet Hanna Now?, by the same writers and publishers, has been released on two mechanicals the past week.

Harry Snodgrass, "King of the Ivories", now playing the Orpheum Circuit, will record piano solos exclusively for the Brunswick Record Company, the first disk to be released soon being Dustin the Keys, backed with Three O'Clock in the Morning. The record has been made after the fashion of a radio performance, with the announcer, etc.

The professional department staff of Shapiro, Bernstein, Inc., was augmented last week by Florence Brooks, who is now secretary to George Plantadosi, manager of the department. Miss Brooks is well-known to the trade, having been connected in the past with Feist, Remick and other large houses. George Bennett also joined the staff last week, while Joe Keden is busier than ever, having been signed to make piano rolls for the Connorized Roli Company. Included in the numbers being plugged are The Only, Only One; Peter Pan and At the End of the Road.

It seems as tho our late hit, Bananas, started something of a similar edible series of songs in England. Lawrence Wright Music Company had quite a song hit in Eat More Fruit. The Darewski Music Company is advertising that the answer to Eat More Fruit is I Want More Meat. This evidently was the cue for Cecil Lennox and Company to plug What's Wrong With Fish? (Eat More Fish), and the chorus runs in part, "cut out fruit, cut out meat, fruit and meat you must not eat." A song cycle is a song cycle, and the lyrics, Bananas notwithstanding, are typically English and clever. As a matter of fact, the so-called crazy style of lyric was always a feature of the English comedy numbers.

Maude Nugent, who wrote Sweet Rosie O'Grady nearly 30 years ago, and has been writing a few other songs from time to time, has a new one, the first in seven years. It is called Arizona Sunshine, a waltz dedicated to Governor and Mrs. G. W. P. Hunt, of the State mentioned in the title.

E. B. Marks Music Company is taking legal action to restrain Perry Bradford, writer and publisher, from printing and selling He Rambled, a song which Marks claims is an infringement on a song published many years ago called Oh Didn't He Ramble. Not only is the title similar, sets forth the Marks complaint, but the greater part of the old lyric, as well as general idea, is incorporated in the new number.

Jack Palmer and Spencer Williams believe they handed a pretty strong novelty song, She's My Sheba—Um Her Sheik, to the Lincoln Music Company, which reports great prospects for it. The same writers recently contributed Everybody Loves My Baby.

There never was a time when so many fine musical comedy song hits were on the market. The past season has brought hit shows, with more than the single hit usually expected of a successful score.

Yet with all this fine material available, the sheet music sales of these spicid numbers are but 60 per cent of what they ought to be under normal conditions. This shows, at least, that the songs are not to blame, for they are of a more tuneful and clever lyric combination than ever. For one thing, the sheet music buyers do not have to go to a show to hear the songs nowadays, which may be one of the chief causes of the slump. In fact, by the time they get to see the show the songs are cold turkey with them, and it is really wise to keep production music from being broadcast too often.

George Gershwin's Rhapsody in Blue is hailed as the only piece of real American music by Carl Van Vechten in the current issue of Vanity Fair. Van Vechten of late has been writing novels, but has for sometime enjoyed an excellent reputation as a music critic. The mere fact that a composer from the ranks of the popular and musical comedy writers has been mentioned in that publication is a sort of innovation in itself. Duskin, concert violinist, played it as a solo recently, being the first to take it out of the purely piano solo classification. Paul Whiteman's Concert Orchestra is still using it as piece de resistance.

Edgar Ray, Kansas City music publisher, reports that a new act will soon go on the road, using the title of his song hit, She Used To Ride a Trolley Car. Simon D. J. Collins, youthful artiste of Leavenworth, Kan., and Virginia Leach are featured in this act. They are using several other Ray numbers, among them being Oh What a Girl I Have Found and Old Cider Mill.

and popular sources, pleasing to the ear and of light variety.

The dances are created as a sort of ballet version of all sorts of popular steps including the Charleston and other jazz steps done as solos. Marita is the featured soloist and she is assisted at times by Edward Moore, who seems weak in both his dancing and method of handling his partner. Four of the group are used to fill the intervals with eccentric and faster stuff while the rest of the ensemble are a ballet conception of girls trained along Tiller lines. This is noticeable thruout their work.

It seems as the Miss Rasch got the correct angle when putting this particular offering on, said to be at the suggestion of Eddie Darling, one of the chief Keith-Albee bookers. It is suitable for presentation in any house, big or small time, but probably too costly for the latter circuits. M. H. S.

Hickman Brothers

Reviewed Thursday evening, February 26, at B. S. Moss' Franklin Theater, New York. Style—Comedy. Setting—In one. Time—Fifteen minutes.

The brothers are two in number, one working in blackface. They do a hokum routine of comedy, which might have been better than it was were it not for the manner in which they delivered their lines, making it necessary for most of the audience to strain their ears to hear them. Thru a large part of the act it seemed as tho both were merely having a bit of private fun and didn't care to have the audience in on it.

Their offering, judging from what we did hear of it, is good enough for the small-time houses, but its value elsewhere is doubtful. It could also be cut effectively, as 15 minutes is much too long. G. J. H.

Marcel Salzinger

Reviewed Monday matinee, February 23, at the Hippodrome, New York. Style—Singing. Setting—In one. Time—Twelve minutes.

Marcel Salzinger, Roumanian baritone, enjoys considerable fame abroad as a Lied singer and exponent of the art of bel canto. He is popular in the opera houses of Vienna, where he appeared with Mme. Marie Jertiza, now with the Metropolitan; Berlin, Hamburg, Dresden and other musical centers of Europe. His engagement at the Hippodrome is his first in vaudeville here.

Salzinger has a finely modulate and husky baritone, with a particularly mel-

Effusive quality. He controls it masterfully, and in offering his numbers is meticulously careful in making every note count.

The routine, when reviewed, consisted of a number in Italian, with which he opened, Your Eyes Have Told Me So, in English, and a classical piece in French Doing Your Eyes Have Told Me So came as a surprise, since the impression was conveyed on the opening with Salzinger's operatic carriage and gestures that he would not think of offering anything but the works of the old masters.

He registered strongly when the reviewer caught the act. An unbidden pianist played the accompaniments in an efficient manner. R. I.

Mickey Bennett and Co.

Reviewed Thursday evening, February 26, at B. S. Moss' Franklin Theater, New York. Style—Dramatic sketch. Setting—Full stage, special. Time—Fifteen minutes.

Mickey Bennett, according to a slide shown before the rise of the curtain, is a motion picture kid star. Prior to the start of the act a part of a reel of Red Brother, a Rex Beach picture in which Bennett appeared, is shown on the screen. The boy is apparently about eight or nine years old.

In his vaudeville act he is assisted by a girl, who is perhaps a year or two younger than himself, and a man. The sketch gives plenty of room for dramatic action on the part of all the characters and casts Mickey in the role of a tough little kid who is looking after a motherless little girl, whose daddy has been sent to jail.

Just whether it is a good idea to have a youngster do sophisticated and grown-up lines and bits is a matter of doubt. This reviewer believes it to be poor policy, for an audience would much rather see youngsters act natural, and be real kids, than see them in the role of fresh-know-it-all types.

Mickey is a clever little artiste. The lad does his tough character well, but, judging from the bit of the motion picture shown before the sketch, he can do a sweet, lovable boy much better. The little girl with him also is very clever and also is sweet. The man gives fair support.

The act is surefire with a family audience. The plot is dramatic hokum, which is just the stuff the average audience in a three-a-day-house loves. But with a really clever act Mickey should play the big-time houses.

Lewis & Gordon Present
WALLACE EDDINGER

"Things Could Be Worse"

By Edwin Burke

Staged by the Author
CAST OF CHARACTERS

Billy Midgley, a Man About Town...
Emily, His Wife...
SCENE—Richard Stevens' Apartment,
Park Avenue, New York City.
TIME—Eleven o'clock of a night in November.

Reviewed Monday matinee, February 23, at the Palace Theater, New York.
Style—Comedy playlet. Setting—Full stage (interior). Time—Twenty-five minutes.

Of all the sketches that Lewis & Gordon have produced for stars from the legitimate stage, this is one of the finest, in point of entertainment and suitable vehicle for the actor. Which also goes for the author, Edwin Burke.

There are laughs thruout the running time of the act, the material is well written, and, of course, the cast is wholly adequate. There is enough stuff in the offering to hold the interest and the suspense and it is not the least of its good qualities.

Eddinger, as Midgley, the man about town, drops in on his friend, who lives a floor below him, just in time to prevent a suicide. Stevens, his pal, has already called the police and said they would find his body upon arrival. The carbolic acid is ready, because he went broke on the stock market. Midgley (Eddinger) has a fine bun on and starts to talk his pal out of the suicide. Surly and determined as he is, Stevens listens to a proposition. "I can make things much worse for you, and prove your present plight nothing compared to what it might be," Midgley says, and the pal takes him up.

This is the cue for Midgley to call his wife on the phone and tell her that he is down stairs waiting for her and intimates important news pending. He is a so broke, and has been drunk and away from home for a day and a half. Wife comes down, and pal Stevens is pointed out as the man who forged Midgley's name to a check drawing out the $5,000 the couple had as a reserve fund against poverty. Naturally, the complication is funny and the pal stands all he can from his friend's wife until he starts to get cold feet.

Meantime the cop arrives to find the body and takes the alleged forger with him. In reality the missing money was taken out of the bank by the husband and played on a horse. After wife announces her intention of separating herself from his house, he takes the poison to show her that she also might be worse off. This, of course, is a wow and starts the act all over again with fresh interest. The "poison" turns out to be harmless because he knew the druggist who sold the stuff, and for an even better happy ending, the horse that he played wins and the friend, acting as bookie, has given the money to the wife. "Wee" Sandy McPherson

Reviewed Thursday evening, February 26, at B. S. Moss' Franklin Theater, New York.
Setting—In one. Time—Twelve minutes.

"Wee" Sandy McPherson is evidently "wee" mostly because of his age, being probably just past 16 years. He's a like-looking boy with pleasing personality and a voice that isn't at all bad. He does several Scotch numbers of the Sir Harry Lauder type, including "Roamin' in the Gloamin', I Love To Be a Sailor and Come Back, Nannie." The latter is somewhat overdone, the lad using a set routine of gestures which could be improved upon. He also does some effective clog dancing, closing with a Pat Rooney routine, which sent him off to good applause at this house.

The boy at present is set for the family houses. With plenty of work and better material he should develop into a better class theater act. G. J. H.

Robbins' Baltimoreans Orchestra

Reviewed Monday afternoon, February 23, at B. S. Moss' Broadway Theater, New York.
Style—Orchestra. Setting—Full stage, special. Time—Fourteen minutes.

Vaudeville has reached the point now where orchestras, in order to secure booking, must have either something in the way of real novelty, or must be really very good as orchestras go. Robbins' Baltimoreans, as an act, combines "the best features of both." The touch of novelty is given to the act with the presence of three young men who are announced as the New Orleans Blues

Blowers, who have but one inning to themselves, playing string instruments, including ukes and guitars and break "kazodike" horns. Thru the other parts of the act they sit without playing. The other asset of the act lies in the fact that the orchestrations are arranged somewhat better than those of the average orchestra.

With the Blues Blowers the total number of men on stage in the orchestra is 13. This leaves 10 for the regular orchestra. More of the Blues Blowers should be heard in the act. In fact, one number in which they would play with the entire orchestra would be an added novelty. They suit on almost any bill. G. J. H.

The Five Jewels

Reviewed Thursday evening, February 26, at Proctor's 5th Street Theater, New York.
Style—Acrobatic dancing novelty.
Setting—A black patent leather cyc.
Time—Nine minutes.

Five well-developed girls who have attractive faces and agile bodies, to say nothing of dainty and original costumes.

Four girls are on when the curtain rises doing their daily dozen in unison. They are clad in red form-fitting costumes that extend to slightly past the thighs. A few steps follow and the girls vacate for a moment to leave the stage for the principal to do her stuff.

She wears a ballet effect and flourishes about in a toe number. She is a past master of the art, spinning and leaping on her toes without any apparent effort. She is clad in a sort of green-colored costume with white stockings. Lace is used to trim the garment which gives the young lady a true chic effect.

The four girls whiz back and this time in an aesthetic number with that kind of costumes. Fink in color, they are made of filmy silk material. There is a number of difficult stunts and steps performed for this. They prove to be quite adept at contorting their bodies, for the roll-over stunts, hand and feet to the floor, were all done remarkably well and in unison at that.

A girl in the chorus is next with a specialty number. This is made up mostly of acrobatic efforts that are done to the tune of music and creating a dance effect.

The finale is an acrobatic dance with the company all on. They stick to the acrobatic end of dancing and whirl off to two hands full of applause. G. V. W.

Monte Carlo Show

Fast and Well Staged

for it was here that Brook Johns and several others got the start that led to stardom.

Ace Brigade and His 14 Virginians are in the corner from which the music comes. It is a band well put together and plays in modulated tones for both show and dancing. The 14-piece orchestra received excellent response last night for its playing, which is most suitable for a place of this kind.

William Arnold is responsible for the cabaret. He directed, arranged the music, wrote the lyrics and designed the costumes, which were made by Reine and are an outstanding feature of the piece. Bernard and Rich, who appeared with the Rombo Show on the road, are the stellar attraction. A dancing team with most of the burden on the man's shoulders. He is an excellent performer and his drunken impersonations got the house.

Roy Sedley, formerly on the Loew Circuit; Eva Darling, ex-musical comedy; Ira Warnell, also a musical comedy singer; and Ruth Wells, a toe dancer who formerly worked for the Shuberts, are the next in line as principals.

The choristers are well selected and have been in and out of cabaret work for some time. They worked for Arnold previously, as he was employed by the Solvents for 14 years staging revues. The girls are Betty Morris, Mattie Craft, Helen Tully, Grace Norman, Vera Tirrell, Elsie Frank, Rose Boulais, Edith Layman, Jeanette Simard and Mabel Benfisha, all just back from Philadelphia where they were playing in the Club Madrid; Eva Tuller, with the last Passing Show at the Winter Garden; and Elsie Lynwood, a former Strand Roof girl.

Arnold asserted that he thought a curtain added a theatrical touch to the place and for that reason he inserted one. It works on a circular rod and comes out onto the floor in a semi-circle. It is black, adorned with embroidered Birds of Paradise.

The show runs for an hour and a half and, contrary to most revues of this character, without a break. Arnold thinks it a serious error to break a cabaret show, contending that the average person's interest does not center around the entertainers after a lull of 15 or 20 minutes about half way down the program.

There are about 21 specialty numbers in the piece, giving the principals plenty to do. The chorus was not sent on alone during the evening. It always works in conjunction with at least one of the principals.

Miss Rich, the partner of Bernard, in the finale appears with a slight bodice and tights. She is painted from head to foot with gold leaf and creates quite a spectacle as she shimmers about the floor with a dozen or more spotlights glittering on her slyph-like form.

Arnold has tried to get away from the cut and dried cabaret show in this and has succeeded to a great extent. The patrons enjoyed every bit of it.

N. Y. Vaude. Engagements

New York, Feb. 28.—Robbin's Century Roof Orchestra, which played four consecutive seasons in Baltimore at the Century Roof, opened this week in vaudeville at B. S. Moss' Broadway Theater. Altho the band opened cold, with but one day's notice, it received three weeks' additional time on the strength of the first show. With the band of 10 pieces are the New Orleans Blue Blowers, a hot trio.

The orchestra is under the management of Fred Robbins and is directed by his brother, Sam. While in the city the orchestra is making test records for the Brunswick company. Following the tentative three-week route on the Moss Time, further vaudeville dates will be played over the larger circuits.

Club Kentucky Opens

New York, Feb. 28.—The Club Kentucky opened this week, occupying the quarters that formerly housed The Hollywood, the latter place having been closed for some time. Silver Slipper Changes

Chicago, Feb. 28.—Betty Burnett, Auriole Craven and Geneva Mick are new additions to the revue at the Silver Slipper Cafe. Sol Wagner and His Band play for both tea dansant and evening entertainment. Mirth Mack is held over from the old show for the new revue.

Chicago, Feb. 28.—The bill of specialties changed at Terrace Garden today, but Fred Travers and his orchestra continue their engagement. Wells and Wintrop appear in Foot Feats, a dancing novelty and the Harper Sisters offer duets and dances.

Gault's Photo for Song

Chicago, Feb. 28.—Al Gault, a singer at the Valentino Inn, has been recognized by song publishers and 10,000 copies of Vincent Ross' When I Think of You will bear Mr. Gault's autograph and picture. He is singing the number nightly at the Inn.

HOLIDAY FATTENS BOX OFFICES

Business at Broadway Theaters Big All Week Except for Wednesday Matinees---Four New Dramatic Offerings Coming In

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—There was hardly a show on Broadway that did not do big business Washington's Birthday and the grosses for this week, even tho it marks the beginning of Lent, have been huge. Business for the Wednesday matinees, what with the natural dropping off after a holiday matinee and it being Ash Wednesday, were not good at all, tho the night performances were entirely satisfactory.

Lent does not affect the theater as much now as it did in former years and no appreciable slackening of business is looked for. Almost certainly none will come to the successes and quasi-hits, but the weaker brethren may suffer. Of the shows which opened last week White Collars and The Wild Duck look like hits. Ariadne is considered to have more than an even chance to click and Night Hawk may easily go into the hit class. The Virgin of Bethulia and Two by Two are only figured for short stays by the wise ones. From now on a slackening in new producing activities is in order, but there are several shows trying out, mainly by new or small producers, and they will doubtless come to Broadway if they shape up out of town.

Next week shows a distinct slowing up of production, with only two shows nominated for evening playing and only one of these at a Broadway playhouse. There are also two dramatic plays to be done during the week, but they are for special matinees. With continued good business the changes in the theaters become fewer and fewer and new dramatic attractions should become more or less of a rarity within a few weeks. The new offerings for next week are as follows:

Beginning Tuesday afternoon the Actors' Theater will present a series of special matinee performances of Pierrot the Prodigal on Tuesday and Friday afternoons. This is a pantomime by Michel Carré, with music by André Wormser. The company is headed by Laurette Taylor and includes Galina Koperuk, Ivan Lazareff, Clarence Burwent and Michelle Burani. The staging has been done by Otakar Bartik, the settings are by Livingston Platt, and George Copeland, the concert pianist, will play the Wormser score. The performances will take place at the 48th Street Theater.

Another series of special matinees will be begun on Tuesday afternoon when the Reed Producers, Inc., will present The Complex, a play by Louis E. Biseh, at the Booth Theater. Performances are scheduled for Tuesdays and Fridays. The cast includes Dorothy Hall, Robert Montgomery, Percy Haswell, George Baekus, Pacie Ripple, William A. Williams, Robert Harrison, Mildred Lee and William Balfour.

On Tuesday night Frank Egan will present his second production of the season, Doris Keane in Starlight, a play by Gladys Unger. The engagement will be played at the Broadhurst Theater. Miss Keane heads a long cast, which includes Stanley Jessup, Florence Short, Charles Meredith, Frank Dawson, Philip Wood, Frederick Vogeding, Forbes Dawson, Richard Bowler, Kay McKay, Esther Lyon, Teresa Guerin, Edwin Mills, William Pearce, Borden Harriman, Marion Stephenson, Henry Mowbray, John Knight, Leon Brown, Allen Vincent, Martin Berkeley and Leland Chandler. The play is in 11 scenes, which have been designed by Ruth Brenner and Frederick Jones III. Edith Ellis has directed the staging.

The Provincetown Playhouse will have as its next attraction Michel Auclair, a play from the French of Charles Yldrac. The opening takes place on Wednesday night. The cast includes Helen Freeman, Walter Abel and Edgar Stehli. Robert Edmond Jones has staged the play and has also done the settings after designs of the author.

Opens "Lost"

New York, Feb. 27.—Carle Carlton will present Lost, a play by George Agnew Chamberlain at New Haven on Monday night. The cast is headed by Alma Tell and includes Ramsey Wallace, Gilberta Faust, Arthur Vinton, David Glassford, Guy Nichols, Elaine Temple, Frank J. Hetterick, Walter Bragsdale, Richard Pittman, John M. Kline, Edward Finley, Madelon LaVarre, Louis Devant, Lucio Gonzalez, Pasquale Nava, Victor J. Rosales, Pablo Valderma, Ernesto Boado. A Broadway engagement is scheduled for March 16.

Rumpus Over "White Cargo"

Baltimore, Feb. 27.—White Cargo, playing at the Lyceum Theater, received a lot of publicity this week thru the discharge of Isabelle Herbert from the company. Miss Herbert said she was let out because she would not wear a dress that was indecent, and when she refused to do it was handed her notice. She told this story before a meeting of club-women and they tried to have the management indicted on the ground of giving an indecent play. When the time came to go before the Grand Jury Miss Herbert did not put in an appearance.

The production of White Cargo being given here is under the direction of De Witt Newing and Frank Wilson, who leased the rights from Earl Carroll. Mr. Newing denies that Miss Herbert was discharged because she refused to wear a costume. He said she was let go because she failed to satisfy in the role of Tondelero. In a statement issued last night from his New York office Mr. Newing said:

"Miss Herbert received her notice, which was regular according to the terms of her contract, because her performance failed to satisfy not only the management but a large part of the public, judging by the reports sent to me by my Baltimore manager."

"Miss Herbert came to my office this morning, voluntarily, and in the presence of witnesses stated that I had not made any attempt to intimidate her or to prevent her from going before the Grand Jury in Baltimore, as was previously stated."

Calls Play "Awful"---Pinched

New York, Feb. 27.—The performance of The Rat at the Colonial Theater was interrupted during the second act last night when one of the patrons, John J. Cryan, rose from his seat and yelled: "Take down the curtain! This is awful!" Robert Edgar Long, the business manager of the company, had Cryan arrested and in night court he said he was disgusted with the play. Magistrate Goodman, tho, was inclined to the opinion that Cryan had imbibed a bit too freely and held him on a disorderly conduct charge.

Mr. Long claimed that Cryan's disturbance might easily have started a panic in the theater, for just previous to it the fire engines had been clanging past the theater and some of the patrons rushed to the conclusion that the fire was in the theater. Several of them started to gather up their wraps and make for the exits.

At this point the lights were thrown on and ushers requested all to remain seated. Mr. Long appeared on the stage and in a short speech, in which he said the disturber had been arrested, quieted the audience. The disturbance having subsided, the play went on to its conclusion without further interruption.

"Rivals" Booked Till 1926

New York, Feb. 27.—George C. Tyler and Hugh Ford have booked their all-star production of The Rivals until the summer of 1926. The company, which includes Mrs. Fiske, James T. Powers, Chauncey Olcott, Tom Wise and Lola Fisher, has been playing all this season to enormous receipts.

New York will not see this production until next season, for it is now headed for the Pacific Coast, where it will play this spring. A month's layoff will be taken in the summer, after which the company will come east.

"Chauve-Souris" Plans Changed

New York, Feb. 28.—The plans for Chauve-Souris have been changed and the show will end its New York engagement March 7.

GAIL KANE

This beautiful "camp" of screen and stage is appearing in a mother role in "Loggerheads", at the Cherry Lane Theater, New York. In the new type of role she is as ethereally lovely as she was wickedly beautiful as a vampire.

To Play in London

New York, Feb. 27.—Had luck been with John Zwieki, Edgar Selwyn's business representative, Elsie Lawson would be sailing on the Berengaria to appear in the London production of Dancing Mothers on March 16. As it is, and luck being as it is, she will sail on March 7 and arrive in London just two days before the opening.

Edgar Selwyn cabled Zwieki to send Miss Lawson over to him on the first boat, but Miss Lawson left the cast of Dancing Mothers at the Maxine Elliott Theater a few days ago bound for a vacation in Florida. Zwieki called up Palm Beach on the telephone but could not locate her. After trying all the hotels he received word that she was on a yachting trip. Finally, one of the party came ashore and hearing of Zwieki's frenzied inquiries, got him in touch with Miss Lawson. She consented to cut her vacation short and will sail on March 7 for London.

Carpenter Sails for Europe

New York, Feb. 27.—Edward Childs Carpenter, president of the Dramatists' Theater, Inc., will sail for an extended tour of the continent on the S. S. France tomorrow. He will visit Paris, Vienna, Budapest, Berlin and London.

Mr. Carpenter states that the object of his trip is to secure a suitable leading woman for The Leopard, a drama from his pen which his company is to produce. The production of the piece has been postponed from time to time because he has been unable to find a satisfactory interpreter for the leading female role. He hopes to find the actress he wants in England or Europe. Mr. Carpenter will return in the early summer.

Kin Try To Bar Play

Paris, Feb. 27.—The family of George Guynemer, France's foremost war-time ace, are endeavoring to stop the coming production of Manrice Rostand's play, The Archangel. They declare that it was inspired by Guynemer's war record and have informed Rostand that they have reserved all their rights in law. They demand the suppression of the production.

Testimonial for Actress

Chicago, Feb. 24.—Mme. Bertha Gutentag, leading woman of Glickman's Palace Theater, was honored Monday night with a testimonial performance given by the cast of her theater. Mme. Gutentag appeared in the title role of Medea, or The Wild Princess, by Jacob Gordin. Mme. Gutentag and her husband, Carl Gutentag, were formerly the owners of a theater in Buenos Aires, Argentina.

Gail Kane Lifts the Yoke of Type From Her Professional Personality

Down at the wee Cherry Lane Playhouse in Greenwich Village is a naive comedy entitled Loggerheads, by Ralph Cullinan, set in a homespun Irish atmosphere, with one of the best casts it has been our privilege to see in many a day. It includes beautiful Gail Kane, a lovely bit of femininity by the name of Joanna Roos, two wonderful character actors, Whitford Kane and Barry MacCollum, and a lad with that rare gift known as menace, Earle House. It is one of the productions of the new Order of Independence among actors who believe that you can't hide your light under a bushel, if it's a good light.

We went to see Loggerheads because we heard that Gail Kane had, by playing the role of an Irish matron, upset the Broadway tradition of "once a type always a type." The very name, Gail Kane, conjured up in our mind a sinuous creature, with irresistible charm and gorgeous plumage—a vampire. But we found a new Gail Kane, as irresistibly charming as ever, in a different way. The compellingly beautiful vampire of yesterday had become a wistfully lovely young matron of the Coast village of Lahinch, County Clare, Ireland.

When Broadway heard that Gail Kane was cast for the particular role, it ridiculed, asking derisively "Why not Nazimova in the Irish role? Why not let Miss Kane play Topsy?" Yet, this play, in which Miss Kane plays the role of an Irish matron and which went begging for six weeks along Broadway, brought bids from two Broadway producers two days after its opening. They wanted to buy it instantly! All of which is justification of that spirit or independence evidenced by those two corking good actors, Whitford Kane and Barry MacCollum, who undertook to produce Loggerheads in a comparatively obscure theater, where it cost them $2,000 to put on what would have cost them approximately $10,000 a week on Broadway, and that spirit of independence, too, which actuated Gail Kane to forsake the affluence of vampire roles for the less pretentious garb of versatility.

But in our enthusiasm for the venture we are getting away from our subject, Gail Kane. She was born in Philadelphia, Pa., and educated in the Mount St. Mary School. While at the school the dramatic society produced Shakespearean plays, and Gail Kane, being a perfect "Boysishform", with plenty of voice, was cast for the male roles. For her initial roles she had no less pretentious ones than Potoluis and Macbeth!

When school days were over and Miss Kane was obliged to seek her fortune in the world, she chose to pursue it on the stage. She walked on as an extra in Vanity Fair.

Her first real part was that of a colonel with Chauncey Olcott, a part which she has often recalled with wistful longing, when she was suffering from a surplus of vampire roles.

Her next venture was in one of the five episodes in Anatole, with Jack Barrymore. "And even then," sighed Miss Kane, "I was a vamp!"

Other plays in which Miss Kane appeared were George M. Cohan's Seven Keys to Baldpate and The Miracle Man. Having been adjudged a good vampire type, Miss Kane found herself in demand as a motion picture actress. A long list of vampire roles was her lot, relieved occasionally by deserted lady roles. After spending two years in Santa Barbara, Calif., she awoke one sunny day to discover that Dan Cupid had appointed himself boss of the lot and had cast her for a role in a real and not reel romance. As the lucky cavalier in the real romance preferred the stage to the movies, Miss Kane obeyed Dan Cupid's direction to return to the legit.

Gail Kane returned to the stage in Laurel Lavency, and even then she was cast as a heart-breaking siren.

Then she married and after the honeymoon was cast for a part in the short-lived Come Screen, playing a part the very antithesis of her past vampire ones: a vain and fluffy highbrow. "Nobody liked me in that part," said Miss Kane, "but I adored it, because it was different than anything I had ever attempted."

Next came roles in The Breaking Point, The Alarm Clock and Artistic Temperament.

Approve Ziegfeld's Latest

Baltimore, Feb. 26.—This city has put the stamp of approval on Louisa XIV., the latest effort of Florenz Ziegfeld, producer of the Follies and other big musical shows. His latest stars Leon Errol and is one of the best musical shows seen here in many days. It is a step toward the style of musical show which held sway during the days of The Merry Widow. The local critics and public were unanimous in saying that the play is a sure-fire success.

A Rosa-Marie company was here during the past week and set a record in that five matinees were given. At first the regular Wednesday and Saturday matinees were announced, but the sale was so large that three extras were put in. Each performance was sold out. White Cargo, at the New Lyceum, is in its third week and judging by the business it will probably continue for several more. Seduction recently finished a run of five weeks at the same theater. This silences many of those who say Baltimore is a one-week town. Robert Helms, who was a popular stock actor here some few years back, is a prominent member of the cast.

Cooling System for Woods

Chicago, Feb. 26.—The contract for a cooling plant for the Woods Theater has been let by Jones, Link & Schaefer, which will cost many thousands of dollars. This is said to be the first cooling plant to be installed in any legitimate theater in the United States. Most palaces and some of the major vaudeville houses have such adjuncts to keep the theaters at a stated temperature during the hot-weather months, but the legitimate theaters seem to have depended on Providence, luck and a few busy fans to hold gasping audiences to their seats.

The company installing the refrigeration plant in the Woods guarantees to keep the temperature at 70 degrees on the hottest July day. When Jones, Link & Schaefer built the new McVicker's Theater two years ago they installed an ice plant and it will be a duplicate that will serve to clear the atmosphere in the Woods next summer.

"Processional" Closing

New York, March 2.—The Theater Guild closed Processional at the Comedy Theater Saturday night. The play was moved there from the Garrick last Monday and the Guild hoped to get another theater for it so as to continue the run. White Cargo had already contracted for the Comedy, beginning today, when Processional moved in.

Drama of "Boris" Acted

New York, Feb. 27.—According to cabled advices, the first performance in English of Pushkin's drama Boris Godunoff was given last night by the Birmingham (England) University Dramatic Society.

The piece is known here in the operatic version and the drama has not been attempted before because of the technical difficulties involved. The play is in 24 scenes and there are 35 speaking parts. It is a tragedy and has been compared to the great Greek dramas. The English production was done in the translation made by Alfred Hayes, president of Midland Institute, Birmingham.

"The Green Hat" Opening

New York, Feb. 27.—The Green Hat is to open at Stamford on March 26 and after three days there will open in Detroit, going from there to Chicago for a run. This play is a dramatization of Michael Arlen's novel of the same name. The cast of The Green Hat is headed by Katherine Cornell and includes Ann Harding, Leslie Howard, A. P. Kaye, Gordon Ash, Eugene Powers, Harris Gilmore, Alix Dorane, John Buckner, Chandler Meyers, Gustave Roland, Sally Sanford, Marlon Trabue, Florence Foster and William Berry. The play will not be seen on Broadway until next season.

Shipman Recovers

New York, Feb. 27.—Samuel Shipman has recovered from his recent illness and is now in Atlantic City, presumably finishing a play. The seashore resort is Shippy's favorite place for polishing up a script and a journey there generally means that he will return to Broadway with a new masterpiece in his pocket.

Woods Buys More Plays

New York, Feb. 27.—A. H. Woods has had another fit of advance royalty paying and has corralled two more plays by that process. One is the work of Edgar Allen Woolf and as yet bears no name, while the other is by Maurice Marks and John Clymer and is known as The Marriage License. Woods will probably reserve production of them until next season.

French Play of Immigration

New York, Feb. 27.—Francois Parche, who is married to Mme. Simone and with her visited the United States a few months ago, is the author of a three-act play, called La Race Errante, which deals with the troubles of Jewish emigrants to the United States.

It is said to be an "expose" of the tribulations of the immigrant in this country and there are scenes laid on Ellis Island and in Dresden. The play is to be produced in Paris next January and it may be seen in this country later.

"Weeds" Cast Complete

New York, Feb. 27.—Rehearsals of Weeds are now actively in progress, with the complete cast. This play is being presented by Samuel Wallach and rehearsals are under the direction of Priestly Morrison. The cast includes Burton Churchill, Miriam Doyle, Carl Eckstrom, Beth Franklin, Leo Kennedy, Martha Mayo, Michaelangelo Salerno, Naene Martin, Henry Wittemore, Jr.; Robert Strange, J. F. Morrissy, Jerry Davis, Sneh Howard, Frances Underwood, Al Roberts, Clyde Veaux and Anita Booth.

Collier Opens in "Frame-Up"

New York, Feb. 27.—William Collier opened last night in Elmira, N. Y., in his own play, The Frame-Up. The piece, which is under the management of John Golden, is headed for Chicago, where it will play a summer engagement. En route to that city engagements will be played in Buffalo, Brooklyn and Newark. Mr. Collier's supporting company includes Florence Mason, Leila McIntyre, Frank Monroe and Joe Allen.

"Way of the World" Closes

New York, March 2.—The Way of the World, at the Princess Theater, closed Saturday night. This play by Congreve was first done at the Cherry Lane Playhouse early in the season. It was so successful there that an uptown engagement followed. Yesterday the company journeyed to Philadelphia, where a performance will be given at the Broad Street Theater under the auspices of the Philadelphia Art Alliance.

Max Marcin has returned from London, after seeing his play Silence received with much approbation by the West End theatergoers. He will have a new play on Broadway next season.

Jane Cowl will next be seen in a modern play. It was written by one Sturjis, first name not available, and it may be first done as a special matinee attraction.

Henry W. Savage has begun casting for two plays. One will be a vehicle for Flora Le Breton and the other is The Schoolmistress, a play from the Italian. Both will be tried out this spring.

Norman-Bel Geddes has been commissioned to design the scenery for Esther, a spectacular play by Maurice V. Samuels, which Wendell Phillips Dodge is to produce.

It looks as tho Leo Carrillo would not appear under David Belasco's management after all. At least not this season, which vaudeville claims as the scene of Mr. Carrillo's activities.

Joseph Schildkraut is not the only former Theater Guild player appearing in The Firebrand. Others who have appeared with the Guild and are now with him at the Morosco Theater, New York, are E. G. Robinson, Hortense Alden, Lillian Kingsbury, Charles McCarthy and Allyn Joslyn.

The name of the opus which William A. Brady, Jr., is to produce is Ostriches. Katherine Alexander has been engaged to play the leading role. Others in the cast are Janet Beecher and Amelia Bingham.

am playing the type of role that I always longed to play. It is my own choice. Working down here at Cherry Lane has been a revelation. We weren't obliged, by harassing expenses, to play to the public before we were really ready. None of us is starved and each is working for the good of the play, which is going to move uptown, after all."

New Company Opens In Lawrence, Mass.

Colonial Theater Leased for Balance of Season--Warm Reception From Regular Patrons

Lawrence, Mass., Feb. 27.—When the Colonial Theater was damaged by fire last December the stock company playing there at the time was disbanded. After repairs had been completed the owners of the house booked in road attractions for a few weeks. Then Myron C. Parsons, feeling that a resident company was what the patrons of the house wanted, took a lease for the balance of the season, and Charlie Cook, manager of the house, made a flying trip to New York to the Paul Scott Agency and came back with a brand-new group of players. The new company opened Monday afternoon of this week with The Whole Town's Talking, that amusing comedy by John Emerson and Anita Loos. If the reception these new players received at the Washington's Birthday matinee and the succeeding performances since then counts for anything, the present company will soon be as popular as the preceding one. All the local papers gave the company a good sendoff and everything points towards a successful season.

This vehicle, as stock followers know, has three prominent roles which were played by Margery Williams, leading lady; Robert Leslie, leading man, and Ralph Morehouse, formerly stage manager at the St. James Theater, Boston, who is directing productions for the new company besides taking active part in the plays. In the supporting cast are Doris Rich, second business woman; Helen Kinsel, ingenue; Joan Gilbert, character woman; Wallace Hickman, second business man; Garth Rogers, juvenile; Myron Parsons, responsible, and Harold Burnett, stage manager and bits. Margery Williams gave a delightful performance as Ethel Simmons, the very modern young lady with the very modern ideas about husbands. She is quite pretty and charming, and has a vivaciously engaging personality that she puts into her work. She played her role with an ease and grace one wouldn't expect to find in such a young leading lady. She should be equal to any role she will be called upon to portray during the season.

Robert Leslie as Chester Binney, about whom "the whole town's talking" because of his affair with a movie star, was very funny and managed to wrest from every situation all the humor that was in it. Here is not only a good comedian but a good actor. His performance was natural and unaffected. As the plot progressed and he got deeper and deeper into the hot water the more lifelike he seemed in his part.

Ralph Morehouse as Henry Simmons, Ethel's father and Binney's partner, and the cause of all Binney's trouble, also gave a fine performance, one that was on a par with the work of the other two leads. He lied his way into trouble and lied his way right out of it again, keeping the audience in roars all the while. To be able to play a role that has some 75 or 80 sides and direct the performance at the same time is somewhat of an accomplishment. Morehouse shows great promise as a director, and, while this is his initial attempt in that capacity, his work will improve as he goes on.

Joan Gilbert, an old favorite in these parts, did excellent work, as did most of the remaining members of the company. There is room for improvement in the work of some of them, but since this is a new aggregation and none of the members ever worked together before, finished performances could hardly be expected from everyone. Several weeks working together should bring about a noticeable improvement in every member of the company. The direction was a little weak in spots, but that, too, will improve with time, when Morehouse has had a chance to size up better the abilities of the individual members of the company. But taken as a whole the company can hold its own with the former Colonial Players. This new group, by the way, is known as the All New Colonial Players.

While the play calls for only one set for the entire three acts, the action all taking place in the living room of the Simmons home at Sandusky, O., John Hatch, the scenic artist, built a set that was a credit to himself, the players and the house.

Next week's bill will be The Girl From Chid's.

Merrill Matheny Players Present "Hello, Bill", to Pleased Patrons of Union Hill Theater

Gloucester, Mass., Feb. 26.—When the William Augustin Stock Company closed at the Union Hill Theater here at the end of last year Merrill Matheny took over the house and organized the Gloucester Stock Company, which has been operating there since. Business at the start was poor, but it has been steadily improving until now the company is doing a very good weekly gross when you consider the size of the town and the size of the house, playing some good bills such as Forty-Five Minutes From Broadway and Within the Law. When visited recently the company was doing that old sure-fire laugh-getter, Hello, Bill; rather an up-to-date version of it, for the action had been changed from the Spanish-American War to the World War. The old stuff is what goes over with the patrons of the house, so Matheny decided to give them what they wanted, which accounts for the improvement in business. Some of the members of the former company remained over and a few more players who were in this territory but were not working were secured to fill up the company. And a better-than-average company it was, too.

The plot and story of Hello, Bill, are too well known to require the giving over of precious space to details of the play. Suffice it to say that the general theme and action were retained, but the lines brought up to the times, many excellent extra gags being inserted and modern songs being sung instead of the oldtimers of the original production.

Besides managing the venture Matheny directs the company and plays leads, so he's about the busiest man in all Gloucester. William Fuller received a splendid characterization at his hands despite a heavy cold. Matheny is clever and talented and gives a finished performance and he sure gathered in every laugh the part was worth. His songs went over well, too. The auditors seemed to realize the condition of his voice and were quite nice about it, as he said himself after the performance. Lillian Merchal, the leading lady, who plays the part of Isabelle Dare, is a charming young actress who does good work. Her diction and enunciation are splendid. She has a strong, likable personality and seems to be quite popular with the patrons out front. Her songs brought forth several rounds of applause, particularly her "Kid" song, It's Tough To Be the Youngest in the Family.

In the supporting cast were Naddio Pauley as Marie, Florence Saxon as Harriet Stirling (her two songs were well done and well received, particularly the la Sophie Tucker number), Vivian Barry as Dorothy Dare, John E. Hines as Ned Hemingway, Percy Bollinger as Christopher Cutting, William McCall as Dr. E. P. Hastings, William McDougal as Gen. William Fuller, Marie Cook as Matilda and Stanley Peyton as Zack Phelps. Several of these players contributed to the musical end of the program, doing a couple numbers apiece. They made on the whole a strong supporting cast for the leads and held their own with them.

Carl Rockstrom looks after the scenic investiture of the house and did a good job with this production. Peyton helps out back stage and at the front of the house. Matheny is to be complimented on his direction of the production. How he found time from his various jobs to do such a good piece of directing will remain a mystery.

The fine group of stock players lays claim to a certain distinction. Every member, besides being able to portray dramatic and comedy roles, is able to sing and dance quite well. Because of this a musical comedy will be attempted almost every other week.

Arthur Pearson Preparing For Summer Season of Stock

New York, Feb. 28.—Following the close of his season with attractions of the Mutual Burlesque Association at the Hudson Theater, Union Hill, N. J., Manager Arthur Pearson will establish there a stock company which he is carefully selecting with a view of presenting a series of plays that have been successful on this side of the Hudson. It is his intention to devote a week to making improvements in the interior of the theater while the company is rehearsing for its initial offering, which has not yet been announced.

Engagements of principals of his organization so far definitely made include Forrest Cummings, stage director of wide experience; Peggy Allenby, a charming leading juvenile woman who followed Mary Nash in The Man Who Came Back and played leads with Leo Ditrichstein; Virginia Howell, second woman and characters, favorably remembered in Union Hill; Maude Franklyn, a dainty ingenue, recently with Emmett Corrigan in The Bully, and who has had stock experience; Russell Hick, a personable juvenile leading man, whose stock experience has been gained in Brockton, Trenton and Troy; Joseph Lawrence, characters, another Union Hill favorite; Royce Martin, juveniles, and Edward Darney, second man, who has been in several stock companies.

Under the management of Mr. Pearson the Hudson Theater has proved a strong link in Mutual's formidable chain.

It is understood that there will be few if any changes in the personnel of Mr. Pearson's competent staff.

William Augustin Opens in Roanoke

Roanoke, Va., Feb. 28.—The William Augustin Company opened a season of stock at the Academy of Music here Monday with So This Is London as the initial offering. BETTY LAWRENCE

Boston Kiddie and Bradford Academy Graduate Who Is Now Playing Ingenue Roles With Loew's Seventh Avenue Players

Miss Lawrence takes pride in being born and schooled in Boston, prior to her student days at the Bradford Academy, Haverhill, Mass., during which she took advanced studies in elocution, dramatic art, singing, dancing and music, graduating with a zealous desire for a stage career that was fostered by Casey & Hayden with their Brockton Players at the City Theater, Brockton, Mass.

Miss Lawrence's success at the City Theater attracted the attention of other managers, and she later appeared with the Auditorium Players, Malden, Mass.; the Robert McLoughlin Players, Cleveland, O., and the Albee Stock Company, Providence, R. I.

Ever striving towards her goal on Broadway, Miss Lawrence welcomed the opportunity of appearing with the Seventh Avenue Players at Loew's Seventh Avenue Theater, New York, where she is enacting the ingenue roles.

Miss Lawrence's pet hobby is singing and dancing and her pet aversion crossword puzzles.

Winnipeg Stock Players Revive Old Favorites

Winnipeg, Can., Feb. 26.—Making their second venture into musical comedy, the Permanent Players at the Winnipeg Theater recently delved into days gone by and dusted down a warm old-time favorite, The Time, the Place and the Girl, the joint work of Will Hough, Frank Adams and Joseph E. Howard. Brightened up with modern slang and topical allusions, to say nothing of a chorus of local beauties under Jack McClellan's guiding hand, the comedy looked like a brand-new show and gave the box-office girls a strenuous week, second only to Irene during New Year's.

There are three male leads in The Time, the Place and the Girl. Jack McClellan, light comedian of the company and a former musical comedy star, was a big favorite in the part of Happy Johnny Hicks, the sentimental slang artist. The popular leading man, John Winthrop, was appropriately cast as Tom Cunningham, a two-tisted Romeo, and Sherold Page, juvenile man, made the most of the role of Laurie Farnum, the black sheep and dreamer. The girl of the title was portrayed by Belva Morrell, ingenue of the company, and Hazel Corinne, leading lady, was Molly Kelly, the nurse who is quick on her feet. The inclusion of 250-pound Dora Hendrickson to play Little Willie made a big hit.

Besides the above Arthur R. Edwards submerged his identity in that of Pedro Niccolini, the lovesick organ grinder. Lynda Earle played little Willie's frantick mama, Sumner Gard and Johnny Foster tight-wad rube and his son who wants to be a sport. George Earle superintended the production with the assistance of Mr. Foster, while Jack McClellan directed all the musical numbers.

Honeymoon as sung by Mr. McClellan and Miss Corinne was the popular song hit of the week, with Sherold Page's Blow the Smoke Away a good second. John Winthrop, surrounded by the local beauties, sang and danced his way thru My Jonah Day, and Lynda Earle, singing Dixie, I Love You, were among the vocalistic specialties.

Dot Posty With Baker Players

Portland, Ore., Feb. 24.—Dot Posty, dainty comedienne and soubrette, was last week's acquisition to the clever cast of players at the Baker Theater, appearing in Irene.

Miss Posty's theatrical career began at the age of 12 years. She has been on the stage almost continuously ever since in vaudeville, as well as musical and dramatic stock, carrying her to practically every State in the union.

She played at the Garrick Theater in Chicago in the George Howard production, Honeymoon Trail, and The Time, the Place and the Girl; also a leading role in George White's Scandals of 1919. The past two seasons she has been in musical stock in Seattle and San Francisco.

Play

Uncle Amanadab, somewhat eccentric wealthy bachelor, decides to present $25,000 to his nephew, Sam Ashton, provided he marries at a specified time. Sam, highly elated at the prospect, proposes to his fiancée, Mabel Hamilton, that they hasten their plans and fulfill the obligations, thereby acquiring wealth.

Players

Howard Blair as Billy Kirkwood is a classically appearing juvenile until he dons feminine attire, and he then appears as a personally attractive ingenue who defies detection, for he has mastered the art of feminine makeup, mannerism, delivery of lines in scenes, likewise singing, dancing and playing the piano in interpolated specialties, and as a successor to Tommy Martelle will eventually reach the goal.

COMMENT

The play is somewhat similar to others that call for a female impersonating leader, tends to much comedy making on the part of the players, and taking the Proctor Players individually and collectively they did full justice to the play and presentation. The scenic settings showed careful attention to details, the first two acts taking place in a drawing room. A novel stage setting was made in the second act, for in the opening of the act the entire back wall of the room was apparently covered with a tapestry picture, and when the play called for a five-minute wait for an off-stage bedroom talkfest the lights went down and the tapestry picture became a transparent screen, revealing the interior of a rear bedroom with Alice Maddox and

Films

Alhambra Players Close At Loew's, Brooklyn

New York, Feb. 28.—The Alhambra Players, which became an established part of the East New York section of Brooklyn theatricals for the past two seasons, will close tonight, and the house will have a vaudeville and moving picture policy until further notice.

Anne Bronough, leading woman, will be transferred to the Seventh Avenue Players at Loew's Seventh Avenue Theater in this city, succeeding Ann Morrison, who closes her engagement there as leading woman March 7. Miss Bronough opening in "Way Men Leave Home" March 9. Harold Kennedy, comedian of the Alhambra Players, will also be transferred to the Seventh Avenue Players, opening March 2 in "The Old Sock."

The closing of the Alhambra Players and the transferring of several of that company to the Seventh Avenue Players will result in several changes in the latter company. These will include the exit of Fred G. Morris, assistant to Luke Connes, director of productions. Mr. Morris will hand in his notice to take effect March 14, and the same is applicable to Russell Fillmore, who will close at the Seventh Avenue March 14 and entrain immediately for Birmingham, Ala.

Bayonne Players

Bayonne, N. J., Feb. 26.—When Harder & Hall decided to cancel their contract for their tenancy at the Opera House it became very apparent that this city would be left without a stock company, but with the closing of the company under the Harder-Hall regime there was a reorganization, with William Green as the ringleader, supported by other members of the company, strong in the belief that they were sufficiently popular with the playgoers in the city to warrant them continuing on the commonwealth plan.

The company is now playing to profitable business with such plays as "Red Light Annie," current week, and "Langdon McCormick's Shipwrecked" next week.

Engagements

New York, Feb. 28.—The placements this week by Helen Robinson in dramatic stock companies include Charles Pennman, with the Fifth Avenue Stock, Brooklyn, and Irene Cattell, with the Rialto Stock, Hoboken, N. J.

De Vita in New York

New York, Feb. 27.—Vincent De Vita, scenic artist for the Circle Players at the Circle Theater, Dallas, Tex., since their opening of the current season, has closed his engagement and returned to this city.

"Red Kisses" To Run

New York, Feb. 26.—Charles E. Blaney and Harry Clay Blaney II, authors of "Red Kisses," are so highly elated at the success of that play with Cecil Spooner in the stellar role, at the Yorkville Theater for the current week, that they have arranged with J. J. White, manager of the Blaney Players, and Hurlig & Seamon, managers of the theater, to continue the presentation indefinitely.

For the presentation of "Red Kisses" it was found necessary to augment the regular company with Cecil Spooner in the stellar role as guest star, and other players, including George V. Dill, Louis Ancher, Sallie Luff, Rae Bennett, Gertrude Hope, Jean Green, John C. Carlyle, William H. Lewis, Harvey Jones, Norman Carewe, Waldo Edwards, Malcolm Switzer, Hal Clarendon, Winifred Duffy, Myrtle Theobald, Ann Judson and Marie Buster.

Stevens Now in Vaudeville

Chicago, Feb. 26.—Frank S. Stevens and his wife, Clair Morrow, formerly in stock on the Pacific Coast, passed their holidays here. Mr. Stevens was with Ed. Redmond's Republic and Majestic Company, likewise the Mission Players at the old Valencia Theater, San Francisco, in which he was a stockholder, and Miss Morrow with the Ralph Cloninger company at Salt Lake City. Later both of them played juvenile leads with the Edgar Jones Players until the closing of the company. After two weeks' recreation they joined the Cliff Dean vaudeville act, "The Unfair Sex," as leading man and leading lady.

Changes in Bainbridge's Company

Minneapolis, Feb. 25.—Buzz Bainbridge, directing manager of the Bainbridge Players, Shubert Theater, has made several changes in his company recently. Ivan Miller is the leading man and Peggy Boland new ingenue. Miss Boland is announced as coming direct from New York City, where she appeared in "Turn to the Right" at the Princess Theater, and prior to that in "Give and Take."

Hal Munnis' Versatility

Bayonne, N. J., Feb. 26.—Hal Munnis in juvenile roles has scored a splendid success with the Bayonne Players at the Opera House. Munnis dances and sings in musical productions with as much ease as he plays dramatic roles, and is therefore a decided asset in the current stock presentations, in which he recently played the singing and dancing juvenile roles in "Tangerine," "Mary and Oh, Boy," only to turn about and give a convincing performance of the heavy in "Red Light Annie."

The Band Box Players

Karl Way and company, formerly at Hammond, Ind., opened an indefinite engagement in stock at Gus Sun's Band Box Theater, Springfield, O., March 2. They have been christened the Band Box Players.

Robt. Bentley in Pulpit

Long Island Church Co-Operates With Company—Leading Player Preaches Sermon

Port Richmond, N. Y., Feb. 27.—The recent criticism by a local minister, who objected to the Harder-Hall presentation of plays and players, has caused a commotion and numerous controversies in this church and theater-going town, culminating in an invitation to Robert Bentley, leading man, to preach from the pulpit. His "sermon" was given recognition in "The Staten Island Advance." In part, the article follows:

"The Harder-Hall organization, during its fertile season at the Palace Theater in Port Richmond, has been associated with many interesting and frequently uplifting incidents in Staten Island life, but perhaps nothing of quite such import and significance as occurred on Sunday evening.

"Robert Bentley, leading man, occupied the pulpit of Rev. Fletcher S. Garris at the Summerfield Methodist Church, delivering the talk of the evening to an audience that filled every nook and corner of the church. It was an inspiring evening for both church and theater. Mr. Bentley demonstrated again that very fine intelligence, sincerity, keen observation and splendid conclusions that he has consistently shown in personal contact on the Island as well as in his stage work. He is a most gracious talker. His subject naturally dealt with the church and stage, their relation, the ideal that seems to be evolving so truly between the two, and the gratitude and appreciation of the players for the fine support that is being given them by churchgoers who are also theatergoers.

"In conclusion he spoke of the wisdom of giving some part of each day to the thought of God—of what a great spiritual and mental impetus such habit could become—and ended with warm thanks for Dr. Garris in permitting him to speak in his church.

"There was an excellent musical program surrounding Mr. Bentley's talk.

"The leading man was accompanied to the services by Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Harder, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Hall, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Morgan, Marion Hall and Mrs. Grace Wynden Vail, all of the Harder-Hall organization."

Jake Wells' New Stock

James Doyle is stage director.

Auditorium Players

Malden, Mass., Feb. 26.—The local clergy took cognizance of the announcement of the Auditorium Players' presentation of "The Fool" by attending the performance and commending play and players, with the result that the house has been sold out for the week, and there is a possibility of "The Fool" being held over for another week.

The Billboard will help.

Winter Storms Play Havoc With Shows

Corpus Christi, Tex., Feb. 26.—Bobby Warren's Stock Company opened here Monday night in its tent to the biggest crowd it has had since leaving Austin in the fall. The show turned people away from 7:40 p.m. on, starting the performance 19 minutes early. Mr. Warren said afterward he never worked before a more appreciative audience, and business men and officials were all praising the show the following day.

The cast, in addition to Bobby Warren, includes Sylvia Summers, Al Pierce, Doris and Frank Condon, Emmett Horing, Buddy Collins and wife, Bee Harris and George Roscoe, and a five-piece jazz orchestra just joined out of St. Louis. C. L. Heady and Mr. and Mrs. McClintock handle the front door. Every one seems full of pep, and ready to start the spring with a bang.

Mr. Warren has been showing continually in Texas for the past seven years, not having been outside the State, and says never has there been a winter in his experience with so much snow, sleet and rain to contend with, and many tents were destroyed. Warren has a new tent and by "nursing" it was able to keep it safe without a blowdown or a tear. He stored the tent in Corpus Christi three weeks ago, and played two houses in the valley to fair business.

REP. RIPPLES FROM K. C.

Kansas City, Mo., Feb. 28.—Mrs. Jack West Hoskins and twin babies arrived here February 20 to join her husband, owner and manager of several Mutt and Jeff companies and who is making his headquarters in this city. Mrs. Hoskins had been in Denver with her mother since the arrival of the twins, a boy and a girl, in December.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Deming are wintering in K. C. Mr. Deming has just finished his Masonic work under the excellent guidance and help of Frank Delmaine, Equity representative. These Masonic degrees were the reason of the Demings remaining in this city all winter. They will be on the road again this summer, as Mr. Deming has just signed with the Morris Dubinsky Company.

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Nolan, who have been with the Bob Kennedy Musical Comedy Company, closed February 24 at Enid, Ok., and are here.

Harry Clarke of the Ward Hatcher Players spent Sunday here, rejoining the show at Osborne, Mo.

Jack Stanford joined the Nat and Verba Cross Show at Wewoka, Ok., February 23.

Billy Farrell and wife, late of the Ted North Players, have signed contracts for one of the Dubinsky Bros.' attractions, opening in March.

Raymond Stonum has also signed to join one of the Dubinsky Bros.' attractions.

The Dubinsky Show, of which Abe Rosewald is manager, opened a theater season in Richmond, Mo., February 26. Mrs. Emile Oelsen, who has been quite sick here, is reported improving, and soon will be able to be up and around.

Arthur Kelly, comedian of the Ted North Players, spent a couple of days in Kansas City last week visiting friends, rejoining the show at Belleville, Ill.

"Uncle Tom" at Grand Rapids

Manager Harvey Arlington of the Orpheum Theater, Grand Rapids, Mich., played Mason Bros' Uncle Tom's Cabin company for a week recently, the troupe being composed of 20 people, three blood-hounds, a 10-piece band, 5-piece orchestra and full road-show equipment. Mr. Arlington thought well enough of the production to prepare a letter to other houses on the Sun Circuit saying the show proved a big success financially.

REP. TATTLES

Ernest J. Sharpsteen and wife (Serece Doreene) have closed a 30-week season with the Shannon Players and are spending a few weeks' vacation in Grand Rapids, Mich., before negotiating an engagement for the summer.

Reports from Corsicana, Tex., are to the effect that J. Doug Morgan's tent was not big enough to accommodate the crowds presenting themselves to see the presentation of Peggy O'Moore. The leading lady, Elizabeth Movell, and the large company were immensely popular.

William H. Ezzell, who has been sojourning in Georgia, advises that he will come north about March 20 to take the advance as general agent on the Cook & Whitney Uncle Tom's Cabin show, a big outfit out of New York, and Billie says to watch him spread out.

Al W. Clark and wife (Hazel Vernon) are now in their 20th week with the Boyd B. Trousdale Players. The company has had a very pleasant and prosperous season and is now in stock at the Princess Theater, Ft. Dodge, Ia., and doing an exceptionally good business. The roster follows: Boyd B. Trousdale, Jay Coggeshall, Jerry Hoack, Clyde Davis, Neal Trousdale, Al W. Clark, Estelle

Jas. Bonnell Buys Sunny South Boat

Will Open It Middle of April—
Band Will Be a Feature

Announcement is made of the purchase of the New Sunny South Showboat by James Bonnell of Cincinnati, who completed negotiations with the former owner, Capt. E. P. Matthews, last week. The showboat, which is one of the biggest amusement enterprises afloat on the Ohio River, is moored at Point Pleasant, W. Va., and, altho in good condition, will be thoroughly overhauled and repainted before the opening of the season about the middle of April, somewhere on the Monongahela River. Mr. Bonnell states his tour will cover the Ohio and Mississippi rivers and their tributaries. In the show business 38 years, Mr. Bonnell has had 20 years' experience on river shows, and for 11 years he was the owner of the Greater New York Floating Theater. After disposing of the latter he took the road with his own musical company for a number of seasons.

In recent years showboats have been eliminating bands from their equipment, relying upon calliopes, but Mr. Bonnell states emphatically that he will restore the band to its old-time prominent post, and he believes patrons will be glad to find a boat carrying a good band, as in the days of yore. He will not dispense with a calliope, however, and will carry a put on dramatic sketches and vaudeville specialties.

Mae Edwards Players Say Au Revoir to Brockville, Ont.

The test of theatrical engagements is the box-office receipts, and the Mae Edwards Players, on their Canadian tour, are able to furnish proof of this character in abundance, judging by a review of their appearance at Brockville, Ont., published in The Recorder and Times of that place, as follows: "Standing room only was at a premium Saturday night when the final performance of the Mae Edwards Players was given at the New Theater. Every seat in the house was filled, and many were content to stand, the attendance constituting a record of several years for the theater. The play presented was The Unseen Hand, a gripping mystery story which held the close attention of the audience thru its capable presentation, and the vaudeville given between the acts won unstinted applause. The Mae Edwards orchestra was forced to play until the individual musicians were about exhausted, so hearty was the applause received. The members of the Brockville Junior Hockey Club and officials were guests of Miss Edwards at the performance, occupying an entire row of seats in the orchestra circle. During the intermission between the second and third acts of the play a special song number, How Do You Do, in which the individual merits of the players on the junior team were extolled, was given by Bert Amonds. In bidding au revoir to Brockville the company manager, Charles T. Smith, thanked the citizens of the town for the friendliness and hospitality extended to the members of the company during the week, and in a few pointed remarks made a plea to Brockville citizens for support on behalf of the junior hockey team. His remarks were timely and were deeply appreciated by the supporters of the team. The company left yesterday afternoon on the International Limited, for Kingston, where it plays this week. During its stay in Brockville, by putting on clean and interesting bills, catchy vaudeville and popular musical numbers, excellently rendered, the company has won the warm support of Brockvillians, who look forward to the return of Miss Edwards and supporting players at an early date."

Williams at Concord, N. C., for Three Weeks

Following a fortnight's engagement for the government at Columbus, Ga., as mentioned in last week's Billboard, the John J. Williams Stock Company is now at Concord, N. C., for three weeks. Then it journeys back to Georgia for a run till the tent season opens. Fred Lytell, well-known repertoire man, who is a member of the company, writes: "We have a real show and a jazz band that knocks 'em cold."

FRANK C. BARTON

Mr. Barton has been engaged to do leads on the Majestic Showboat, and his wife also will be in the cast. He returns from tabloid to the showboats, on which he worked seven seasons.

Equity Stock Company

Encounters Much Bad Weather—Four Performances Lost

The bad weather for the past eight weeks has broken all records covering 30 years in Texas, but in spite of this handicap the Equity Stock Company, Pamplin & Lewis owners and managers, has held forth with the loss of but four performances, writes Otto Johnson. "Pluck and optimism on the part of the management and faithfulness of the employees were the winning factors, until now the weather is again normal and business good," he continues. "The company roster has remained intact from the opening of the season. 'Baldy' Watzel and his Iowa Five Jazz Orchestra still win acclaim with the show. The team of Ford and Lorenzo, dramatic and vaudeville artists, joins us next week. Twelve standard royalty plays constitute the repertoire, two-week stands are not uncommon, and invariably to increasing business, which speaks well for the quality of the Equity Stock Company."

Movements of Actors

Chicago, Feb. 27.—Jack Reedy and wife are back from a stock engagement in Saskatoon, Can.

A. Milo Bennett this week hooked Milton Beck with Charlotte's Rencue at the Garrick for juveniles, and Jack Driscoll and Herbert Sears with Fiske O'Hara's The Big Mogul company at the Central. Ethel Bennett will open the first of her eight chautauqua companies, Adam and Eva, March 12, in Florida. The company is now in rehearsal.

James Rith and James Foulter have moved their stock from Clinton, Ia., to Oskaloosa, Ia.

Stanley Price, of Abie's Irish Rose, now playing in Milwaukee, spent a day with Chicago friends this week, returning for the show that night. He said business at the Garrick, where the company is playing, has been turnaway ever since the show opened in Milwaukee. This is the same company that played at the Studebaker for more than a year.

ED C. NUTT PLAYERS

Distinguished Company, Including Pensacola Mayor and Other Dignitaries, Honors Nona Nutt, Leading Woman

Pensacola, Fla., Feb. 28.—Mrs. Nona Nutt, popular leading woman, celebrated her birthday recently by entertaining the entire personnel of the Ed C. Nutt Players. The party was held in the studio of Knox McEntire, assisted by Mrs. McEntire and Mr. and Mrs. George Wilson. The studio was beautifully decorated and for eats there was an abundance of everything that could be desired. The program included dancing, singing and hilarity in general, as is understood by professionals. The ladies of the company showered Mrs. Nutt with handkerchiefs of all sizes and shades. The entire company sent a bouquet of beautiful roses over the footlights to Nona. Mr. Nutt presented his wife with the latest model wardrobe trunk, ladies' style, being an oversize type, as well as a handsome cash gift and numerous pieces of wearing apparel. The guests included Mayor Harvey Bayless of Pensacola, Mr. Harthay, Spanish consul; Mr. Perez, Cuban consul, and Mrs. Perez and her mother, from Chicago; Mr. and Mrs. Carson of Chicago; Bob McCaskill whose real estate business is said to be the largest in Western Florida; Albert Davis, manager of Morrison's Cafeteria, and about 10 others. The party was very select, but good fellowship was prevalent thruout.

The Nutt Players' engagement is now in its 11th week and doing business. The Mardi Gras is in full swing, with Ed C. Nutt furnishing five acts for the committee.

Blanche Ladell (Mrs. Loren Grimes) underwent an operation for appendicitis at the Pensacola Hospital January 16 and on February 16 returned to the cast, taking the mother part in The Awakening of John Slater. She was warmly welcomed back by the patrons. Miss Ladell was remembered daily while at the hospital by flowers, magazines, etc. She has rallied nicely and has displayed much courage in returning to work so early.

Referring to those who write of "small stocks and repertoire companies," there are five high-priced automobiles, all less than 60 days old, on this show, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Nutt, Mr. and Mrs. Grimes, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Hayes, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Hoffman and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Pruitt.

This company is 100 per cent Equity. Also, the show is for Equity.

Frances Sims, daughter of Helen Sims, trumpet player with Ed Nutt's orchestra, has returned to Waycross, Ga., after two months' visit with her mother. Miss Sims is in prep. school. Her father, R. H. Sims, is a musician at a Waycross, Ga., theater. She was immensely popular while here.

F. BUCK HOWARD (for the Show)

Griffith Shows in Georgia

Oscar Odell, who states he has been black-face comedian with the Griffith Shows for 57 weeks, sends word that the show is drawing capacity nightly. Jackson Gets The Crowds! "When He Don't Get Money, Others Won't"

Here's a good one. Talk about advertising, about making money with a dramatic show. Read this from It. Jackson: "Feb. 2, 1925. But TALLAPHONE to work Saturday at Sudbury and packed the theatre, turning about 300 away. Theatre held only 1,100. The first time it was filled for months. They came from all directions, and were sure pleased. They did not come slow. The weather was awful cold—30 degrees below, but that did not stop them. They stood outside in the cold to listen to it play for hours. It is the greatest thing I ever saw, and it has put the old ——— in the background. I started out with it this A. M. at 9 o'clock, passed several school houses, and teachers had to turn all the school kids out to see and hear it. It sure is the 'cat's whiskers'. A wonderful instrument. Advertise with the TANGLEY CALLIOPHONES OR CALLIAPHONES, by far the best instrument of its kind on the market. Don't experiment. Hand or self-playing. (Built since 1914, eleven years.) Memphis Contemplates Season of Summer Opera

A season of light opera during the summer months is being contemplated in Memphis, Tenn., according to an announcement issued by Mayor Paine and J. A. Fowler, chairman of the Auditorium Operating Commission. The purpose is to give the people the fullest possible benefit from the new Memphis Auditorium and the presentation of a summer season of light opera is intended as the opening move in a campaign by the Auditorium Commission to provide the best attractions, the foremost singers and artists and the finest photoplays at popular prices. R. L. Jordan, newly elected member of the Commission, and Charles A. McElravy, general manager of the Auditorium, have just returned from St. Louis, where they studied at first hand what that city is doing to bring music to the general public, and also thru the Municipal Opera Association's chorus training in vocal art and expression is given young musicians at the expense of the city. Fortune Gallo, impresario, of the San Carlo Opera Company, which organization opened the Auditorium in Memphis last fall, and who is bringing the New York Police Band to the city in March, is negotiating with the Auditorium Operating Commission concerning the summer opera season. The tentative plans are to present two productions each week with a company composed of singers who are well known, and the prices, according to Mr. Fowler, are to be on a scale to make the performances popular. The season will probably extend thru June and July.

Three Guest Conductors To Lead Portland Orchestra

The concerts to be given during the balance of the present concert season by the Portland (Ore.) Symphony Orchestra will be directed by three guest conductors, Theodore Spiering, Karl Kreuger and Jacques Gerschkovitch. The latter, who has for several months past been director of a children's orchestra of 60 pieces, known as the Portland Junior Symphony Orchestra, will direct the Portland Symphony Orchestra at the concert to be given March 4. Mr. Spiering, who is well known in music circles both on the East and West Coast, will conduct the concert to be heard March 18. The third guest conductor, Karl Kreuger, will direct the concert which is scheduled for April 1. The appointment of the guest conductors was necessary because of the resignation of Carl Denton, who for the past six years has been conductor of the Portland Symphony Orchestra. Mr. Denton will conduct a choral orchestral concert on April 8 and at a second concert to be given May 20.

Gigli Booked for Tour At Close of Opera Season

Benlamino Gigli, tenor, closed his season at the Metropolitan Opera House, New York, March 2 and this week starts on a concert tour booked by his manager, R. E. Johnston. His first concert takes place at the Hotel Astor, New York, Thursday evening, March 5, and he will sing at Symphony Hall, Boston, Sunday afternoon, March 8. Following this he will appear in Scranton, Pa.; Hartford, Conn.; give a concert at Carnegie Hall, New York City; also New Haven and Greenwich, Conn., and other cities. The tour will close April 15 and Mr. Gigli sails for Europe April 18 for a tour of concert and operatic performances during May and June.

Milton Aborn Plans Grand Opera Circuit

Milton Aborn contemplates forming a grand opera circuit in cities where the population is not large enough to finance productions by the Chicago or the Metropolitan Opera companies. Mr. Aborn's plan is to organize circuits of six or eight towns within a short radius of each other and to utilize local singing organizations for the chorus, with training to be given by a traveling stage director. The principal roles in the operas would be sung by professional singers who would travel from town to town and interchange along the same plan as used by Mr. Aborn last season with his light opera company.

"Creation" Presented By Orlando Musicians

A production of Haydn's Creation was given in Orlando, Fla., by a trained chorus of 60 voices and the Orlando Symphony Orchestra, assisted by six soloists, the evening of Tuesday, February 24, at Memorial High School. Nearly 100 musicians under the direction of Ross V. Steele, organizer and conductor of the Orlando Symphony Orchestra, participated in oratorio and the event was one of the most important given in the South with the exception of the grand opera performances in the larger cities. Mr. Steele had only six weeks in which to prepare for the concert, nevertheless, according to report, the singing of the chorus and the soloists, also the musical accompaniment by the orchestra, was of a high degree of excellence, and an ovation not once but several times was given all those participating in the concert. The Orlando Symphony Orchestra was organized less than two years ago, hence the progress made by the musicians, who are all residents of Orlando, justifies the people of the city in being proud of the high-water mark set in Southern music. The soloists at this concert were: Grace Sherriffs-Howard and Eva Willman, sopranos; Grace Martin, contralto; W. Gage McBride, baritone; Frederick H. Woodward, baritone; Donald A. Chaney, tenor, and Frances Klasyge-Freyermark assisted at the piano.

Cadman's Opera To Be Given World Premiere in New York

The world premiere of the new opera, The Garden of Mystery, by Charles Wakefield Cadman, will take place in New York when the opera is presented at the fifth concert in the Artist Series of the Association of Music School Settlements on the evening of March 29 in Carnegie Hall. The cast will consist of Carolina Lazzari, Yvonne de-Treville, Ernest Davis, Charles Carver and Hubert Linscott, and the orchestral accompaniment will be given by the American National Orchestra, Howard Barlow conductor. This premiere performance will be of much interest in musical circles not only in New York City but to the various organizations and individuals who are earnestly advocating greater opportunity for the American composer.

"Mandragola" To Be Given New York Premiere

The Little Opera of America is sponsoring the premiere performance in New York of Mandragola at the Princess Theater the evening of March 4. Ignatz Waghalter is the author of the music of Mandragola, which is a comic opera. The English libretto was written by Alfred Kreymborg, who adapted it from the Italian work of Niccolò Machiavelli. The principals in the cast are: Frances Paperte, of the Metropolitan; Thomas Conkey, Maria Samson, Louise Dose, Leonard Snyder, Ernest Otto and Charles Schenk. The production is staged by Ulrich Haupt, the settings are by Herman Rosse and Ignatz Waghalter is musical director.

Bruno Walter Is Engaged for Second Season at Covent Garden

Bruno Walter has been requested to conduct the orchestra for a second season at Covent Garden, London, and will return shortly after the completion of his engagement as director of the series of concerts with the New York Symphony Orchestra. Mr. Walter completes his contract in New York on March 29 and will fulfill engagements in Amsterdam, Berlin and Vienna before the opening of the season at Covent Garden on May 18.

San Carlo Company To Play Engagement in Salt Lake City

Salt Lake City is to have a visit by Fortune Gallo's San Carlo Opera Company in March. A three-day engagement will be played at the Salt Lake Theater March 12, 13 and 14, with two performances on Saturday, and the casts will include several of Mr. Gallo's principal singers.

Plans Being Perfected for Master School of Musical Acts

Alice Seckels, manager of the Master School of Musical Arts of San Francisco, in a talk with The Billboard's representative in that city, stated plans are rapidly being perfected for the first season of the school beginning next May. Miss Seckels said the school has had inquiries from 23 States, some coming from as far east as Vermont and Delaware, altho, of course, the school will draw heavily from the Pacific Coast. Under the fund of $75,000 guaranteed by Mrs. Walter Macfarlane a faculty of eminent musicians has been engaged, which includes Julia Claussen, voice; Josef Lhevinne, piano; Sigismund Stojowski, piano; Cesar Thomson, violin; Samuel Gardner, violin; Felix Salmon, cello; Annie Louise David, harp; Andreas de Seguroia, opera; Emil J. Polak, coach; W. J. Henderson, lecturer; Lazar S. Samoiloff, director. Each member of the faculty will donate two scholarships to the most promising students and other scholarships will be awarded by the Master School of Musical Arts, according to announcement of Miss Seckels.

Cleveland Has Deficit on Three-Day Opera Season

President John A. Penton, of the Cleveland Music Association, under whose auspices the Chicago Civic Opera Company appeared in a three-day season of grand opera, has announced a deficit of approximately $5,000 on the engagement. The four performances cost more than $72,000 and, contrary to last season, when attendance records were broken, there was a large number of unsold seats at some of the performances. The Cleveland Music Association has issued a statement that a grand opera season by the Chicago Civic Opera Company is to be a permanent annual event in Cleveland and plans for next year's engagement are already going forward. The operas presented in the Public Auditorium this year were Thais, with Mary Garden; Rosa Raisa in La Gioconda, The Barber of Seville and Tannhauser.

Sokoloff Sails in May To Conduct London Symphony

Nikolai Sokoloff, director of the Cleveland Symphony Orchestra, will sail for London, England, May 9 to conduct the London Symphony Orchestra for the sixth time in a series of concerts, according to the announcement made a few days ago by Adela Prentiss Hughes, manager of the Cleveland Orchestra. Mr. Sokoloff will conduct two concerts while in London, one of which will be given in Queen's Hall on May 29, with Georges Enesco, Russian violinist, as soloist. The second, also in Queen's Hall, takes place June 5, when Beryl Rubinstein, pianist, of Cleveland, will be assisting soloist in a program which will introduce to London audiences Charles Martin Loeffler's work, A Pagan Poem.

American Opera Wins Triumph in Monte Carlo

According to word from Europe, the new American opera, Fay-Yeu-Fah, was received with warm approval at the premiere in Monte Carlo. The first performance, which was an invitation one, was given before a most distinguished audience of critics and leaders in the artistic and literary field. The opera was written by Charles Templeton Crocker and Joseph Redding, both of San Francisco, and it is said the Chicago Civic Opera Company had accepted the opera for production, but Mr. Redding desired a foreign production first.

Philharmonic Orchestra To Make Spring Tour

The New York Philharmonic Orchestra will leave for its spring tour immediately after the concert in Carnegie Hall Sunday afternoon, March 8, when Ern Rubinstein appears as soloist. The tour includes concerts in Philadelphia, Washington, Baltimore, Wheeling and Pittsburgh and the orchestra returns March 15 for a concert in the Metropolitan Opera House. Willem Mengelberg will conduct all programs given on tour.

Eleanor Everest Freer, M. M., of Chicago, composer and founder of the Opera in Our Language Foundation, is a zealous worker in the cause of the American composer and musician, also the presentation of grand opera in English. Recently in writing relative to the need of greater interest in and more presentations of American operas Mrs. Freer said:

"Art is the expression of the life and thoughts of a people, hence art is history; suppress one and you suppress the other."

"All works of art in opera do not necessarily have to be on subjects indigenous to our country, but music-dramas written on such matter give a more intimate idea of the race."

"To make a research in the folklore and legends of a country is essential, and we are glad to have found the ground so thoroughly gone over as to have produced already 10 music-dramas on our own legends or life."

"As there seems to be as many opera companies formed or in the formation to open each season with but one of the following would give each company the means of presenting the subject in a different light and would create a nationwide interest in the subjects. The operas are:

The Sun God, by Hugo; Shanewis, by Cadman; Alglala, by DeLeon; Natoma, by Herbert; Last of the Aztecs, by Kerrison; Poin, by Nevin; Mona, by Parker; Indian Legend, by Cleurance; The Snake Woman, by Seymour; Winona, by Blimboni; The White Buffalo Woman, by Grubb-Farner.

"Then, passing to other legends indigenous to our soil, and from these to operas by our composers on subjects purely of interest to their poetic imagination—in all about 80—why are we not ready now to present an American field of operas?"

"These operas may be substituted by any other 12 American scores of recognized merit. For companies incorporated in the U. S. A. we advocate all foreign operas being sung in our language, and one American opera for every foreign one."

Stadium Concerts Committee Appoints Guest Conductors

The Stadium Concerts Committee, thru the chairman, Mrs. Charles S. Guggenheimer, has announced arrangements have been completed for three guest conductors at the Stadium Concerts this summer in New York City. The visiting conductors who will supplement the re-engagement of Willem Van Hoogstraten as conductor will be Fritz Reiner, director of the Cincinnati Orchestra; Nikolai Sokoloff, conductor of the Cleveland Orchestra, and Rudolph Ganz, conductor of the St. Louis Orchestra. Mr. Reiner made his New York debut as guest conductor of the Stadium Concerts last summer, but Mr. Ganz and Mr. Sokoloff will be newcomers to the Stadium. Mrs. Guggenheimer also announced the season of concerts at the Lewisohn Stadium will this year be extended to eight weeks, with the season beginning July 6. Many orchestral novelties, also several choral works, are planned for presentation during the 1925 season, and the New York Philharmonic Orchestra with its complete personnel will be heard at all the concerts.

New York Musical Events

Staging a Lecture was the title chosen by W. J. Henderson, dean of American critics, for the lecture given in Town Hall the evening of February 21 under the auspices of the City Music League. Mr. Henderson's lecture was all too brief, as he gave most of the time to the several singers who assisted in the program. The requisites for beautiful singing, Mr. Henderson stated, were a beautiful quality of tone, equality of tone, flexibility and agility and volume, and he also stressed the importance of good diction, and his definitions of the essentials of good singing were most excellent. He explained the various types of voices and it was here the singers assisted, and those who were heard included Francis Newson, Aimee Olsen, Elizabeth Wood, Crystal Waters, Helen Bloom, Mme. Covert, Wesley Haller, Charles Pope, James Woodside and Fred Patton, and Alice Nicols, accompanist. Mr. Henderson emphasized the need of getting away from fad worship and stated that altho he was not against modern music, he deplored the evidence of a desire for sensation in music and that in his opinion there was not enough of classic chastity or dignity of style in much of the music of the present day. Furthermore he expressed the hope that the fundamentals of beauty in music would never be abolished from the art.

Dorsey Whittington in a piano recital given in Aeolian Hall the evening of February 23 presented a program which included several compositions not usually heard at such events, and these included an Intimezzo by Deyo and one, Rain, Rain, Go Down, by Koskoff. These were so well liked that repetition was necessary. In fact, several of the numbers had to be repeated. Mr. Whittington has excellent technique and also interprets each composition with keen understanding and expression and deserves to be listed in the front ranks of young pianists.

Martha Phillips, soprano, returned to the concert stage in a recital at Aeolian Hall Tuesday evening, February 24, in a program consisting of groups of songs by German, Swedish and French composers. Her voice is very light, altho the quality is pleasing when kept in its natural range, but it hardly is fitted for concert hall purposes. Myron Jacobson, pianist; Marie Miller, harpist, and August Rodeman, flutist, assisted in the program.

Bruno Walter as guest conductor was warmly welcomed upon his return to the New York Symphony Society the afternoon of February 26 at Carnegie Hall. His task was a comparatively easy one, for the program selected was entirely familiar to the audience as well as director and orchestra. Beethoven's Symphony No. 3, Eroica, used up the portion before the intermission and, strangely, the celebrated Marcella Funebre received the most attention. The soloist, another Czech-Slovakian violinist, Eduard Zathurecky, then demonstrated the fact that his recent success in Boston was well deserved, even tho he did so by mounting the old war horse Mendelssohn's E-minor Concerto. It served, however, to whet the appetite to hear him soon in a varied program. He certainly played the Andante exquisitely and was cordially received. Another oft-heard number, in finale, was Richard Strauss' Till Eulenspiegel's Merry Pranks, which Bruno Walter exhibited with kinks and flourish, the men beneath his baton apparently more alive than usual to his every whim. A. T. E.

Frank Sheridan, pianist, winner of the Stadium contest for young musicians the season of 1924 was heard in a recital in Aeolian Hall Thursday evening, February 26. Mr. Sheridan made a very favorable impression, particularly in his interpretation of compositions by Rameau, Bach and Brahms. He possesses good technique, clarity of tone and interprets the music with much expression. He, however, is not as yet a satisfactory player of the music of Chopin.

Unique Service Given by Musical Artist-Teachers' Agency

A few years ago Miss J. E. Allen established in New York the Musical Artist-Teachers' Agency for the purpose of providing a service whereby schools and colleges might obtain the highest grade of artists and teachers. Miss Allen had previously been a concert manager and thru contact with concert artists and those who book concert courses learned of the difficulties schools and colleges have in obtaining artist teachers and she set about establishing the teachers' service, for which the Musical Artist-Teachers' Agency has become so well known. Miss Allen has placed artist teachers in a large number of educational institutions and among those booked are: Regina Vicarino, director of the voice department and artist teacher at Sullin's College in Bristol, Va.; Ferdinand Fillin, director of the violin department at the Toronto Conservatory, Toronto, Ont.; Marie Bailey Apfelback, at the Macphail School of Music, Minneapolis, as head of piano department; Gabriel Fenyes, director of the piano department of the Minneapolis School of Music, Minneapolis, and several others. These artist teachers in addition to their teaching are booked for concerts in the communities adjacent to the city in which the college or school is located and thus music of the better class is brought into places where otherwise it would not be heard.

New York Police Band To Tour for Three Weeks

Fortune Gallo has completed arrangements for the tour to be made by the New York Police Band. The tour is for the purpose of adding departments in the cities to be visited by the band in increasing their police funds which are utilized for the comfort and welfare of disabled members of the force. Since the tour was announced more requests for a concert by the band have been received than can be accepted, according to a statement made by Mr. Gallo. The programs to be presented will include standard music, also several numbers said to have not been presented before by any band in this country, and there will be two or more "Spirituals". Berle Bartl, dramatic soprano, who has been appearing with great success with the San Carlo organization, now touring thru New England, has been engaged as soloist with the band and she will be heard in operatic arias, as well as several songs, which will be given in English.

Polish Orchestra To Give Second Concert in New York

The Polish National Orchestra will give a second concert at the Metropolitan Opera House, New York, Sunday afternoon, March 8. The program will feature compositions similar in character to those presented at the first concert, including numbers in which the musicians augment their playing with chorus singing.

Concert and Opera Notes

The Princeton University Orchestra will give a New York concert in Aeolian Hall Friday evening, March 20.

A piano recital will be given in Aeolian Hall, New York, on March 21, by Ada Lubow, with David Zallsh at a second piano.

Yolanda Mero has announced her second and last New York recital this season for the afternoon of March 16 in Aeolian Hall.

Mme. Tarasova will give a concert at the Hotel Plaza, New York, on March 11, when she will have the assistance of Andre DePrang, violinist.

A concert performance of Aida will be given by the Oratorio Society of Bridgeport, Conn., and Judson House, the popular tenor, will sing with the society. Fred Patton will also be heard in this performance in Bridgeport and also with the Philadelphia Mendelssohn Club on April 22, and with the Ithaca, (N. Y.) Music Festival on April 23 and 24.

Motion Picture Music Notes

Paul H. Forster is appearing as assistant organist at the Piccadilly Theater.

New York City, where he alternates with John Hammond. Mr. Forster, who has had wide experience as organist in motion picture theaters, is a native of Utica, N. Y., and studied organ with DeWitt Coules Garretson, organist of St. Paul's Cathedral, Buffalo, N. Y. He was musical director and organist for The Robbins Company, of Utica, N. Y., for several years, and also organist at the Avon Theater in that city. When the large Marr & Colton organ was installed at the Palace Theater, Jamestown, N. Y., Mr. Forster was engaged as organist, and later held a similar position at the Liberty Theater in Carnegie, Pa. He is a member of the National Association of Organists, also the Society of Theater Organists of New York City. Alternating with Mr. Hammond, he presents organ solos and novelties at each performance at the Piccadilly Theater, one of New York's newest motion picture theaters.

Foremost among the musical specialties on the program at the New York Rivoli Theater this week is an unusual combination of picture and accompaniment in which are depicted some of the interesting events in the life of the great composer, Frederick Chopin. While the scenes are being shown the orchestra, directed by Irvin Talbot and Emanuel Baer is rendering various Chopin favorites. There is also an elaborate prologue, On the Arapahoe Trail, and taking part in this are a number of full-blooded native Sioux warriors. This week's program, prepared by Hugo Riesenfeld, is in celebration of the sixth anniversary of Mr. Riesenfeld in the directorial management of the Rivoli and Rialto theaters.

Excerpts from Tchaikovsky's Fourth Symphony are being played this week by the Capitol Grand Orchestra (New York) with David Mendoza conducting. The ballet divertissements consist of a Spanish dance by Doris Niles and a "silhouette" by A. Oumansky and other members of the ballet.

Appearing in two artistic ballets, presented at the Eastman Theater, Rochester, N. Y., last week were Dolores Frank, Olive McCue, Dorothy Saunders and Marlon Tefft in Pas de Quatre, and in a temple dance Thelma Bracree and Martin Vogt.

After nine years of successful work on the Pacific Coast, Nell Schettler has returned to his home town, Salt Lake City, to accept the leadership of the Victorians at the Victory Theater.

Ted Snyder's Song Shop Revue, with Al Bernard, Russell Robinson, Fred Hughes, the Smith Twins and the Famous Players Ten Jazz Kings, is playing a fourth and final engagement at the Missouri Theater, St. Louis, this week.

At the Capitol Theater, St. Paul, during the current week the orchestra, with Oscar F. Baum directing, will be assisted by the Gold Medal Radio Quartet in selections from DeKoven's Robin Hood, played as the overture.

Alice Piercy is again featuring organ solos at the Colonial Theater, Tacoma, Wash., after an absence of several months.

During the week of February 23 Julian Eltinge, portraying Fads and Fancies of the Fair Sex, was presented at the Palace Theater, Dallas, Tex.

Judson House, the well-known tenor, is singing the principal role in the prologue The Swan being presented this week at the Mark Strand Theater, New York City.

A Chicago girl, Lorna Doone Jackson, appeared as soloist on one of the recent Sunday morning concerts at the Chicago Theater, that city, under Nathaniel Finston's direction.

As the film feature is being held over for a second week at the New York Piccadilly, the musical program is also being repeated. In the unusual solo, Ellis McDiarmid, flutist, playing a Godard "waltz", displays splendid technique and a beautiful tone, and the orchestra, under the able direction of Fredric Fradkin, gave Mr. McDiarmid an excellent accompaniment. Mr. Fradkin has also surrounded the feature picture with some interesting musical settings.

Boston Opera Company Artists Meeting With Great Success

A group of artists, formerly members of the Boston Opera Company, which organization a few seasons ago presented grand opera in Boston, is playing to excellent business thru the West. These artists, under the management of Fred Byers, are appearing in the large motion picture theaters, where they present a program entitled Grand Opera versus Jazz, and due to the excellence of the presentation of grand opera makes jazz of little significance in the comparison as an artistic entertainment. Hazel Eden, soprano, formerly with the Chicago Civic Opera Company, and William Mitchell, tenor, are winning warm praise from the press. Mr. Byers is presenting his artists in St. Louis for three weeks, then follows five weeks in the large cinema theaters of Chicago, and will fill in the spring with engagements in the Great Lakes territory.

MUSICAL COMEDY

REVUE - TRAVESTY CHORUS AND BALLET DANCING

BY DON CARLE GILLETTE

(Communications to 1493 Broadway, New York, N. Y.)

Cosmopolitan Opening To Be Notable Event

Society and Prominent Folk To See Premiere of Ziegfeld's "Louis the 14th"—Other Openings and Shows Under Way

New York, Feb. 28.—There will be some notable doings at Columbus Circle next week when Florenz Ziegfeld, Jr., takes possession of the Ziegfeld Cosmopolitan Theater and opens it on Tuesday evening with his latest production, Louis, XIV. Society leaders and others of prominence in New York life will make up a large part of the opening-night audience, and it is even reported that special delegations, including several newspaper men, will come all the way from Palm Beach for the occasion.

In addition to being the Broadway premiere of the new Leon Errol show and the beginning of Ziegfeld's management of the Cosmopolitan, this will be the first time that the Columbus Circle playhouse has tried a legitimate production policy, and the outcome will be watched with great interest by all New York showmen. The house has been undergoing extensive changes the last few weeks and is now said to be one of the most modern theaters in the country, especially adapted for large musical productions such as Ziegfeld turns out. A musical comedy diamond horseshoe is a feature of the new playhouse. The circle is limited to 68 loges, all of which contain big, comfortable armchairs. These are the best seats in the house, being situated only eight rows from the stage, and it is intended to sell them on subscription for the entire season. The diamond horseshoe is expected to become a brilliant new feature of New York social life, as the list of logeholders to date already includes some of the best of the 400.

Another opening of more than usual interest this week will be the Broadway premiere of Willie Howard in Sky High at the Shubert Theater tonight. This is the first time Willie Howard has appeared in a production without his brother, Eugene, who is now acting as his manager. Sky High is the musical show that had a successful run in London under the name of Whirled Into Happiness.

Next week Ziegfeld will present the spring edition of his Follies at the New Amsterdam Theater. Altho it will not be exactly a new revue, the indications are that the changes will be sufficient to give the revue some new life.

Business along Broadway this week started to slump, particularly among the weaker attractions, altho about half a dozen of the topnotchers continue to do capacity. With the arrival of two new shows this week and the freshening up of the Follies next some of the current pieces very likely will be forced out. Ed Wynne's The Grab Bag already is reported to be leaving in two weeks, with Bird, which is on a week-to-week basis, may go any time. Balleff's Chauve-Souris did not complete its schedule by three weeks, having closed Saturday. Natja, China Rose and the Provincetown Players' revival of Patience have all been in the cutrates consistently and their fate is uncertain. Betty Lee, another popular cut-rate tenant, may be able to stick for another month.

Shows now in rehearsal include Sam Shanon's Sinners, under the direction of Shanon; The Charm School, being revived by the Shuberts, and Mercenary Mary, the first of three musical productions that L. Lawrence Weber plans to do in the near future. Russell Jamey has not yet started on If I Were King, altho he is at work on the cast, and a new piece called The Fast Workers is being planned by Charles Mulligan. A third company of The Student Prince, destined for Boston, also is likely.

Ziegfeld Is To Do "In Old Kentucky"

New York, Feb. 28.—Forenz Ziegfeld, Jr., has confirmed the report that he has purchased the rights of In Old Kentucky and will present a musical version of this famous old play next season. William Anthony McGuire is writing the book. Harry Tierney will do the score and Joseph McCarthy is being depended upon for the lyrics. Altho Marilyn Miller has been mentioned for the stellar role in the production, the Ziegfeld announcement indicates that there will be no star in the piece.

May Break Chicago Record

Chicago, Feb. 25.—This is the 14th week for No. No. Nanette, in the Harris Theater. It is now believed the play will break all long-run records in Chicago. Turnaway at every performance continues as it has for months. Mr. Frazer, being an astute showman, will hardly move his show away from the Loop as long as the public likes to pay to see it as well as it has for nearly a year. There are several Chicago favorites in the cast—who have made conspicuously good back of the footlights in the prairie metropolis. There have been many changes in the cast since the play opened, but all newcomers seemed to ginger things up. These are at present among the stars: Charles Wimmer, Wellington Cross, Josephine Whittell, Georgia O'Ramey, Jack Barker, Mary Lawler, Edna Whistler and Eleanor Dawn.

Dowling in Philly for the Third Time

Philadelphia, Feb. 28.—A capacity audience greeted Eddie Dowling and his Salvy, Teac and Along February 27 at the Walnut Theater, where this musical comedy scored its third triumphant appearance here. Dowling, Louise Brown, Film Moun, Kathleen Mahoney, D. J. Sullivan and other favorites were given ovations, and among the others whose efforts drew big applause were William Mason, Lois Arnold, Rebecca Ryford, Jan Fitzhugh, Gertrude Mudge, Grace Stadford, Eddie O'Connor, Herbert Hoey, George Easting, Buford Hampden, Frank Connor, Patrick Henry, Fred Packard, Fred Stanton, Thomas Weldon, Monica Boulton, Hazel Vernon, Margaret Starr and Frances Dewey.

There are five other musical shows here this week as against one dramatic.

THE TILLER COMPANY

Mr. and Mrs. John Tiller (right) and Mary Read, the dancing master's chief aide, and at present in charge of the Tiller interests in this country, photographed recently in Chicago on the occasion of Mrs. Tiller's first visit to America. This is the only group picture ever taken of the "Tiller Company".

Fred Stone Celebrating 38 Years on Stage

Chicago, Feb. 27.—Fred Stone is celebrating his 38th anniversary back of the footlights this week. As most everybody knows, he and his daughter, Dorothy, are at the Illinois Theater in Stepping Stones. Fred Stone and his brother, Eddie, 14 and 12 years old, respectively, worked in a singing and acrobatic act in Kansas City in 1887. It was their first engagement carrying a pay envelope—$30 a week joint. Later Fred and Dave Montgomery hooked up together and arrived good and strong in The Wizard of Oz. Not since that time has any manager save Charles Dillingham been able to get within hailing distance of Fred Stone. Death took Dave Montgomery from the stage some years ago. Before going with the Wizard Fred was established in the varieties, but it has been an even quarter of a century since vaudeville claimed him.

Kent Misses Two Shows

New York, Feb. 28.—William Kent, comedian of Rose-Marie, at the Imperial Theater, was absent from both performances of the show on Washington's Birthday. He was reported confined to his home with an attack of laryngitis. Neale Moore substituted for Kent.

The latter is Grounds for Divorce and the musicals are: Earl Carroll's Vanities, Plain Jane, Sweet Little Devil, Dirie to Broadway and a return engagement of Blossom Time.

Will Roehm Does Revue

New York, Feb. 28.—Will Roehm, of Roehm and Richards, assisted by Vaughn Godfrey, who staged Hi Say She Is and Up In the Clouds, produced an entertainment called a Revue Contique for the Consolidated Gas and Electric Company, of Baltimore, presented at the Lyric Theater there last Saturday, Monday and Tuesday. All the talent for the revue was recruited from the employees of the company and the show was a great success all around.

Lupino Lane Leaves "Ziegfeld Follies"

New York, Feb. 28.—Lupino Lane, the English comedian, is leaving the Ziegfeld Follies tonight. He will appear in vaudeville next week as the headliner at Keith's Hippodrome, after which he is to sail for England. Twenty of the Follies girls, headed by Martha Lorher and Dorothy Knapp, will give a birthday party to Lane tonight at the Silver Slipper.

John Tiller

King of Group Dancing Comes Over To Improve American Choruses

For several seasons the dancing of musical comedy choruses has gradually improved. Producers of dance numbers have shown more ingenuity in their conceptions of routine and ensembles and they also have injected more snap and precision into every part of chorus work. So remarkable have the achievements been in some instances that the chorus has actually been one of the outstanding features of the show.

The man responsible for this good influence on the dancing of the American chorus is John Tiller. Ever since Charles Dillingham and Florenz Ziegfeld, Jr. brought over their first troupe of Tiller Girls for The Century Girl, in 1910, patrons of musical comedy have been comparing all choruses by the Tiller standard. So it was inevitable that some of our younger and more enterprising dance directors would eventually strive for the same effects.

John Tiller began his career as a dance master about 45 years ago in Manchester, England. His first efforts were with children's ballets. Then he began to drill dancing girls in quartets, and out of these groups of four grew the units of 16 that are now world famous. Tiller was the first man to introduce the working chorus, in place of the inert groups of show girls, as a background for production numbers, and the idea made a big hit right from the beginning.

George Lederer brought the very first Tiller troupe to this country more than 25 years ago. It numbered 16 girls and was the original "pony chorus" which has since become part of almost every musical comedy and burlesque production. Altho this first Tiller unit to visit America was well received, it was not until Dillingham and Ziegfeld started using these troupes that the Tiller Girls began to figure significantly in musical comedy over here. 15th of these producers have used Tiller units continuously since 1916, and the only other American manager whom Tiller is now supplying is Henry W. Savage.

In addition to the units in this country and in England, Tiller has two troupes in Berlin, one heading at the Whitegarten and the other at the Gross Schauspielhaus, and two at the Folies Bergere in Paris. Incidentally, the Folies Bergere management pays Tiller a yearly salary for the exclusive right to use Tiller girls in Paris. This famous French revue started out with one troupe of Tiller's, then added a second and in its next edition it is going to do the unprecedented thing of presenting three full units of 16 girls each, which will give the Folies Bergere a chorus of 48 Tiller girls.

On his last trip over here, about two months ago, John Tiller arranged for the establishment of an American headquarters at 226 West 72d street, New York. This branch studio, in addition to conducting negotiations with managers who desire to import Tiller troupes, will give instruction to American girls who want to acquire the Tiller principles of dancing.

Mary Read, who has been associated with Tiller for 20 years, is in charge of the American enterprise and will personally conduct the instruction over here. Miss Read enlisted with Tiller when she was but nine years old. She was a member of the Tiller troupe brought over by Dillingham and Ziegfeld in 1910 and until two years ago headed Tiller's well-known Sunshine Girls. Besides appearing in a Tiller troupe Miss Read has assisted the dance master in the training of units and in staging the troupe's now playing in Paris and Berlin. She also will go to Paris this summer to put on the triple-size Tiller troupe at the Folies Bergere.

It was Miss Read's love of America and her desire to return here after having made several trips back and forth that finally induced Tiller to establish a branch here. Now that she is here her chief aim is to improve the dancing of American chorus girls, also to train children who want to develop this art according to the Tiller method. No attempt will be made to organize groups of American girls. Miss Read says our girls are so pretty, have so much individuality and want to do so much that it would be a difficult matter to consolidate them after the English fashion. So they will just be given such training, correction or routine as may be required in each particular case.

Miss Read points out that many of our most prominent dancers know much less in the way of dancing routine than the ordinary member of a Tiller troupe, and even our dancers of long experience have defects that ought to be corrected. Very few know anything about proper stage deportment, how to walk or how to sell what they know, and fewer still know the trick of working in unison. All these things will be taught at the Tiller studio. The secret of effective costuming of choruses, which is a very important consideration in Tiller troupes, also will be expounded.

Altho Tiller has never developed his girls in the vocal line it is probable that proper singing also will be taught at the New York studio thru a leag with Henri Lavan, a well-known vocal teacher, who is located in the same building.

Ada Forman, formerly with one of the Greenwich Village Follies editions, is now appearing as a dancer in vaudeville and meeting with success.

ENGAGEMENTS

New York, Feb. 28.—Joyce Barbour, the English beauty who appeared here last fall in Harbor and later replaced Gertrude Lawrence in Charlotte's Revue on the road, has been engaged by the Shuberts to sing the chief feminine role opposite Willie Howard in Sky-High.

Joan Clement and Katherine Littlefield have been added to the cast of Florenz Ziegfeld's new production, Louis, the 14th.

Paul Donar has been engaged thru the Georgia Wolfe office for the third company of Arthur Hammerstein's Rose-Marie.

Pauline and Beatrice Carr, the Philadelphia debutantes who came to New York about a week ago to seek stage careers, have been signed by Charles Dillingham for the Elsie Janis revue, Puzzles of 1925.

Cora Williams, who played the hapless grandmother, role in the original production of The Clinging Vine, was engaged thru Fred Ryeroff for the same part in the production of this piece by Arthur Casey's stock company in New Bedford, Mass., this week.

Children's Society Takes Young Dancers From Revue

New York, Feb. 28.—Agents of the Gerry Society this week took Peggy Dorn and Doree Leslie, two little dancers, from the Elsie Janis revue, Puzzles of 1925, at the Fulton Theater, because they were both under 16 years of age. When the girls were engaged by the Dillingham office it was understood that they were just 16 and therefore immune from interference from the children's society, but the Gerry agents checked up the records of the two girls and found that Miss Dorn will not be 16 until next December, while Miss Leslie will make the grade in January.

The Dillingham office also was under scrutiny by Gerry agents when Peter Pan was produced. A number of children under 16 appeared in that production by special permit. The law allows children to take part in straight productions under certain conditions, but no child under 16 may assist in a singing and dancing entertainment.

Burnside's Daughter Becomes a Director

New York, Feb. 28.—Kathryn Burnside, daughter of R. H. Burnside, who directed the Hippodrome spectacles and many other Broadway productions, is to follow in the footsteps of her father and become a director. She has taken desk room with her dad at 226 West 47th street and will start on her career at once. Miss Burnside has been interested in the stage since childhood, having carried on an extensive study of modern continental stages and productions and having learned the tricks of the trade, from a practical standpoint, thru being the constant companion of her father during his productions. In her four years at college she directed the various school entertainments and annual plays and recently she staged several amateur and semi-professional productions. Miss Burnside is only 18 years old, which makes her the youngest director on record.

Third "Nanette" Company

New York, Feb. 28.—With the original Chicago company of No, No, Nanette not far from its 400th performance and going bigger than ever, and the second troupe at present making a hit in Philadelphia, after doing some record breaking in Cleveland, H. H. Frazee is reported to be on the verge of organizing a third unit of his musical success for Boston, to open there about Easter week.

The cause of the delay in presenting this production on Broadway is said to be due to the fact that the members of the Chicago company hold contracts for a New York appearance. It has been rumored that one of the special companies may be brought into Chicago later to relieve the original company so that it can come on to New York. The plan is considered a favorable one from the standpoint that many Chicagoans would be drawn in to see how the new company compared with the old.

Roger Gray To Present Operettas in Atlanta

New York, Feb. 28.—Roger Gray, who is playing in My Girl, will send an operetta stock company to Atlanta within the next few months for a summer season of light opera in that city. The engagement will be for six weeks and the actual direction will be in the hands of a stage director to be selected by Gray. There is not much likelihood that Gray will present a light opera company in New York this summer, as he has planned to do, but this and a similar organization in a Western city are still having his consideration.

New Production by White

New York, Feb. 28.—Love for Money, a musical comedy, with book by George White and music and lyrics by James Hanley and Budde Sylvia, has been announced for early production by White

New York, Feb. 28.—Gus Hill announces that the principals for his Chicago company of Bringing Up Father will include Tom Hawley as Jiggs, Emma Weston as Maggie, William Morrow as Dinty Moore and Jack Boyley as a Scotchman. Louise Kelly, Hopkins and Mozar and the National Trio also will be in the cast. The show is to go into rehearsal next week and will open at the Olympic Theater, Chicago, about the end of March.

The New York company of the George McManis cartoon comedy is now in rehearsal under the direction of Richard Carroll, with the opening date at the Lyric Theater announced as March 30. In this troupe are Danny Simmons, Beatrice Harlow, Charles Burke, Mary Marlowe, Gloria Willard, William Cameron, Leo Henning, William Thompson, Edna Farrell and Margaret Murphy. William Koud will stage the dances.

Combined Male Chorus To Give Sunday Concert

New York, Feb. 28.—The male choruses of The Love Song, the Offenbach operetta at the Century Theater, and The Student Prince, at Jolson's Theater, are to be combined by the Shuberts for a special Sunday concert to be given at the Century Theater early in the spring. More than 100 voices will be included in the combined units, and the singing will be under the direction of Oscar Radin, who conducts the orchestra for The Student Prince. The program to be offered by this mammoth glee club will comprise some of the ensemble numbers sung in the two operettas and various college airs, folk melodies and Negro songs.

Now a Member of Nobility

Chicago, Feb. 27.—Beatrice Lillie, of Charlotte's Revue, at the Garrick, became Lady Peel, of Drayton Manor, a few days ago on the death of her father-in-law, Sir Robert Peel, fourth baronet of the line. The title inherited by her husband, Sir Robert Peel II, is one of the most distinguished in England and will eventually go to Miss Lillie's 4-year-old son, Robert Peel III. With the title also goes the estate of Drayton Manor, comprising more than 10,000 acres near London. Miss Lillie will not relinquish the stage for her new heritage for some time, being under contract until next fall.

Evelyn Law To Double

New York, Feb. 28.—Evelyn Law, until recently a featured dancer in the Ziegfeld Follies at the New Amsterdam Theater, and now a member of Ziegfeld's latest production, Louis, the 14th, which comes into the Metropolitan Theater next week, will appear in both of these attractions, each night during their joint stay in New York.

NOTES

Edgar Stehli, who has been appearing in the revival of Gilbert and Sullivan's Patience, now at the Greenwich Village Theater, New York, will have the leading role in the new Provincetown Playhouse production that opens this week.

Fred V. Bowers closed his What'll I Do? company at Uniontown, Pa., February 25, having toured the South and Middle West since September 1. He will make a tour over the same territory next season, he states, starting the last of August.

Trini, the Spanish dancer who appeared for a short time with the latest edition of Artists and Models, will make her vaudeville debut at the Palace Theater, New York, this week. She will have two dancing partners and a Spanish jazz orchestra.

Adolph Link, veteran German actor, now appearing in The Student Prince, in New York, is collaborating with Lorenz M. Hart, author of The Melody Man, on the translation of an Austrian mountain play, transferring the locale and part of the dialog to our own Kentucky.

Lyle D. Andrews, producer of My Girl, one of the Broadway musical hits, is so proud of the remarkable eight-girl chorus in his show that he has named the troupe The Vanderbilt Girls, after the name of the theater under his direction and in which the show is playing.

Gene Buck has written two numbers

Russian Revue Held Over

New York, Feb. 28.—Yushny's The Blue Bird, which was to have ended its engagement at the Frolic Theater tonight, is being held over for another week at least, and possibly longer. Business the last few weeks has been fairly good in comparison to the business during the run of the first bill, but even now the revue is believed to be taking in barely enough to cover expenses. A road tour was supposed to follow the local engagement, but this has been given up. Yushny will return to the other side early in March and it is announced that he will come over here again next October for a tour of 20 weeks under the direction of S. Hurok, Inc.

Weber To Produce "Mercenary Mary"

New York, Feb. 28.—Mercenary Mary, by William B. Friedlander and Isabel Leighton, with music and lyrics by Con Conrad and Friedlander, is announced as the next musical comedy offering by L. Lawrence Weber. The play is a musical version of What a Wife, presented on Broadway about a year ago. Allen Kearns, Vivian Martin, John Boles, Margaret Wilson, Louis Simon and Lew Hearn are to be in the cast. Rehearsals are scheduled to start next week and the attraction will have a preliminary week in Atlantic City before its New York showing early in April.

Cleveland Likes "Nanette"

Cleveland, O., Feb. 28.—No, No, Nanette, closed a two weeks' run at the Ohio Theater here tonight and, according to the management, drew approximately $30,000. The cast here was headed by Cecil Lean, Cleo Mayfield and Donald Brian. The advance ticket sale for Rain, featuring Jeanne Eagles, which opens at the Ohio tomorrow, is reported to be unusually heavy.

Changes in "Betty Lee"

New York, Feb. 28.—Harvey Dunn has joined the cast of Rufus LeMaire's Betty Lee at the 44th Street Theater, assuming the role formerly played by George Sweet who has replaced Hal Skelly. Frank Hawley also has been added in place of Clifford J. O'Rourke, and Doris Wilson, Avis Nast and Evelyn Plumade have joined the ensemble, which appears to have lost Nancy Lay and Harriet Hasbrook.

New Palm Beach Theater To Be Opened by Jolson

New York, Feb. 28.—The new theater being built by Lee Shubert in Palm Beach, Fla., will be opened next January by Al Jolson who is now appearing in Big Boy at the Winter Garden, according to announcements. Incidentally, this will be Jolson's first business trip to Florida.

made the trip from New York in order to attend the affair.

Elsie Janis, appearing in her Puzzles of 1925, at the Fulton Theater, New York, is offering to amateur writers a prize of $500 advance royalties for the best comedy sketch submitted to her before June 1. This sketch will be incorporated at that time in the summer edition of her revue. The only conditions are that the sketch must be an up-to-date satire on some current topic of human interest and it must not run more than 10 minutes.

Patricia O'Connell, a member of the ensemble of The Student Prince, at the Jolson Theater, New York, was the winner in a competition among 200 vocal students and four members of the Metropolitan Opera Company for the privilege of creating the leading role in Lazare Saminsky's new opera, Gagliardi of a Merry Plague, which had its first presentation on Sunday evening, February 22, at the Times Square Theater, under the auspices of the League of Composers. Miss O'Connell is the daughter of J. C. O'Connell, music critic for The Montgomery (Ala.) Advertiser. She came to New York two years ago, after winning the scholarship of the Alabama Julliard Art Foundation, which entitled her to a year's voice training in the studio of Estelle Liebling.

George E. Wintz, owner of Models of 1925, and Nyra Brown, his wife and star of the show, barely escaped fatal injury while driving from Lakeland to Bradenton, Fla., recently. They were the victims of a sideswipe which caused their car to turn half over, spilling its occupants and inflicting serious injuries to Miss Brown. The star was immediately taken to the Gordon Keller Hospital in Tampa, where her wounds were dressed. Altho ordered by the doctor to remain in the hospital, Miss Brown managed to get her clothes and slipped away in time to make the trip to Bradenton by 8:30 p.m. While she was compelled to leave out the dances, Miss Brown sang all her songs and no one in the audience suspected that the spunky little actress was suffering all the time from the pain of her bruises.

ITINERARIES of tabloid companies should reach us Friday to insure publication in the route columns of the next Billboard.

GEORGE CLIFFORD'S Pep and Ginger Revue, in its third week at Havana, Cuba, is reported to be drawing exceptionally well.

GLADYS GILMER, who has been visiting Mrs. W. I. Robins of Baltimore, is returning to tabloid after several months' rest.

BILL COY, first comic, is now in his 32d week in tabloid at the Gayoso Theater, Kansas City, Mo., while Bob Johnson, second comic, is in his 22d week there.

AMONG THOSE in the east of the White Bang Revue are Johnnie and Irene Sneed, who have been on the show for 30 weeks and have contracts until June 28.

HARRY (IKE) EVANS' Rainbow Girl Company is now in its 56th week at the Rialto Theater in Waterloo, Ia. New songs, wardrobes and scenic effects are constantly introduced.

ELLSWORTH BEN BOW was confined in a hospital for four weeks by injuries sustained in an auto accident, but writes from Columbus, O., that he is now okeh and back with his jazz band, "The Farm-Hand Syncopators", which soon will head for the West Coast.

GUS SUN, Homer Neer and many others of the Sun Circuit attended a recent gathering and scamper of the managers at a big down-town hotel in Detroit, important matters being discussed for betterment of booking and routing acts, and similar get-togethers are planned for the future.

PALMER HINES, well-known musical comedy producer, joined the Golden & Long Buccini Around Company in Philadelphia last week. Mr. Hines will stage several new bills. The Golden & Long show now numbers 28 people, playing Keith Time in the East, and is booked for the entire summer in New York, Brooklyn and Philadelphia.

THE LIBERTY THEATER, which holds the exclusive franchise of the Gus Sun Booking Exchange in New Castle, Pa., is now offering "Red" Mack and his Street Stuff Company. This is the fourth week of the Mack engagement and business so far has been excellent, we are informed. This is a record for New Castle, and it looks as if "Red" will be there quite a while.

CATHERINE RENAUD, who is confined to bed in the Broadlawn Sanatorium, 14th and St. Joseph avenue, Des Moines, Ia., would greatly appreciate letters from friends in the profession, she writes. Not long ago she finished a two-year engagement in the South, working for Herman Lewis in Laughterland, and for a short time she was with Marshall Walker's White Bang Revue.

THE SANFORD Butterfly Maids opened Sunday afternoon at Okemah, Ok., having jumped from Oxford, Kan., where a week's engagement was completed Saturday. Before the latter date the company played a three weeks' engagement at the Gaiety Theater, Picher, Ok., where it added greatly to its already well-established popularity. This attraction is booked thru the Southwestern Exchange, and W. D. Sanford is the manager.

MEMBERS of Morton's Happytime Revue, while playing Palm Beach and Miami, Fla., recently had as their guests for three weeks Barney Aronson, manager of the Grand Theater, Raleigh, N. C.; Joe Spiegelberg, booking agent, and Vera Jennings of Atlanta. The amusements included bathing, fishing, horse racing and dog races. The Happytime Revue is enjoying a successful season, the owners report, as is the Springtime Frolics, another show under the Morton management.

THE REVISED ROSTER of the Town Follies Company, now in stock at the Gayoso Theater, Kansas City, Mo., includes the following people: Bill Coy, first comic (doing Dutch); Bob Johnson, second comic (boob); Paul Leftwick, straights and characters; Margie Russell, soubret and characters; Zella Turner, chorus producer; Eva Box, Mae Mountjoy, "Toots" Golden, Thelma Davis, Lanora May, chorus. Three changes a week is the rule, with two bit bills and one script being offered.

THE BON JOHNS GIRLS, formerly with Danny Lund's Music Girl Company, have not made any change in people, except to add Judy Strawbridge, cornet, and Florence Myer, doubling trombone and piano. The act consists of eight girls, opening "in one" as a revue, going into "three" for a two-piano specialty, and closing with ensemble singing, dancing and playing. After closing with Mr. Lund's show the act played the Carrell Time and is now playing Keith-Albee Time, under the direction of Alf. T. Wilton of New York.

BERT SMITH'S, Smiling Eyes Company opened on the Butterfield Circuit at Battle Creek, Mich., February 8. This is Bert's newest show and, like his Raytime Wonders and Oh, Daddy, Oh, Company, is the last word in tabloid musical comedy. The Smiling Eyes Company carries 30 people, a carload of scenery and electrical effects, it is said. The cast includes Toby Thompson, comedian and producer; Flo Russell, Sue Garret, Madeline Lewis, Harry Warner, "Happy" Ray, Dick Butler, Bob Lester, the Pacific Comedy Four, Blighty and Nolan, Tony Camp, Frank Gerard, and a chorus of 12. Hazel Butler is manager and musical director, and Charlie Amie carpenter.

(Communications to 25-27 Opera Place, Cincinnati, O.)

SAM SHUMAN reports his No. 1 Eastern Musical Comedy Company in Canada after a successful tour of Maryland, Pennsylvania and New York State. His number two company, comprising 14 people, opened at Rensselaer, N. Y., last week for a route covering practically the same territory played by the first company. The roster of the No. 2 show: Jack White, first comic (tramp); Harry Lewis, second comic; Jack Wilson, straight; Frank Bertram, juvenile; Belle Luthriene, prima donna; Margaret Dennis, soubret, with the following chorus: Gladys Payson, Fanny Lewis, Rose Diamond, Blanche Sweet, Helen Montelle, Marlon Davis, Lillian McFarlan, Marion O'Brien; Joe Harrison at the piano; Arthur Swerling, business manager; Belle Luthriene, secretary-treasurer; Joe Jackson, manager and producer; Samuel Shuman, general manager and owner.

HOYT "BOZO" SMYTHE, featured comedian at the Rivoli Theater, Denver, Col., continues as the leading attraction at that house, and supporting him are such local favorites as Billy Riddle, Golda Voda, Senorita Dorita, Eddie Paige, George Twyman, Rene Vincent, George Allen, Dee Baird and W. Rex Jewell, who directs the entire presentations. Miss Lottie Gray is the new ballet mistress. Jack Finerty's six-piece jazz orchestra tickles the palates of music lovers. Frank Milton, manager, commenting on the success of tabloid at the Rivoli, says: "It is because it is in the form of clean, clever entertainment. There is nothing of the old-style leg show, as musical comedy was called a few years before. Everything is such that one can bring his entire family or send the children without fear of them hearing or seeing anything that would be objectionable even to the most fastidious. Such has been the policy of the Rivoli and the style of Mr. Jewell's shows ever since the opening performance of that clever show entitled Peaches, in which the company opened October 27, 1923."

BERT PECK'S High Life Revue has been on the boards at the Central Theater, Danville, Ill., for seven weeks and is still going strong. Rube Martin, producer and featured comic, has real royalty scripts and knows how to direct them in such a manner they are small productions in themselves. Martin, besides being at home in his rube character, is a light comedian of no mean ability. He is an asset to any box office. The roster of the show comprises Robert Martin, Johnny Hasner, second comic; Mrs. Hasner, characters, making a clever team; Jack Menzies, straight man; Lillian Jackson, singing and dancing soubret; Dolly Peck, ingenue; Leona Koldyke, prima donna. Miss Koldyke possesses a charming personality and pleasing voice. Bert Peck, besides being owner and manager, is doing juvenile roles, being a regular showstopper with his violin. Pal Duquesne is filling general business roles and doing specialties. Dolly Peck is chorus producer, Andy McDougall, musical director, and Armond Gregory at the drums. The chorus has these real steppers: Celia Crawly, Frankie B. Blair, Jackie LaRue, Peggy Phipps, Babe Johnson and Billie Mattison.

"FOR THE BENEFIT of those most interested, we wish to make public a few facts about Marshall Walker's White Bang Revue," writes Frank F. Koops. "This show was organized in 1923 at the Tootle Theater, St. Joseph, Mo., and played there three weeks, going to Des Moines, Ia., for a similar period. Worked 12 weeks in Davenport and Clinton, Ia., and jumped to the Sun Time, opening at Elgin, Ill. Since then the show has been booked exclusively and consecutively by the Sun offices and has made an enviable record in having lost but seven days in two years. The White Bang has played all the big dates on the time and many return dates. For example, two trips into Altoona, Pa.; two trips in Lima, O., one of which was for six weeks; three trips to East Liverpool, O., with a six-week run there; Warren, O., three trips, and we are now going into Uniontown, Pa., for the third time, for two weeks. To the best of our knowledge this is the only show on the circuit to make such a showing in Uniontown. The White Bang also played Philadelphia, Reading, Kokomo, Gary, Jackson, Butler and Morgantown, and has contracts ahead to April 15. We are playing to capacity houses on our second trip to Brownsville, Pa., and hope to break our own record in Uniontown next week. Marshall Walker writes all the material, including music, that is used on the White Bang. His latest song hit, Who Calls You Sweet Mamma Now? is enjoying unusual popularity."

A SEATTLE newspaper printed a review of a lavish new show staged by Roy Clair, from which the following is an excerpt: "Brilliantly staged, with a sequence of droll situations that garner laughs and musical and dance embellishments of a quality to charm the ear and eye, What Next, Roy (Hiram) Clair's new musical comedy at the Palace-Hipp, proved highly popular with yesterday's audience. This week's show measures up to the high standard set by Clair's previous productions. There are no dull moments; the performance moves with dash and vivacity from the effective opening to the spectacular finale. Clair, in the role of a peddler making valiant efforts to sell anything from a box of matches to an automobile, has many opportunities for funmaking. William Rase evokes merriment with his portrayal of a very much henpecked husband, and Ruby Lang, popular leading woman, has a part that gives scope to her histrionic skill. Florence Clair is well cast in an important role, and remaining parts are taken by other Palace-Hipp favorites. The dainty Romie Twins and marmette Fontella La Pierre, singing soubret, are again capturing the fancy of every audience. With Hiram's Trio, Ruby Lang harmonizes in a sprightly version of Knit of Blue. A gay dance by Danling Brown and Helen Falk, the other numbers include Dandy and Belle, by the trio; Hoop-La, featuring Danling Brown and the charmers, and Ella Chalfonte's singing of The Right Boy."

A ROSTER with other data about Bert Peck's revue at Danville, Ill., appears on this page and from another source, J. L. Hibbard, comes a report of Peck's performance being altogether favorable, except for the work of one member of the cast. This is the second time within a few days that an independent version concerning a tabloid company has come in almost coincidentally with information furnished by some one officially connected with the show. In the other case, however, the estimate of the unofficial observer of the tabloid, which has closed in an Eastern State, was very disparaging to the company. Happily, the gift for seeing ourselves as others see us, which Bobbie Burns lamented, is inherent in Bert Peck's retinue, for Mr. Hibbard's letter is largely corroborative. It relates: "Stopped en route to Kansas City in Danville, Ill., February 22, and caught Bert Peck's High Life Revue. Peck has six principals and four girls in line, the smallest show I have known him to associate with. He has a splendid cast, except that the prim, or soubret does not know how to handle her splendid voice. She broke on her high notes and reported herself in general like a nervous school girl, and her apparent flitting and ogling the audience should not be tolerated. Peck took numerous encores with his violin. He is one of the real fellows in tabloid. 'Tis rumored in Danville that he has secured the lease on one of the larger theaters in the Tri-Cities for 14 years. The bill was splendidly staged and the numbers were well arranged and went over with a bang. The chorus looks good from the front and the wardrobe is neat and clean."

organizing his company, after which he will head west toward the oil fields. LEE FESSELL, recently returned to Seattle from San Francisco, is back with Roy "Hiram" Clark's Company. HITS-BITS OF BROADWAY, Charles Bengar advises, has been working for the past seven weeks without a layoff. To correct a mistake, he wishes it announced that Wm. Hilbert has been doing the booking.

EASTWOOD HARRISON, manager of the Step Lively Company, is finding plenty of bookings in Pennsylvania. He is at McKeesport and New Kensington the first two weeks of March.

JACK WRIGHT, late of the Pete Pate show, joined Don Davis' Dancing Folies in Annapolis, Md., replacing George Woods, George formerly was identified with the Bobbed Hair Bandits, a Mutual burlesque show. He is leaving to take a much-needed rest, and says he will be with another Mutual show next season. Miss Mildred Woods also will leave the show in Atlanta.

SPRINGTIME FOLLIES, at the Fairmount Theater, Baltimore, is featuring Billy (O Look at My Hat!) Spellman, late of the Baroque Revue and the Green-Eyed Babies, Columbia and Mutual attractions. Ruth Spellman is doing leads and specialties; Johnny Kane, straight; Delma, second comic and specialties; Ida Green and Tommy Harris, specialties. Six girls are in the line.

MILES MURPHY, Snyder and Billy Shaw are still at the Novelty Theater, Baltimore, with their company of seven, while Jim Bailey continues at the Clover Theater in the same city, assisted in tabloid by Jack La Mont and Alma Carson. Alice Boyd and a chorus of four girls. Another Monumental City tab, is in the Sapona Theater, with George Carroll and Milton Davis featured.

MGR. E. A. BIRD, of the Royal Theater, Fayetteville, Ark., puts the stamp of approval on Cyrus Hinton's Whirl of It Company, which recently played his home, declaring in a letter to us: "This show did not use a single scene or song or word that was suggestive. It carried plenty of good scenery, wonderful wardrobe and several very good dancers and singers; in short, a real musical comedy production on a small scale."

ED POP LOWRY and his Maryland Revue have opened at the Hull Theater, Baltimore. Billy Cavanaugh is coming with Lowry and general business man, Edythe Carson, prima donna; Ruby Lee, straight. Billy's wife also is with the company, and there is a chorus of four. Billy Cavanaugh and Edythe Carson have teamed and are working the Broke Theater, doubling with Hull. The act consists of singing, dancing, talking and Miss Carson's roller skating specialty.

MARY KEANE'S Love Nest Girls are playing a five weeks' engagement at the Orpheum Theater, Marion, O. Y. C. Alby, manager, has changed the entire personnel since the first of the year and added new scenery, new lines and new specialties. Van Browne, with his musical act and rag picture novelty, is one of the attractions, along with Mirat, "the Hindu mystery," carrying four people and a special stage setting, being seen for the first time on the Sun Circuit. This show is now in its 22d week.

JACK SETTLE'S Nifty Revue Company reports good business for the Varsity Theater in Calgary, Alberta, and a long stay there is anticipated. The roster includes Jack Settle, producing comedian; Art Roberts, second comedian and violin specialist; Jack Cassidy, straight; Walter Ferguson, general business; Iris Miller, soubret; Florence Owens, prima donna; Mrs. Letherdale, character woman; Peggy McKechnie, Bobby White, Creo Anderson, Betty Anderson and Marian Zimmerman, chorus; Tony Settle, chorus producer.

R. H. McFARLANE, manager of the Liberty Theater, Birkburnett, Tex., contributes this to our symposium: "Armstrong's Musical Comedy Company just closed a successful week's engagement at the Liberty. It is a clean, snappy show, with good wardrobe and scenery. The double blacks (Curly Wilson and Paul Rusty Scott) deliver the goods, and the quartet, Curly, Armstrong, Scott and Hodges, never fails to stop the show. The company is on its way for an indefinite engagement in the Palace Theater in Wichita Falls."

JIMMY BURNS has almost entirely revamped his Big Show, strengthening the support for his comedians, Eddie Chittenden and Chet Umpleby, by a prima, a straight man, a soubret and three more girls, together with new scenery and wardrobe. Chittenden is producer and first comic, while Umpleby is second funster. Both are well known in tabloid and vaudeville. The Sunny Southern Four, in which the pair feature with another brace of live ones, Phillips and McDonald, is declared to be a genuine show-stopper.

FRANK MORTON, now playing at the Royal Theater, Vancouver, B. C., types that he acknowledges the soft impeachment from this department and admits he did not refer to The Billboard in a recently published communication, while generalizing upon the attitude of trade journals toward tabloid. "However," Mr. Morton concludes, "my error may have a certain value, as it afforded an opportunity again to call attention to the fact that The Billboard is the ONLY trade journal to recognize the growing importance of the tabloid field and to maintain a department which, I am certain, is fully appreciated by every member of the profession engaged in that field."

MILTON SCHUSTER'S recent tabloid bookings include Smiles Rodgers, Bert Smith's Bagpipe Wonders; George Teeters and wife, Walter Johnson and wife, Toy Hoagland, Theba Miller, Dillingham Theater, El Dorado, Ark.; Ann Darwin and Peggy Marsh, Jim Harmon's Society Girls; Marie Malme, Doc Paul's; Lucille Lelbau, Grand Opera House, San Antonio, Tex.; Lowell Spry, Albert Taylor's tabloid; Fay Hazleton, Margaret Lillie company; Miss Dahlgreen, Charley Revue; Maude Meyers, Harvey D. Orr's show; Bobby Stevens and Clara Lee, Jimmie Burns' show; Sam Leonard, Eddie Briley's company.

EDDIE FORD writes that his Broadway Masqueraders are in their 63d week stock engagement at the Mavety Theater, West Toronto, Can., and that he has placed his No. 2 show at La Plaza Theater, in Toronto, succeeding his No. 1 show. The second company, called The Broadway Flappers, is headed by Vic and Buddy Vernon, clever musical comedy artists, and has a cast that Mr. Ford feels is equal to any tab. It includes Vic Vernon, producer; Leo Mularkey, first comic; Buddy Vernon, ingenue; Alma Vivian, characters; Doc O'Neil, straight; Ethel Jones, soubret, and Edna Gillett, Dorothy Watson, Jeanette McDonald, Ethel Jones, Babe Barker, Violet Gillett and Gladys Stevenson in the chorus.

WHAT IS PROBABLY one of the most unique shows in the world is located in Montreal's tenderloin, St. Lawrence boulevard, at Starland, a two-a-day show, the nature of which is tub burlesque and its outstanding figure is Tizoune, otherwise Oliver Gilmour. People come to Starland from every part of the city and the suburbs, and the attraction is Tizoune, a comedian who is absolutely bilingual, doing his stuff in both the official languages in Montreal, French and English, and passing from one to the other with equal facility. Tizoune's method is to see that everybody in the audience gets his patter even if he can follow only one language. He starts in one tongue, and repeats in the other. Many of the company adopt the same method. The result is capacity business all the time and a nifty 40-week season for Tizoune and company. Effie Mack, Tizoune's wife, is his leading lady and gives fine support.

A YOUTHFUL CHORUS is one of the outstanding features of L. J. Irving's Knick Knacks Company, booked thru the South, now on the Joe Spiegelberg Circuit. In fact, Irving advises that the girls who form his line are all "of high-school age, six being 17 years old, good looking and real ladies." Irving comments that the tab. business is suffering in the Southern States because there are some young women following the chorus profession only as a side issue and he urges managers, on their own personal dignity, to do all they can to eradicate such a class in its entirety. In Irving's company is Al Pharr, first comic and producer; Lee Smith, chorus producer and soubret; Harry Vine, straight; Jeanne Vine, ingenue; Irving, second comic and magic specialties; "Happy" West, characters, and Leon Smith, musical specialties. The chorus: Betty Lahler, Caroline Van Osten, Jeanne West, Mary Brown and Jo Stone.

E. B. COLEMAN, general manager of the Graves Bros. Attractions, Inc., reports excellent business in the West for the Honey Bunch Company. This show played from May 30, 1924, to January 31 last in the State of Kansas alone, working each town from three to five times and each time to an increase of business. Eight weeks were played at the Interstate Orpheum Theater, Wichita, Kan. Press and public alike are said to be loud in their praise for the presentations. The roster includes Roy Kinslow, producer and featured comedian; Jimmie Hollis, Anice DeBerry, Jack Buckley, Maude Booth, Bobby King, Joe Shaun, Roy Burgess, Frank Shaun, Betty Macks, Inez Marvin, Herman Ferber, Bob Myers, Dewitt Dunhaver and Frank Robinson. The chorus: Bobby Hager, Esther Whaley, Loretta Tennis, Slama Mason, Tots Shirley, Helen Boles, Cynthia Hudson, Olive Robison, Zella Hall and Billie Klein.

AFTER SEVERAL WEEKS in Indiana houses Arthur Harrison's Big Lyric Revue opened March 1 in Chicago, and is expected to be busy indefinitely at houses around the Windy City. This show, we are told by Agent C. C. Gosnell, Jr., was "caught" at the Pantheon Theater in Vincennes and the Liberty in Peru, Ind., by field agents for certain house managers, who applied their okehs. The personnel of the company comprises Arthur Harrison, owner and manager; Cliff C. Gosnell, representative; Jack "Snooze" Klineard, featured comedian; Lawrence Hager, juvenile-tenor; Harry Laynn, carpenter; Ernie Grech, musical director; Joe Searles, electrician; the Four Hunters, specialties; Billie Emerson, prima donna; Jane Oliver, soubret; Corrine Wells, ingenue; Mary Powers, character woman; the Panama Trio, harmony comedians; Betty Weil, Audrey Kenyon, Buster Forrester, Mona Marland, Blanche Miller, Marguerite Melton, Beulah Milton, Virginia Hager, Kitty May and Flossie Dale, chorus.

PROGRESS OF TABLOID musical shows is reflected in the fact that the Gus Sun Booking Exchange now has nearly 100 such shows on its books, and is adding more each week. Recent additions to the list formerly booked by Gus Sun include houses in Reading, Pa.; Philadelphia, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Wilmington, Del.; Shamokin, Pa.; Lansford, Mt. Carmel, Pa.; Poughkeepsie, N. Y.; Cleveland, O.; Paducah, Ky.; Albion, Mich.; Wabash, Ind.; Columbus, Ind.; Moberly, Mo.; Martins Ferry, Dennison, O.; Clymer, Pa.; Belle Vernon, Pa.; Logan and Hinton, W. Va.; Lincoln, Ill.; and Waterloo, Ia. The exchange has added about 10 new vaudeville houses since December, and has just signed a five-year contract for the Law Theater, construction of which is just starting in Portsmouth, O. It is interesting to note that the letter from the exchange, containing a code in reference to clean shows and the elimination of suggestiveness, which was reprinted in The Billboard, has been reproduced by the National Amusement Managers' Association to be put on the stage in all its houses.

HARRY INGALLS' Checker Girls, after playing New England, New York and New Jersey, have opened at the Hippodrome, Reading, Pa., which date is to be followed by Chamberlain's circuit of houses. The show is booked by L. H. Hyatt, of the Gus Sun Exchange, and is traveling with its own checkered cars, carrying 35 people. Mr. Ingalls states, including the jazz band and a chorus of 16 pretty damsels. The principals are Felice L'pton, prima donna; Ruth King, soubret; Kitty De Mar, ingenue; Harry Ingalls, Hebrew comedian; Jim Pearl, Irish comedian; George Harrington, straight; Maury Ingalls, utility; Frank Pitts and Al San Sotel, juveniles; Roland Andrews, female impersonator. The jazz band includes Harold Burnham, piano and director; Arthur Enslie, cornet; Bert Herlek, trombone; Carl Page, trumpet; Harold Grifford, violin; George Walsh, saxophone and clarinet; Ray Kelly, banjo; Billy (Jazz) Kroner, drums. The chorines are Mary Martin, Helen Vernon, Mildred Martin, Jerry Jordan, Lydia Clark, Vera La Belle, Amy Lee, Myrtle Lee, Betty Gilmore, Carroll Fisher, Ruth Swan, May Foy, Gertie Sullivan, Bertha Andrews, Irene Stewart, Frances Connor; wardrobe mistress, Nora Brown; stage electrician, Herman Walts; business manager, Mack Ingalls.

A RESUME OF TABLOID conditions in Minneapolis is supplied by Max Wittels, manager and owner of the Dewey Theater, who writes: "Having been for the past 12 years a moving picture man in Minneapolis, and being used to fairly good crowds always, I freely acknowledge that my present-day business far surpasses any and all previous record marks, and all because I have added musical comedy tabloid to my regular picture program. My theater seats only 435, and I am unable to handle the crowds. I show four times daily, and from every evidence musical comedy has come to stay on Washington avenue in Minneapolis. At present the managements of three theaters in Minneapolis and one in St. Paul are trying to arrange with me to supply them with companies similar to my own. Their stages are now being fireproofed to make it possible for them to get the necessary permits. It is no more than right for me to mention that the largest part of my success for the past dozen years is due to the snappy and witty shows my producing comedian, Jimmie De Vol, stages. He has "Red" Malvey as his second comic, who also is a nifty eccentric dancer. Walter Stanford is my straight man and baritone singer. Frances Hickcox, popular blues singer and soubret, aided by clever chorus girls, deserve a lot of praise. My last experience with musical comedy people was with Sam Loeb at the Becker Theater in Denver, Col."

Harry Abbott's Loss— Sim Williams' Gain

New York, Feb. 25.—While newspapers throught the country were teeming with the attempted rescue of Floyd Collins, Harry Abbott, Jr., manager of the Corinthian Theater, Rochester, N. Y., playing Mutual Circuit shows, wired Saud Cave, Ky., offering $1,000 for one week's appearance at the Corinthian of Collins, in the event of his rescue.

With the announcement of Floyd Collins' death Billy Hexter, manager of the Olympic Theater, Chicago, playing Columbia Circuit shows, and Sim Williams, producing manager of Happy Moments, playing at the theater, completed arrangements with Homer Collins, brother of the cave victim, to appear twice daily at the Olympic as an added attraction and give his own version of the facts that led up to his brother's imprisonment while exploring the cave and the subsequent attempts at rescue and the finding of his body.

The extraordinary attendance at the Olympic and the money obtained by his appearance there will enable Homer Collins, if permitted, to carry out his cherished plans of removing his brother's body from the cave to the family burial plot.

Potar as Prof. Hazzenfeffer

New York, Feb. 25.—Ben Potar, son of Jake Potar, franchise-holding producing manager of Keedy Kids, a Mutual Circuit company, distinguished himself admirably as Prof. Hazzenfeffer, the Dutch school teacher, in a comedy skit presented in combination with a novelty minstrel show staged by Harry Shaw at Mecca Temple, under the auspices of the American Legion.

There were 75 participants in the performance, which for divertissement has had few equals on any stage, amateur or professional.

The entire company will appear as a special featured attraction at Moss' Coliseum and Keith's Hamilton Theater in this city.

"Dickie" Bell Changes

New York, Feb. 25.—A. R. ("Dickie") Bell, the juvenile nut, formerly of The Beauty Parade Company on the Mutual Circuit, closed his engagement with that company in Chicago to join Brandell & Travers' Best Show in Town, with Frankie Hunter, on the Columbia Circuit, thru the agency of Milton Schuster of Chicago.

Bernie Bernard has succeeded Bell with The Beauty Parade and Bell has succeeded Harry Kilby with The Best Show in Town.

Dane's Burlesque Stock

St. Louis, Feb. 25.—Oscar Dane's Liberty Music Hall is now in its 30th week. This is the longest run of any burlesque house here. Oscar Dane is enlarging the company, which now includes Geo. Shou, Bonnie Bell, Herbert Hawthorne, Jack Sacks, Joe White, June Rose, May Baxter, Toots Hall, Lela Anderson, Jerry McCauley, Helen Davis, Marie De Voe, Jane Black, Helen Snyder, Lorrian Hays, Elsie Keef, Helen Williams, Eline White, Addie Barry, Vera Dunlap and George Norton.

Miner's Bronx Discards Runway

Sam Howe in Hospital

New York, Feb. 25.—Sam Howe, franchise-holding producing manager and principal comic of his own show, The Lone Wakers, on the Mutual Circuit, who has been out of the cast for several weeks due to an attack of pneumonia, was transferred from the Hotel Planders February 20 to the Mt. Sinai Hospital.

Montreal Likes Bozo

Montreal, Can., Feb. 23.—"Bozo" Snyder restored capacity houses to the city last week. Business had been off for the past six weeks.

George Sheldon Night at the Burlesque Club

New York, Feb. 23.—A goodly gathering of musical comedy, vaudeville and burlesque artists did homage to George Sheldon at the Burlesque Club last night. Sheldon, as the comique-in-hief, Clark & McCullough's Monkey Shines, a Columbia Circuit show, and he, accompanied by Bobby Clark, acted as Master of Ceremonies.

The entertainment opened with Lloyd Peddrick's recitation, entitled Call Me a Toad.

The Original Six English High Steppers of the Monkey Shines Company made an exceptionally attractive appearance, gowned a la seminary for a singing and dancing ensemble.

Mabel Yorke, ingenue-soubret of the Monkey Shines Company, put over her comedy singing specialty.

Al Tyler, comique to Sheldon in the Monkey Shines Company, put over a recitation supplemented by a singing number.

Bert Lahr, former featured comique in burlesque, later in musical comedy and vaudeville, reneged when called upon to do his stuff for the reason that he had no music and the orchestra was not familiar with his special-written lyrics.

Ann Meyers, leading lady-prima-donna of Jacobs & Jermon's Stop and Go Company, did her singing specialty.

There was an intermission for refreshments, when the entertainment was reopened with Hazzard and Landry, of the Monkey Shines Company, in their comedy singing and eccentric dancing act.

Beatrice Tracey, prima donna of the Monkey Shines Company, put over her singing specialty.

Gertrude Avery, of Gertrude Avery and Her Boys, in vaudeville, put over her singing specialty.

In response to repeated calls Bobby Clark, of Clark and McCullough, responded with operatic selections on the flute while accompanied by Al Tyler at piano.

Wally Sharples, the vocalistic character straightman of the Monkey Shines Company, excelled everything heretofore done by him by singing North, East, South and West.

In response to repeated calls Emmett Callahan reneged with the alibi that he was unable to do his former burlesque act in the absence of Brother Chuck, but Emmett did give a modified recitation on the trials, troubles and tribulations of a company manager playing the Coast, and singing the virtues of The Gingham Girl, The Monkey Shines Trio, Sheldon, Tyler and Sharples, put over their singing specialty.

Wally Jackson, with "Uncle" Bill Campbell's Go To It Company, by special permission of Nat Mortan, put over his singing and dancing specialty after doing an earlier turn at the Ambassador for the Temple of Israel of Jamaica benefit performance.

Taking the entertainment in its entirety it was a classic of its kind and the evidence of congenial companionship among members and visitors presages many more Bohemian Nites that will make the Burlesque Club the favorite rendezvous of all burlesquers playing in and around this city.

REVIEW

The equipment, gowning and costuming of this presentation are classy and colorful, also apparently as fresh as on the opening of the season, which makes it a distinctive contrast to several of the shows that preceded it at different times, in which the scenery and costumes were decidedly drab and dreary.

The opening scene introduced an ensemble of exceptionally pretty, talented and able choristers in chic costumes, who appeared to be working under repression, at the same time putting pep into their number, singing in harmony, dancing in unison and smiling ingratiatingly on their auditors.

Following the choristers came Bernie Bernard, a nattily attired juvenile singer, who has mastered the art of vocalism.

Hap Fryer, a manly appearing, likable fellow in tramp characterization and comedy clothes, has a slow, droll manner of working that gets the desired results in laughter and applause.

Bobby Ryan, comique, is new to us and evidences his newness to burlesque, at the same time giving the impression that he is a comer as a Dutch eccentric and made a good foil for Fryer.

Minnie Bud Harrison, with her bobbed brunet, ever-smiling personality, dominates the feminine principals as leading lady in scenes by running the gamut from a dramatic actress of ability to a laugh-evoking, applause-getting comedienne, who can wear gowns a la mode in scenes and specialties and distinguish herself in soubret costumes with a flash of form that is an optical feast in leading numbers. Verily Miss Harrison is versatile, and in a specialty with Joe Forte was equal to many big-time vaudeville acts.

Joe Forte, one of the classiest and cleverest juvenile straights now in burlesque, kept the comiques at top speed by his fast and funny feeding in comedy scenes, and as a vocalist Forte distinguished himself while singing My Ideal Girl, during which he introduced eight of the girls, who put over individual lines like well-seasoned principals.

Almie Rogers, a pretty-faced, model-risque-formed, bobbed blond soubret, was in scenes and numbers frequently, and in leading a pickout number stopped the show cold and could have held up the show indefinitely.

Fay Shirley, a pleasingly plump, bobbed brunet, thoroughly seasoned actress of ability, worked well in scenes, and in a specialty sang several selections to her own accompaniment at the piano that fully merited the encores given her.

Velma Dean, a petite, pretty, bobbed brunet ingenue-soubret, distinguished herself admirably by her clear, distinctive, humorous delivery of lines in scenes and in leading numbers, in which she sang in a sweetly modulated, melodious voice and danced with pep. This little lady is new to us and in all probability will appear as a featured soubret next season, for she has fully mastered the art of

BABE SHAW

An Ambitious Amateur Who Has Made Good as a Singing and Dancing Soubret

Miss Shaw was born in Pittsburgh, Pa., where she attended public school and local churches, taking part in school plays and church entertainments, likewise amateur contests in local theaters.

Being an ambitious amateur with aspirations for a stage career, she took an extensive course of study in burlesque and tap dancing at Blackburk Studio, later on making her stage debut in Moss' Amateur Revue, where she attracted the attention of a booking agent for the U. B. O., who signed her as a single singing and dancing act over the Keith Trust.

While playing a Sunday-night concert in New York she was seen by Nat Mortan, artist representative, who engaged her for the singing and dancing soubret role in Clark & McCullough's Monkey Shines, a Columbia Circuit attraction, which was reviewed in a recent issue of The Billboard.

Bear Act Out of "Let's Go"

New York, Feb. 25.—George Stevens, manager of the wrestling bear, Jim, has closed his engagement with Fred Clark's Let's Go Company on the Columbia Circuit, and with him closed Billy Nelson, juvenile, who took part in the act with Charles Orr, the comique.

Orr will continue according to his contract with Fred Clark, and in all probability another bear will be secured for the company and Orr's comedy.

Sedal Bennett With Curly

New York, Feb. 25.—Sedal Bennett, formerly of the Bennett Sisters, athletic act in circuses and vaudevilles, and for several years past known as The Jewish Yamp of Burlesque, has closed negotiations with Dick Curly, promoter of athletic exhibitions, by which she will be featured in athletic shows as the "champion feminine wrestler of the world."

Craig in Musical Comedy

Prima Donna With Circus

New York, Feb. 27.—Margaret Hastings, formerly of the team of Hastings and Mack in burlesque, is now with Narder Bros' Indoor Circus at New Brunswick, N. J., as featured prima donna.

utilizing her eyes in a sly manner that gives each and every man in the audience the impression that she is playing to him alone.

There are three choristers who distinguish themselves while in line by their vivaciousness and in the pickout number by their individual actions. One, a tall, tough-talking blonde, who crowned thru-out the entire number; a little bobbed blonde, who made a continuous succession of back kicks to her head, and a kewpie bobbed brunet, who danced with pep, and if the latter can sing as well as she can dance her pep and personality warrant her advancement to a soubret role.

After the opening ensemble a sketch was presented in which Comique Fryer, a widower with a grown-up daughter, and Leading Lady Harrison, a widow with a grown-up son, marry and introduce their respective children into their household, camouflaged as butler and maid, thereby laying the foundation for several perplexing comedy-making situations that were hilariously funny, thereby evoking continuous laughter and applause.

The rest of the show ran to bits and numbers of the familiar burlesque kind, with a little double entendre that was camouflaged sufficiently to rob it of all objectionableness.

Taking the show in its entirety, it is a regulation offering of burlesque that was sufficiently clean to suit the puritans, with it was noticeable that the entire company was working under repression, which had a tendency to slow up the show in scenes and especially the numbers on the runway, in which the girls made no effort whatsoever to even shimmy.

Comedians Presented "Mulligan" Bouquet

Charles ("Tramp") McNally and Dave Marion, comedians with the Dave Marion Show on the Columbia Circuit, were the recipients of a "Mulligan" bouquet one afternoon last week while the show was playing the Olympic Theater, Cincinnati.

Babe Healey's

"Million-Dollar Dollies" for Mutual

New York, Feb. 25.—John O. Grant and Babe Healey, for several seasons past with Ed E. Daley shows on the Columbia Circuit, and during the current season with the Scribner-Daley "Rabbit" Wild Show, are highly elated at their success in obtaining the franchise-holding producing rights for a show on the Mutual Circuit for next season, featuring Babe Healey and Her Million-Dollar Dollies, with friend husband, John O. Grant, as straight man and manager of the company.

Feature Jeanne Steele

New York, Feb. 25.—Jeanne Steele, who recently closed with Hurlig & Seamon's "Temptations of 1924," returned here and was immediately engaged as one of the permanent runway chorus at Hurlig & Seamon's 12th Street Theater.

Engagements

New York, Feb. 25.—Ike Weber has arranged engagements for Will Rogers, character-straight, and Harry Jeff, Broadway comedienne, to succeed Brook and Brown in Hurlig & Seamon's "Notes of 1924," and Sid Rogers, comedienne with Jack Reid's "Record Breakers," both shows being on the Columbia Circuit.

Eunice Howard in Hospital

New York, Feb. 25.—Eunice Howard, one of the most popular choristers of Clark & McCullough's "Monkey Shines" Company on the Columbia Circuit, is now confined in St. Luke's Hospital, where she will remain, for some time.

An eight-story building with a theater and 100 offices will be built by Henry and Jesse Oppenheimer, Albert Kronosky, Morris Stern and others in San Antonio, Tex. In the near future. It is expected that the structure will cost in excess of $750,000, inclusive of the site.

AUSTRALIA

114 Castlereagh Street, Sydney By MARTIN C. BRENNAN

SYDNEY, Jan. 14.—Signor Bruno Sarti has contracted with E. R. Shepard, of Sydney, for the Sistine Soloists to open in Perth in April. A tour of Australia, New Zealand and South Africa will follow. The company will have Maestro Emilio Cassolari, Giuseppe Paganelli, Bruno Sarti, Adolpho Fachini, Felice Belli and Argentin and Franci. They will give their first concert in Melbourne in May or early in June.

Signor Gonsalez, who last week passed thru Melbourne, on his way to Sydney, stated that he was making arrangements for another grand opera season in Australia and New Zealand. Since leaving Australia he had taken companies thru India, China, Java and Singapore. Success had attended these tours and, considering the really wonderful results attained by the recently completed Williamson-Melba Opera season, he was of the opinion that the time was ripe for another popular company consisting of young talent full of promise to tour Australia.

It was stated by the management of the New Athenaeum, Melbourne, last week that a dramatized version of Peter B. Kyne's famous novel, "Cappy Ricks," would be the next attraction at that house. Ward Lyons, who created the name part in the American production, arrived in Melbourne this week and will play the part of Cappy Ricks. An imported cast will support the star.

L. H. Roose, Fox cameraman, last week left for New Zealand, where he will be active for some time.

Carrie Haase, a Melbourne teacher of elocution, left for England on the S. S. Orizeto last week.

Business continues satisfactory at the Athenaeum, Melbourne, where the Hawaiians are presenting "A Night in Honolulu." The singing of Queenie Kaili and the steel guitar playing of David Kaili are some of the excellent items offered.

A copper plaque of the late Harry Roberts has been presented to the Green Room Club, Melbourne, by Maggie Moore. Harry is seen as Mason in "The Golden Giant." The presentation will be a treasured possession of the club.

"The Vaudeville Annual," issued by the management of the Tivoli Theater, is a credit to all concerned. Edited by Harry Billing, with Lou King as advertising manager, it tells in story and pictures the different acts and artists that appeared at the theater during the past year.

George Gee, at present appearing in "Good Morning, Dearie," at His Majesty's Theater, Melbourne, will have a part in the production of "Kid Boots," which will follow "Good Morning, Dearie," at that house.

Hugh Ward, Jr., motored from Melbourne last week and remained with John Fuller for a couple of days before returning south.

Walter George, formerly of the "Sunshine Players," is in Sydney from Perth. His stay will be limited, as he returns to costume comedy in the West this month.

A. W. Batiste, who will pilot Elsa Stralla thru her Australasian tour, was associated with the firm of J. N. Tait for several years as touring manager. The Bosses of the Barn Barnd, Welsh choir, Margaret Cooper and other attractions were successfully handled by him.

The new Orpheum Theater at Otahuhu, N. Z., was opened December 23 by Perce Vase. The next night a rather serious fire occurred in the operating box.

H. C. Thomas, Paramount representative, has received notice of his transfer to Java and the Far East.

The Fiske Jubilee Singers are at present around the Gisborne (N. Z.) district and business is said to be quiet.

Jack Meredith, side-showman, returns to New Zealand from Wembley with some good ideas, in which he intends to ex-

Amy Castles commences a series of concerts at the Queen's Hall, Perth, W. A., January 17.

Takeo and Namba, American equilibrist, are still a feature act at the Theater Royal, Perth.

Pharus, the Egyptian, is back in Sydney after an extended season in Queensland.

Joek McKay, Scotch comedian, is back in Sydney, having finished his Australian tour. He returns to London this week.

Keeley and Aldous, clever Australians, this week leave for South Africa, where they will play a 10-week engagement with the option of an extension.

Walter Whyte, of Pollard and Whyte, has returned from a tour with the Fiske Jubilee Singers. Mr. Whyte, who is an A-1 pianist and composer, is reported to have accepted the position of professional manager with a Melbourne music publishing firm.

Frank A. Dennie, formerly tenor with the Four Southern Singers, is featured with George Drew's vaudeville bunch around the western towns of this State. Dennie now uses the saxophone in his act.

"Doc" Rowe, assisted by Mystic Mora and Harry Bambrick, showed at Queen's Hall, Sydney, last week to fair business.

Frank Rigo, who has been fighting hard for a permanent Australian opera company and has experienced many heart-breaking failures, is to have another try. He was busy selecting his first chorus last week, and is already choosing possible principals.

Signor Apollo Granforte, one of the outstanding artists in the recent season of the Melba-Williamson Grand Opera Company, leaves for London this week.

The Australian Scottish Ladies' World Tour Pipe Band left Melbourne last week on a world tour under the direction of Drum-Major William Darwin. The combination consists of 16 pipers, and Piper Tilly Wyatt will pick the hand up at a later date. Mesdames Layburn and C. Johnstone will act as chaperons.

A feature of the "Midnight Frolics" publicity last week in Melbourne was the printing of the opinions of visiting English cricket players who attended a performance earlier in the week. Gilligan, the English skipper, remarked that "He could see it every evening," while Tyldesley went so far as to say that "It beat the London shows to a frazzle."

Guy Bates Post has several productions in hand and it is not known definitely what show will follow "The Green Goddess" at the Criterion, Sydney. "The Masquerader" is certain to have a revival; a dramatic version of "Faust" also is considered, and Mr. Post has everything necessary for the production of "The Climax."

J. C. Williamson, Ltd., received a cable last week stating that Maude Fane had sailed for Australia. Miss Fane will be first seen in "Primrose" in Sydney.

Clement May, Dickensian character impressionist, is included in the list of professionals who are broadcasting as a side line. Madame Frances Alda, New Zealand soprano, will commence her Australian season, it is stated, in Melbourne in April, 1926.

Advice was received in Melbourne last week to the effect that Madame Lydin Lipkovska, Russian soprano, who appeared in this country in 1922, will probably be seen in Australia next year. In regard to the matter of Sunday pic-

It has always been a matter for wonderment on my part that The Wild Duck is not played more often than it is. When a revival of Ibsen is contemplated the choice usually falls on Ghosts, A Doll's House or Hedda Gabler. Yet The Wild Duck is no whit less playable than these well-worn bits, the one might think so from the few performances seen of it.

The Wild Duck, that moving tragedy of the well-meaning fiddler in other people's affairs, is a difficult play to produce. Perhaps that is the reason it is so seldom seen. Every part needs to be acted well, else the play may easily be distorted in meaning. So it was a brave choice for an actors' theater to hit upon for production.

That it was a right choice is emphatically proved by the test of performance. Each scene is splendidly played, and the fourth and fifth acts are as moving as any I have ever seen. Ibsen knew how to write a play which would act effectively, and this group of players proves that The Wild Duck is one of his most effective plays.

The play is such a familiar one, at least in the printed form, that it would be a waste of time to summarize the plot. What concerns us more is the manner in which the play is done by those who have it in hand.

While all the players do exceptionally well with their parts, there are some who have better opportunities than the others and therefore stand out the more. Tom Powers as Gregers Werle is doing the best work I have seen him do. His performance of this man, a fellow with the best intentions in the world who successfully smashes up a happy household, is well-nigh flawless. He has caught the spirit of the man he plays and acts it right to the core. Warburton Gable gives a splendid rendition of Hjalmar Ekdal. This is a part which may be conceived in several ways and all of them may be effective in performance. Mr. Gable conceived him as an emotional, bird-witted clown, and, to my mind, that is as valid as any other. At any rate he made it convincing, as he played it thru sound, expert acting. Blanche Yurka was his wife, Gina, and gave a truly beautiful and sincere rendition of the role. Miss Yurka made Gina a figure of infinite pity and did this by a strict economy of means. There was no meaningless gesturing, no forcing, nothing to detract from the exact image of the characterization. It was Miss Yurka at her very best.

Then there is Cecil Yapp, who as Old Ekdal delineated as fine a bit of character portraiture as one would wish to see. The poor broken-down fellow not only got your sympathy and pity, but there was a warmth in your feeling for him which only superlative playing could produce. Ekdal lives in Mr. Yapp's hands. So too does the Hedvig of Helen Chandler. As played by her the character is as beautiful as any that comes readily to mind. She is a lovely picture of the half-grown girl, a simple soul whose gentle simplicity is too easily trampled by the hard facts of life. In every essential Miss Chandler realized this conception of the part and she gave a portrayal of it that I can hardly visualize as being bettered.

Pearl Sindelar was a capital Mrs. Sorby, and Moffat Johnston gave an impressive performance of Werle. The Kelling of Thomas Chalmers and the Molvik of Philip Leigh were both well done. Minor parts were nicely played by George Brant, Francis Sadtler, Henry Carvill, Charles Angelo, John Brewster, Milton J. Bernd, Oliver S. Putnam, Romney Brent, Mischka Amer, Harry Hatch, Warner Tuffs, Eugene Keith, Edgar Henning and Kenneth Dana.

As to the staging, which was done by Dudley Digges and Clarence James, it has been splendidly carried out. The directors seized on the striking points of the play and brought them out in vivid relief. The pace has been pointed to the great fourth and fifth acts with unerring aim. The action rises to these

"NIGHT HAWK"

A Tense Human Comedy
By Roland Oliver

—With—MARY NEWCOMB
Staged by Arthur Hurley

In the Order of First Appearance:
Agnes Merrill Kathleen Lowry
Dr. Perry Collins Byron Beasley
Walter Collins Leonard Doyle
Maise Buck Mary Newcomb
Mrs. Hayes Kathryn Tracey
The action of the play transpires in the consultation room of Dr. Colt, New York City.

Roland Oliver, who may be remembered for having written a good novel of theatrical life called Back Stage, has done a mighty effective play in Night Hawk. I don't think it will get the Pulitzer prize or be included in any list of the 10 best of the season, but it acts well and keeps the audience interested.

Mr. Oliver has picked on the stomach treatment for so-called "rejuvenation" as the basis of his plot. The operation is performed on a prostitute by a doctor who is disinclined to do it until the woman gives him her word that she will reform. Six months after the treatment she has knocked off 19 years of her age and has settled down, more or less, to employment in an honest line of endeavor. Then she gets entangled with the doctor's younger brother. He steals money from the bank in which he works and comes to his brother for assistance. The doctor then finds out who the woman is he is mixed up with and when he is told the boy is to marry her sends for her and tells the whole story to the lad. He leaves her, and the woman, convinced by the doctor that she is doing a foul thing, leaves to take up life on a Kansas farm with her brother.

That is a bare outline of the story, which Mr. Oliver tells with much pointed dialog and more than one effective situation. The story might easily have been set forth in the same manner as other plays of prostitutes which have been displayed this season. It comes pretty close to that class in the first act, but the author has very wisely substituted humor for gross reality wherever there is danger of offense and has safely cleared the rocks of indecency, tho he does sail close at times.

The players do full justice to the piece, and the leading role, that of the prostitute, is exceedingly well done by Mary Newcomb. Miss Newcomb has a fine technical command of her art and uses it to the utmost possible advantage in pointing this character up. It becomes believable in her hands, it creates a sympathetic reaction in the mind of the audience. That is playing the part for its values and in bringing them out so well Miss Newcomb does full justice to the play and herself.

The doctor is played by Byron Beasley and I do not remember him doing anything better than he does this part. He is entirely convincing and gives an altogether expert rendition of a none too grateful role. A nurse in the doctor's office is made interesting and lifelike by Kathleen Lowry. The doctor's brother is played with conviction by Leonard Doyle. A small part, that of an Irish woman, is competently rendered by Kathryn Tracey. Altogether the piece is exceptionally well played.

Were it not for this Night Hawk might fare worse with its audiences than it is likely to. Obviously theatrical as it is, the playing and direction tend to render its more unreal moments into something approaching reality. Arthur Hurley staged the play and he deserves commendation for the way in which he brought this result about. I am of the opinion that Night Hawk contains much to please the theatergoer who is not too exacting. If the management can reach this large group it will have no cause to regret it. I feel sure.

An entertaining play staged and played to being out all its values.
GORDON WHYTE.

scenes with an accelerando and crescendo that is electrical in its effect and indicates careful preparation and rare discretion on the director's part. As to the scenery and the lightings they are everything they should be.

I am confident that The Wild Duck will be a success. Certainly it is hard to imagine a fine play so well done meeting with failure. Might I suggest here that the Actors' Theater, having made so complete a production of The Wild Duck, might likewise complete its program? I find no mention on it of the translator's name and since Henrik Ibsen wrote in Norwegian and they could hardly have produced the play in that language he should get a bit of credit for the job. Particularly so if, as I suspect, it is the work of that good friend of the actor, the late William Archer.

A superlative revival of one of the best Ibsen dramas.

TIME—The present. PLACE—New York City

There is no high purpose behind White Collars, no effort to elevate the drama or do anything save provide clean, honest entertainment. In that endeavor it can be said to have succeeded completely.

The story is of a rich young man who falls in love with his secretary and marries her. She comes of a good middle-class family and has a horror of his wealth causing a breach between her folks and herself. They, and she, go to extreme lengths to avoid this. They will not accept of the young man's bounty, nor any suggestion of it. Not only that, but the poor chap has to listen to endless spoutings of the woes of the middle class by the girl's cousin. At last, the boy tries stratagem and acts out a little drama convincingly enough to have his wife and her family believe that he is going to give all his money away to support the cousin's half-brained schemes. They are much wrought up at this and try to convince him he is wrong. When he has proved to them that they are more conscious of money than he, he is able to provide some comforts for them. The curtain drops with the prospects of all looking considerably brighter than they were about the middle of the second act. It is all good, none too factual, but colored and touched up to a good resemblance of life.

There are several excellent performances given by the members of the company, notably by Clarke Silvernall as the talkative cousin. This is a bullet-proof part it seems to me, but Mr. Silvernall let none of its possibilities elude him and great was the reward thereof. It is by far the best thing I have ever seen him do and is a welcome relief to the heavy roles he has essayed with ill success heretofore during the past few years. He should stick to comedy, for in that field he has genuine talent.

Mona Kingsley plays the girl who marries the millionaire and this role is a far better one than she has had for some time. Miss Kingsley did ample justice to the part. She looked it, she acted it for all it was worth. Perhaps her work in White Collars may convince a manager or two that they have been overlooking a fine actress. If so, they will have hit on a truth discoverable long ago.

Another part that is made to stand out is that of a flapper, as played by Rea Martin. Miss Martin has much ability and put it to excellent use in portraying this character. It was comic and pathetic by turns, and as Miss Martin willed in both styles of playing she was much at home. Call it a splendid all-round bit of acting and it will be accurately described. Add that after one telling scene the applause was long enough and loud enough to stop the show, and perhaps some measure of credit has been given Miss Martin for a sterling performance.

The wealthy chap was given fine treatment by John Marston. He had to make this man thoroughly likable, else there would be little to the play. Since this was sometimes indicated more in the playing than in the writing, his performance did much to make the piece go so well. The father of the girl was well done by Frederick Burton; her brother, in like fashion by Donald McClelland, and her mother was sympathetically and effectively played by Frances Underwood. Both Cornelia Ols Skinner and Robert Craig were well cast for smaller roles.

Miss Ellis has not only written a good bit of theater in White Collars but her stage direction has brought all its values out. The play is not a profound one, but it does contain plenty of laughs, a situation or two of some tensely, and it gets a corking performance. I am of the belief that it will meet with much popular esteem. It is the sort of play that should have many admirers and by the time they have spread the word around it may very well settle on Broadway for a lengthy stay.

A clean, enjoyable comedy; splendidly played.

There are few authors who can write a play with less substance than A. A. Milne and in Ariadne he is using less than ever. No heavy plots for Mr. Milne, the nearer his plots are to an accident the better he seems to like them. His extraordinary skill with dialog and his ability to sketch character are enough for him to fashion a play with. Of course, such playwrighting throws a lot of responsibility on the director and the actors, but in this production these demands are happily met and the result is a most enjoyable evening in the theater.

Ariadne's simple story has to do with an English lawyer who is prone to get business on a pedestal. He is called for a showdown in his own home on this point by his wife, who objects to receiving the ill-mannered attentions of her husband's principal client, even tho he urges her forbearance on the ground of business. So the lady conceals a solemn whereby it appears she has eloped with this client. It is a loax, of course, but so deftly planned that the husband realizes his folly and the dove coos again in the homestead.

The part of the wife is entrusted to Laura Hope Crews, who does her usual deft work in it. The play hinges on the character to a great extent and the success of the performance is largely due to Miss Crews' splendid portrayal of the role. She was ably seconded by Harry Mestayer, as the client with the light of love in his eyes. He is a hopeless bonder and the drawing of this contrast to the obvious gentility of the woman is necessary, if there is to be point to the play. Not only that, but I question if Miss Crews could have made such an excellent impression were not Mr. Mestayer's characterization so good. The sterling player realized every possibility in his part, it seemed to me; and, all things considered, registered the high spot of the performance.

The husband was very well done by Lee Baker. It was his job to make the character a bit of a clump, yet a human one. He did this to perfection. Orlando Jay and Catherine Proctor, as a couple of relatives, were well cast, tho I think Mr. Jay could have made a bit more of the comedy allotted to him had he not been so anxious to register it. This should come out with more playing and better timing of his speeches. Frieda Inescort was excellent as a likable type of modern girl. Miss Inescort has great clarity of utterance and a breezy style of playing. Both stood her in good stead in the working out of this part. Lastly, there was Armina Marshall, who was allotted the role of a servant and made it count heavily by a very definite characterization. Since this was done with few words, and little else than a comedy walk, it indicates that Miss Marshall is well aware of what constitutes theatrical effect. That knowledge, and the ability to carry it into execution, should take her far.

Now that I have paid my respects to the playing of Ariadne I feel that something should be said of the man who staged it. Philip Moeller has never received the credit due him as a director of plays, in my opinion. This season alone he has staged four plays for the Theater Guild and has done a finished job with each. These four plays were quite diversified in type but in each case Mr. Moeller divined their intent and translated it into terms of effective stage action. I can think of no harder task to set a director than staging Ariadne, a filmy play needing all the resources of staging and playing to get it across the footlights. Mr. Moeller has accomplished that and in no uncertain fashion. No more could be done for the play than he has done. If the play is a success, much of the credit for that will be due him.

A light, clever comedy; splendidly staged and played.

Mr. Gardner states that many have already been organized in Florida.

The firm has opened offices in New York and will make a specialty of promoting feature musical organizations. The House of David Synopators recently opened a 20-week tour under their management at the Martha Lee Club in Cleveland, O. Jack Denny and His Hotel Astor Orchestra, now playing the Keith-Albee Circuit with Martha Fryer, is another band under the Fover-Jess management.

O. A. Peterson writes from Florida: "In 1910 I was playing with Walter West's Concert Band at Delwood Park, between Joliet, Ill., and Chicago. We had several singers and soloists at various times, especially on Sundays. One young man, who sang with us and was better than any singer we had during the summer, possessed a tenor voice of wonderful sweetness, and his enunciation was well-nigh perfect. I remember one of his numbers was A Babu Afternoon. I asked Mr. West who the singer was, as we all liked him for his pleasing personality, and learned that his name was John MacCormack. We had never heard of him before."

THE STORY OF WEBER AND FIELDS

WEBER AND FIELDS, by Felix Isman. Published by Boni & Liveright, 61 West 48th street, New York. $3.50.

This biography of Weber and Fields is as colorful a yarn of the theater as one could wish for. It is a continuously interesting narrative, reaching back into the days when vaudeville was variety, and relating the adventures of the famous pair until their separation.

That the path of Weber and Fields covered a good deal of territory was known to everybody with a cursory knowledge of the American stage. That their career was so full of interest could hardly be known to more than a very few. But here it is cunningly set down and as full of incident and amusing happenings as one will find in any book of theatrical reminiscence.

Weber and Fields came from New York's East Side, a district which has given not a few accomplished players to our stage. They began their acting careers as kids and played together then, as they did until their separation over a quarter of a century later. In that space of time they had become one of the foremost variety teams of their day, they had headed their own road shows and prospered, they were daring enough to do the thing which added an imperishable luster to their names—the creation of the Weber and Fields Music Hall.

No history of the New York theater could be written which did not devote many pages to their Music Hall. It was here that the big Broadway successes were good-naturedly lampooned. It was here that Lillian Russell, Fay Templeton, Pete Dailey, David Warfield and many others entertained all New York that could cram itself into the small interior—entertained it with wholesome fun and good music. Those who do not remember the Music Hall in its heyday can form no idea of the importance of the enterprise. To have a play burlesqued there was the ambition of every manager. If Weber and Fields did a burlesque of a show, you could bet your last dollar that it was a success of the highest order. Even Richard Mansfield, as austere a player as ever lived, unbent and gave a special performance of Cyrano de Bergerac that the Weber and Fields Company might see it for the proper fulfillment of its purposes. Those who knew Mansfield, know that was a tribute indeed.

It is unfortunate that burlesque proper stopped when Weber and Fields ceased giving it. One would think that a form of entertainment so enjoyable would not be allowed to languish, but such was the strength of their company, so adept were they in catching the right spirit, that not another manager has attempted to follow in their footsteps. That, also, is a tribute worth thinking over.

For the details of their amazing careers you must read Weber and Fields. Felix Isman, with the assistance of Wesley W. Stout, have them all there, and they will hold your attention to the last. It is a long time since I have read so colorful a book of the theater and to miss it is to miss one of the treats of the season.

There is but one thing Mr. Isman has left undone to make his book of really permanent value. He has omitted the inclusion of an index. In such a book that is an omission to be regretted.

The book has splendid reference value and I hope the author and publisher will realize that. The next edition should certainly not be without an index.

Stage Employees and Projectionists

By G. V. WALES

(Communications to New York Office)

An immediate road call has been asked for by the Washington (D. C.) Local on account of the stagehands employed at the Howard Theater not getting last week's salary. This is a colored show house and the men refused to work further until their wages were paid. The musicians connected with the theater informed the local that they would act in accordance with whatever was considered right and fair in the matter. Assistant President Spencer said that the Howard Theater had been in good financial status for as long as he could remember, so was therefore at a loss to figure out what the difficulty could be.

Local 51, of Houston, Tex., doesn't give many entertainments, but when it does, the affair is a wow. The local's annual Mardi Gras Ball was held February 24, and more than 500 members and their guests were on hand to make merry.

The proceeds derived from the occasion were added to the Sick and Death Benefit Fund, which has swelled to enormous proportions, according to word sent the New York office.

Max Fink and His Orchestra supplied the music for the dancing and grand march. As is the custom, most of the satellites appearing on the local vaudeville bill and star visiting attractions helped make the evening a memorable one. Several were in the lead when the clock sounded midnight, and the large gathering formed for the gala promenade.

This has been an annual event for the past 10 years and was indulged in prior to that time at different intervals. The local received its original charter in 1899 and was formerly presided over by Assistant President Spencer. The affair was held in the Main Street Auditorium this year as the City Auditorium was engaged long in advance.

Vice-President Cuiver suddenly suffered a throat affliction after completing a settlement at McAlester, Ok., and was rushed to a hospital in his home town, Oklahoma City, for an operation. The surgery was pronounced successful and the official is expected to be convalescing before long. He had been straightening out an argument which arose between the crew of the Busby Theater and the management.

More than 1,400 persons, including city officials and international officers, were present at the fifth annual Theatrical Stage Employees' Ball given by the Brockton (Mass.) Local February 20. It was communicated by Mary Mackey, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Wirth attended with their daughter, Muriel, and informed The Billboard that they enjoyed the affair more than any of the balls given thus far. The featured attraction was multi-colored lights which were strewn over the walls and boxes in a most attractive manner.

The discussion between the crew of the Keith house at Columbus, O., was satisfactorily settled by Vice-President Elliott and Representative Tinney, they informed the New York office. Elliott went to Middletown, O., for another dispute while Tinney was assigned to Racine, Wis., to arrange with the local there about contract interpretations.

Representative Krouse is in Baltimore, with orders to proceed to Perth Amboy, N. J., as soon as he has patched up disagreements in the Monumental City. The Perth Amboy local also is in disagreeable straits caused by varied opinions on what its men should do and should not.

Representative Sherman was assigned to Newburg, N. Y., to see what puzzles the local there. Sherman is a fast worker when it comes to ironing out wrinkles that crop up between employees and should be out of this in a jiffy. It also was announced at the same time that General Secretary and Treasurer Richard J. Green had completed negotiations with his own local in Chicago and was back in the New York office.

The 15th annual banquet of the I. A. T. S. E. of East Liverpool, O., was held February 22 in the Eagles' Home. Attorney S. W. Crawford acted as toastmaster. Addresses were made by Prosecuting Attorney Robert M. Brookes and Attorney William S. Foulks. Entertainment was furnished by members of the Radio Girls Company, playing at a local theater. The menu was prepared by mothers and wives of the members.

The passage read by Howard Marsh and transcribed on the center of the page is taken from the preface to Old Heidelberg, the play by Wilhelm Myer-Förster, translated from the German by Catherine Pochin, published by A. Slegle, London. The preface is written by J. T. Grein.

All Heidelberg succeeded because it was German, but it also succeeded because, at any rate in its foundations, it is thoroughly human. Imagine it: A prince, educated in the hide-bound etiquette of a starchy court in a miniature statelet, is sent under the guardianship of a most benevolent tutor to the university, where the vines and the verses are as it were, products of the soil. For the first time he breathes the untroubled air of liberty; for the first time he tastes the exuberance of student's life, the delights and the boundless vivacity of the cup; for the first time in the innkeeper's comely daughter, he meets a woman of unmanicured naturalness and cordially hospitable lips. . . . But the joy is short. The reigning prince dies, and Kari Heinrich is called to dignity and duty. He goes to his realm, but the crown has but thorns for him. The young man of yesterday becomes an austere ruler. His heart is yonder on the banks of the Neckar, where they sing Gaudeamus Igitur with peering cups and glowing cheeks. And now he vegetates in the palace and courtiers and advisers dog his steps and his every action. Thus the longing for one more dream of freedom besets his days and his nights and at last he breaks out. He must go back to the boys and the revels and to Kathie, the innkeeper's daughter, whose image lives in his bosom. Alas! Circumstances alter cases. The students, duly forewarned of the dual visit by a pompous valet, leave gaily behind. There is no true note of rejoicing in his reception: here in Heidelberg, as at Court, there is etiquette rigid and formal. Yet there is one who remained the same, at least inwardly. It is Kathie. True, she has promised to marry her fiancé, the schoolmate of her younger days, but that is an evasion, not the dictation of her heart. She loves her ruler now as she then loved her boyish princelet. But rank and blood forbid further intimacy. Once more they live one hour of their days of happiness and then it is adieu! She goes heartbroken to the man who will give her his name; he wends his way back to the moral fortress within whose walls his birth compels him to lead a conventional life of splendor and loveless matrimony, an exalted prisoner of State.

All this is not great, not deep, not unassailable by criticism. It is merely pictorial, lyrical, something like a pretty ballad by a minor poet. But it has charm. "Youth" is written large on the whole story and its treatment. For a few hours the songs, the pictures, the love scenes form a welcome contrast to the stern reality of life. Germans, who have not forgotten their mountainland, their national songs, their blissful days of student life and amourettes, will be charmed, because it is human to turn over the merry leaves of our lifebook's most imaginative volume. English people will be charmed because Heidelberg, its castle, its vat and its verdant hills, are closely associated with the young generation which was sent to this summer city to struggle with the idioms and the tangled grammar of the German language. All the world must be charmed because all the world has had its day of youth, when the name of women, wine and song obscured the clouds of sorrow and of the struggle of life. Therefore All Heidelberg is not a play to be criticized in magisterial fashion. We should treat it as we handle flowers culled from the roadside in a country walk. There are grander, more odoriferous, more sumptuous flowers in the parks and gardens, but the fresh scent, the simple coloring, of the wild blossom has a fascination of its own. It captivates us because it is happiness in the open, forgetful of the city, its toil and its turmoil.

Howard Marsh, American tenor, was educated in the Middle West. He spent two years at Purdue University in Indiana, studying engineering, and completed his college work studying commerce at the University of Wisconsin. His university success in musical comedy opened the way to his engagements in the leading musical productions in New York. Mr. Marsh's stage diction in The Student Prince at the Johnson Theater made such a good impression that I asked him for a reading that would give a transcription of his pronunciation. Three pages of typewritten copy were handed Mr. Marsh in his dressingroom and after the show we sat down for the conference. It was very interesting. I told Mr. Marsh to read naturally without thinking about what he was doing, and as soon as he had taken the last bit of makeup from his face and settled down into his everyday self he began. On the stage I had noticed that Mr. Marsh had no inversion on the r-sounds. But in the casual after-theater reading there was a trace of it.

CONDUCTED BY WINDSOR P. DAGGETT

"German" was ('dʒɔ:mən) and "air" was (eə).

"I didn't notice this inversion on the stage," I said, "but you have inverted all thru the reading on words with spelling in 'ar' and 'er'. The inversion is slight and I shall not put it in the transcription, but I shall have to make a note of it and say that it occurred in the reading."

Mr. Marsh looked a little disappointed, as an artist will under the skin, and I was disappointed to have found such a remark necessary. We started a quiet discussion about inversion and all of a sudden Mr. Marsh didn't invert. "You are not inverting now," I said. Suppose you read a few lines over to see what happens."

He read again and not a trace of inversion appeared in the reading and it went so smoothly that I begged him to go on to the end.

"That's settled," said I, "you don't invert on the stage and you don't invert in your habitual speech except by accident."

Mr. Marsh agreed that he caught himself inverting the r-sounds only when he was entirely off guard and most indifferent to himself and his surroundings, as he might be when his evening's work was over in the theater. The incident reveals that any speaker may have two or three dialects lurking in his head and that any one of them may come to the surface unexpectedly. One suggestion about inversion drove the local dialect out of Mr. Marsh's speech and it didn't show up again in our conversation which continued for some time.

There is no attempt in the transcription to idealize Mr. Marsh's speech or to conceal any of its faults, which are few. That Mr. Marsh is unconscious of his speech when on the stage was made very evident by his conversation. In the dressingroom and in his habitual speech he does not trill a single r-sound. I asked him if he ever trilled the r-sound and he said no. But the following night I watched him from the front of the house and found that he trilled the r-sound whenever it comes between two vowels, as in "very", "guarantee" and "slavery". He does this both in speech and song on the stage, but he does not trill the r-sound in his habitual pronunciation. In this respect the transcription represents his everyday habits.

In regard to the long-u as in "solitude" ('sɒlɪtju:d) the case is different. In his habitual speech Mr. Marsh says ('sɒlɪtu:d), ('stu:dənt) for "student" and (nɜ:z) for "news". He says that these are always his pronunciations on the stage and off. He fancies that the glide (j) gets in his way in singing. I would put a question mark after these statements. There is no question about these habitual pronunciations with Mr. Marsh. On the stage I believe he also says ('stu:dənt), but in "gratitude" and "solitude" on the stage I heard ('tju:d) distinctly in the speech of the dialog. His stage diction is therefore an improvement on his habitual speech in this group of words.

Howard Marsh. "The Student Prince"

NOTE: Where two pronunciations are given in the transcription, the first represents Mr. Marsh's stage diction, the second (in parentheses) represents his habitual speech. See comments in column one.

To call "student" ('stu:dənt) and "new" (nu:) is provincial dialect. Grandgent discusses the confusion in the use of (u:) and (ju:) in New England and traces it to the early American dictionaries and the misunderstanding of the later orthoepists. He makes this remark: "After all sorts of dentals (t, d, n, th, l, s, z) both city and country people who speak according to nature say "oo" (u:), while those who speak by the book say "ee-oo" (ju:), occasionally "yoo" (ju:). Examples are "tune, due, new, thews, lute, sue, resume."

If Mr. Marsh speaks and sings some of these words "according to nature", he probably does so in his aversion to "ee-oo" (ju:). Madame Adele Laeis Baldwin points out how singers abuse the glide, and in a recent lecture she illustrated how Evan Williams always sang "Oh, that I knee-oo you," instead of ('ɔ:t, ðæt ɪ 'nju: ju:).

In the best speech of the theater standard pronunciation is carefully followed on the words with the glide. The omission of the glide is reserved for colloquial dialect and character parts. In The Student Prince Fuller Mellish is sure to say (nju:z) for "news"; George Hassell, even in a comic character, is sure to say ('sjʊ:nsaɪd) for "suicide", and Fred Wilson, as the boy of the village, says (nju:) for "lute". That the glide is disappearing in some

LAUDS ENOUISTE
BARBARA LAMARR

Charles LeMaire, renowned young artist-designer, who probably has consumed more stage stars in the last several years than any of his contemporaries, recently completed 13 wonderful gowns for Barbara La Marr. She will wear these in the role of Isabella Echevarria in her next picture, Heart of a Temptress, an adaptation of Heart and Farewell, the Broadway stage success by William Hurt, in which Florence Reed was starred.

As Isabella Echevarria was the most beautiful and admired woman in Europe, in her time, wearing apparel that even royalty itself could not equal, the undertaking of designing 13 gowns for this superlatively elegant creature was far from easy. But each and every gown proved a success, an achievement which Mr. LeMaire declared, is in a great measure due to Miss La Marr herself, she being one of the few women of the screen who know instinctively how to dress, what to wear and when to wear it.

"During the tedious hours of fitting," Mr. LeMaire said, "Miss La Marr was untiring, sometimes standing for a period of three or four hours at a time, waiting patiently until the fitters could find just the right draperies and lines. There was very little trouble or delay, as Miss La Marr knew immediately if the lines, colors and materials selected would suit her particular type.

"While Miss La Marr likes to look well groomed and smart, she is by no means a slave to the latest thing in fashion. For instance, no matter what the fashionable skirt length may be she will always wear her skirts rather long, knowing that long graceful lines are best suited to her personality. While many hail her as an exotic type, to me she represents the elegant, rather than the exotic type. She carries herself in a majestic way that lends an added grace and distinction to the most simple gown. In fact, the more simple and draped her clothes are the better she looks in them. Were it possible to make up the costumes that Erte draws she would be the one to wear them. Her type lends itself to any foreign atmosphere and she has an instinctive feeling for design, which is an inspiration to one who has the privilege of creating new costumes for her.

Dressing the Type

You who are of the same type as Barbara of the movies, black hair, green eyes, ivory complexion, very willowy and slender, average height, heed what Mr. LeMaire says about the things that look best on Miss La Marr's type, for he is a reliable authority:

"I think," said he, "that Barbara La Marr looks best in graceful, clinging materials that are carefully draped to accentuate the beauty of her figure. She looks beautiful in velvet, while soft, simply draped georgettes, chiffons or crepes suit her equally well. Her colors are jade green, deep orchid, chartreuse, burnt orange and turquoise blue."

The great range of costumes which Mr. LeMaire has designed for Miss La Marr include models for negligee, lingerie, sport, traveling, afternoon, dinner and evening wear.

Descriptions of Designs

The negligee illustrated is made of Nile green charmeuse and is bound and bordered with extremely wide ostrich, which shades from a Nile green to turquoise and jade. There are bands of silk flowers in pastel tones on the shoulders and a delicate sprig of flowers at the waistline.

The gown worn at the opening of the picture is made of white crepe satin. The bodice is tight and extremely long and the skirt pulls around to the front, where it meets two bands of embroidery, from which hang two thick tassels of fringe made of narrow black braid. The two bands of embroidery continue around the back of the neck to form a little pointed cape, from which hang the same fringes, full length, to the floor. An ermine neckpiece, trimmed with ermine tails and a small white turban with a lace veil that wraps around the arm and trails out on the floor, and little white gloves with turned-back lining of black complete the costume.

One of Miss La Marr's favorite dresses is of black velvet, made very tight, with a long train that lies about a foot and a half on the floor. There are tight sleeves of the thinnest marquisette, six or seven feet in length, making it necessary for Miss La Marr to shirr them on her arms. The neck, like the cuffs and the bottom of the skirt, has a roll of velvet similar to those found on a Japanese kimono. A long string of pearls is hung around the neck. The pearls are caught in the dress and come hanging out of two slits in the bodice, giving an attractive and unusual effect.

Another of Miss La Marr's special favorites is an afternoon gown made of orchid chiffon over a light slip of changeable satin. Large circular sleeves flow gracefully at every movement of the arm. Pink velvet gardenias are placed on the left shoulder and stream down from the waistline.

One of the negligees which Miss La Marr will wear in Heart of a Temptress has a train eight yards long. There are

A knitted sports frock is a source of comfort all the year 'round. It comes in handy for sports, motoring or merely hiking and is an indispensable part of the vacation wardrobe. One of these frocks in a combination of silk and wool, with plaid elaborations in the weaving, is offered in four different color combinations by a famous sports attire concern at $15.75. If you have priced knitted apparel you know that the price of $15.75 is very modest, indeed, even for a style which is a bit out of date. The frock we have in mind, however, and which is illustrated on this page is right up to the minute and comes in the following new color combinations: henna, brown and blue; tan, green and henna; blue, green and red. This smart design offers the lasting good style of straight lines and the enduring service of line materials and expert workmanship.

Did you ever discover a good quality opera hose at $3.56 a pair? Impossible, you say? On the contrary, it is a possibility. Famous Fain has included a theatrical department in their establishment, and one of the features is opera hose at $3.56 a pair. The hose are an excellent value for the price, altho the color range is restricted to white, pink and black. Other shades, however, may be ordered to match your costume for $1 extra.

You remember the Famous Fain hose we used to feature in this column at $1 a pair? These have been succeeded by a 97-cent hose, which are sold 3 pair, of any shade, for $2.75. Of course, these are not full-fashioned hose, but there is no seam on the bottom of the foot.

The Easter number of Stylish Hats and How to Make Them has just come from the press. It shows a pleasing variety of designs, made from the Tri-part Hat Patterns, which may be purchased for $1. It is replete with fashion news, concerning shapes, colors and trimmings, and offers the reader the advantage of buying every requisite of the stylish hat from the mail order department maintained by Stylish Hats.

The hat illustrated below is made from a Tri-part (three-section) buckram, wired frame, which is sewn together in a jiffy. It is made of novelty straw braid in rust color for the under brim and crown top, while crepe de chine in the same shade is used for the upper brim, facing and side band.

Four leaves, in two shades of green, are posed jauntily on the crown top.

The Easter number of Stylish Hats may be ordered thru The Shopper for 25 cents. After you have seen a copy you most surely will want to place a yearly subscription to this illuminating hat magazine, which offers a unique service in teaching the woman how to make her own hats expertly at one-third the usual cost.

The Beauty Box

"Perfumes have undergone an evolution with the advancement of womankind," declares a famous perfumer. "And now they match the costume—in spirit, of course. In winter, with the heavier and more somber attire, the clever woman uses a heavier perfume of the spicy kind, but in spring she emulates the breath of the flowers, by using a floral perfume, with the lighter and gayer attire."

He then demonstrated to us groups of perfumes which were compared to tones in music. There were the diminuendos and the crescendos; the delicate flower breaths and the five-fold and 10-fold concentrates. The perfume that suits one's personality is that which stimulates or soothes, as the need may be. A glance at the perfume list prepared by this concern, with quotations (and they are pleasingly modest), will suggest your kind of perfume. May we send you a list?

If you are afflicted by that painful little nuisance known as hangnails, which seems to defy the efforts of the most competent manicurist, we suggest that you cease having the little pest irritated by constant manicuring and resort, instead, to the use of Beecham's Celebrated Alabastine. This is a cream which softens the cuticle, prevents and cures hangnails and rough finger tips, preventing the nails from chipping or cracking. It is applied to the cuticle and has the effect of hardening and healing. Also an ideal hand cream with a mild astringent action. The price of Alabastine is 75 cents.

A blessing to the active theatrical woman who must wear dainty apparel is a liquid deodorant, as colorless as water. As it does not contain corrosive aluminum salts or injurious caustic acids, it may be used frequently without injury to the finest fabrics. Its effect in nullifying odor is so thorough that it is also recommended for cleansing clothing or shields. It is fragrant, without the slightest suggestion of disinfectants, and its use is a

Frances Owen Harvey, the acne specialist, declares that in order to cure acne it is necessary to penetrate deep into the pores and relieve them of their accumulation of poison, surface treatments merely alleviating. Miss Harvey first applies a preparation which penetrates the pores and dislodges impurities and then she subjects the pores to a shrinking process which brings them back to normal. If you are unable to call at Miss Harvey's salon (address on request) we shall be glad to procure for you descriptive literature concerning home treatment.

During the months of March and April the woman with the dry, sensitive skin will find her complexion troubles doubled unless she takes the precaution of using a rich nourishing cream. If she does not wish to face summer with added lines in her face she will need to apply the nourishing cream morning and night.

Mme. Helena Rubinstein is at present recommending Valaze Anthosores to the woman with the dry skin who visits the Rubinstein establishment in quest of treatment. Valaze Anthosores is a richly nourishing cream, a blend of Oriental oils and bracing ingredients which penetrate and build up the strength of the underlying tissues. These properties make the cream a specialty for correcting dryness, lines, hollows and sallowness. It is also recommended for correcting hollows in the neck. Two sizes, $1.75 and $3.50.

For the average skin Mme. Rubinstein recommends Pasteurized Cream, which sells for $1, as a protecting cream against the ravages of March winds.

KATHLENE MACDONNELL

Talking Things Over With Kathlene MacDonnell

When Gilbert Emery wrote Episode, which closed recently at the Bijou Theater, New York, he made his heroine, Evelyn Ryesdale, so charming and talkative that only a woman of unusual mental adroitness could combine the two qualities on the stage and—well, get away with it without driving the audience mad.

come thru three talkative acts with flying colors must have interesting views on things in general, we paid Miss MacDonnell a visit in her dressing room.

"How do you manage to keep your voice so beautifully chimelike in spite of constant use?" we asked Miss MacDonnell.

The question amused her, made her laugh heartily in fact. Then she said: "I wonder if Mr. Courtleigh and Mr. Emery would agree with your description?" And she added: "I spend a part of each year practicing vocal exercises under a competent teacher who is a good critic of tone placing."

Noting her wonderful red hair, we simply had to mention it.

"It proved lucky to me when seeking my first engagement," explained Miss MacDonnell, with the same ingratiating smile that convinced William Courtleigh, as the wronged husband, that the only way he could right the wrong would be to forget the wrong ever happened.

"Tell us about it," we urged.

"Well," commenced Miss MacDonnell, applying shadow to the lids of her eyes, "when I came from my birthplace in the northern part of Canada, fresh from the convent to New York to seek a theatrical career, I walked into the younger sister role in Mrs. Bumpstead Leigh, in which Minnie Maddern Fisk was starring, because my hair was the same shade as the star's, which gave a semblance of reality to the relation of sisters."

"And did good luck remain with you?"

"It all depends on what you consider good luck," chimed Miss MacDonnell.

The engagement with Mrs. Bumpstead Leigh gave me my opportunity and awakened me to the need of specialized training. So I went into stock. That the stock venture was lucky was proved by the fact that I was engaged to appear with Henry Miller in Life, Just Outside the Door, Pride of Race, Marjorie Day and in the special performance of Strindberg's Easter, given by the Stage Society."

"And then?" we urged.

"And then I spent one year in Australia, playing terrific parts without stopping to rest, doing such plays as Daddy Long-Legs, The Outcast and L'Atillon.

"When I returned to New York Madame Luck was still my companion. I was engaged for the Theater Guild's production, R. U. R., and later for the role of Maxine in The Dancers, playing the latter part on two days' notice."

"There is one thing I consider deadly to the actress," exclaimed Miss MacDonnell, abruptly leaving the subject of her career, "and that is being considered a definite type."

"But that is a condition that has become universal," we remonstrated.

"There is a remedy: Courage enough to refuse to follow in the beaten path," said she. "Barriers do not mean that we cannot fight for our right to be versatile individuals—artists. The type bugbear will be vanquished when every individual actress realizes that barriers do not mean we cannot do what we wish."

Knowing that Kathlene MacDonnell had been educated to be a concert pianist, an art that she truly loved, we realized that she was speaking earnestly when she advocated the overcoming of barriers. Had she permitted it, her training as a pianist might have proved a barrier to a stage career.

She next extolled the Theater Guild of New York, claiming that few of us realize how great a debt of gratitude we owe this wonderful institution, which is giving plays a chance to live which

GEORGINA TILDEN

Now playing in "The Crucible" at the Triangle Theater, New York.

Little Georgina Tilden Mascot of Triangle

When Kathleen Kirkwood put on Uncle Tom's Cabin successfully at her Triangle Theater in Greenwich Village, despite space limitations, the most praised member of the cast was 11-year-old Georgina Tilden, whose Topsy was a revelation in mischievous abandonment. In fact, little Georgina gave Topsy typical Tilden touches that kept the audience's risibilities uproariously active. In stage parlance Georgina was a hit!

Again when The Crucible was staged recently by Miss Kirkwood wee Miss Tilden scored another hit.

Seeking her after the performance we found her with her parents. We immediately recognized her father, Milano Tilden, a favorite player in the world of motion pictures, and recently engaged to play in The Sapphire Ring. Her mother proved to be Elizabeth DePuy, a former actress, who finds the management of her little daughter so engrossing that she no longer has time to play.

With adorable enthusiasm little Miss Tilden told us that she had been leading lady in the recent revival of The Fatal Wedding, that she was the first real child to play Topsy, a role which she could go on playing forever and which she had committed to memory in four days; that she had played with Sothern and Marlowe in a Shakespearean, the little page in Twelfth Night, and that she attends the Professional Children's School.

Georgina Tilden is one of the prettiest little girls we have seen. She has large brown eyes, brown curls, curled in the good old-fashioned way, and a very, very active and well-stored mind. Those who play at the Triangle affectionately call her their mascot, a title thoroly enjoyed by the little one, who expresses the wish that she shall prove a mascot in every sense of the word.

John Wenger, well-known New York scenic artist, is the subject of the first volume in a series on Contemporary American Artists to be published by Joseph Lawren, of New York. The study of Wenger was written by Carle de Fornaro, famous theatrical poster artist and a writer of note on art subjects. There will be a frontispiece in color and 50 of Wenger's paintings and stage settings. The edition will be limited to a thousand copies, which are to be sold at $3 net. In addition a special de luxe edition of 50 copies, printed on special hand-made paper and bound in boards from a special design by Wenger, and autographed by Wenger and de Fornaro, will be distributed at $10 net.

Wenger, probably more than any other of our present-day artists, is an imaginative creator, and, also, noted for his landscapes, portraits and decorations, his greatest fame has been gained on the American stage as a creator of pictorial symphonies. His scenic effects, which have appeared in leading theaters in New York and throuth the country, contain landscapes such as exist nowhere on this earth, but are born in his mind and vividly projected upon canvas in living colors. But the great joy of Wenger's work, the phase that makes it such a dominant force in the art world today, is its inspirational power. Like great music, great drama and great literature, it leaves its stimulating impress, more because it is not what the usual stage scenery is—an imitation of nature—but seems to capture the spirit of nature at its most glorious moments, its fleeting, singing glow.

For some time Wenger has been regarded as one of the most significant of our younger artists. He plays upon the whole scale of pictorial representation, from the realistic to the fantastic, from the impressionistic to the naturalistic, from the decorative to the photographic and from the ideal to the grotesque.

Wenger's early art education was received at the Imperial Art School of Odessa, Russia. After coming to America he continued his studies at the National Academy of Design. He has exhibited at the National Academy, Pennsylvania Academy, Architectural League, Chicago Art Institute, Memorial Gallery, Rochester, N. Y.; Milwaukee Art Institute and other museums throuth the country. His largest audiences, however, grew out of his activity in designing stage settings for the Metropolitan Opera House, the Boston Opera Company, the last Ziegfeld Follies and other big productions, the Capitol, Rivoli and Riato theaters in New York, and numerous other theaters in the larger cities of the country.

Incidentally, Wenger will hold a public exhibition at the studio of Joseph Lawren, at 51 West 12th street, New York, beginning Sunday evening, March 8, and lasting until March 15. The exhibits on display will include three scenes, 13 paintings and four photographs. An entertainment will be provided on both Sunday evenings by some of Wenger's theatrical friends, after which refreshments will be served. In March Wenger will hold another exhibition at the Anderson Galleries.

Thomas Wirth, scenic artist with the Brockton Players, Brockton, Mass., whose clever work has elicited much favorable comment from the patrons of that theater, recently painted a drop of the new Legion Parkway at Brockton which brought him a special round of praise from local business men.

The firm of A. Hoenigsberger, of Chicago, which specializes in upholstery and drapery materials, has supplied for the piano-playing act of Earl Snodgrass, appearing on the Orpheum Circuit, a setting that is virtually a duplicate of the WOS broadcast studio at Jefferson City, Mo., where Snodgrass formerly sent out his music. This duplicate studio is hung in Conservatory Radio Velour, which Hoenigsberger supplies to radio stations throuth the country and which is used because it is soundproof and prevents the echoes that interfere so much with broadcasting. Practically all of the large Chicago broadcasting stations are hung in this velour.

In his act Snodgrass is using a taupe shade of velour, which gives an excellent effect on the stage and will take any shade of coloring that is thrown on it. The setting was furnished to the Orpheum Studios in Chicago thru one of the local scenic studios.

Watson Barratt designed the settings for the Shuberts' production of The Virgin of Bethulia, with Julia Hoyt and McKay Morris, which opened in New York last week.

Claude Bragdon, who designed and supervised the scenic production for Walter Hampden's Othello, gave the play a group of very substantial sets. The scenery was painted by Robert Bergman and constructed by Frank O'Rourke, who also constructed the furniture.

The setting designed by Livingston Platt and painted by W. Oden Waller for

REFLECTIONS OF DOROTHEA

Measure me, sky!
Tell me I reach by a song
Nearer the stars,
I have been little so long.

TWO of my friends who called recently told me they were seeking a location for a stock company, and the conversation that followed brought recollections of the days I spent in stock. Along about this time of the year, as the end of the road season approached, I would plan to spend two or three months in stock. Playing in a stock company will soon take the cobwebs from one's brain. The day usually begins with a rehearsal at 10 in the morning and ends with an hour or two of study long after the final curtain has been rung down on the evening performance.

But there are many compensations that make the stock engagement pleasant. Perhaps the greatest of these is the wonderful understanding and appreciation of each other that develops between the player and the playgoer. I know of nothing more heartening after a week of intensive study and tedious rehearsal than the sincere applause that greets the stock player on his or her first appearance in the new play. It makes one feel repaid for the effort used to earn it.

Then there is another feature of the stock engagement that makes a strong appeal to many player folk. Odd as it may seem to those who take the theater lightly, there is a thoro human longing in the hearts of most actors and actresses for a haven of rest, a home. Moving about from one hotel to another once a week or oftener is not as enjoyable as it may seem to be and soon becomes tiresome. The stock company offers the player an opportunity to settle down in a cozy little apartment or a homey room long enough to call it home. It is a fact that many players who spend practically all of their time with stock organizations are more capable than some others whose names are emblazoned in electric lights on Broadway and it is along with a bundle of good health and so on I.

Mary Wynne, one of my good friends from Hartford, Conn., journeyed to New York for a visit and I was mighty glad to see her. She brought two very pretty girl companions, Margarette McHugh and Agnes Shea.

The little German bands that used to roam around New York's residential districts before the World War are again in evidence. One of them serenaded me before breakfast a few days ago, but my bird, which is a better judge of music than I am, wasn't favorably impressed. The blue notes made him nervous.

The big Spring Special number of The Billboard will blossom forth under date of March 21 and will make a good beginning of new subscriptions. I'll be glad to get yours. Address 600 West 186th street, New York City.

words, even in educated speech, is a matter of record. Ripman in England reports that (su:t) for "suit" is becoming increasingly common. At the Alhambra Theater in Brooklyn Anthony Stanford said (sju:t) according to the preference of educated speakers, but they could be heard repeating the pronunciation after him and passing it on to their neighbors. Such is the influence of the theater in setting the standard! There is little else in Mr. Marsh's speech that requires special comment.

a matter of common knowledge that several of our best known Broadway stars are stock company graduates.

But even the lure of the Great White Way fails to induce others to desert that branch of the theater which enables them to live in a world apart from the Land of Make Believe where they are obliged to earn their livelihood. Stock and the stage-door John are utter strangers. How different it all is from the fantastic picture of life on the stage that newspapers love to feed their eager readers.

I have many happy memories of my stock engagements, and the picture of the little group of sweet-faced, admiring kiddies who would invariably meet me at the stage door after the Saturday matinee can still bring forth a smile and a tear.

Kenneth Adams, who has turned out several good scenarios, brought a few along with him one day last week and left them with me to read at my leisure.

Mrs. M. Radt and Mrs. M. Hirschfeld stopped in for a pleasant little chat and I was glad to see them. Mrs. Hirschfeld is the proud mother of Milton Hirschfeld, who is in the Amalgamated Booking Offices.

Mrs. Bannister and Lois-Knox sent me some California flowers by air mail. They arrived as fresh as the proverbial daisy.

Jeannette Norland, who expected to enter upon a picture engagement in Los Angeles, is still too ill to work. She is hoping that mother Nature will hurry

Grace George's new play, She Had To Know, now running at the Times Square Theater, New York, contains a very distracting note in the form of an open doorway, thru which is seen a view of a garden. The distraction is heightened by the all too obviously artificial lighting employed to show up the garden and which merely emphasizes the unreality of the outside scene. Since it is not absolutely necessary to show this garden view, it would be much more advisable to merely suggest it in such a way as to not tax the audience's attention or draw the eye away from the players.

"Court" is (kɔ:t) rather than (kɔ:ɪ), but "short" is (ʃɔ:t). In "walk" (wɔ:k) the (ɔ:) is a strictly standard sound, but in "daughter" ('dɔ:tə) the (ɔ:) is something between (ɔ:) and (ə), suggesting that shortening of the sound which novelists sometimes represent by "dotter". This continually shows up in American speech.

I asked Mr. Marsh if his speech had undergone any conscious change since he became a professional actor and he said it had not. But he spoke of a general loosening up of his voice and speech. I have added "speech" to his remark because the change doubtless affected his pronunciation and his r-sounds as well as his voice.

"My voice was cramped up in my head," said Mr. Marsh, "when I was a beginner. The tone was nasal and stuck up against the hard palate. All that had to be changed."

On the stage I call Mr. Marsh's speech very pleasing, entirely free from affectations and fluent and spontaneous. His command of his speech in the emotional scenes of the play is excellent and the feeling and sincerity of his voice is beautiful and imaginative. His parting with Kathie after his first year of happiness and his recollection of Heldeberg in the "vision" scene are moments of dramatic supremacy. The signs of effort that showed in Mr. Marsh's first performances has entirely disappeared. His voice is free and it understands all the great sentiment and youthful fervor of the lines.

English audiences are as pleased to hear standard English on the stage as American audiences are. John Barrymore's Hamlet in London brings out the following comment:

The Daily News says: "In general the chief characteristic of this new Hamlet is his high-strung sensitiveness. He is not an elocutionary Hamlet in the ordinary sense, but it was a pleasure to hear verse spoken with such precision and without any accent, either of America, Oxford or Kensington. It was just Anglo-Saxon English. Barrymore

Morris Orange, formerly of the firm of Orange Brothers, theatrical costumers, is now associated with the Times Square Costume Company, 109 West 48th street, New York, in the capacity of manager of the manufacturing department. Orange has been well known in the costume field for many years. He is an unusually clever designer, particularly in the field of musical comedy and burlesque.

The Times Square Costume Company, while comparatively new in the field, having been organized five years ago, is composed of experienced costumers formerly associated with various old houses. This firm originally started in the rental business, but lately has branched out into the manufacturing line.

Mme. Georgette, a Parisienne designer of smart stage costumes, has come to New York and opened an establishment at 29 East 48th street.

Norman Bel-Geddes has been commissioned by Wendell Phillips Dodge to design the costumes for a Biblical drama, entitled Esther, by Maurice V. Samuels, author of The Wanderer. There are nearly 200 characters in the play and the costumes, counting the several changes that must be made, will number around 700.

Raymond F. Bowley designed and executed the costumes for the musical comedy, The Pirate's Daughter, produced recently by and with students of Clayton D. Gilbert's dramatic department at the New England Conservatory of Music, Boston.

James Reynolds is at work on the designs for the costumes that will be used in The Vagabond, an operetta based on the times of Francois Villon, which the Shuberts are to produce with Walter Woolf in the leading role.

Woodman Thompson designed the elegant and very interesting costumes worn in The Firebrand, starring Joseph Schildkraut, now running at a strong gait in New York. The Fishbach Gowns, Inc., executed the work.

Frances Clynne made the gowns worn by Grace George and Charlotte Ives in the first act of She Wanted to Know, in which Miss George is starring at the Times Square Theater, New York. The other gowns worn by Miss George in this play are by Thurn.

Ami Mali Hicks and the Eaves Costume Company, of New York, executed the fitting and colorful costumes worn in Walter Hampden's production of Othello, which just closed a run of seven weeks at the Shubert Theater, New York.

A material known as Conservatory Radio Velour is being manufactured by A. Hoenigsberger, of Chicago, for the special use of radio broadcasting stations. The material is sound proof and prevents the echo which interferes so much with broadcasting. Many radio stations throuth the country are using this velour with wonderful results, and in addition the material is excellent for stage settings and other decorative purposes. Hoenigsberger has a very desirable taupe shade of Conservatory Velour which makes a very attractive appearance on the stage and will take any shade of coloring that may be thrown on it.

The Hoenigsberger establishment specializes in upholstery and drapery, fabrics and materials, particularly plush, for every purpose.

The Brooks Costume Company, which did the costuming of When Summer Comes, the Hammerstein & Quinn musical comedy that closed February 21 in Washington, D. C., after eight days of playing, placed an attachment on the production and the costumes were held over by a United States marshal.

Jack L. Lipshutz, the Philadelphia tailor, who makes a specialty of entering to members of the profession, has a one-week service for performers, especially those in vaudeville, who like to have their clothes made to order.

Mrs. Minna Schmidt, well-known Chicago costumer, recently was elected first vice-president of the Riverview Park Company, which operates the famous Chicago resort known as Riverview Park.

My rest assured he has not only made a personal triumph as Hamlet but has given London one of the best performances of Shakespeare's play."

My first object in reporting the speech of Mr. Marsh was to show that the singers in the best type of musical play in New York speak the same dialect of English (Standard English) that is heard in classical drama. The actors in The Student Prince are true to form in this resp. it.

MR. OLIVER HINSDPELL PAYS US A VISIT

Just as we started writing the Little Theaters copy for this issue Oliver Hinsdell, director of the Dallas Little Theater, was announced. Mr. Hinsdell is in town gathering material for a series of articles on the theater, which he has been engaged to write for a Dallas newspaper. He arrived just in time to witness the opening performance of The Wild Duck, at the Actors' Theater, and was enthusiastic about the playing of Blanche Yurka and that charming young actress, Helen Chandler. He plans also to see a performance of Tangletoes, in which Walker Ellis, a former member of the Dallas Players, is appearing. "Mr. Ellis," said Mr. Hinsdell, did a splendid portrayal in Suro's Man in the Stalls for our group.

Mr. Hinsdell also told us that the Dallas Players, now touring in Judge Lynch, the prize-winning play in last year's Little Theater Tournament, held in New York, are having a wonderful time on their vaudeville tour. Wherever they go they are accorded a reception by the local little theater groups and are wined, dined and feted daily, particularly in New Orleans, where Mr. Hinsdell directed for two years.

Before Mr. Hinsdell left Dallas his players had launched a production of Tarkington's Screamers, which proved popular with Dallasites. R. U. R. is now in rehearsal.

As their closing bill of the season in May the Dallas group plans to produce Outward Bound, and the presentation promises to be a gala affair, as Mr. Hinsdell has invited as guests individuals from the representative groups of America. Those who have signified their intention to be present are the North Shore Theater Guild of Chicago, the Cleveland Little Theater and the Carolina Playmakers. Mr. Hinsdell hopes in this way to get together little theaters with a common interest. Mr. Hinsdell believes that harmony among the membership is the keynote of little theater success. The writer couldn't help thinking that as Mr. Hinsdell radiates this very quality himself he must inspire it in those about him.

THE PURPLE MASK IN THE FIRST YEAR

The Purple Mask Players of the Kansas State Agricultural College presented The First Year, by Frank Craven, as its first full evening's play of the year the latter part of February under the direction of Earl G. MacDonald of the Department of Public Speaking.

The play, according to the college newspaper, "was presented by an experienced cast that had little difficulty in rising to the situations of the plot. There was not a dull moment in the whole hour and one-half of the play."

LITTLE THEATER IS GROWING IN POPULARITY

The popularity of the little theater movement in Galveston, Tex., a town of 10,000 inhabitants, is constantly growing, as evidenced by the attendance record. Stop Thief, the February offering, was witnessed by 600 persons, the largest attendance in the two seasons of the organization.

In order that productions may be presented more effectively the executive and mechanical staffs have been increased with the addition of four members, as follows: E. I. McGee, assistant director; Arthur Lee Joyner, assistant stage manager; Ward Henderson, assistant property man, and Dow Clements, electrician.

SAINT STEPHEN PLAYERS IN PEG O' MY HEART

Arthur H. Faust, director in chief of productions for the Saint Stephen Players of Minneapolis, Minn., announces the presentation of a special performance of J. Hartley Manners' play, Peg o' My Heart, March 17, with the following cast: Lawrence Londo, Vernon Barthelmeuw, Frank Bernard, Harold Walsh, Kenneth Flash, Coletta Kortum, Evelyn Turgeon, Rose Nessman and Opal Shannon. Elaborate arrangements are being made for special scenic and lighting effects.

This organization recently presented a highly successful production of George M. Cohan's Seven Keys to Baldpate. The play, considered a most difficult undertaking for a little theater group, was admirably presented, being enthusiastically accepted by capacity houses at each performance, each player of the large cast scoring an individual hit.

We are still receiving complimentary letters concerning The Billboard's Little Theater Handbook, which was written by leading little theater workers of America. A copy was sent on request to the public library at Ipswich, England. The librarian, Lionel R. McColvin, F. L. A., writes that he considers the volume "the best of its kind I have ever encountered—will be most useful to us."

A NEW GROUP IN NEW YORK CITY

A new little theater in New York City is the Schiff Center Players, who gave as their fourth play Tico Goyin, by Shalom Grossman, January 31, followed by a dance.

The first organization meeting of the Schiff Center Players was held Thursday evening, February 24, at which time the Players' sponsor, Sol Luby, outlined a general policy.

Primarily the aim of this newly formed group is to join the little theater movement and to foster dramatics in the Fordham community of New York City. Incidentally, the society will be instrumental in arranging entertainment for the various meetings held by the Young Folks' Auxiliary of the Jacob H. Schiff Center.

At this but 40 members attend the first meeting a great deal was accomplished along the lines proposed by Mr. Luby. Another play is scheduled for presentation in May and a musical comedy will be given in the future.

To date the Jacob H. Schiff Center has given four one-act plays, its most recent offering, The Goyin, being a farcical presentation of Jewish life in America today, directed by Mr. Luby and Nancy Rosenbaum. The play has proved a success and is scheduled to play various Jewish charitable institutions in New York. Mr. Luby gives a capital performance of a typical Jewish "schachm" or marriage broker. Other players are Samuel Goodman, Florence Reinheimer, Minnie Linder, Judythe Saperstein, Jerome Renneck and Jack Wallach.

who aspire to the roles of Macbeth and Lady Macbeth. All registrations must be made by March 14. The Macbeth text selected is the Edwin Booth edition, published by Samuel French, 25 West 45th street, New York. Further particulars may be had from Harry Graves Miller, director, Little Theater, Saginaw, Mich., who also will receive applications to play.

Remembering that the Little Theater of Dallas, Tex., which won the Belasco Trophy in last year's Little Theater Tournament, bought a new black curtain for its theater, we are wondering how many little theaters are lining up for the contest this year and which will be lucky enough to buy a new curtain or "certain something" with the coveted prize money. INDIANAPOLIS HAS LITTLE THEATER

The Indianapolis Theater Guild, Indianapolis, Ind., is now incorporated with Mrs. William O. Bates, Donald G. King, Bartholomew Brooks and Test Dalton on the board of directors for the first year. Their motto is "Indiana plays for Indiana people." They consider their native State rich in dramatic material at St. Patrick's Hall, Troy, February 19 the group entertained a delegation from the Vincennes Players of Albany, a sister little theater group. During the performance Rose Carter, one of the leading members of the Masque, was presented with a beautiful bouquet of roses by fellow associates of Van Zandt's, Inc.

THE LITTLE THEATER OF JERSEY CITY

The following members of the Little Theater League of Jersey City appeared in the Calvary Spring Carnival of the Calvary Lutheran Church, given February 20 in the Bergen Lyceum:

Marie Augustine, Alma Barnefuer, Margaret Bjorson, Ruth Jullin, Ruth Schlerloh, Albertina Steer, Clara Weber, Arthur F. Fuller, Edward Kimmeric, Tom Kelly, Chester T. Roraback, John Robinson and Warren D. Wasmaker. Members of the Little Theater League of Jersey City also participated in the minstrel by the Shaler Post, Army and Navy Veterans, given February 14 at Central Hall. They were Julia Brown, Josephine Nelson, Anthony C. Birs, Chester T. Roraback and Edwin D. Scheuer.

A LITTLE THEATER SHAKESPEAREAN TOURNAMENT

The week of April 20 has been set as the time for the Little Theater Shakespeare and Walter Hampden Medal Contest at Saginaw, Mich., to be held under the auspices of the Little Theater, of which Harry Graves is director.

There will be six performances of Macbeth during the week with a different supporting cast will be made up of members of the Saginaw Little Theater Players. At the close of the tournament three gold medals inscribed "The Walter Hampden Shakespearean Medal" will be awarded to the three best amateur actors in the contest.

The tournament is a national affair, open to all amateur players in America and that this material is so varied that it will have universal appeal. There are plays, big plays, that will eventually be written by Indiana playwrights about the sand-dune region where Indiana touches Lake Michigan; plays of vital force and great movement of the steel mills at Gary, historical plays of old Vincennes and the French quarter, primitive and picturesque plays of Brown county, plays of farm life in the rural districts and plays of society in the larger cities of the State. Indiana contains every kind of play from tragedy, comedy and pageant to character plays of modern life, and the Indianapolis Theater Guild hopes to bring them before the public. It is its intention to produce plays that please the public. Great plays that live have that human quality. They will produce interesting plays, not "highbrow" dramas; plays that are strong and vital, not morbid or depressing; comedies that are amusing, not satirical or suggestive, and they will be new plays, not revivals or those which have been produced by commercial managers. Lectures will be given by experts on lighting, acting, production, costuming and playwrighting to subscription members, and those who are suitable will have an opportunity to act in plays and gain practical experience. It is a wide movement and will interest all who are interested in plays and acting.

AMATEUR ACTRESS IS PRAISED

When the Pasadena (Calif.) Community Playhouse offered The Intimate Strangers, by Booth Tarkington, as one of its February bills Margaret C. Clarke, a member of the Community Players, was paid warm tribute by Alexander Inglis of The Star-News for her splendid handling of a role intended by Booth Tarkington for Maude Adams.

"It can almost be imagined," said Mr. Inglis, "that Booth Tarkington wrote The Intimate Strangers to suit Margaret C. Clarke. Rarely is it possible that so subtle a part can be played with so subtle an art. To fit in so happily into a characterization as does Mrs. Clarke in the part of Isabel Stuart is to develop a sense of intimacy with a fictitious personage seldom experienced outside the imagination.

"Here is a play in which the old-fashioned girl and the modern are thrown into relief, one against the other. Unlike scores of other modern plays dealing with the same theme The Intimate Strangers offers no startling relationship in unfolding the marked changes which transpire between one generation and the next. Rather do we have a rippling comedy, none the less inclusive because its satire is sweet, based on a situation not unlikely and dealing with a small group of humans acting humanly.

"But the real pleasure of the present playhouse production lies in the charming study given by Mrs. Clarke. Now vivacious, now pensive, now running reckless in ingenious and ingenious wit, now fraught with thoughtful ponderings and ever sympathetically understanding, the character as presented by Mrs. Clarke adds another portrait to that great gallery of playhouse figures which remain in the memory among the associations with the local community theater."

GALSWORTHY PREMIERE IN A CHURCH

The Community Church of New York, home of the Lenox Hill Players, Inc., will see the New York premiere of John Galsworthy's play of the English post-war upheaval, The Foundations, which is to be given in the church auditorium at 34th street and Park avenue. This is the third production by the Players this season under the patronage of Dr. John Haynes Holmes, minister of the church.

The Foundations is a study from a satirical slant of post-war psychology in England. It is full of sparkling comedy and is far from being a preaching despite its production in a church. It offers a delightful group of character studies and strikes with sure, if light, blow at press, social reformer, sweated worker and labor agitator and involves a bomb incident in an English wine cellar, a revolution in Park Lane and an anti-sweated meeting in which the hero is a plumber.

THE BROOKLYN LITTLE THEATER PLAYERS

After a prolonged search for a lyric play to be given as its second production of the season the Brooklyn Little Theater Players have practically selected The Arcadians if the proper arrangements can be made and just the right sort of musical cast assembled. It looks as if both could be managed and that the appointed night, May 1, will certainly see this production on the stage of the Opera House of the Academy of Music.

The Arcadians has two leading soprano roles. One of these, it is said, will go to Alice Marguerite Hawkins, a Brooklyn soprano. A meeting was held February 27 for tryouts of voices for other leading roles as well as for the chorus. Mrs. Cunningham, 48 St. Paul's Place, Brooklyn, is in charge of all applications from those wishing to join the cast.

Chic Delmar Defended

Webb City, Ok., Feb. 24, 1925.

Editor The Billboard:

Sir—I just read the open letter of King Felton, the magician, about Chic Delmar, in your columns. I joined the show at Okemah, Ok., and found Delmar handling the show with success. He and his wife were doing a neat specialty. King Felton closed the show on 12 hours' notice, but kept me as agent. I booked and billed five towns, which he did not play, and without giving me any notice. When I left he was indebted to me.

Commends Billboard's Stand

Editor The Billboard:

Sir—I am aware that The Billboard champions the clean and wholesome in amusements, and it is to be commended for the stand taken in the matter of decency in the entertainment field. The commercialization of vice is contemptible—it is an outrage that ought not to be tolerated in the theater for a moment. "The play's the thing," but not the dirty play. The present agitation against the smutty play means that community theaters are likely to supplant the regular ones, and competent stock companies will arise in the different communities for the production of decent and proper plays.

Stetson "Tom" Show Still Going

Vernon, B. C., Feb. 20, 1925.

Editor The Billboard:

Sir—The Billboard of February 7 contained a story by Fletcher Smith pertaining to Uncle Tom, but he made statements regarding the Stetson Tom show on which I take issue with him. Mr. Smith stated that all time was canceled and the show went out of existence. We did not cancel a date nor lose a stand, having played every one contracted for. We opened July 27 in Bay City, Mich., and are due to close May 16.

Mr. Smith also states that there is not a Tom show playing the big time today. Allow me to say that the Stetson show during the past two seasons has played some of the largest cities on the continent and the best line of one-night stands. We do not play as many of the large cities as in the past, but what company playing at popular prices does? If Mr. Smith has access to reports issued by the International Managers' Association he will find that the reports on the show have been the best. We are still playing under the original title that has been before the public for half a century. (Signed) J. C. CONNER, Agent for Stetson's Show.

Chic Delmar Answers

Webb City, Ok., Feb. 24, 1925.

Editor The Billboard:

Sir—In answer to King Felton's complaint, published in the February 21 issue of The Billboard, I wish to say that from September 9, 1924, to January 30, 1925, I booked, routed and handled all business for The King Felton Company. I also invested my money with him in billing the show and we were working on a 50-50 basis. I am enclosing some correspondence to verify my statements. Mr. Felton knew that I had written the cards before we closed, and the dates that were canceled were booked at our mutual expense. He did not offer to pay me my part of the booking expense, and he refused to play the dates.

R. F. Butler, whom King Felton called his advance man in the letter, is here with me. We are doing nicely at present with Johnnie Walker's High-Life Gals. (Signed) CHIC DELMAR.

(The correspondence to which Mr. Delmar refers consists of two letters addressed to Mr. Delmar as manager of The King Felton Company. They are both dated in November, 1924, and are from theater managers referring to bookings of the show.—The Editors of The Billboard.)

Says Company Was Stranded

New York, Feb. 21, 1925.

Editor The Billboard:

Sir—I would like to correct the statement made by Joe Wright, manager of Abie's Little Rose Company, which was published in your February 21 issue. The company did strand in Elkins, W. Va. Members of the company had received a few dollars at a time to pay expenses, but positively did not receive full salaries. They were to have left for Maryland, but were detained on the excuse that Mrs. Wright was sick. Two members of the company, while at the depot later, saw Mrs. Wright on the train. Another member found that her trunk had gone with

Mrs. Wright. A warrant was telegraphed ahead and she was brought back to Elkins and held under bond. The next day the member whose trunk had been taken said that if Mrs. Wright would pay all fares to New York she would drop the case against her. This was done, but the court gave two weeks in which to press the suit. (Name withheld by request.)

(The following statement accompanied Joe Wright's letter which appeared in our issue of February 21: "Elkins, W. Va., January 31, 1925—This is to certify that all members of Abie's Little Rose Company were paid up to date and received their fares to New York City. (Signed) Mrs. J. Wright, manager of company; Bill Crockett, Emil Stockman, Pearl Coons, Emil Hirsch, Charlotte Moes, Rex George."—The Editors of The Billboard.)

tures in Australia, it may be interesting to know that the town of Wonthaggi shows regularly on Sunday nights. A company, whose shareholders are returned soldiers, nurses and sailors, operates the Wonthaggi (Vic.) Theater, and a returned soldier also manages the opposition show. About 10 years ago representatives of different churches fought hard to close the shows on Sunday, and the council held a referendum of the citizens, who voted solidly for a continuance of Sunday entertainments. Two years later another vote on the question resulted in an even greater majority for the pictures. The Sunday shows do not commence until about the time the churches are closing services.

Mr. Solomons stated, that he considered the Adelaide people well catered for in every way of picture shows, and found that the prices of admission to London picture entertainments were greatly in advance of those ruling in this country; also that in England the cinema program contains only one star feature, whereas in Australia two are included.

The figures of the Tasmanian statistician regarding the population are anything but cheerful, as they disclose that from September 30, 1924, Tasmania had 531 people less than the previous year. This gradual elimination of population has been going on in the island State for years. The effect this has on show business can be readily understood, as all States of the commonwealth are increasing in population and the additional population helps the amusement business to meet the additional expense charges which are continually mounting, but in Tasmania the showmen have no such advantages.

The Picture Exhibitors' Film Protection Board of Victoria decided on the policy of £200, which will cover the film from the time it leaves the exchange until it returns to the shelf after screening. It will include marine and all other risks, and will cost the exhibitor £7.5/- for every polky taken out. The scheme will operate from March 1, and every show in Victoria, the Riverina and Tasmania will be compelled to take out a policy of £200 with the board.

John E. Dee, who resigned as advertising agent at the Columbia Theater to go in advance of a Tea Commandments company thru the Middle West, closed the road engagement at Milwaukee and returned to New York to accept the position of advertising agent at Loew's Lincoln Square and Loew's Circle theaters.

Joe Pine, former manager of the old burlesque house in Paterson, N. J., and past president of Local No. 2, I. A. B. P. & B. of New York, and later on the Pacific Coast in the interests of Famous Players-Lasky, has returned to New York to join Phil De Angelis' billroom brigade. Harry Seligman, business manager for Phil De Angelis, says the big tops may hold billers for a while, but Broadway eventually gets 'em, for he now has on his staff such well-known circus billers as Eddie Hanson, "Frenchy" Ball, Harry Hylan, John Dee, Rube White, Eddie Ammos, Jack Kale, "Kid" Blake, Jack Tammany, Pat Jennings, Dick Rigenburg, Marty Milligan and Joe Pine.

John (Jack) Kale, advertising agent at Loew's Rio Theater, made people around 157th street and Broadway rubberneck at the numerous balloons he released from the roof of the Rio. Attached to each balloon was an "Annie Oakley".

Jack Tammany, former advertising agent at the Metropolitan Opera House and Starlight Park, has been appointed by Phil De Angelis to handle the billing for excursion routes outside of New York for Quo Vadis.

Art G. Keene, after a rest at Paterson, N. J., is preparing for his usual season in advance of a circus, having signed with George Goddard, manager of Car No. 1 of the Ringling-Barnum show.

Frank J. Riley, second man in advance of the De Wolf Hopper Company, has signed with the Seils-Floto Circus for the summer season.

J. J. Mayer, business manager of Ralph Richards, the magician, is working thru Texas and Arizona, en route to the Coast.

Congregating in Chicago

Well-known advance agents and company managers in Chicago recently included Dick Kirschbaum and Sammy Rothschild of the Hurlig & Seamon attractions, burlesque and production, including Badges and The Lounge Lizard. Charles Burton of Trine fame and fortune is now managing Minick at the Playhouse.

Ed Sign Daley and his "Dollar Daley Dog", in advance of Sim Williams' Happy Moments Company, were among those in the Windy City of late who exploited Columbia Burlesque.

Riding the Route

Fred Hollman of The Billboard's Chicago offices evidently has been riding the route in the Windy City of late, keeping tab on press representatives and billers. Hollman reports as follows:

"George Kingsbury, a veteran of the business, handled 67 weeks of publicity for Lightnin' at the Blackstone. In addition he has managed more Chicago-playing companies than any other man now living. Jimmy Kerr handled the publicity of The Bat for 53 weeks at the Princess and Cohan's. Grand and managed the company in the bargain. Willis Jackson and Charles Washburn have been the historians for Abie's Little Rose, now in its 53th and last week in the Studebaker. These runs are records and all of the men mentioned, now New York press agents, are native Chicagoans.

"Mr. Kingsbury once managed the old Chicago Opera House and since has played almost every week and one-night stand in the country. Mr. Jackson began with Lincoln J. Carter in the halcyon days of melodrama. His first job as press agent was with Mr. Carter's The Heart of Chicago at the old Criterion on the North Side. Mr. Washburn is a Chicago newspaper man, trained on The Tribune and The Post. He left The Post to go with A. H. Woods. Later he was with Weber and Fields and then took Mitzl to the Coast for Henry W. Savage, after which he became general press agent for Wagenhals & Kemper in New York.

"Other Chicago press agents now dating from Broadway are Ben Atwill, formerly city editor of The Chicago Journal and at present with The Miracle, and Al Spink of The Cat and Canary and recently in Chicago with The Goose Hangs High. Mr. Spink managed the Victoria Theater on the North Side for Frank A. P. Gazzoio when the house played road shows.

"Toby" Barton, of Hoyts' De Luxe, has vacated his position on the managerial staff, with the termination of this tentative agreement, the position having become untenable with the arrival of Mr. Russell from Melbourne, followed by Jack Nicholson, both of whom are now permanently in Sydney.

Scott Colville, commissioner for the New Zealand and South Seas International Exhibition, which opens in Dunedin at the end of the year, believes the big exposition will attract some of America's most popular amusement device managers and be by far the largest ever presented in the Dominion.

Arthur Hancock, of McIntyre's Pictures, North Sydney, is very ill in the North Sydney Hospital. His wife also is far from well.

"Who Is Greatest Living Magician?" Asks Wilson

The question of "Who is the greatest magician living today" has been raised by Wilson, the magician, of Indianapolis. He writes:

"No doubt the majority of the public will agree with me, but there are many below magicians who will not. I have noticed that there is quite a difference of opinion.

"I never had the pleasure of meeting Howard Thurston, altho I always feel as tho I know him. I do not believe there is a magician living who has started so many people studying the art of magic as Mr. Thurston has. I have him to thank for my own interest in the art.

"I have been told by magicians and men well read in the art that Horace Goldin, Blackstone, Ralph Richards and Dante (Harry Jansen) could all claim the title as the 'world's greatest magician', but I have yet to hear for the first time a professional magician tell me that the title belongs to Mr. Thurston. I haven't been able to understand it. Is there a jealousy existing among magicians? If so, why? Such a title can only be gained after years of hard work, hard study and worry, and so why not give credit where credit is due? Here are a few reasons why I believe Mr. Thurston is on top. He has done much to educate the public to appreciate our art. I believe he is a magician from love of his chosen profession rather than for the money which he can make. No one can see Thurston and not know that he takes his work seriously, perhaps too much so for his own physical welfare.

"Wilson mentions box-office records done in various cities by Thurston to show how the latter stands with theater managers and the public. He goes on to say:

"I have witnessed the performances of nearly all the famous magicians and there seems to be something lacking in each of them which Thurston possesses. He undoubtedly was born under a lucky star to be so talented."

Gene Gordon, "Iowa's unique entertainer", is active in affairs of the I. B. M., of which he is co-organizer and assistant publicity director.

Prof. Blankenbaker Explains "Human Pin-Cushion" Stunt

Prof. S. W. Blankenbaker, of Louisville, Ky., in an article written for The Billboard, offers a solution to the "human pin-cushion" puzzle, which recently baffled Berlin scientists and others. He states:

"Berlin psychiatrists and psychologists may be puzzled about the Austrian, To Rhama, whom they term the 'human pin cushion', but to anyone thoroughly familiar with hypnotism this 'pin-cushion' stunt is quite simple. I did the same thing 25 years ago. By using the proper mental force it is possible to make any part of the body devoid of feeling (to anesthetize it). I have run needles thru the cheeks, nose and ears without the least bit of pain being felt, and the peculiar part about it is that there was no flow of blood.

"It has been my opinion that hypnotism was much better understood in the old countries than in the United States, and I cannot understand why it is that this 'pin-cushion' condition has not been recognized for what it is—a hypnotic state.

"Hypnotism is quite a remarkable and mysterious force which most people seem to be afraid of—it seems so uncanny to them that they have let it alone. For several years a few surgeons in France have employed hypnotism in operations instead of giving a general anesthetic like chloroform or ether. At present other countries have started the practice. But surgeons and physicians of the United States seem to class it as black magic, and therefore are losing opportunities of doing a tremendous amount of good. A person who has a weak heart cannot take chloroform, and the person who has weak or diseased kidneys cannot take ether, but hypnotism could be used in both cases and no harm would result. In fact, the patient would be greatly benefited. The patient is merely put into a deep sleep, and by certain passes of the hypnotist, the field of operation is made insensible to pain. The patient can be kept in this sleep as long as is required, whereas in using anesthetics the operation must be rushed in order to prevent so much harm being done to the internal organs by the anesthetic.

"However, every so-called hypnotist does not understand the laws in regard to the seven stages of sleep that the patient can be put into. Neither does he thoroughly understand what to do to render any part of the body insensible to pain.

"True hypnotism can render the body insensible to pain, even while the patient has his eyes open, is walking around, talking and appears to be thoroughly wide awake. And that is the state of affairs concerning To Rhama, the 'human pin cushion'."

Tom Connor, magician, of Portland, Ore., recently entertained the Federal Business Association of that city.

"Frozo" Closes Ballroom Dates

"Frozo" has just finished a month's engagement at the Arcadia and Dreamland ballrooms in Chicago. He created a great deal of talk and a large following, his slow-motion trick being a big hit. He will play vaudeville dates for the next few months. "Frozo" is presented by Monte.

Renew Old Friendship

Magic Notes

William Z. Weaver will take his new magic and illusion show on the road beginning April 6. The show this year will be known as the Lone Star Mystery.

Mrs. Adelaide Hermann, Charles Andress and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Rouclere, all past masters in the art of magic, recently attended a performance at the Hippodrome, New York, to see Houdini.

J. Malcolm Bird delivered a lecture to the Journalism Club, Chicago, February 13, on spiritualism, Gypsy and several other magicians and mediums were in the audience and asked questions.

Harry Vero, magician, has been playing to good houses in the vicinity of Cincinnati for the past six weeks. He has also played a number of private engagements.

Ann Kenyon, of Harrisburg, Pa., is one of the few lady magicians who is winning great popularity. She is entertaining large audiences at clubs and parties thruout Pennsylvania with much success.

Paul Georges Hoffman rises to let the world know that magic is more alive than ever in Canada and gives a list of magic acts he has caught in Montreal within two weeks. They include the Great Rasco, Clarence E. Willard and Ketch and Wilma.

Prince Buddha and his show will open for a tour about the middle of April near Pittsburgh, Pa. Prince Buddha has a new show this season, which will be managed by Irving H. Meyers, who is well-known to the magic fraternity. He also is a musical director and novelty performer.

Prof. Seewald and Company turned away scores of children at a special performance for kiddies in Wichita, Kan., recently at the Orpheum Theater. Seewald gives a special children's performance in every town he plays and usually attracts more youngsters than the theater can hold.

The Sharrocks, Harry and Emma, whose thought-transference act is as humorous as it is fast, are being visited by many friends of the show world on their present Florida swing of the Delmar Time, the Peninsula State being a mecca for vacationing troupers this winter.

Assembly No. 8, St. Louis, of the Society of American Magicians, held its second meeting of the month February 23 at the Y. M. C. A. Part of the program for the evening's entertainment was set aside for a discussion of the article on magic by Marian Spitzer in The Saturday Evening Post of January 17.

Blackstone will be the feature attraction at the Cinderella Theater, Detroit, the week of March 22, following his engagement at the Rivoli, Toledo. The new Lerner Theater, Elkhart, Ind., has started to exploit him as its big feature for the week of March 29. During the past four weeks he has been playing to big business in Canada, having just completed an engagement at the Russell Theater in Ottawa. Blackstone will play two more weeks between Ottawa and Port Huron, Mich.

Royalty Takes Part in Thought-Reading Act

The King and Queen of England were made parties to a thought-reading act at a vaudeville performance they attended at the Alhambra Theater, London, recently. It was staged for the benefit of the Variety Artists' Benevolent Fund.

The act in question, The Trees, who do a turn similar to the one offered by Mercedes, in which the man goes into the audience asking patrons in a whisper for titles of tunes they would like to hear, and the lady at the piano playing the numbers asked, included members of the Royal box in getting requests for numbers.

Among selections whispered by the Royal spectators and correctly played were The Merry Widow, The Dollar Princess, Rigoletto, Lohengrin and Der Meistersinger.

Alburtus Sued by Publisher

Alburtus, the mystic entertainer, is made defendant in a suit alleging slander brought by Harry Cue, publisher of The Dallas Optimist, a weekly newspaper, which asks damages of $10,000. Cue alleges that Alburtus referred to him in libelous manner before an audience at the Auditorium Theater, Dallas, Tex., Saturday night, January 24.

The alleged incident was caused by an advertisement which Alburtus had ordered inserted in The Optimist and which he claimed had been stretched from 10 inches to half a page. Charles Couch, under whose management Alburtus played in the Auditorium, was named codefendant in the suit.

MINSTRELSY

(Communications to 25-27 Opera Place, Cincinnati, O.)

Jolly Bill Conkling is enjoying a rest at his home in Troy, N. Y., before rejoining Van Arnam's Minstrels.

Van Arnam's Minstrels closed February 21 at McKeesport, Pa., with the announcement that rehearsals for the new season would start three weeks later.

McIntyre and Heath played a week recently at the Riverside Theater, New York, and the veteran exponents of burnt-cork comedy and delimiters of Southern Negro types were a decided hit.

W. T. Spaeth reports he had all sorts of hard luck with routes down in Oklahoma on the Lassies White tour, and to add to his vexations he was obliged to battle a case of flu, his second this season.

Two sisters, Charlotte and Henrietta St. Felix, who have been on the stage since 1871, are doing a feature act with Hank Brown's Minstrels that proves very popular. These ladies are 58 and 61, respectively, but you'd never believe it.

Charles "Pomus" Gill, formerly in minstrelsy and now located at Ponca City, Ok., with his Oklahoma Jazz Bandits, writes that he and several of his boys motored to Oklahoma City to catch the Lassies White show, which was much enjoyed.

Roy B. Allen, former troupier with the Nell O'Brien, Dockstader and other minstrels, has been in Carthage, N. Y., arranging a minstrel show for the benefit of the Boy Scouts under the auspices of the Rotarians. The cast will include 85 persons.

Al Tint writes: "I noticed in the minstrel column the item about Samuel Van Gelder. He is better known as Sam Gilder. Sam and I worked as ends on the Yankee Minstrels in 1919. He is known as a bone ratter and tambourine artist. Sorry to hear of his being sick. I think you better publish his name as Sam Gilder, his stage name."

"Slipfoot" Clifton, a highly esteemed contributor of minstrel news, varied the routine by arriving at the desk in person last week, and the visit was so enjoyable we wouldn't mind having "Slipfoot" for a caller every day. He was on his way to his home in Louisville, Ky., having closed with the Van Arnam troupe at McKeesport.

The death of the father of Lassies White brought messages of sympathy from all showdom. The bereavement of Bill Yago, formerly of the Lassies White troupe, by the death of his father, a resident of Covington, Ky., also was mentioned in last week's Billboard, occasioning numerous letters of condolence.

"Slim" Livingston recently had two shows under way at once producing a straight minstrel for the Elks at Duquesne, Pa., and the other for the Catholic Men's Club at Munnhall, Pa. The latter had a novelty hotel setting, the production's title being Hotel Jan. Both were successful from every angle, one being a repeat from last season.

When the Neil O'Brien Minstrels played Birmingham Billy Beard received visits from several friends, including Joe Boem, Fred Boyd, brother of Billy Boyd, well known in vaudeville; Mr. and Mrs. Billy Ladd, Mr. Ladd being a well-known newspaper man, Artemus Calloway, of Birmingham, who wrote the act, Red Dog, which Mr. O'Brien is appearing in this season, visited Mr. O'Brien, Billy Beard, "Sugarfoot" Gaffney, Tex Hendrix and J. Lester Haberkorn, popular baritone soloist with the O'Brien show this season. In Montgomery O'Brien took the parade up to the Capitol, where the band, under direction of Earl Moss, played several selections for the Governor and his party. Governor Brandon, of Alabama—54 for Underwood fame, spoke a few words in favor of the show business and wished Mr. O'Brien many happy returns of the day.

The statement, recently published, putting the value of the property left by Lew Dockstader at not far from $5,000, recalls what Lew once told The Billboard of his narrow escape from becoming a multimillionaire. Dockstader, 49 years ago, accompanied a younger brother, who was threatened with tuberculosis, to Los Angeles. The place was then a frontier town with a few thousand inhabitants, picturesque saloons and a mixed population of whites and Mexicans. He took an option on a piece of land on the outskirts of the town, now the most populous portion of Los Angeles, and selling at more per front foot than he would have had to advance to obtain a claim on the entire tract. Lew, however, did not have a liking for Los Angeles. Everybody was talking gold up around San Francisco, so the Dockstader boys journeyed thither, permitting their option to lapse. The land upon which Dockstader held option, and which would have cost him a few hundred dollars, sold for approximately $2,000,000.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Conard recently spent 10 days in New York arranging for the coming season's production of the Al G. Field Minstrels. Mr. Conard asserts the forthcoming presentation will be the most elaborate ever attempted by any minstrel producer. Contracts for costumes, scenic effects, lighting appliances, etc., have been let, and two comedy acts for the olio are under way. One is being written by a well-known short-story writer, formerly in the minstrel game, Nick Hufford will again be the principal comedian. John M. Leopold has been so successful with the musical end of the show that Mr. Conard entered into a long-time contract with him. Harry Armstrong is again bandmaster, Billy Doran, dancing director, and Boni Mack, female impersonator. Jack Richards and Billy Church, in addition to their work in the first part, will be seen in an act in the olio far surpassing anything they have ever attempted in that line, it is said. In addition to the above numbers, Mr. Richards will sing a big novelty number as a finale to the minstrel presentation.

E. E. Parker, publisher of The Daily Citizen, Beaver Dam, Wis., enriches our collection of old programs with a "bill of fare" given out at the performance of Hi Henry's Minstrels in Concert Hall, Beaver Dam, in the fall of 1883. In the company were Bobby Beach, Chas. Johnson, Tom Brady, tambos; Tom Mack, Tommy Gould, Geo. McConnell, castinets; C. H. Bortelle, interlocutor. Among the numbers in the first part were: Golden Sea, Charley Johnson; medley of popular airs, Muldoon Quartet; Bobby's Troubles, Bobby Beach; basso solo and chorus, Five Gathered Them In, C. H. Bortelle; Cleopatra, Tom Mack; Moonlight on Killarney, Billy Lyons. The finale was a "new and original musical travesty in three scenes founded upon President Arthur's trip to Yellowstone Park." The second part introduced Hi Henry with his gold cornet; J. C. Bane, "the musical wonder"; and a tournament led by Bobby Leach, billed as the greatest solo clog dancer. Peck's Bad Boy and His Pa, an "entirely original diversion", concluded the show, which we will gamble was well worth the money.

A minstrel show put on by Charles C. Fuller, of Hon. N. Y., for the Howitzer Company at Bennington, Vt., was the subject of enthusiastic writeups in the newspapers. Miss Zoller, "the radio girl", and her partner, Eriau Wilcox, an old minstrel with Billy and Bohdy De Rue, stopped the show. Mr. Fuller informs that while staying at Bennington he had the pleasure of meeting the Whitney Brothers, nephews of Uncle Jim Whitney, noted for his Whitney and Hatfield's Minstrels and Whitney's San Francisco Minstrels. "Ed and Jack Whitney are certainly wonderful fellows," Mr. Fuller writes, "and their uncle is a grand old man, and well preserved. Coming home I had a few minutes' lay over in Albany, so I hopped over to the Capitol to see the old reliable Al G. Field show. Making myself known at the office, I got the same wonderful treatment as of old, was ushered in, and the first to greet my ears was gorgeous harmony singing. Coming in view of the stage the first object before my vision was the old standby, Billy Church, with his pleasing personality, singing I Wonder What Became of Sally. I took time to notice the setting On Board the America. Every detail was perfect. Then, who should come in view but Nick Hufford. More power to Nick, Billy and Leo Doran came rolling out as "Two Jolly Old Tars". Good work, boys. I happen to be a hooper. Just before I left that sweet-voiced singer was announced. Who? That's easy—Jack Richards, of course."

Hi Tom Long's reminiscences in The Billboard dated January 31 brought this reply from Ira (Roy) Haynes at Oidsmar, Pa.: "I must have a good memory as he had everything very near correct. The reason I know is that I have a program from Tacoma, Wash., where we played the Lyceum Theater February 16, 1902, also a mail list of the show, as I was mail agent as well as band leader. I wish I could send them, but they are pasted in my scrapbook. I met Andy McPhee in New York last year. It was the first time I'd seen him since those days. He looks as young and natural as ever, only his hair is white. Hi sang in the first part of that show, Sit Down, Smith, Sit Down and Good-By, Boore. Dick Freund's address is care Musicians' Union, Erie, Pa. The address of Bob Mills, bass player, is Benton Harbor, Mich., if he is still alive. O. S. Jones, from Marysville, Mo., was trap drummer, and Jim Fogarty, from Moberly, Mo., was clarinet. Fogarty was a dentist at Omaha about 18 years ago, when I last heard of him. Hal Shattuck was agent of the show. Sam Hood's home town was Princeton, Ky. I am now playing solo cornet with O. A. Gilson's cornet band at Oidsmar until April 1. I am enjoying good health and friends say I don't look to be more than 40. I hope I may be able to see Hi this summer in Dayton, O., where I showed last year with the Ringling-Bar-num Circus."

Wm. H. Ezzell, last season general agent for J. C. O'Brien's Georgia Minstrels, while wintering with his family had the pleasure of seeing Coburn's troupe, reporting that while everyone was fine Rhody Jordan's act stopped the show. Speaking of compliments for the Coburn company, they have a right to wear larger hats since James K. Hackett, eminent actor, bestowed his meed of tribute in a letter published in The Billboard February 21. And the flow of praise goes on and on. Ray F. Earles superlatives thusly: "I had the pleasure of visiting the Coburn show and I must say Bert Procter has the best band the show ever had. Gray Huffman and his orchestra are a credit; Norman Lyons and his bunch of songbirds produce more real harmony than most shows twice the size of Coburn's, and the bass singer sings bass. Hank White has a very funny afterpiece that gives all the boys a chance to show their stuff, and during the course of said piece they solve several crossword puzzles. 'Slim' Vermont and Nate Mulroy do a nice bit in olio that goes over big. But the outstanding hit of the show is Rhody Jordan. He has an act that will stop any show. Sam Park wrote the material for this skit, and I say he is fortunate to get a man like Jordan to put it over. In my estimation Rhody has an act that's good for a long run in big-time vaudeville."

A LONDON LETTER

By "COCKAIGNE"

Old Drury's Future

LONDON, Jan. 13.—Sir Alfred Butt has sharply negated the rumor that Seymour Hicks had been invited to undertake the codirectionship of Drury Lane, recently vacated by Basil Dean.

Meantime all sorts of rumors are running about the clubs and other resorts of the profession as to the future of the great house.

Dean, who left for your side a couple of days ago, has had a splendid press and much public sympathy in respect of his departure and there is actual indignation expressed in certain quarters because Butt is stopping the highly successful run of The Dream at the end of this month.

Cash is not everything in the world of the theater, and out of this fracas it may be that a real public interest in the national theater problem will arise.

The Century

Lena Ashwell continues her successful management of the Century Theater, Baywater, in the western suburbs of London. She uses this as a sort of experimental center and working base for her Once a Week Players, who go round the outskirts of London with a repertoire of plays. These are performed in town halls, public baths and so on, and are well patronized by working-class audiences, and Miss Ashwell's work is doing much to focus the attention of the suburban public on the Municipal Theater idea.

Among the immediate plans of the Century Theater management are productions of John Galsworthy's A Family Man and a new piece by Michael Morton, entitled Five Minutes Past.

Rag-Picking Stars

The Green Room Club Rags have now become a definite and enlivening feature of professional leisure. Beginning as purely club affairs, they soon found public demand too clamorous to resist, so the lally was admitted to the Sunday night Rags, held in the West End theaters. Several bright sketches and occasional items have found their way from the ragbag to the stage proper.

Now another advance is to be made, for next Sunday's Rag at the Prince of Wales Theater will, for the first time, have the assistance of several actresses. Isobel Elsom, Mary Gerrold, Marie Lohr, Doris Lytton, Norah Robinson and Madge Titherage will be among the performers operating under the expert direction of the Chief Ragpicker, Oscar Asche. An operetta, sketches and various bits and pieces by Cyril Camplon, George Elton, George Middleton and H. C. G. Stevens are in the bundle.

Daly's Evelyn

The revival of The Dollar Princess at Daly's was a not unshared pleasure for at least one onlooker. How time flies. Was it 17 years ago that Lily Elsie was singing those same songs that our delightful musical-comedy princess, Evelyn Laye, was singing to an audience just as rapturous as used to greet the star of another constellation?

And Carl Brisson—how the feminine portion of the house clamored for this clever young Danish artist. Brisson has certainly caught and held the fancy of the town, and quite deservedly, for he gives a Roland for every Oliver of appreciation.

But I confess that the chief charm and excellence of this revival of a rather demode operetta, so far as I was concerned, was to be found in the person of its leading lady. Miss Laye's singing and her acting technique are steadily improving and her delightful personality and the sincerity of her art place her easily at the forefront of her craft today.

Daly's management is fortunate in its leading lady. If they cannot find something new and suitable for her why not delight their own and a wider public as well who know good music and a delicious comedy when they see it, and give us Evelyn Laye in Der Rosenkavalier!

Legislating Against Bogus Managers

The committee of representatives of the Society of West End Managers, Theatrical Managers' Association, Incorporated Association of Touring Managers and the Entertainment Protection Association, which agreed on a bill for the registration of theatrical employers and sought the opinion of the home office on the measure, has received an official reply from Sir William Joynson Hicks' department. The home office will not accept the bill as a government measure but suggests its introduction as a private member's bill, which means that it will not have priority in the business of the House of Commons and so may take months or even years to get to the stage of a second reading. After the second reading Joynson Hicks proposes that the bill should be referred to a select committee. He feels moreover that some of its provisions are not workable.

So there is little reason for the A. A. and V. A. V. to cease from cursing the bad hats of the profession, for the managers' bill, which is really thunder stolen from the two artists' unions, is not likely to operate for a long time.

The Bill's Purport

What the bill aims at doing is to make it necessary for all who employ theatrical performers to carry a license

Offenses under the act are specified and consist of:

(1) Absconding with intent to avoid paying employees.

(2) Recurrent failure to pay salaries, expenses, etc.

(3) Carrying on business of theatrical employer without license or after forfeiting same.

Any person found guilty may be summarily convicted and fined up to $250, with or without imprisonment up to six months. The court may also:

(1) Declare defendant unfit to be a theatrical employer.

(2) Cancel registration.

(3) Suspend certificate, and, or,

(4) Order convicted party to pay prosecution's costs.

For the purposes of the act the term theatrical performer includes actors, singers, dancers, acrobats, any performers in theaters, music halls or other places of entertainment or whose performance is recorded as a picture for cinematographic or other apparatus and includes chorus or crowd engaged in such performance.

Sir Walter De Frece and Mr. Bowerman, M. P., are to introduce the bill and it is hoped that all sections of the House will support it.

Comedy Arrives

The gentry of the lofty brow who spend much time and ink in bewailing how much is wrong with our stage and so little in advertising what is right in the English theater nowadays have as usual made little play with the fact that a school of comedy writers seems to be evolving in London just now, that a number of the younger generation of dramatists is turning out works which, for the practical needs of the contemporary's age is not for the more academic requirements of the student of drama, bear comparison with the output of any of the world's capitals today.

Are we at the beginning of a great era of English comedy?

Historically there is evidence that we may well be. All the great eras of comedy of our own and other races have followed the stress and preoccupations of some natural crisis. Then society has, as it were, sat back, considered itself and found food for more or less good-natured mockery in the spectacle.

Again comedy is always seen to meet the demand of a corrective for self-satisfaction, and the new generation of playgoers, disillusioned by the events of the past decade, quite inclined to question priest and politician, even State and God, is in a mood to hear the satirical author or to assist in the upbuilding of a new comedy of manners which may in dry, dispassionate vein dissect the humors of the day and "show the whole body of the time his form and pressure."

And the success of certain works in our theater proves that the demand awaits the supply. The reception of Chiarelli's The Mask and the Face proves this. But better still we can note now that the demand is being met by several writers. Somerset Maugham's Our Betters, with its very long run, was perhaps the beginning of the new influence, altho C. K. Munro's At Mrs. Beams' actually preceded it and was, in my opinion, the better comedy. But Maugham, if he would not hold a candle, or a candelabrum full of candles, to the devil of alleged popular requirements, has the stuff, perhaps not of the first rate but of a good second-rate Restoration comedy writer in him.

Noel Coward, after only moderate attempts, has hit a golden vein with his semi-sentimental comedy, The Vortex, and his preoccupation with the rather tedious growing pains of marriageable young men is again evident in a published but unproduced work, The Rat Trap.

Last among the commercially presented comes Frederick Lonsdale, less polished than Maugham, less sincere and observant than Munro, but with a quiverful of barbed shafts and a very clear idea of where to direct them. And Spring Cleaning jumps into the highest rungs of favor in a night.

Of the more literary, perhaps less immediately salable, but not of necessity less valuable, comedy we have Ashley Duke's reversion to costume in The Man With a Load of Mischief soon to be seen at the Haymarket, and, best of them all, if I may risk a prophecy, The Masque of Venice, by G. Dunning Gribble, which so far I have not heard that any manager has the courage and wit to try.

Brevities

George Grossmith will appear in No. No. Nanette, at the Palace in the part originally assigned to Milton Hayes. The piece is due at the Palace March 11.

Bernard Shaw has been taking the sunbath treatment at Madeira under the direction of his friend, Sir Herbert Barker, the famous osteopath, who has been studying the effect of the sun in relation to health. Several other prominent theatrical people are hoping to find a place in the sun. Others again aspire to a place among the stars.

An official of the dramatic section of the British Broadcasting Company has made a hundred-mile journey in the cabin of an express engine in order to get a clear idea of the noises met with on a big journey for reproduction by aero drama. Since his trip he has been busy making machines to reproduce his auditory experiences for a new play which the B. B. C. will produce shortly.

With the consummation of a 25-year lease for the P. G. Lewis property in Houston street, San Antonio, Tex., W. J. Lytle and the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation announce that a theater building costing $1,500,000 will be erected on the Lytle riverside property in the immediate future.

Omaha, Neb., will soon have a new suburban theater to be erected at 30th and Ames avenue. The theater will be of brick and steel, decorated with Bedford limestone. A "cry" room for restless babies will be one of the features. The theater will contain 535 seats, rest rooms and other modern conveniences.

Joseph Oppenheimer, affiliated with the Mutual Burlesque Circuit, has closed negotiations for the outright purchase of the southeast corner of Chestnut and Seventh streets, St. Louis, comprising a quarter of a block, with plans completed for a combination hotel and theater structure to cost tentatively $2,000,000.

Work will start soon on the theater to be called The Rex, in McLemore avenue, Memphis, Tenn. The new theater building will be the first to be erected in Memphis according to the theater building provision in the new building code. The main auditorium will have a seating capacity of about 600, and the building will be modern in every detail.

Income Tax Department

Conducted by M. L. Seidman, C. P. A., of Seidman & Seidman, Certified Public Accountants

This is the 11th of a series of articles on how to prepare income tax returns that will appear regularly in these columns. Mr. Seidman is chairman of the Committee of Tax Consultants of the Committee of American Business Men. He is a well-known tax expert and has written numerous articles on taxation. Mr. Seidman will answer all questions on the subject directed to him by our readers. Such questions should be addressed to this publication, attention of the Tax Editor. To receive attention all communications should be signed by the writer. Mr. Seidman's answer, however, when published will not reveal the identity of the inquirer.

So many readers' questions have accumulated that it has again been deemed advisable to devote this entire article to them.

Earned Income From Sole Proprietorship

Q. In your seventh article there appeared a question of computing the tax of an individual whose business cleared above all expenses $5,800. Why do you not treat the entire income of $5,800 as earned, making the earned income credit $14.50 instead of $10.50, and the total tax $40.53 instead of $47.53? I would be pleased to have your explanation. O. T. B.

A. An individual owning his own business is limited in figuring his earned income credit to an allowance for compensation of not more than 20 per cent of his net income from business. This amount, in any event, cannot exceed a reasonable allowance for the services actually rendered by the individual, nor can it exceed $10,000. A minimum of $5,000 is allowed in every case. In the instant case $5,000 is the maximum of earned income.

Income From Garage

Q. In June, 1924, I bought a one-family house which I use for my home. There is also a two-car garage, one section of which I rent for $6 a month. This is the only income I have from this property. There is a mortgage on the property on which I pay 6 per cent interest. Before I bought the house my rent for the house and garage was $46 a month. Please advise me how to determine the income from this investment. I realize I have not mentioned taxes and other expenses. I can determine these, but what puzzles me is the determination of the gross income. G. C. G.

A. The $6 monthly rent received from the rental of one-half of your garage should be included in income. Against this can be applied one-half of the depreciation on the garage and one-half of any other expenses in the upkeep of the garage. The entire tax on your home and all of the interest paid on your mortgage are deductible from your income. No other expenses on your home may be deducted. The rental value of your home is not income.

Stock Profits

Q. Some years ago the writer suddenly found himself heavily overbought on stock in speculative account, and was obliged to accept very heavy losses on some of the stocks in order to prevent being entirely wiped out. In order to do so a large loan had to be secured from my bankers, and various securities were pledged as collateral. If the present "Boom Market" continues long enough it may be possible to pay off part or the whole of the loan thru the enhancement in prices of some of the securities bought some years ago. This would show an apparent profit on such securities, which in reality is only by the recovery of a part of my losses sustained previously, and the redeeming of securities upon the income from which I have paid income taxes. In such a case would I have to declare these profits in making my income tax return? J. H. C.

A. Any profits, based upon the excess of the final selling price over your original cost of securities, must be reported as income in the year in which you sell the securities. This is true, although the profit is merely making good what you had previously lost in the past. For income tax purposes every year's transactions must be considered separately.

Head of a Household

Q. My business as an engineer keeps my actual place of residence an ever-changing process. I have, however, established a home which I own and keep up, and support a mother who lives there. I only stay in this home a few weeks a year, my business keeping me in other parts of the country. It seems to me that I should be allowed an exemption of $2,500 as head of a household and $400 additional for the support of my mother as a dependent. F. G. C.

A. Since you have established a home and support your mother in that home you are entitled to an exemption of $2,500 as head of a family with one dependent. This is true, although your business keeps you away from home the greater part of the year.

Worthless Bank Stock

Q. Suppose Mr. A owns a certain amount of bank stock for which he paid at the rate of $100. Now suppose that the bank fails and A is called upon to pay an assessment at the same rate, that is, $100 a share. Can Mr. A charge off this amount at the rate of $200 a share as a loss with regard to the federal income tax? If so, at what place on the tax blank should he make the entry? C. E. S.

A. Since the bank stock is totally worthless, the $200 a share can be charged off as a loss on your federal income tax return. If you are reporting on the long form for income over $5,000 the deduction can be taken as item 13. If you are reporting on the short form for income under $5,000 the deduction can be included with "other deductions" item 8.

Earned Income

Q. I am a general agent for a life insurance company. I write personally little, if any, business, devoting my time to supervising the work of agents employed by me. Under these circumstances can the first $10,000 of my income be considered as "earned income"? Could I assign myself such a salary when this amount is more than 20 per cent of the total net commissions accruing to me after paying commissions to subagents, office expenses, etc.? C. J.

A. Although your time is devoted to supervising the work of agents, your income in such a capacity is from personal services rendered. Under such circumstances the first $10,000 of your net commissions as a general agent for a life insurance company may be considered as earned income.

Sale of Securities by an Executor

Q. In 1911 a party died, leaving an estate to 15 different heirs. Among other securities he left some common stock in several cotton mills. Before his death very little, if any, of this stock had ever been offered for sale. Four or five years after his death the executors sold the mill stock for $300 a share. What income tax should have been paid on this sale? Should the taxes have been paid on the whole amount or should the amount on each of the 15 shares have been figured separately? W. C. T.

A. A profit was realized on the sale of the stock, measured by the difference between the selling price and the value of the stock in 1911—at the date of the death of the testator. Whether the profit is taxable directly to the executor of the estate in one lump sum, or should be divided among the 15 heirs, depends upon the terms of the estate. Ordinarily if the beneficiaries have a life or other terminable interest the profit on the sale of the property of the estate is taxable directly to the executor.

because the programs are so mediocre that the B. B. C. will either have to give more theatrical stuff or more news items. In order that it shall not be the latter the British press is boosting the B. B. C., and the columns of free advertising not to mention the columns daily of the various programs is giving the B. B. C. tens of thousands of dollars' news space weekly. G. G. says that he is going to be a sort of liaison officer between the stage and the wireless. He will not even mind being called an "Ambassador" if you like. And then he makes the following statement: "We've quarreled long enough, and it's time for us to make friends and help one another. After all why shouldn't we?" He's going to help the B. B. C. to find artists. In passing it should be remembered that recently the B. B. C. announced it had tested 10,000 artists and had engaged more than 1,000 for future occasions. G. G. thinks his theatrical experience will come in sort of useful here. He admits that the B. B. C. are testing as to the public's requirements and thinks he's the man to find out. Nevertheless whatever the outcome be, the public is distinctly on the side of the B. B. C. and against the theatrical managers and the artists, for not letting them hear the shows for nothing. The engagement of G. G. has made the managers the more frightened because they think that G. G. will organize stock companies for studio work and that will crimp them worse. They wanted the B. B. C. to give a pledge that it wouldn't have any stock companies capable of giving musical comedies over the air route, but the engagement of G. G. shapes toward the end. As for the dramatic end of it we remind our readers how the Manchester station killed Broadway stone dead in that area when he advertised The Butterfly on the Wheel for his Eccles Theater. The B. B. C. paid the royalty thereon and sent it thru the air ahead of him.

Revue and Paucity of Dates

England seems everything that is wrong as regards show business. Many vaude acts out of work, and their name is legion, but we refer to those with a few hundred dollars left, are speculating in revues. Four or five acts get around and throw a revue together. They engage about 8 or 12 chorus girls who can kick a bit and then they have a revue. Their chief difficulty now is to get dates for even these half-baked shows. The reason is that everyone is running a revue and there are more revues than dates. Therefore the hick towns which used to have to rely on the absolute riff-raff shows sit at their ease and pick and choose from the cream of the number two revues which are vacant "Monday next". The various towns which were always known as "production weeks" now play the best of shows, but every manager knows it will be but a matter of how little they will lose on the week's share. The result is that new productions have got to go further and further into the wilds and to produce at villages, we cannot call them "towns", which we have never heard of, let alone visited. Cohoes and such towns are New Yorks by comparison. Everybody thinks that their show is the best, but it seems more difficult to get a "production week" than the regular weeks, because managers refuse to allow shows to experiment their first week's work with them. What a change over the whole scene, and we are wondering what the summer will be like with these shows scrambling for even the smallest village to play in.

Propaganda Songs

You read about that song, Eat More Fruit, set to the tune of Three Blind Mice. Well, they say this is backed by the Fruit Growers' Association and that they have put up more than $10,000 for Lawrence Wright to boost it. We've a big opinion of Lawrie, as we have often written herein, but he sure does get the stuff. Now the fish section has gone one better and gotten a song called Eat More Fish and there is quite a competition in the way of publicity. This latter lot got hold of a discharged soldier itinerant band (we've plenty—real and fake) and quietly posted it outside Wright's office. He saw an opportunity, sent out band parts and got them playing his Fruit song. They did, loudly, and collected some few bucks thereon from Lawrie and the crowd. The moment Lawrie bowed and beamed his acknowledgments, and re-entered his office door, out came the parts of Eat More Fish, to which tune they marched away playing more lustily than ever over their hoax of the showman Wright. Oh these publicity men. Now the butchers are mixing it with Meat, Meat, Meat!

Has the B. B. C. Beat the Managers?

LONDON, Feb. 14.—That's the question most everybody is asking, and there are many and varied replies. It's all very well for some managers to think they can do the ostrich act and, by hiding their head in the sand, think the rest of the world sees or knows as little as they pretend they know. We have a very shrewd suspicion that the B. B. C. men themselves know by now the full facts as to the managerial consternation at the agency and the far-reaching effects the policy itself has had in the ranks of the Theatrical Managers' Association. The only united front seems to be in the ranks of the vaude, artists and the regular vaude managers. Still is adamantly opposed to the B. B. C. and all its works. So is the V. A. F. as regards the installing of a microphone in a vaude house. In this the vaude, artists are in a rather strong legal position. They have the bulwark of their own V. A. F. contract upon which to entrench themselves and the fact that many of their members are selling their own copyright material. Apart from this they have done good propaganda work in instilling into the minds of all and sundry vaude, artists that even tho they were to get $100 for one broadcast the fact that they would have a million or a million and a half audience would soon exhaust their freshness even for the broadcast "spongers". Charles Coburn, of "The Man who broke the Bank at Monte Carlo" fame, was a broadcaster and rather objected as for himself as to the official V. A. F. attitude. The other day he broadcasted from Bournemouth, the South of England, and was very annoyed to find that his act had been simultaneously broadcast right thru to Aberdeen, about 700 miles away. Now he does not like the B. B. C. people.

What It Might Come To

The negotiations with the B. B. C. people have gotten to definite facts, but the radio people seem to have plainly told the managerial or anti-B. B. C. folk that the truce they agreed, not to radio any theater shows while the negotiations were going on, cannot be continued because they have so many offers to radio West End shows that they are getting behind with their business and that, talk or no talk, they must look after their B. B. C. business. That's the spirit that shows the B. B. C. people have the hulk on the anti-radios. These latter seek to get an undertaking from the B. B. C. that they will not radio more than one theatrical show (musical comedy included) every 14 days and that the area be limited if possible to London. It was suggested that this should happen Saturday nights after 9:30. The B. B. C.'s counter to this was that after 9:30 o'clock Saturday night every other station in Great Britain closes down and the whole of the program is S. B. from London. Came then the alternative and that for Friday nights. Here again local stations periodically close Friday nights and carry on from London. So there could be no guarantee as to the exclusion of various areas. The B. B. C. quite possibly will absolutely refuse to give any undertaking to restrict the sending out, but will suit themselves. It must be admitted that the managerial associations are in a cleft stick. So few are the attractions paying London that the men who own the West End theaters are not in the present position to dictate to intending renters that they shall not install a microphone in the theater. They want renters so badly that they are compelled to allow the new man to make his own conditions. That disposes of one section. The next section is that of the West End Managers, of which Andre Charlot was such a shining light and the devil incarnate as an opponent of the B. B. C. He was the fellow who got them all with cross, book and bell to take the theater "Jephthah's Vow" and then he left them high and dry and tied up with all the consequences of their pledges, while he got busy looking after his own shekels. Now these good men finding that they had been sold a pup by Charlot and other members of the West End Managers, and that as they were unable to discipline their own men knew they were up against it as regards nonmembers of the West End Managers. There is nothing to prevent any counterpart of Gaunt of Leeds or Jimmy White of Manchester butting in to the theater game and renting three or four theaters and broadcasting for all they are worth. So, bust goes the West End men. Then upon them and their production depends the Theatrical Managers' Association. That is the section of the provincial bricks and mortar headed by Tom B. Davis. They are properly in the soup. They didn't think so when they took the Charlot oath, but now they say there are not the attractions available and that there cannot be much harm in booking a show of which only a bit had been broadcast. Twelve months ago the show was damned if one tune had been aired. What are we going to do with our theaters even now. There are none too many as it is, and if we debar the shows which are radioed we shall be all the worse off. So they have fallen by the wayside. And then there were none, or at least the members of the Association of Touring Managers who now repudiate their name and call themselves the Stage Guild are but left. "Bo Peep" with her lost sheep was never so scared as the above good folk. They are not so much worried about the B. B. C. but about what their managerial colleagues will do and when the next fellow will "rat" on them.

The B. B. C.'s Last Straw

George Grossmith is the new advisory director of programs of the B. B. C. That put the finish on the poor distraught West End Managers. G. G. had, thru his partner, broadcast Patricia and the Winter Garden's show, and G. G. told the anti-broadcasters that he thought the radio was a fine thing and that if they didn't like his actions he would resign. That resignation stuff is the easiest way out for some of the folk when they want to get rid of a vow. True G. G. wasn't concerned in the oath business. The announcement of this got a great deal of publicity from the press and it's curious to notice how the press is the right-hand booster of the B. B. C. as against show business. It's said this is Viewed another big act breaking in at the Lincoln Theater, that is if the combination may be regarded as requiring any such thing. The fact is that CHARLES JOHNSON, with the Nest Band, so familiar to radio fans and New York dance lovers, featuring GEORGE STAMPER, the dancer, and KATIE CRIPPEN, well-known record singer, was the big draw for the week of February 23, and it is our guess that this will be the last appearance of the act in an independent house for a long time, for it was a wow. It is a combination that Old Man Jazz himself might well be proud of.

Those Valley Deacons of Corner 25 in New Haven are sure sociable. Yes, they held another "snoker" and their officers, GEORGE PICKETT, T. JACKSON, JOHN MOSS and E. BUTLER, invited everyone who spoke the language and happened to be between New York and Boston to attend. The menu included all that goes with a roast beef dinner, including a mysterious something called a "Hickman special". A. B. SIMS, W. F. WILLIAMS and J. M. BOONE, whose names appear on the back of the menu, thus accept some responsibility for the affair.

Now comes RICHARD B. HARRISON, at present on a tour of dates presenting dramatic reading in Virginia and West Virginia. We fear that it is his final tour of Negro college towns, for the New York Federation of Churches has adopted him for service in the 1,800 churches for which it books talent. He is the first of our lyceum artists to be accepted by this, the most important of church entertainment agencies.

The Grace Congregational Church continues its Sunday concerts. The CONAWAY BROTHERS, serenaders; WILLIAM H. HOLLAND, basso; MME. FANNIE BELLE DeNIGHT, reader; GERTRUDE MARTIN, violinist; GEORGE H. ROYAL, baritone, and MRS. BIRDIE FLOWERS, soprano, were the artists who appeared on the Washington's Birthday afternoon program. A special sermon to musicians and performers was the feature of the morning service by the Rev. ALEX. GARNER.

We hear that JOHNNY HUDGINS and his former agent, ARTHUR LYONS, have severed relations and that the agent no longer is interested in the Club Alabama and its revue. This may make some difference in the announced plan to send the Club Alabama group to London April 1.

The Campfire Girls is the name of a group of young ladies who have an excellent program of activities. Met ELOISE RICHARDSON, leader of the local camp, and THERESA WALKER, author of the official song number. Music publishers may well keep an eye on this young lady. She has unmistakable talent.

EDNA MORTON and ARTHUR BRYSON left New York February 22 with the cast of Wildfire on a special car en route to Florida, whence they sail to Cuba to make some scenes at the Havana race track for the feature film in which they have important parts. ROBERT BILLUPS, who was featured in The Giant of His Race film, has a part in the piece. He, however had no scenes that required him to make the trip to the race track. The cast is otherwise a white one, with AILEEN PRINGLE and HERBERT HOLMAN featured. They will spend three weeks in Havana. The film is being made by the Distinctive Company.

FRED WEAVER, the tall Cleftie who has been ill for a few weeks, has gone to Lakewood, N. J., for a six-week rest in an effort to save his voice from the ravages of a bronchial trouble.

BILLY ANDREWS and VIVIAN HARRIS remained in town when the Romany Wild Company closed its engagement in Brooklyn and departed for Utica, N. Y., and points west for the balance of the season.

Oil Scandals is the name of a 25-people combination that FREDDIE JOHNSON has placed in rehearsal in Harlem. No announcement has been made as to the connection, but the fact that IKE WEBER, the burlesque booking agent, has been mentioned in connection with it sounds like a summer run somewhere in a burlesque house.

ARTHUR L. MACBETH, Baltimore photographer who has made lobby photos for many performers and who is the inventor of the daylight movies that will be demonstrated in an outdoor daylight theater now being erected at Tacoma Park, near Washington, D. C., by a corporation that has taken over the exploitation of his patents, was a recent visitor in New York. In an interview he admitted that his visit was occasioned by another invention of a character that would make it one of more general use, tho he declared that the time was not ripe for publicity about it.

The leading attorney of our group in Los Angeles is Mr. Macbeth's eldest son. Another son practices law in his native town. The other children have made equally creditable proficiency in their chosen lines. His wife died when his youngest child was a year old. He never remarried. He applied his spare time to research. Incidentally, he is the only member of our group who is a member of the National Association of Photographers, and he was invited to join out of respect for his talent and ability.

Murray To Manage Park

F. Morris Murray, president of Murray Bros. Printing Company, president of The Washington Tribune Publishing Company and secretary of the Crescent Amusement Company, the concern that operates the Dunbar Theater in Washington, D. C., has been selected by the Universal Development and Loan Company as manager of Suburban Park, the 100-acre amusement resort it owns in the District of Columbia.

Mr. Murray's selection came as a surprise to him, and the officials have given him a two-year contract so that he may have ample time in which to secure effective results with a project that has suffered considerably from lack of proper management.

The new manager is one of three brothers who have grown up in their own

ism. The Actors' Equity Association and similar bodies have their organs, why not the C. A. U.? There is real need for a channel of expression for the views of the organizers.

Members of the union have been called to Washington for a meeting March 18 and the call bears the information that officials of the Theater Owners' Booking Association will be present for the purpose of discussing with the union the matters that pertain to improved conditions on the circuit.

A Case in Point

The following letter is typical of many received by the Page from time to time. This comes from an important address in Michigan on a letterhead that bespeaks responsibility. The letter: "Could you give me the address of _____? I noticed a cut of his band in The Billboard but there was no address, so I thought you might know his whereabouts."

Why is it that not a few of our bands, orchestras, performers and other amusement folks will not see that their addresses are kept before the public? They never think of the future until actually out of work. The idea of encouraging offers while employed does not occur to printing business in Washington, starting with a child's play press. Today they operate one of the most complete plants in the country without regard to race distinctions in describing the business.

POPULAR MUSICAL DIRECTORS

Claude Austin, pictured on the left, is conductor of the orchestra with the "Follow Me" show. He hails from New York and is one of the youngest conductors on the road. In the center is seen Joseph Randall, conductor of the Sunlight Lodge (I. B. P. O. E.) Band of Trenton, N. J., numbering 50 pieces. During the World War he was cornetist with an overseas band. William Malone, of Newark, N. J., trouped with many minstrels and carnivals and at present has a music school in Bristol, Va., and also instructs a school band and the Royal Knights of King David Band at Gastonia, N. C.

They have long been interested in amusement enterprises and once operated quite a chain of film theaters. The dance Casino conducted on the top floor of the building that houses their printing plant is a model of its kind and a highly profitable business in itself.

The park is a well-laid-out and extremely well-equipped property just far enough out of the city to provide an interesting ride for its patrons. It is provided with a scenic railway, dog-dog, aerial swing, merry-go-round, a theater, an unusually large dance pavilion and a number of concession stands and booths. Its fifth season will be opened early in May. Weather conditions will determine the exact date. Personal knowledge permits the Page to predict an honest, efficient and vigorous administration for the park, for we know Morris Murray to have those characteristics in abundance.

Meeting Date Set; C. A. U. Organ

The Colored Actors' Union announces that it will have an official organ, the first issue of which will appear April 1. The journal will be a monthly, called The Actors' Union News, and will be edited by Paul Kennett, traveling deputy, and Telfair Washbretton, secretary of the union. S. H. Indley will be business manager. It will be distributed at five cents per copy. The announcement does not state whether it will be generally distributed or circulated entirely within union circles. At any rate, the appearance of the publication will serve to show that the organization is adopting all of the instruments of proven value to union-them. Wake up and show some interest in your own welfare if you hope to succeed—let people know where to find you!

Performers Charity Workers

Jackson and Taylor, playing the New England States on the Keith Circuit, played Bangor, Me., the week of February 16. It happened that there was a charity bazaar being conducted during the week and the performers participated, each act from the Keith house conducting a booth. Jackson and Taylor operated the chocolate stand and "took top money", $587.65, which, with the whole income of the affair, was turned over to the fund for the old folks' home. The boys received the thanks of the mayor. It was not so bad for a town in which there are virtually no Negroes. Incidentally, the local papers praise their act, Gone With Jazz, in very high terms. Their next stand was Gordon's Central Square Theater, Boston.

An Escape Artiste

N. D. Garrett, a colored man, writes from Texarkana, Tex., sending pictures, press clippings and a letter from the principal of the local school testifying to the fact that he does an excellent escape act. The act confirms what the Page has always declared, viz., that we can duplicate any act or performance offered with at least one Negro act. In most cases even more of any given type can be produced.

The act seems to be fully equipped, it being reported that nearly 700 pounds of baggage is carried.

"Dusty" Cunningham and his Shuffle and Bang combination continue to keep busy in and around Cincinnati.

"Harlem Rounders"

A Remarkable Assemblage of Talent

Despite the fact that the show opened cold and therefore ran over the customary time, the packed house attested to the drawing power of the names billed, and the patrons went away enthusiastically praising Rosamond Johnson, Frank Montgomery and Mr. Burt, the house manager, who were responsible for as good an attraction as ever graced the Lafayette Theater, and one that could with equal grace adorn the stage of the highest priced theater on Broadway.

NOTE—J. Rosamond Johnson composed the following hits: "Under the Bamboo Tree", "Phoebe Brown", "Lazy Moon", etc. Also the following successes: "Shoo-Fly Regiment", "The Hot Moon" and "Come Over Here", produced in London England. Frank Montgomery wrote, staged and produced the following successes: "Hello, Hello", "Dancing Around", "The Broadway Rounders", "The Toy Shop", and staged the dancing numbers in "How Come?" and others.

The name is in a sense a misnomer, for the revue is a clever rhythmic sort of a Cook's world tour, for the 20 principals and dozen choristers with that Rosamond Johnson band give a veritable trip thru the melodies and dances of the world at large. The show is a very definite answer to any who may be of the opinion that colored performers are restricted to any one style or type of work. These people very effectively reproduce the folklore of several lands with the same facility that they "roll dem cotton bales" in a Southern scene.

Scientifically the production is of standard dimensions and quality without any qualifications whatever. There are novelties and surprise effects with proper ties and with electric equipment that contribute much to the evening's splendid pleasures. A running board, an innovation in the house, has been installed. It is too early yet to determine its value, for Harlem is a mixture of conservative church-going folks and the blasé people who like the very latest no matter about the ethics. Which group predominates is hard to say.

A dozen choral numbers and single song offerings, half as many fast dances and the band number, all interlarded with comedy work by Billy Higgins, Ed Peat and Billy Gulfpfort, tell the story.

Minstrel and Tent Show Talk

The Florida Blossoms Show band and orchestra bunch is wintering in Macon, Ga., where they are "gigging" until the show reopens in the spring.

Al G. Coleman rejoined the Georgia Minstrels at Kansas City, Mo., and is proving a valuable addition to the cast on the trip west.

W. A. Chiles, the "zero bass", and Hank Shaw, with two other former Sparks Circus troupers, will tour this season billed as the Silverone Four, according to a letter from Shaw, who has been wintering in South Boston, Va. The Page is of the belief that the title is the property of a quartet well known in standard vaudeville.

"Slim" Merridiath and his wife, Annie Belle, who were with the C. R. Leggette Shows last season, have contracted to open with the L. J. Beth Shows late in the summer. The stork is hovering over their home in Thomasville, Ga., and the team of Merridiath and Merridiath will not function during the early part of the season.

"Sweetie" Walker, Martha E. Barr and "Little Sunshine" Walker, known as the "Sweetie" Walker Trio, closed with the Dixie Steppers and will open the season with the L. J. Beth Shows. "Sweetie" is going to plug a new number of his own, called When You Mess With My Man Your Messin' With a Woman's Man.

Lee Bros. Circus is the title of the former Golden Bros. Show for this season. It is owned by Christy Brothers and has Louis Chase as manager, with Harry Morris in charge of the side show. "Kid" Cottman was engaged to play cello and double with the minstrels, of which he will be the producer. Jeremiah Brabban, tuba player, will again be in the side-show band.

J. C. and Verlin Ewing, residents of Warrensburg, Mo., presented their Strutt-as Minstrel to the home-town folks in mid-February and local papers devoted considerable space to praise of the show. Floyd Halley, Laurel Williams, Gertrude Carroll, Carnell Thompson, Clyde Bennett, Sam Gaines, Glenn Ewing, Henry Washington, Lovine Wilson and Mr. Halley were featured among the 25 who participated. Twenty-two of the number are musicians who double in the band. Young Ewing was once director of the band with the Holtkamp show.

National Association of Colored Fairs Meets

The National Association of Colored Fairs met in its third annual session in the magnificent auditorium of Bailey Park Annex in Norfolk, Va., February 20-21, with Dr. J. H. Love, of Raleigh, N. C., its president, presiding.

Many member fairs and outdoor amusement enterprises were represented in person and by proxy. Dr. Love's address to the association touched almost exclusively upon the practical problems to be worked out for the betterment of the association and the conduct of outdoor amusements.

The educative value of fairs and their opportunity to aid immensely in the creation of better race relations were stressed by Dr. Love. More race concessionaires and exhibitors wherever such is feasible come in for strong recommendation from him. The presence of dice, cards, the greasy pig and all other forms of gambling at fairs and carnivals was strongly censured, and at the president's suggestion the association went on record as looking with disfavor upon any member fair permitting these practices.

The resignation of Mr. Cross, the former secretary, was deplored and the splendid work carried on by his successor, Henry Hartman, was highly commended by Dr. Love.

A lively and interesting round-table discussion on the problems fair and carnival promoters among the Race have experienced and the best way of meeting them ensued, much to the benefit of those present. Ideas were freely exchanged and Dan G. Michaels, of Michaels Brothers' Carnival, of New York, favorably impressed the fair men with his talk.

New York City was selected as the place of meeting for 1925. February 22 is the date, and the association voted to hold an annual ball following this meeting at some prominent hall. Renaissance Casino was tentatively selected. Mr. Michaels pledged the association an immense crowd at its New York meeting. He was chosen chairman of a committee on arrangements and J. A. Jackson of The Billboard has been asked to assist in working out plans.

Among those taking a prominent part in the deliberations of the association aside from the president were Mr. Hartman, the secretary; Mr. Marsh, of Silver City, N. C.; Lieut. Hubert Julian and Dan G. Michaels, New York; Mr. Brown, of Abokile, N. C.; John Bailey of Norfolk; Mr. Epps, of the Virginia Beach Development Company, Norfolk.

All others address JOHN B. CULLEN, P. O. Box 736, Montgomery, Ala.

Cullen's Minstrels With R. & C.

J. B. Cullen's Magnificent Minstrels will again be one of the feature attractions with the Rubin & Cherry Shows. Last season the press and public gave Mr. Cullen credit for having one of the best dressed and framed minstrels under canvas. The top has the appearance of a nice theater on the inside. The first part is done in a nice set, the olio mostly before a street scene, and the last part in a wood scene, with a moonlight back drop. In winter quarters the painter is busy painting new scenery. Mr. Cullen has placed an order with a New York firm for his girls' costumes, and a house in Chicago is making costumes for the men. There will be three sets for each. De Moulin Bros. have the order for the band uniforms. Some new faces will be seen in the lineup this season. W. C. Steward will be back as band and orchestra leader. Talley and Talley, who joined near the close of last season, will return, as will Bob and Ida Collier. "Slim" Marshall also is expected to return.

"A Night in Dixie"

The Cleveland Plain Dealer radio station, WTAM, has on two occasions presented an all-colored artist program under the title of A Night in Dixie, the most recent being February 15. So numerous were the requests for the different artists who participated that the program was repeated on the Monday following to satisfy the demand of the auditors "on the air".

Chauncey Lee and his Club Madrid Orchestra, the American Woodmen Second Regiment Band, Angus Blakely, conductor; The Maxwell Quartet—T. L. Lloyd, J. H. Maxwell, R. C. Rowler and S. S. Davis—Paul Craig, pianist; Nancy Huckabee, soprano; Grace Willis Thompson, soprano; Marguerite Sanford, pianist, and Bessie Brown, lyric soprano, were the entertainers. The publicity The Plain Dealer accorded the group made just about as large a pictorial display of Negro faces as we have ever seen adorn the pages of a daily paper.

Here and There Among the Folks

Jalvan, Oriental entertainer, is resting at his home in Indianapolis after a long period of touring.

Jules McGarr was in Birmingham, Ala., at the Frolic Theater, week of February 16, and last week found him and his show in Bessemer, Ala.

Hazel Harrison, pianist, is in the Southwest. February 23 she was presented under the auspices of Club 17, a Bethel Church subsidiary in Dallas, Tex.

Stimms and Warfield have gone into Plantation Days, Lawrence Dea's tabloid production, for the summer run in Chicago.

Joe Jones sends a post card that indicates he is taking a fishing trip in Florida. We await his next batch of fish stories with anxiety.

"Boots" Hope, distributing his "lies" over the Northern tier of T. O. B. A. theaters, was last heard of in Cleveland, O., at the Globe Theater, appearing with the Mame Smith Company.

The Masons of Washington, D. C., are billing a Masonic Exposition to be held there at Convention Hall the week of March 23. A circus program will be featured.

Olle Burgoyne and her Darktown Strutters Company are touring the Gus Sun Circuit. Harrison Blackburn, the one-man band, and "Kid" Waller are featured in the combination.

Louis Schooler, Donald Lashly and Allen Waite, three of our "boys" in Cape Smoke, which has an otherwise white cast, at the Martin Beck Theater, New York, are all members of Equity.

S. L. Lockett resigned as chief operator and manager for the Woverline Theater, Macon, Ga., and has gone to Atlanta, Ga., to fill a similar position at the Crystal Theater.

Gaille De Gaston has succeeded Emmet Anthony as principal comedian with the Irvin C. Miller Liza Girls Company, now touring the T. O. B. A. Time. The show has been enlarged by the addition of a jazz band and now numbers 25 people.

The Melody Lane Girls, featuring Emmet Seals, Emma J. Mitchell, James Isom, Willie Green, Ediza Daniels and the Five Trouble Makers, are playing dates in Baltimore after a successful tour of Tidewater district theaters.

S. H. Dudley has some nice paper out for the personal appearances he is making with the Real Film, Easy Money, in which the old trouper is the star character. It is a clean comedy, and the tour should be a big draw in any sort of theater.

Word comes from the Bijou Theater, Nashville, Tenn., that Bessie Smith attracted such a crowd on the opening night of her return engagement, beginning February 16, that four policemen were required to keep the crowd in front of the house in order.

I. M. Lawson, Harlem composer and publisher, has launched an extensive campaign of exploitation for his numbers Stack O' Lee, I Ain't Got That Kind O' Man, Cincinnati Dream, I'm Tired of This Married Life, How You Goin' to Tell Me About the Morning News and a ballad called Missing Pleasures. Lawson was a member of the Pork Chop Band, popular in Cincinnati some years ago. It was a group of young musicians, some of whom are now artists of considerable fame, and Lawson is not the least best known.

The National University of Music, of which Pauline James Lee is president, has purchased a new property in Grand Boulevard, Chicago, at a cost of $55,000. The former home of Madam Schumann-Heink, the original home of the school, has been sold to other interests.

Picture postcards and letters from those whom he meets indicate that Joe Jones is living the life of a tourist rather than that of a trouper in Florida. Catching large fish and spending moonlight nights on bridges seem to feature his routine at present.

Madame Rainey, one of the Race's most popular recording artists, and known as "the mother of Blues", opened at the Monogram Theater, Chicago, February 23. She is featuring a six-piece jazz band with her show, which is said to be doing nicely at T. O. B. A. houses.

The Whitman Sisters, a big hit at the Roosevelt Theater, Cincinnati, February 15-21, were held over last week. These famous four entertainers also were a big drawing card in Nashville, Tenn., at the Bijou Theater the week ending February 14.

Andrew Tribble, who has been doing about six weeks in theaters along the Great Lakes, advises that he is headed East. In Detroit, he informs, he felt as if he was in Harlem or on State street, Chicago, having met performers aplenty, including the Gonzelle White act, The Seven-Eleven Company and the Lafayette Players, all of them doing nicely. He played Cleveland, O., last week.

Berean Chapel presented Stephen Stamford, violinist; Edna Taylor, dramatic reader; Blanche Anderson, soprano, and Wilbert Fishera, tenor, February 16, in a program that was very favorably received by a large audience in Philadelphia.

Whitney and Tutt with their Smart Set Company played Kansas City, Mo., last week to good business at the Lincoln Theater. Whitney has the reputation of cultivating more personal friends among laymen than perhaps any other touring performer of the Race. It helps business a lot as he goes along.

"Happy" Holmes, comedian and songwriter, has returned to Boston after a few weeks in New York, where he left the matter of a dispute about royalties from his number, If a Good Man Quits You, Don't Wear No Black, in the hands of Attorney Edward A. Watts, of the firm of Watts and Madison. He is re-assembling a tabloid company in the Hub.

Jimmie Dick, of Dick and Dick, has been ill in Chicago since February 9, and the active little Deacon wants fellow members in Chicago to give him a call to help relieve the tedium. His wife, Octavia, is caring for him. They are stopping at 3427 South State street. Jimmie belongs to several fraternities and the C. A. U.

Charles H. Sullivan, 76 Phillips street, Boston, is secretary of a group in that city engaged in promoting and financing a Negro chorus of 100 voices as a permanent contribution to the musical life of (Continued on page 68)

"Shuffle" Folks Scatter

George E. Wintz closed the Shuffle Along Company at Youngstown, O., February 18, after making a heroic effort to salvage the show so that the people who were engaged by the original operators of it under his title franchise might not suffer. After the show had been abandoned by its original managers, just after Christmas, and had been handled co-operatively by T. L. Corwell and Al. Watts, musical director and stage manager, for two weeks, Mr. Wintz took possession of it at the Globe Theater, Cleveland, O., from which time on he paid salaries, even though the attraction was not earning money enough. He closed it after full notice and saw that the people were all in funds.

Manager Clem Shaeffer went to his home in Cincinnati. Joe Hogemiller went to Kittinging, Harry Cooke, property man, went to Montgomery, Ala. White and Gary went to Cleveland. Brown and Marguerite went to Chicago, where Marguerite's mother is ill. Percy Colson and his wife went to Roanoke, Va. Edgar Martin went to Cleveland. Jeanette Slaughter to Wilmington, O., and little Edgar Conners and the following named people came to New York: Al. Watts, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Winter, Percy Verwayen, Sophie Eillin, Julia Robinson, Everett Brown, Lee Compo, Mary Goodwin and Bobby Holmes. T. L. Corwell is at Toms River, N. J.

It is unfortunate to see the famed title removed from the active list, but the manner of closing is an eternally favorable reflection upon a man who will long be remembered by colored artists as one of the squarest friends the Negro performer ever had dealings with. George Wintz's name will long be regarded as a standard by which to measure business men. In the two years that he owned and Clem Shaeffer managed the Shuffle Along show they made friends and commanded the respect of the whole profession.

Some T. O. B. A. Bookings

According to releases from W. R. Arnold, director of publicity of the Theater Owners' Booking Association, some of the circuit attractions are as follows: Bessie Smith and her unit open at the Frolic Theater, Birmingham, for a two weeks' stay, to be followed by a week in the Frolic Theater, Bessemer, Ala.

The Lafayette Players, No. 2, headed by Evelyn Freer and Edward Thompson, opened at the Booker Washington Theater, St. Louis, March 2. Charles Moore is the company manager.

On the same date the Sandy Burns company plays its sixth engagement at the Palace Theater, Memphis, Tenn., jumping to the Bijou, Nashville, for the week of March 9.

Prof. Riggers' Band

The personnel of the band with which Prof. J. S. Riggers will open the season with Robbins Bros. Circus side show is: Clarence Draper, Cylester McKay, Marcus Addison, Otto Washington, Ed. Duncan, W. P. Williams, Walter Wardell, John Moody, Earl Conway and the professor himself. With the exception of Wardell, who replaced Ed. Fisher, the lineup is the same as last season. Mr. Fisher was obliged to retire because of a paralytic stroke that has incapacitated him, much to the leader's regret.

Vol. XXXVI. MARCH 7. No. 10

Editorial Comment

A VERY significant connecting link has been established between the little theater and the legitimate theater.

In Ithaca, N. Y., a syndicate is said to control all the theaters and will not permit road shows to play there. For some time the people of that town have had to be content with motion pictures for entertainment—and not always good motion pictures at that. This sole form of amusement has not been making a great hit with the theatergoers of Ithaca, but there was no other choice for them so they have had to bear it.

Now the little theater has come to their rescue. One of these groups is connected with the Ithaca Conservatory of Music, where an auditorium seating a few hundred is available. With five professional actors, including an experienced director, as a nucleus, and the entire personnel of the dramatic department at the conservatory to draw from for whatever other talent may be needed from time to time, a stock company has been organized under the auspices of the conservatory for the purpose of producing late Broadway hits and such other plays as may suit the demand of that community.

A similar instance is reported from Monticello, N. Y., where an organization known as St. Peter's Dramatic Society is putting on a show every month and thus giving spoken entertainment in a town where otherwise there would be nothing but motion pictures.

These instances serve as examples of the possibilities of the little theater in the proposed campaign to revive the spoken drama. There are thousands of localities thruout the country that are now closed to legitimate shows but which could operate a community theater with the assistance of a few professional players. They saw a manager's ad and answered it. He might give them $60 or $75. Maybe they wait until the $50 job is gone and the manager doesn't even answer their communication. This is not right.

THE general public cannot be made to judge of what should and what should not be presented on the stage, because it judges according to a double standard. There are many people who, altho they insistently and fervently declare that dirty shows are bad and undesirable for the "general public", will nevertheless go to see such shows themselves.

The producing manager, to do constructive work for the stage, should be to the public what the right kind of parents are to their children. There cannot be good children unless they are managed by their parents, and that statement can well be applied to the producing manager as regards the public.

The majority—vast majority—of people are decentminded, but there are many, as we said above, who look upon salacious shows unfavorably but will go to see them. It is only natural then to

Art and Commercial Nakedness

VERY little has been said, in the present agitation over the cleansing of the stage, about the subject of costumes—or lack of costumes—in many of the musical shows.

Nudity, when it is paraded merely for sensationalism or to entice patronage, can be just as offensive and injurious to morals as can the filthy gutter talk that is dispensed so freely in many of the current plays. It is not such a difficult thing to determine where the line falls between art and commercial nakedness. This line should be established and its observance enforced.

Another subject that has not been taken up in the crusade is the displaying of obscene photographs and posters to advertise shows. While these pictures serve their commercial purpose very successfully, at the same time they do a great deal of harm. Not only do they have a bad influence on the minds of young people, but the big majority of adults consider them distasteful and offensive.

The controversies that frequently arise in the larger cities outside of New York over the decency of the nude displays in certain shows also are bad for the reputation of the theater in general. A show always loses out in an argument of this kind, and, while the attendant publicity may prove profitable, the damage done to the good name of the theater is invariably great. All sins committed by dirty and immoral shows are committed in the name of the theater.

The citizens' play jury, which was revived last week in New York, has ample power to regulate the matter of proper costuming in shows. It also has power to deal with stage business and stage properties, and it should have the same power in connection with objectionable photographic displays. The sooner these powers are exercised the better it will be for the theater.

assume that they will get into the habit of going to those shows whenever they have the opportunity. That probably is what the producers of filth call public demand, or "giving the public what it wants."

One of the duties of the producers is to produce plays that are uplifting—not morally destructive. They should bring their "children" (the theater-going public) up in the right way and by so doing they will be elevating instead of undermining the stage.

CHICAGO actors have voiced a complaint that we believe is founded on solid and sensible ground. A manager, say, advertises for people or for an agent. He gets replies by mail as requested. The person he selects gets the job and the others wait for the answer that they almost never get. Both actors and agents say this is wrong—and it is wrong. A postal with a brief negative on it relieves the mind of the persons seeking the job, and they go and look for another. It is all wrong for a manager to invite replies by mail and not answer every one of them. It keeps many people from taking another job until the very last minute in the hope that this manager MAY have something better for them. Sometimes this wait makes them lose a position which they could otherwise have secured. It is a narrow, selfish and careless attitude for a manager to take. With most of them it is doubtless thoughtlessness. They should be more considerate. Actors and agents are human. They want to do the best they can. They "stand off"

Outdoor showmen in general are optimistic over the coming season, not expecting it to be a record-breaker, but just a good season.

The days of "putting on anything and getting by with it" are over—the public today wants its money's worth in clean and high-class amusement, and if given that and a little more, after being fed up on radio and cross-word puzzles, we believe patronage in good measure will result.

The critical Manchester Guardian says there were but nine film productions of the first rank in 1924: Destiny, Caligari, The Niebelungs, The Street, Warning Shadows, The Thief of Bagdad, A Woman of Paris, The Marriage Circle and Kean. The first five mentioned are German, the next three

It looks like the time is coming when fairs will have a universal system of accounting—at least the big ones. Fair officials are giving the subject deep study.

The objectionable-play producer can see no further than the box office.

The bill for the registration of theatrical employers in England, Albert Voyce declares in The Performer of February 11, is showing progress. "We have long hoped and striven for the day," he says, "when bona-fide managers and artistes would get together for the purpose of promoting an agreed bill for the registration of theatrical employers and at last it seems as if our efforts and patience are about to be rewarded."

The bogus manager is the target of the bill, which has the whole-hearted support of the Variety Artists' Federation.

William Faversham, the eminent actor, gave those producers who peddle filth for the sake of the box office a good lambasting last week in Nashville, Tenn., when he spoke to the Exchange Club there. He referred to them as "the get-rich-quick men monopolizing the profession and producing the most salacious things—things you wouldn't read in the yellowest of journals." He said the theater now is so rotten that he wouldn't permit his own children to go. The stage, he declared, can teach the finest things that can be learned, and he reminded that Booth didn't have to play salacious productions to become famous.

We understand that the parade feature will be conspicuous by its absence around more circuses this year than last. At least we hear that the no-parade idea will be tried out by these other shows and, if no effect on business is shown, adopted.

The daily press thruout the country is agreed that political censorship of the stage is an unwanted quantity. We have in our possession clippings of editorials on this subject, from coast to coast, that would fill 10 pages of The Billboard.

A unique bill was introduced in the Oklahoma Senate recently but didn't go into the records. Framed purely for the laughs it would get, the bill was titled "An act to require motion picture shows to admit at half price persons having only one eye". At that rate blind people would have had free admittance.

To put a little twist to an old saying, "A producing manager is judged by the plays he produces."

THE SHORTCOMINGS OF THE ADVANCE OF THE MOTION PICTURE

By CHARLES M. SEAY

DURING a recent conversation relative to the poor quality of motion picture productions continually being marketed, a well-known actor was heard to remark: "Not long ago I was in a group of producers who were resenting the adverse criticism that is being heaped upon them for making such rotten pictures, and they said right out, 'We make the pictures we want, and we'll make the exhibitor and public take 'em and we'll MAKE THEM LIKE 'EM.'"

Some producers do not make the kind of pictures to suit the better class of audiences, but rather they make the sort that appeals to the level of the lower strata of the theater clientele.

That is the main reason why the screen story and direction have not kept pace with the improvement in photography and the allied arts in the making of photoplays. Why do some producers pay enormous sums for well-known stories and twist their plots all out of shape, destroy their most attractive characteristics, then release the monstrosity under another title? Because they are at no time sure of themselves or their judgment.

"The race is not always to the swift." A man who has the ability to sell himself to an employer is not by any means necessarily the cleverest in his profession. That is particularly true in the motion picture industry. It seems the average producer is of the type "I'm goin' to git mine while the gittin is good," and also the most successful job holders among the picture directors, generally speaking, are men of the same type as far as education and the accomplishment go.

It is not to be held against any man if he has had a humble beginning and rises above it to fame or fortune. But, to be great, he must advance with every forward step he makes with a broader mental vision, a better knowledge of human nature, in development of strength of character and a generous liberal spirit of fellow feeling for those whom he has left behind and those with whom he has caught up. The non-studious type of producer and director has not gone forward and that counts today for the abundance of piffle, cheap tawdriness and coarse vulgarity and lewdness in what is called sex pictures. A great many of the producers are of an exotic mentality, uneducated and entirely ignorant of the Nordic American point of view. Their hiring directors are of the "Yes, sir, boy" model, "we'll git ours while the gittin is good" money grabbers. Upon more than any other individuals the responsibility rests with the producer and director for the quality of the screen product. Money has come to them so easily and being so busy raking it in, they have had no thought of improving their minds with reading, study, or broadening their views with the idea to help improve the photodrama.

A PLAY was written around one of our great men not so very long ago. An obscure actor made an immense hit in the characterization, and the play sprang into popularity at once. The idea could not be copyrighted, and it wasn't long before a wise promoter had a scenario made of the same theme and produced. The director engaged was of about the same mental caliber as the producer. The result of this combination was that it killed all chances for the stage production to be pictureized. After the picture was made it was just an ordinary "movie". A big publicity campaign couldn't save it. The director chosen to put on this historical subject was just a few short years ago a motion picture machine operator in a nickel, then a stage-hand in a motion picture studio, and that was his progress in the industry. All this is nothing against him, but as he did not have the knowledge nor the education to handle such a subject his ignorance was reflected in inaccuracies and the lack of information in the picture, also details, etc., that filled the production.

A lot of publicity has been let loose regarding a well-known and popular story to be produced in Europe. When the director's name was announced a great many threw up their hands in astonishment at the choice. A short while before his advent into the picture game he was a butcher's helper. When the news came not long since that he was to be replaced by one of the few able directors in the business it occasioned no surprise. This exact cutter is of the type that can sell himself, but if it happens to be an intelligent producer he will rarely make the grade.

Another director's name to be seen often on mediocre productions was not long since a wandering street tin-type or photograph maker, who for a few cents was willing to take a picture of any passer-by. His productions are an example of his lack of knowledge and ability.

Another director was a chauffeur, another an office boy, another a property boy, another came to this country as a German spy, another a theater janitor (but sometimes called managers on a theater circuit), etc.

THE MOST successful motion pictures so far have been those of character studies. But the producer in general thinks that the triangle is the real substance of the film drama. Take, for instance, The Birth of a Nation, The Miracle Man, The Four Horsemen, Harold Lloyd's, Mary Pickford's, Fatty Ar- huckle's and Fairbanks's pictures. These are of the character type essentially, and for that reason they have been about the most successful in satisfying audiences and satisfying the producer financially. The technique of characterizing is one of the most difficult arts that perplexes writers, actors and directors. Few, very few, can do it and when one looks to see the class of man who succeeds he will meet such people as the late George Randolph Chester, George Arliss, Walter Hampden, Dave Griffith, George Beban, etc. Pretty insipid faces of young women and their nude figures do not make drama, never have and never will, and until directors and producers come to realize this the photoplay will not go forward. About the first big author's story to be pictureized was Ellis Parker Butler's Pigs Is Pigs, and that was a character study of Mike Flannery, the express company's agent. It was such a hit that, after two years, Vitagraph secured permission from the Edison Studio to make it over with the late John Bunny in the role.

People go to the theater every day in hopes that the picture they are about to see will be better than the last one. But they are very often disappointed, and finally a great many drop out in disgust. Of course new ones come along and follow the same process. But those who do go put money into the producer's pockets and riches has come so fast to them and their directors it has made them dizzy and they have lost all sense of perspective. They believe that it is their inherent ability and super brain power that has placed them so and they will brook no criticism, the psychology of which is, that secretly deep down in their hearts they are not sure of themselves, nor of their prowess.

A MOTION picture director of the "gittin mine" type, will attempt to make a picture of any subject handed him, tho he may be as ignorant of its period or atmosphere as Billy Patterson's bull pup, but his ineffable conceit will say to him in tiny whispers, "Ah, go on; you can get away with it—even if you don't, you'll get yours." Whether it makes money or not he cares little.

As a sample of many instances where the director has little at heart whether the picture he makes is a financial success or not: We know of a man who in all sincerity wanted to see good pictures made, promoted a company and purchased a well-known American author's book—a famous character study—had plenty to make the picture and picked a man, about the best considered to make a production of that type, and secondly because he thought he was a friend of his who would, of all men, give him a square deal. (It is notorious in the film industry "that there ain't no sich an imle.") This director bled the picture, double-crossed his friend, and forced the men who furnished the money to dig up $25,000 more to finish the making, and in the jam the whole thing went blah—but the director got his.

There are some conscientious directors but they are not liked by a large number of producers for the reason they will not lower their ideas to commercialism, and naturally they do not work so often. There are about a half dozen directors of unusual business and directorial ability who can "beard the lion in his den, or a Douglass in his hall," and make good at it.

WE WERE called an idol buster years ago when we made a certain remark about Belasco and the commercial theatrical manager. For that we were almost handed the oyster shells by the peck. Probably you will remember, a few years back this Legion-of-Honor-decorated individual was always just a few laps ahead of the other theatrical producers in the offering of what, at that time, were considered risqué plays, and his artistry was of such exquisite purity that he could never be accused of having an eye on what it would bring into the box office, and as George Monroe, as Aunt Bridget, used to say, "N-n-o-o-o, n-n-o-o-o, far be it from so." For instance, what were Zaza, DuBarry, and a few other racy continental female characters; The Eastest Wau, Kiki, etc.? And now some new-comers in the way of theatrical producers daring to outpander him he jumps a few laps ahead of them with his latest, The Huron and Ladies of The Evening. Now he stands stark before his admirers cleaned and scrubbed of his veneer of "art" and "artistry" and called by the rude critics who know not beauty, a commercial manager who truckles to the lowest moronic mentality and libidinous tastes for the sake of money. How the mighty have fallen, and the critics certainly did help with some awful wallops.

That is exactly the same with the production of pictures. Most picture producers of the commercial type watch their competitors and proceed to go them a couple or so better in putting out something that reeks a little stronger with social garbage. Then little Willie Hays jumps up and cracks his heels together and loudly proclaims it in Gath, "The producers will now, from this time on, make them cleaner and better." Then they make them worse.

Things in the way of public amusements go in cycles the same as the seasons and generations that come and go. They have a start, wax strong, then pass away. At one time the symbols K. & E. in things theatrical were talismans to juggle with. The owners were a power in that world of amusement. Today they are hardly more than a memory. The General Film rose in wealth and power, then it faded out, so have other combinations in the picture game and so will those that are in power now give way for those that are to come. There is a force now quietly at work that will soon be heard and then will come a change in the picture world.

H. G. Wells says in his Outline of History to the effect, "Most men live for themselves only, and the progress of civilization is carried along by a very few who often give their lives to it and seldom receive monetary reward."

WHAT is this non-advancing type of motion picture directors and producers doing for high-class entertainment in the way of worth-while pictures? They are making a willing public dole of money, enthusiasm and its good will simply to fill their own pockets.

The New York Herald-Tribune recently carried a letter from one of its readers relative to a certain picture released at that time. (Strange to say this production carried a title when used as an adjective qualifies the avariciousness of most producers.) The writer objecting to the production's poor quality and uselessness for good entertainment, said, "An official of one of the largest producing companies said to me that only 15 per cent of the American motion picture audiences are intelligent enough to be seriously considered by producers." "We wonder where he gets the standard. If that is true, when occasionally, as really happens, a worth-while picture is made and released, the theaters are filled, packed and jammed, who does it? On that occasion are we supposed to believe the 85 per cent stay at home and the 15 per cent come out? Then, accordingly, it would be more profitable to make entertainment for the 15 per cent all the time. Selah.

When The Miracle Man was first released (there is a wonderful romance regarding its production and showing) several of the mid-Europe, West Asiatic type of motion picture magnates we have witnessed its premiere, and when, during the projection of it, they saw the audience brought to tears by the wonderful story, they asked in astonishment, "Vor vy are dey c-r-ryin'? Vere is de poonch?" You couldn't blame them for they knew not the Carpenter of Nazareth. Yet that is the sort of mentality to a large degree that dominates the motion picture industry in this great United States. Then thousands ask, Why don't they make better pictures?

There are notwithstanding the large ignorant element in the producing game, a few studious, conscientious makers of good pictures, who have the best interests of the industry at heart, and from this small number we get most of what is best in good entertainment in the photodrama. The late Thomas Ince was one of the high-type of motion picture producers, and the American public, the world, and the industry suffered a severe loss in his passing.

Talking Things Over With Kathleen MacDonnell

might otherwise have the life squeezed from them by producers who haven't the courage to keep a play going unless it immediately strikes a sturdy financial stride.

When discussing fashions and apparel for the stock actress Miss MacDonnell said she believed the sports mode was a boon to the actress, as sports clothes were suitable for any day-time occasion—breakfast, luncheon and tea.

"So," said she, "my advice to the young actress facing her first engagement in stock is to take along plenty of sports clothes and hats and at least five or six evening gowns of varying shades, so that if one conflicts with the gowns of the ensemble a substitute may easily be chosen.

"Of course," she added, "it is wise to find out all you can about the program of plays to be given if the engagement is a lengthy one, which information will be a reliable guide in planning the wardrobe. And don't forget the old clothes! There will always be a play in which old clothes will be needed."

It was then time for the first act and we were obliged to say good-by to the adroit lady, who informed that she was "now going on stage to talk William Courtleigh and Gilbert Emery into a state of coma."

COMMUNICATIONS TO NEW YORK OFFICE

Exhibitors Will Learn Why Vitagraph Resigned

New Jersey M. P. T. O. Appoints Committee To Confer With M. J. O'Toole on Matter

New York, Feb. 28.—The M. P. T. O. of New Jersey wants to know just why Vitagraph resigned from membership in the M. P. P. D. A., and is going to take steps to find out. At a recent meeting of the organization at Newark the matter of the concern's withdrawal from Will Hay's organization was discussed at length. Messrs. Selzer, Adams and Rosenthal were designated a committee to confer with M. J. O'Toole, president of the M. P. T. O. A., in an effort to obtain full information regarding the situation.

Another matter which is receiving the attention of members of the organization concerns the State-wide campaign for a liberal interpretation of the Sunday laws, including the right to keep theaters open on Sundays. They are working for the passage of Assemblywoman Carty's Bill No. 65 introduced in the House of Representatives. A hearing on the measure in the near future is anticipated. Charles Hildinger, chairman of the legislative committee, favors an early vote by the assembly in order that the legislators may be put on record with regard to their sentiments for or against the bill.

Another measure pending in the Senate is Bill No. 241, which confers on the board of tenement-house supervisors of the State authority to license and inspect theaters, places of public assembly, etc., in boroughs, cities or towns having a population of less than 10,000. This measure has met with unanimous support from theater owners in the State. The exhibitors would extend the bill to include communities with populations up to 20,000 because of the benefits to be derived. As far as the exhibitors are concerned the matter is in the hands of their legislative committee and Joseph Varbalow, general counsel and legal advisor of their organization. President Selzer urges theater men to communicate with their representatives for the purpose of being recorded in favor of the bill and also to circulate petitions for the signature of their patrons.

Announcement is made that one of the features of the banquet and ball scheduled for the Hotel Robert Treat on March 4 in honor of Mr. Woodhull will be the filming of various scenes of the event. The pictures will be later shown in New Jersey theaters. Eight headline acts from Pantages Circuit will help entertain the crowd.

Changes in Zoning System Are Pending at Cleveland

Cleveland, O., Feb. 28.—Dissatisfied with the present zoning system, the Cleveland M. P. Exhibitors' Association and the Film Board of Trade are considering changes. A joint committee is at work on the matter.

Under the arrangement which has been in operation for the past eight months the basis is the geographical location of each house, the capacity and finally admission prices. In Cleveland Zone A a theater is given 21 days' protection over the last play date. The plan embraces three major zones in the city and 49 minor zones.

Members of the joint committee are: Exhibitors, B. Z. Levine, P. E. Essick, M. E. Horowitz, A. E. Ptak, John Kalafat and Henry H. Lustig; board of trade, J. E. Fontaine, Norman Moray, O. J. Ruyh, J. E. Beck, W. N. Skirboll and C. E. Almy.

Application will be made to list this stock on the New York Stock Exchange, Hayden Stone & Company are handling the issue.

Paramount Films Have Premieres on Broadway

New York, Feb. 28.—Among the new Broadway features this week was The Miracle of the Wolves, which had its American premiere at the Criterion Monday evening before an audience which included notables of both the social and screen world. Although practically all the reviewers agreed that the picture is slow in sections, on a whole the criticisms were fairly favorable. The picture will probably occupy the Criterion screen for about one month, being shown twice daily. Matinee business is weak, but the evening performances are drawing big crowds.

Paramount had a second premiere Monday evening after The Miracle of the Wolves. This film was Thundering Herds, starring Jack Holt and Lois Wilson, which was screened at the Rialto following the regular evening performance.

Business was far from good last week in Broadway houses. The worst flop of the week was The Parasite, Schulberg production, playing the Piccadilly. Taking in $9,100, the house made a new low box-office mark. At the Capitol The Monster managed to gross more than $55,000. The Rialto, featuring Comin' Thru, got more than $18,000, and its sister house, the Rivoli, registered better than $18,000 with The Top of the World. The results were not sufficiently good to merit a second week on Broadway. Playing Dick Barthelmess' New Toys, the Strand made a fine showing, getting more than $33,000. The Last Laugh at the Cameo scored heavily with more than $6,000.

The latest superfeatures made only fair showings. At the Central The Man Without a Country received more than $8,000. Since Sunday the performances have been continuous. Quo Vadis had a take of $10,200 at the Apollo and at the Astor The Lost World maintained a past pace with nearly $13,500. A slight drop in attendance was recorded at the Colony, where Charley's Aunt was on exhibition, the picture bringing in more than $21,000. At the Cohan Romola did less than $9,000 worth of business or slightly less than the previous week. The Iron Horse also suffered a minor relapse at the Lyric, getting a little more than $7,000.

Plan Five Comedy Releases

New York, Feb. 28.—Educational will release five two-reel comedies during March. Twelve single reels consisting of comedy, drama and novelty subjects also will be turned loose. One of the two-reelers is Rarin' Romeo, in which Walter Hiers is seen as Romeo.

and 16 years would be allowed to attend special performances. They would be segregated in a special section of the house in charge of a matron. It would be optional with each community as to whether or not it would adopt the plan. The measure is a combination of bills introduced in past years, altho it incorporates some new features.

Exhibitor Wins Case Against Union Head

Union Had No Right To Injure Business of Theater Which Refused to Unionize

New York, Feb. 28.—A union has no right to injure the business of a theater owner because he refuses to unionize his house, according to a verdict of Justice Callahan rendered recently during a special term of the Supreme Court in Kings County. The case under consideration was Traub Amusement Company, Inc., vs. Macker, etc., the verdict being in favor of the plaintiff.

Following is a summary of the justice's decision:

"The plaintiff conducts a moving picture and vaudeville theater. The defendant Macker is the president of the Moving Picture Machine Operators' Protective Union, Local 306. The theater conducted by the plaintiff is not 'unionized', altho the defendant has from time to time employed members of the union and has never refused to employ an individual because of his membership in the union. It, at one time, made what is known as a union contract with the musicians, and, altho there is a claim that such contract was broken by the plaintiff, proof establishes that the contract was terminated pursuant to its provisions and with the consent of both of the parties thereto. The rate of wages paid by the plaintiff is equal to and in some cases greater than the union rate. The union attempted to force the plaintiff to unionize his theater by employing none in the theater in any capacity unless the individuals so employed were members of the union. In an attempt to force the plaintiff to meet the demands of the union it caused men to patrol the sidewalk in front of the entrance to the plaintiff's theater carrying signs bearing the following inscription: 'This theater is unfair to musicians, stage employees, moving picture machine operators affiliated with the American Federation of Labor.' It also caused to be distributed in the neighborhood of plaintiff's theater literature bearing an inscription similar to that borne upon the placards by men patrolling the sidewalk. That practice was discontinued long before this action was brought to trial. There were no threats, force or intimidations employed by members of the union or on its behalf and the proof does not establish that intending patrons of the theater were approached for the purpose of inducing their nonattendance at the theater. After defendants began these practices the receipts of the theater were materially decreased, the only apparent reason therefor being the practices carried on by the members defendant herein. It is manifest that the only purpose defendant had, and it frankly admits it, in adopting the means thus stated, was to injure the plaintiff's business to such an extent as to force it to employ members of the union. There was no strike. There is not the slightest proof of unfair dealing by the plaintiff with any member of the union. It is not unfair to organized labor. It insists only on employing whoever it sees fit to employ and renews any effort of the union to dictate whom it may employ. The position of the defendant union is that it has the right, if peaceful and orderly means are adopted, to force a compliance with its demands upon the plaintiff to unionize its theater. This position is not in accordance with the view expressed in Hitehman Coal and Coke Co. vs. Mitchell (245 U. S. 229). The rule is as expressed in that case, that if the legal rights of the employer are interfered with to its damage even by peaceable means the act which causes the injury may be enjoined. The defendant had no grievance whatever against the plaintiff. It did not complain of working conditions or the rate of wages paid and it could not complain of plaintiff's failure to employ union help. By its attitude it seeks to force plaintiff to employ none other than members of the union. It should not be allowed to force its demands upon the plaintiff when in attempting to do so it adopts methods which result in injuries to the plaintiff's business (Yablonsky vs. Korn, 205 A. D. 440; Stuyvesant L. & P. Corp'n vs. Reiner, 110 Misc., 257, aff'd 192 A. D. 351; Auburn Draying Co. vs. Wardell, 227 N. Y. 1). It appears here that the plaintiff has suffered a substantial loss of receipts which can be attributed to no cause other than the acts of the union. Plaintiff may therefore have judgment. Defendant's proposed findings passed upon."

Exhibitors Represented at Perkins Bill Hearing

Washington, Feb. 28.—During the past five years writers of stories for the screen were paid more than $11,000,000 by 5 of the 75 producing companies, according to witnesses who testified before the House Patents Committee at a hearing this week. The witnesses were brought in to refute charges that the movie men have been throttling American writers and using their works without adequate compensation. Their testimony was given in connection with a discussion of the Perkins Bill advocated by the League of Authors, Composers and Publishers. The measure would revamp the copyright laws to benefit the persons in these professions.

The injurious effect the changes would have upon the motion picture industry were outlined by Gabriel L. Hess, Arthur W. Wells and Louis E. Swartz, representing the exhibitors of Michigan, North Carolina, Kansas, Texas, Illinois, Indiana and Minnesota. Hess denied previous statements that the picture makers take whatever they want in the way of stories for remodeling into photoplays. In addition to the expenditure of more than $11,000,000 a large sum went to pay the salaries of staff writers, he told the committee.

Producers Will Co-Operate in Use of Tax-Free Music

New York, Feb. 28.—Several motion picture producers have agreed to cooperate with the M. P. T. O. A. in the use of tax-free music in the preparation of sheets sent to exhibitors, according to a letter which has just been sent out by President M. J. O'Toole to certain producers and distributors who did not make conclusive reply to his first communication concerning the matter. "We believe that there is a sufficient supply of tax-free music to meet all demands," the letter says.

Continuing the communication reads: "We suggest if it appears absolutely necessary in any instance for your cue sheet makers to use any taxed music that you clearly indicate the same by the word 'taxed' after or before the name of the composition in question so that theater owners will be able to distinguish the taxed from the non-taxed music and can then refrain from using the taxed music and make the necessary substitutions with the tax-free music."

New Oklahoma Producers

The Arrowhead Motion Picture Company is the proposed name of a producing organization now being formed at Muskogee, Ok. A charter naming the capital stock at $50,000, with $25,000 paid in cash, will be applied for at once. James G. Youngdeer has been named as general manager.

The Palmetto Man is the title of the first picture to be made by the company. It will be six or seven reels. Senary In Osage County, Ok., is declared to be desirable for making outdoor pictures.

Sunday Bill Hopeless

Philadelphia, Feb. 28.—If the Voltz Bill passes the Pennsylvania Legislature Philadelphia will partially at least forsake its love for blue laws. The measure pending would permit Sunday motion pictures, musical concerts, dramatic performances, baseball, football and other outdoor sports. It would put the question up to the voters of each county, and, if approved, would authorize the authorities to issue permits for the diversions mentioned. Incidentally there is no concerted effort on the part of the exhibitors to support the bill.

REVIEWS

"Salome of the Tenements"

Paramount

Salome of the Tenements will never create a sensation, altho it will undoubtedly prove a fair picture from the view of the box office. It brings to the silver sheet Jetta Goudal in her initial starring venture, and the performance she presents is a creditable one. The film also introduces to moviegoers Godfrey Tearle, brother of Conway Tearle. Mr. Tearle possesses starchy dignity, but practically nothing else that the camera can discover. He is grossly unlike his capable brother.

The story is about Sonya Mendel, reporter for a Hebrew newspaper in New York's Ghetto, who succumbs to the masculine beauty of John Manning, wealthy settlement worker, when she goes to interview him. She invites him to call at her humble abode and then foolishly signs a note for $1,500 in order to get $200 to purchase furnishing for her room. Payment of the note is contingent upon her marriage to Manning. Well, the anticipated marriage takes place and then trouble (but not of the domestic species) begins. Banker Ben, pawnbroker and money lender, sees the culmination of his unscrupulous career approaching providing something does not restrain Manning from his campaign to clean up evildoers in the district. He informs Sonya that he will tell all unless she pays the note. She goes to his place of business, and when other measures (including vamping) fail she attempts to steal the paper. Caught by Ben, he threatens her with arrest and exposure, and as a preliminary calls her husband. Like a true and noble hero Manning turns the tables by threatening the moneylender with arrest for blackmail. Fines.

It's difficult to imagine grasping Banker Ben tearing up a check for $1,500. If you would believe the script he would rather take a chance at getting the cold cash, altho the chance was thin. On the other hand the detail work in the picture is faithful to the real thing and many of the subordinate characters are true. The photography isn't bad.

Ethel Tenenholz resembles a burlesque show comedian in portraying Banker Ben. Other players are Jose Ruben, Lazar Freed, Irma Lerner, Sonya Nodell, Fannie Weintraut and Nettie Tobias. Sidney Olcott directed the film, based on the novel by Anzia Yezierska.

"Playing With Souls"

First National

Unreality in plot has a ruinous effect upon Playing With Souls, First National production, starring Buster Collier, Jacqueline Logan and Mary Astor. The characters do not convey a sense of conviction. The only real "kick" in the story comes near its conclusion when the mother finds out that the young chap she has become interested in is her son. Playing With Souls, despite its good box-office title, won't bring in much business.

Matthew Dale and his wife, Amy, separate, placing their boy, Matthew, Jr., in a school. Altho he receives his checks regularly his parents never visit him. When he becomes a young man Matthew tries to locate his mother and father and upon failure to do this dedicates himself to going to the devil. While on this venture he meets Briceotte, a young lady of questionable character, who works thru the medium of Parisian cafes. About this time the boy's dad reappears in the picture to expose the character of the gold-digging beauty, altho he does not disclose his identity. But the youth continues to travel unhalloved ways and finally becomes acquainted with an American woman at a gambling place. She turns out to be his mother, who is still seeking amusement and endeavoring to keep young. Again the father attempts to put his son back on the straight and narrow path, but Matthew votes in favor of the river. His father jumps in and pulls him out. The bath apparently has the effect of a miracle, as it reforms the boy and sends him back to England to marry the sweet little girl he left behind him. The parents then provide the long-pending explanations.

In playing Matthew Buster Collier has a tendency to become too theatrical. Mary Astor has a brief part as his temporarily abandoned sweetheart. Jacqueline Logan is splendid as the French edition of a gold-digger. Included in the cast are: Olive Brook, who plays the father with excellent restraint; Belle Bennett, Jessie Arnold, Don Marion and Helen Hoge. Ralph Ince directed the film, which has commendable camera work.

"Parisian Nights"

F. B. O.

Parisian Nights is a F. B. O. film which parades all the stereotyped characters of the Paris slums, but, nevertheless, manages to prove fairly entertaining. The story itself is dusty, but the acting is sufficiently good. The picture has a moderate box-office appeal and probably a better influence than that in the smaller communities.

sculptress living in the French capital, is robbed by Jean Ballard, notorious apache, but when the police apprehend him she informs them that he is her model. Lacking inspiration for a piece of statuary, she sees possibilities in the polished thief. There is bad blood between the Panther faction of the apaches led by Ballard and the Wolves, captained by Pierre. This breaks loose when the latter murders one of Ballard's cronies and a scrap ensues in a cafe. With Ballard and Adele as prisoners the Wolves escape to their headquarters. Preparations are under way to brand the apache Beau Brummel when the police make their appearance and stimulate a battle. Marie, who is in love with Ballard, but who, thru jealousy, caused his downfall, repents and cuts the victims loose. They escape by making a spectacular dive into the river just as the police artillery crumbles the building. There is a love ending for Adele and Jean.

Elnine Hammerstein does Adele gracefully, aided by her beauty. Lou Tellegen, who seems to be becoming an official screen apache, is Jean, the role giving him an opportunity to further glorify manhood and to do some acting and more fighting. Gaston Glass, William J. Kelly, Boris Karloff and Renee Adoree are other members of the cast.

Paramount

European-made spectacles are frequently weakened by complicated, unwieldy plots and too many characters, and The Miracle of the Wolves is no exception to the rule. It is not a picture for an exhibitor to book with the idea of tilling his house. It is too slow-moving to appeal to American audiences, especially outside of the big centers of population.

The first half of the film is devoted to a long-winded process of introducing the too-numerous characters and fixing a background for the story, which is historical in nature. Action makes its bow just before intermission, when a medieval battle is staged in impressively realistic fashion. The last section of the picture is more in accord with American tastes, with another huge battle scene in which a pack of starved wolves protect the heroine from her pursuers, finally attacking the soldiers to their destruction. The titles are often ineffective, but the photography is excellent and sometimes exquisite. Two extra-fine characterizations are given by Charles Dullin as Louis XI, the scheming king of France, and Yvonne Sergay as Jeanne Fouquet, the female lead around whom the love story is built. The rest of the acting is only commonplace.

When King Louis plans to bring about the unity of his nation he arouses the anger of the feudal lords and clergy, who unite to oppose him under the leadership of Charles the Bold, of Burgundy. Robert Cottereau, upon finding that his love for Jeanne Fouquet has more chances of success under the Burgundian regime, allies himself with Charles the Bold. The war saps the strength of the King's forces and he goes to Charles to arrange a peace treaty. There he is accused of stirring up a revolt against the noble, who threatens to execute him unless evidence is produced to nullify the allegation. A messenger is dispatched to bring back a paper substantiating the King's story. He is killed by the followers of de Chateaufort, an aspirant for the hand of Jeanne, and she is also pursued. Then comes the scenes in which she is saved miraculously by the wolves and in which the animals battle with de Chateaufort's men. These pictures are realistic to a horrible degree. Concluding the story is the siege of Carcassonne when Jeanne, like Joan of Arc, leads the townspeople in an attempt to repel the Burgundians. The arrival of the King's horsemen saves the beleaguered city and Jeanne is united with Cottereau. Raymond Bernard directed the film.

"The Trail Rider"

Fox

The Trail Rider is a good, entertaining Western which brings the congenial face of Buck Jones to the screen again in a Fox production. Buck does his comedy and drama alike cleverly and receives effective support from Lucy Fox. The plot makes no pretext of being logical, however.

The story relates how Tex Hartwell, itinerant cowpuncher, wanders into town and is engaged as a guard to keep a herd of infected cows off a certain range. The opposition trusses him up, however, and drives its cattle on the restricted area. Buck's employers accuse him of complicity with the villains and force him to stampede the herd, but his efforts only make matters worse as the cows scatter over the range. Altho he is a downright failure in this task, he succeeds in rescuing pretty Fanny from the stampede. When Buck returns to town he learns that his boss is out running for him. When they meet revolvers flash, Fanny stops a bullet intended for Buck and the villain stops one intended for him. The boss comes out alive to learn that Buck was playing the game straight. There is an element of surprise in the ending of the film when the cowpuncher states his love for Fanny after previously giving you the impression that he was absorbed in another girl.

W. S. Van Dyke directed the picture, which contains beautiful exterior shots. Reginald Lyons is the cameraman. In the cast are Nancy Deaver, Carl Stockdale, Jack MacDonald, George Berrett, Jacques Rollens and Will Walling.

"The Range Terror"

F. B. O.

Mediocrity is the keynote of The Range Terror. The cast is poor and the story showy. Whatever thrills were intended simply fail to register.

This F. B. O. production, one of the Texas Ranger series, depicts the fatally wounding of a young chap with more money than discretion, Speed Meredith, of the Texas Rangers, who chances on the case, takes up the trail. In preventing a stage holdup he meets the deceased's sister and together they plan to capture the murderer and thief. Suspecting the proprietor of the town cafe, the girl fascinates him thru her dancing. The ranger stages a card game as part of his scheme, and when he identifies the saloon keeper as the murderer thru a partly missing finger a fight follows and the villain escapes. Subsequent events include a fire which destroys the cafe, a fight between Meredith and the killer at the top of a cliff, the killing of the cafe man by the dead boy's dog, the capture of the girl by two henchmen of the bad man, and her final recovery.

William James Craft directed the picture, which is in five reels. In the cast are Bob Custer, Thais Valdemar, Henry J. Hebert, Claire de Lorez, Boris Bullock, Bob Mack, M. Morante, Tom Sharkey and Alaska, dog.

"New Lives for Old"

Paramount

Paramount scores a bull's-eye in its production of New Lives for Old, starring Betty Compson, with Wallace MacDonald, Theodore Kosloff and Sheldon Lewis. In every detail the enterprise is laudably handled. The story is good inasmuch as it forgoes the temptation to travel popular therofores and the acting leaves nothing to be desired. Many of the bouquets should be addressed to Clarence Badger, who directed the picture.

Olympe, notorious Parisian cafe dancer, meets Captain Hugh Warren when American troops are billeted at her aunt's home. When he leaves for the front she returns to Paris and subsequently becomes a spy to detect a leak thru which information is reaching the German lines. De Montinbard is the suspect she endeavors to fascinate. Learning that certain valuable papers are to be transferred to a messenger she impersonates the courier and tries to intercept them at De Montinbard's apartment. The real messenger appears, however, before she can make her exit and she is made a captive. The German spy escapes with the information. An allied airplane brings down the one carrying the messenger and so the papers do not reach their destination.

Upon learning of Olympe's association with the Hun secret service agent Parish brands her as a traitor, and in order to avoid complications the French intelligence department arranges her "death" and "burial". After the war she again meets her dashing captain and, following their marriage, they go to Washington, D. C., to his home. There De Montinbard turns up again as the fiancé of Warren's sister. Olympe tries to prevent the wedding by bribing him with her jewels and the scene is interrupted by Warren's mother. The situation is relieved by the appearance of French intelligence officers to attend to the former spy. Revelation is then made of the fact that Olympe was a secret agent for France and that she is to receive a decoration for her efforts. These explanations permit Warren and the ex-cafe dancer to find happiness and to receive the whole-hearted approbation of mother and father. Betty Compson is alluring and fascinating. She entices your attention and refuses to let it go. MacDonald does excellent work as Captain Warren, and Kosloff is a smooth villain. Other faces screened are: Jack Joyce, Margaret Saddon, Joseph Dowling, Helen Dunbar, Gale Henry, Marvel Quivey and Ed Faust. This will be a good picture for exhibitors to sign up.

"Grass"

Paramount

To the Persian tribe of Bakhtiari grass is symbolic of life. Without it the flocks and herds will perish and the people suffer a similar fate. Therefore, Grass is thoroughly appropriate as the title of the Paramount film, which is a penetrating epic of the tribe's migration in the face of unbelievable hardships to a land where existence is possible.

Altho Grass has some characteristics common to a news reel inasmuch as it is not fiction and records a "news event", it would be nearly libelous to describe it as such. Three intrepid Americans, including a woman, accompanied the tribe in its journey in quest of grass and their camera chronicled the extraordinary story. The film shows the tribesmen, their women and belongings, setting out on a migration which recalls to mind wanderings of Biblical days. They grimly face the perils of the wastelands. A swirling river does not prove a barrier, altho lives are the toll for crossing. A snow-blocked mountain cannot be an obstacle, whatever perils it holds. Their destination in a valley where there is life-giving grass in abundance.

Paramount publicity describes the picture as the Persian Covered Wagon. Even this description is perhaps modest, for the film grips you far more than this basis of comparison. It is not an artificial product of the studio; it is human. The picture could have been made more interesting for the average movie fan had a love theme or plot of action been written into the title, altho perhaps this would have been desecration. However, it ought to be cut somewhat, as in its present form it tends to drag as the conclusion approaches.

I regret to express the opinion that Grass will never be known as a box-office attraction. It is one of those splendid but unfortunate films which cannot be appreciated by the great mass of moviegoers.

"Daddy's Gone A-Hunting"

Metro-Goldwyn

As a matter of simple addition, an almost action-devoid plot plus two slow-motion stars is bound to produce a draggy picture. This is what happens in Metro-Goldwyn's screen idea of Zöe Akin's stage play. Both principals, Alice Joyce and Percy Marmont, are able enough, under circumstances which make them characters of a dreamy, pastoral nature. But to couple them with a vehicle of caterpillar speed only serves to accentuate their lack of spirit and to insure an audience of a horose exhibition.

The film gets away to an interesting start thru a somewhat novel introduction of the principals. They gaze upon each other thru a hole which is being burned in a newspaper Julian is reading. A whirlwind courtship follows and then the ultimate conclusion—marriage. But Julian in a painter who lacks inspiration, and to obtain this necessity he goes to Paris, where he finds mostly wine, women and song. When he returns home in company with a Latin Quarter vamp and a Latin Quarter scamp (the latter played humorously effectively by Ford Sterling) his affection for his wife is dead. Their separation ensues. Edith, the wife, is wooed by Greenough and nearly induces her to marry him when her baby daughter is fatally injured. The death goes to bridge the gap between Julian and Edith.

Julian's second awakening of love does not carry conviction with it. Sunken as low as he is portrayed, with absolute indifference to his wife and daughter, it

Going To Her Film Debut. New York Woman, 85, Dies

New York, Feb. 28.—While waiting for an automobile to take her to see the first motion picture she had ever appeared in Mrs. Fannie Weintraub, aged 85, and an inmate at the Home of Old Israel, died suddenly of heart failure recently. Sidney Olcott, in searching for types for his story of life in New York's Ghetto, had selected her. She had been making daily trips to the Long Island studio to do a character role.

Film Exploitation

Francis M. Kadow, of the Mikadow Theater, Manitowoc, Wis., recently used his house organ to conduct a contest to exploit The Thief of Bagdad. Prizes were offered for the best advertisements written by his patrons to describe the film.

Another huge electric sign has replaced The Ten Commandments ad on the front of the Criterion Theater, New York. The new one exploits The Miracle of the Wolves.

A large cutout of a society woman was exhibited over the lobby of the Modjeska Theater, Augusta, Ga., recently in connection with the showing of Sinners in Silk. J. L. Shields had to secure a special police permit in order to carry out the stunt.

In bringing North of 36 to the attention of Birmingham, Ala., movie fans D. Roscoe Faunce, of the Strand Theater, displayed a "covered wagon" in the lobby. A cutout of Lois Wilson was placed inside the wagon.

Guy V. Kenimer furnished two large department stores in Jacksonville, Fla., with pay envelopes the week before he played Gloria Swanson's Wages of Virtue at his Arcade Theater. On them were printed: "Here are your wages. See Gloria Swanson's Wages of Virtue at the Arcade next week." Previously, in exploiting Miss Swanson's Her Love Story, Kenimer conducted a bobbed-hair contest.

Scenes for The Modern Girl, a locally written film play, were shot on the stage of Poll's Majestic Theater at Bridgeport, Conn., recently as an exploitation stunt in connection with The Golden Bed and another feature. A cast of 16 amateurs was used, a scene being filmed at each evening performance. Credit for the scheme goes to Morris Rosenthal.

A 24-sheet crossword puzzle helped exploit a film recently at Los Angeles. When deciphered the puzzle informed the public as follows: "Barbara La Marr in Sandra coming soon, California Theater."

Scenarist To Produce

New York, Feb. 28.—Frances Marion is going to try her hand at producing as well as scenario writing. Her pictures will be released thru Producers' Distributing Corporation. Miss Marion will make two productions for release in the fall. Both will be filmed at the Hollywood studios.

Miss Marion is not only the writer of more than 20 big successes, but is also experienced in the directorial field. She directed as well as wrote the Mary Pickford production, The Love Light, and the Cosmopolitan picture, Just Around the Corner.

Postpone Rennie Case

New York, Feb. 28.—James Rennie, husband of Dorothy Gish, and Charles H. Duell, motion picture producer, who brought injunction proceedings against Lillian Gish to prevent her from acting, will not meet in court until March 11. Duell alleges that Rennie met him on the street and threatened to "get" him. By mutual consent the case was continued when it was called in the Yorkville Police Court Wednesday.

Colored Star on Tour

S. H. Dudley, colored theater magnate and one of the earlier group of stars of his race, is making personal appearances with the film Easy Money, a production by the Reel Company that was filmed a few years ago with Dudley as the featured comic. While it is an excellent money-making project, Dudley apparently is gratifying a desire to troupe some more for old-time's sake.

Casting Director on Radio

New York, March 2.—The manner in which screen players, from stars to extras, are hired will be related tonight by Charles Walton, motion picture casting director, over the radio from station WGBS. Dorothy Herzog, movie critic of The Mirror, will talk on her preferences and prejudices at the station Wednesday at 3 p.m.

News Notes for Exhibitors

Nearly 1,000,000 people paid admissions of 50 cents, $1 and $1.50 to see The Ten Commandments, which closed at the Criterion Theater, New York, February 21 after 855 performances. The picture played at San Francisco and Cleveland for eight weeks, for five weeks in Detroit, Washington and Cincinnati, and for four weeks in St. Louis and Kansas City. Movies in Education is difficult to believe that the child's death would make a new man out of him, in playing Julian, Percy Marmont makes the role as colorless as the script provides. Miss Joyce, with her hair looking very unbecoming, at times becomes over-theatrical. Others in the cast are Virginia Marshall, Helena D'Alky, Holmes Herbert, Edythe Chapman, James Barrows, James Macelherm, Martha Mattox, Charles Crockett and Kate Toncray. The subtitles are poor.

That motion pictures are being used more and more in modern American education, was the declaration of speakers before the National Academy of Visual Instruction, which held its convention in Cincinnati last week.

Daddy's Gone A-Hunting is a Frank Borzage production. It will not prove a good box-office picture. Small city and country picture fans will be especially bored by it.

A Platform Pioneer

I have just received a letter from my old friend, W. S. Culp. The letter was not intended for publication, and I hope I shall not violate any confidence in reproducing it. It contains some fine information, and is withal so modest and to the point that I shall take a chance and insert it just as it is written. For a lecturer to remain for 11 years with one bureau is such an eloquent testimonial of a man's true worth, reliability, temperament and mentality that that fact alone is worthy of comment. I followed Dr. Culp in 200 or more towns in the South in 1920, and everywhere the verdict was the same—a fine man with a great message. After all, it is faithfulness and conscientious daily effort to be worthy of a trust bestowed that counts for most upon the platform as in almost every other walk in life. I have known many a man with brilliance, phenomenal talent and unique platform ability to lose out at the end of the season, simply because his temperament and his faithfulness were not equal to his other qualities of mind. W. L. Radcliffe has been fortunate in securing the co-operation of a man of Dr. Culp's temperament, and Dr. Culp has been equally fortunate in being able to work with a bureau of such broad vision and genuine desire to serve as the Radcliffe chautauquas.

The letter follows:
 "Dear Mr. Flude:
 "I want to thank you for the little introduction card you recently sent me for your hotel, and shall use it the first opportunity I have to remain in Chicago over night. I shall see you also, I hope, when the time comes. Next week I will open with Radcliffe at Palatka, Fla., and begin the second half of 11th year with him. We open the 15th. I will go to Washington about the middle of next week, and will remember to send you a program of the three circuits opening so that you can make a note of it if you wish. When we closed last October he had 200 more towns than at the close of the circuits the year before, and they have booked many towns since October. So many, in fact, that they are talking of another long circuit. His business never was more stable than now.
 "In a former letter you asked me for a picture for The Billboard, but at that time I did not have on hand an extra print. I am mailing you one under separate cover.
 "If at any time there is any information you want and will write me, I will be glad to advise you. I want to keep in touch with you, for the old friends are passing, and many of the new I do not know. Being deprived of the I. L. A. meetings, I am not able to meet them. I hope that next fall I can attend.

 "Yours very truly,
 "(Signed) W. S. CULP."

R. B. Morningstar has been filling a number of lecture engagements in Oklahoma, as well as looking after his regular booking business. His success down there was most gratifying to him. Some of the best written and most flattering newspaper writeups I have seen were the result. He has been rebooked at a number of places.

People of the Platform

Harold E. Banta, Entertainer

Mr. Banta makes use of "make-up" character sketches and cartoons. He also includes some effective parables in his programs. It is said that his programs are a happy combination of musical, dramatic and crayon art. He is being handled by the Hewitt Bureau.

Marko and Company

All of us are just superstitious enough to enjoy a good magician, no matter whether we are 7 or 70. It is doubtful if any form of entertainment is more universally popular. From darkest Africa to most enlightened America all peoples flock to see the magician display his "bag of tricks". It is always interesting to watch and see if one cannot "discover how it is done", and to catch the man of mysteries in a fumble.

Marko and his assistant show their cleverness many times over, and prove again that the hand is quicker than the eye, in some of the cleverest sleight-of-hand and illusions seen in years. Not only is Marko a clever illusionist but he is a delightful entertainer, and his original line of comedy keeps his audience holding its sides as it sits openmouthed watching his tricks. His is a program of clean fun and mystery—one to be enjoyed by old and young alike.

This company has been with Redpath for two seasons.

Tiffany Male Quartet

The report comes to me that the Tiffany Male Quartet, substituting in the South for the California Male Quartet, is more than merely a satisfactory substitution. It has an unusually well-balanced ensemble. It is with the Federated Bureau for the coming season, and has a fine circular issued by King, and presents a well-balanced program.

There was some criticism at the I. L. C. A. in regard to the Elias Tamburizza Serenaders. I did not hear them there, but had heard them before in a two-hour program presenting everything from Yes, We Have No Bananas, to Liszt's Hungarian Rhapsodie. I was satisfied that there was so much real musicianship there that the I. L. C. A. program was not a fair test. As a matter of fact, we all know that it is 100 per cent harder to make good at the convention program than before any other audience. This company has been out this winter with the Federated, and reports are coming in regularly of 100 per cent, and the feature is already rebooked by the same bureaus for next season. I am glad to report this, for I knew they had it in them. The company is composed of Jugo-Slav musicians who have played together for years, and present their programs with precision and real musicianship.

I have just picked up the beautiful circular of Robert O. Bowman. There is really no need of my mentioning him here, so well known is he to American audiences and platform people. But I am putting him in here merely as a bit of recognition to a genuine platform artist. Bowman graduated from the University of Wisconsin, has been a member of the I. L. C. A. since 1908, and has given more than 3,000 programs before the American people. I believe that the greatest proof as to his bigness is his selection of characters from Our Imported Americans, and the sympathy, the understanding and the affection with which he delineates the distinguishing features of the foreign born. He is not the mimicry of ridicule. Bowman never laughs at anyone. There is plenty of cleverness—yes, but bigger and better than cleverness is the love of the man himself for the character he creates.

Edgar Bergen, ventriloquist, magician and cartoonist, has just been routed in vaudeville with a young lady partner. Bergen was one of the big numbers on the Redpath Seven-Day De Luxe Circuit for two seasons.

Musieland, the girls' singing orchestra assembled from the Lyceum and chautauqua field last year, has been on Broadway, New York, most of this winter. It is still going strong in vaudeville. Those who knew the French Sisters in the Lyceum field will sympathize with them in the recent loss of their mother. The other members of the act are Pauline Dopheide, Audrey Ove, Helen Church, Goida Horne and Katherine Forbes.

Dean Roscoe Pond, of the Harvard Law School, who has recently been called to the presidency of the University of Wisconsin, is lecturing in the East upon Law and Public Opinion.

Real Riches

The following short poem by Galen Starr Ross is copied from a recent issue of The Unity Messenger:

There is a world within each of us
 Which holds life's rarest treasure,
 It's not a place for worldly things
 But the secret home of joy's full measure.

Many seek it all in vain
 And fail to find true pleasure,
 Because they think it's made of things
 Instead of thoughts and feelings tender.

A few there are who know its worth
 And prize it as they should,
 While selfish men o'er all the earth
 See nothing in it fine or good.

Yet true happiness knows no other place
 Except the house of joy within,
 And those who find it in life's race
 Have won the richest prize there is to win.

Acme Buys Midland

I mentioned last week that the Midland chautauquas have been taken over by Mr. Rupe, of the Acme Bureau, of Des Moines, Ia. Nelson Trimble, of the Midland, has sent out a mimeograph letter explaining the deal. It is a reproduction of a letter sent his brother, and I am copying part of it, as it is interesting news matter. It says:

"When I wrote you the other day about that block of towns we expected to buy, I did not think I would be writing you again so soon about the same subject.

"It turned out this way:
 "The manager who offered these towns to us sold them shortly after to W. S. Rupe, of Des Moines. Still hoping, we asked Mr. Rupe to talk with us as he passed thru town. He came, but placed such valuation on the contracts we could not decide to take them. At the close of a long conference he still held them at too high a figure for us to buy and deliver at a profit. Finally I said, in fun and half earnest:

"On the square, W. S., you want too much for those towns. We do not hold our High-Grade Midland Contracts any higher than that."

"He came back by offering us the outside limit for our towns, and we will end by selling when we expected to buy. We will take his offer, because it gives us our circuit profit now instead of waiting until next August or September. We are thus 9 or 10 months ahead by one day's work.

"It may occur to you that we will lose by not being able to renew during chautauqua. It looks that way, but circuit booking is coming to be nearly as expensive as 'cold' booking. Then our towns cover twice too much territory anyhow. At the close of circuit booking we have towns recontracted all over the wide scattered field, and even after filling in the route the jumps are too big, while on the other hand Mr. Rupe already has towns on his other circuits that will break the jumps for him.

"When we square around again to do chautauqua and festival booking we will confine it to a much smaller zone. We have thus been able to shrink our territory at a profit instead of a loss. It looks like I can get a rest this summer from chautauqua, after 11 consecutive seasons of responsibility.

"Cordially, your brother,

"(Signed) NELSON TRIMBLE.

"P. S.—Since writing the above letter I have sold my entire stock and interest in Myers and Trimble to my partner, Robert L. Myers. When you reply you better address me at my residence, 7646 South Shore Drive, Chicago."

Mrs. Annie Russell Marble, of Boston, lecturer in the Division of University Extension, Massachusetts Department of Education, is presenting a series of lectures in that State on Analysis and Discussion From the Lectures of the Nobel Prizes in Literature. The Nobel Prizes in literature have been acquired by representatives of 13 races within the last 24 years and have been granted to those "who have contributed most materially to the benefit of mankind." The prizes are given annually by the Swedish Academy at the discretion of a board of judges consisting of 18 members in memory of the founder, Alfred Bernard Nobel, inventor of dynamite and other chemical compounds. The amount of the award is $40,000 and is distributed as rewards to the older authors rather than as an incentive to the younger writers. Nationality consideration does not prevail.

Holbrook Re-Enters Field

Harry Holbrook, the irrepressible, has entered into field work once more, after several years in the musical field. This time he is booking Dr. William Matthew Holderby in The Christian Family Crusade. The announcement sent out by The Christian Crusader reads in part:

"The Christian Family Crusade has had a new beginning in that it has had restored to its work Rev. Wm. Matthew Holderby, the general director, who for many months of 1923 and 1924 was critically ill. The committee of direction has undertaken the work of 1925 with a purpose to accomplish the most results to urge upon American home life the obligation to honor God in the practice of family worship.

"Strength for the work has been secured by adding to the force Harry M. Holbrook, a man of wide experience in the chautauqua and lecture field, as assistant to the general director. Mr. Holbrook will have charge of the extension work. He will be a field man, responsible for organizing the Family Religion Institute, to be conducted by the general director.

"A publicity department has been created that will enable The Christian Family Crusade to efficiently use existing news agencies to report the various activities produced by the different city and State-wide campaigns being planned and the one in 14 centers of South Dakota now being undertaken in response to a resolution of the State Legislature.

"The committee of direction, consisting at present of 20 members having the administrative responsibility in hand, is moving to secure the enrollment of 100 citizens of Chicago for a Sponsoring Committee. When this is consummated the next development will be to create a National Sponsoring Committee of 1,000. The backing of prayer and faith that such a group can give will insure a support, humanly measured, that will make a national impress upon American thought and action."

This Christian Citizenship crusade has been given strong endorsement recently. A letter from President Coolidge recently was sent out, as follows:

"My Dear Mr. Holderby:
 "I am glad to have this opportunity of sending to your annual meeting a word of greeting and goodwill. With the rapid growth of community activities, we are perhaps prone to forget that the American home is the true civic center, and that the source of our strength lies there rather than in organization and movements for the public welfare. The foundation of all these things is religion. If the home has the benefit of its teachings, not only the home will prosper, but we can be assured the country will be secure. I hope and believe that such a gathering as yours can be a very real help, and I wish you every success.
 "Yours is a movement which I deem worthy of all commendation, and for which I hope the broadest support may be enlisted.

"Very truly yours,
 "(Signed) CALVIN COOLIDGE."

Holbrook, who is the talent manager for the Crusade, has just returned from a trip in South Dakota, has entered vigorously into the work and has been meeting with success. During this recent tour he booked Dr. Holderby for one and two-day engagements—mostly the latter—at the following dates: Canton, Parker, Vermillion, Sioux Falls, Yankton, Mitchell, Westington Springs, Huron, Redfield, Pierre, Huron (return date) and Madison, S. D., and Savanna, Ill.

A wire just received by Holbrook stated that Dr. Holderby had addressed a joint session of the State Legislature, and that the Governor had promised a proclamation in regard to the Christian Citizenship Convention.

Shelbyville, Ind., which was in the chautauqua doubtful list for a time, is again in line for a chautauqua, and has secured its program for next summer. The Democrat of that city says:

"Contracts have been closed for the talent that will appear on the programs at the annual chautauqua in Shelbyville this year, and the committee in charge of this detail announces the booking of several of the most noted headliners now engaged in chautauqua work. This will be the second year that the five-day program of chautauqua will be presented, succeeding the former plan of holding the chautauqua for eight days. The chautauqua will start August 4 at Shelby County fairgrounds and will continue thru the week with the closing program Sunday evening, August 9. Special features of camping and social activities will again be followed in connection with the observance of chautauqua week in this city."

News Notes

Speaking at a luncheon of the Chamber of Commerce at St. Joseph, Mo., Alton Packard was making a plea for more good humor in daily business affairs, and to illustrate the value of taking things goodhumoredly he told of his own experience with the Great Eastern Paper Mills, which make the special paper for his use on the stage. Packard uses sheets of paper about eight feet square while sketching his cartoons on the stage. These must be made to order for him. Years ago Packard wrote to a number of mills to know if he could get sheets of paper of this extra large size and found only one mill willing to supply him. The Great Eastern Mills agreed to make a half ton of the paper for him, and he used it up in about two years of lyceum and chautauqua work. The third year Packard found his paper was running low and he had a big chautauqua season booked ahead. So he wrote to the Great Eastern Mills for another half ton of paper. He received a courteous reply stating that a half ton of paper was too small an amount for the mills to bother with, as their customers usually bought paper in car-load lots. The cartoonist was up against it and decided to try humor on the situation and wrote the funniest letter he could write—about three pages of characteristic humor, setting forth his plight in the funniest possible light. He received a reply from President A. A. Oatman, of the Great Eastern Mills, about as follows: "Dear Mr. Packard—Your letter received. Such a letter is a most unusual event in this office and it has been read, I think, by everyone in the office from office boy up, and it has given us all a hearty laugh. We have decided to make paper for you as long as you live. How much do you need at present?" The Great Eastern Mills have made paper for Packard for 15 years. A humorous letter did the trick, saved the day for the noted cartoonist and helped give the world 15 years of splendid amusement and inspiration.

I have had occasion before to speak of the work of Dr. Dhan Gopal Mukerji, the lecturer of India. He spoke recently in Atlanta, Ga., and the following comment has been sent me: "The members of the Atlanta Drama League were unanimous in proclaiming last evening that the most interesting lecture yet given in a series, including Hugh Walpole, Coningsby Dawson and other notables, was that delivered yesterday afternoon in the ballroom of the Capital City Club by a Hindu poet, Dhan Gopal Mukerji. Rarely has it been Atlanta's privilege to listen to one of such scholarly attainments as Mr. Mukerji, his hearers at the lectures and in the more informal meetings being deeply impressed with the tremendous volume of his knowledge, and the simplicity of manner which is the more convincing of the great truths he brings to them. Against his purely intellectual achievements shines out a decided sense of humor, his deep regard for the seriousness of play and the necessity of living in the best way to know the best of books and human nature."

I note that Frank H. Gamel, "counselor of boys and fathers", spoke recently before the Rotary Club at Reading, Pa., and also presented a course in Boyology lasting from February 8 to March 8. His first address was entitled Just Dad, and, if I am not mistaken, that is the title of the lecture for which I used to call him just about 25 years ago. Gamel was on the old Chicago Lyceum Bureau list, and I think was introduced by Winchell before that. It is interesting to run across these men who have been doing such valuable work for a quarter of a century, and are still going strong and producing high-grade, valuable work. There is a surprising number of the "old guard" left when one considers the hardships of road travel. I would be tempted to mention some of them here were it not for the fact that I would be sure to forget some, and that I would not like to do. But frequently I come across some of these men in print or personally and for a moment I again get the inspiration and the glow which comes from witnessing the pursuit of a great ideal. For 25 years Gamel has been working for the boyhood of America. It would be impossible for any man to pursue a finer or more valuable ideal. If one might only bind in one book the record of the good which has been done by these Gamel lectures what a glorious book it would be. Gamel has earned his place in the sun.

A unique lecture was delivered by Captain Carroll L. Bryant recently at Wilmington, Del. At least the conditions were unique, for Captain Bryant delivered the lecture while treading water in the Y. W. C. A. pool. I have known audiences which could throw enough cold water without having recourse to a swimming pool.

Those who imagine that the lyceum business is on the decline should read of the success of the Hunt course at Nashua, N. H. The Telegram of that city speaks of the course as follows:

"It will be a matter of interest to the people to know that the total attendance at the four entertainments given thus far by the trustees of the course, as signified by the sale of tickets, has been 3,633, an average of a little more than 300 to a performance. So successful has the course been this year that it has completely outgrown City Hall Auditorium and need for larger quarters for next season is obvious. Efforts will probably be made to induce the city government to permit the use of the City Auditorium next season, and if this is granted an effort will be made to sell the entire hall capacity before the first concert is given. The trustees are anxious to improve their course if possible for next year. This can be done only thru the benefit of a larger sale of tickets. We simply reflect the tenor of general comment which has come to us by making the statement herewith that a most unusual opportunity is at hand not only to fulfill the wish and expectation of the founder of the Hunt Lecture Fund, to make the course one of real benefit and enjoyment to the people of Nashua at most trifling cost, but to meet a real need in this community for entertainments of the high character that has obtained in the course this year."

Helen Keller, the blind girl, lectured recently in Des Moines, Ia., before a meeting called to discuss certain proposed legislation relating to the care of the blind.

A misunderstanding between the local committee and the Redpath-Vawter Co. resulted in a canceling of the contract at Shenandoah, Ia. A local newspaper reported the affair thusly: "Guarantors and ticket purchasers of the Redpath-Vawter Lyceum Course are hearing smiles this week, as committees of Monday club women are calling on them to return funds paid out for tickets. The advance sale totaled $400. All of this money is being returned this week to those who bought tickets. Those in charge kept a complete list of buyers and found that their funds check up to a penny. Incidental expenses incurred will be paid by the Monday club. The course was canceled because of misunderstandings on the part of both parties to the contract."

The Greensburg (Ind.) News says: "What promises to be the premier program of any yet held here for a chautauqua was presented last night to the local directors by J. Oscar Hall, of Bloomington, Ill., representing the Loar Chautauqua Company of that city. A full board meeting of the directors responded to the call issued and an enthusiastic conference was held at the Kirby & Howe undertaking house. The time set for the 15th annual Greensburg chautauqua covers the time from August 6 to August 11. This is approximately the same date as that for 1924. The Greensburg chautauqua, the first ever organized by the Loar management, which now numbers more than 200, is one of the few that has been continuously under his supervision and also one of the few that has functioned without a break."

The Loar Independent Chautauqua Company has arranged to furnish the chautauqua at Maquoketa, Ia., for the coming season.

Talk about being up to the minute, L. Slingland, of Paterson, N. J., has been lecturing on the Mammoth Sand Cave.

Private Peat was a caller in the editorial den recently, having just returned from a Western lecture tour. Peat is one of the legitimate men of the platform who is there because of unique experiences and not simply from a desire to exploit his own cleverness.

Mrs. Maro, who has been spending several weeks in Chicago recuperating after her treatment at Rochester, Minn., will make a short trip to Florida early in March before going to Leland, Mich., for the summer.

W. I. Atkinson, of the Western Bureau, of Waterloo, Ia., again is in Chicago receiving treatment. He is progressing splendidly and will be able to enter into the lyceum field later. In the meantime Ingham, of the University of Kansas, is looking after a part of his field.

R. F. Glosup, veteran representative of the Emerson Bureau, was in Chicago recently after an energetic campaign in Illinois and Iowa. He was expecting to go to Kansas next.

The Disability Association of the Swarthmore Chautauquas seems to be taking care of a genuine need. The Weekly Newsletter reports that so far this period seven claims have been allowed, totaling two and three-quarters weeks. It says that in one case the claimant was helping to support the family at home and the lost time would have been disastrous, and in almost every case heavy doctor bills were more easily paid by reason of the benefits paid. In spite of the claims the committee believes it will be able to make a substantial return to the members at the close of the season.

I have just received a letter which I am requested not to print, hence I must honor that request and shall not tell who it is from. I am sure, however, that the writer will not be offended if I quote a portion of it because it is timely and to the point. He says: "I am greeted every night with the statement, 'Our audience is not as large as usual, but many of the season ticket holders do not care for a lecture.' You have had much good stuff in The Billboard lately regarding the situation and I have read it all with keen interest. You are so right in your comments. The overemphasis put upon the 'gym' and upon basketball is being recognized, I find, by some of the school men themselves. The combination gym-auditorium is almost always an awful place in which to lecture. "You are right too in your recent assertion to the effect that the lyceum worker (lecturer in particular) should be interested in more than filling his date in the community that he visits. In trying to measure up to this obligation, however, there are also difficulties now which we did not encounter in past years. I find many school men who do not even care to accept my offer to visit their school for an address. They run on a schedule that does not permit the intrusion because time must be allowed for basketball practice, for 'pep' meetings, etc. Lack of hotels in so many of the small places that I visit and the impossibility of securing a room in a private house make it necessary for the lecturer to locate in the nearest large town. These things tend to reduce the status of the lecture date from an event to an incident in the life of the community."

"Better publicity for the lecture and more of it would, of course, help a lot to improve conditions. Who is to pay for it? In my own case, lecturing for a very modest salary per week (but covering only actual dates filled) and paying my own hotel expenses at the present high rates, it is impossible for me to provide publicity of a nature and upon the scale necessary to impress the community with the importance of the lecture. So the thing goes by default and the lecture does not register on the consciousness of the public.

"I do not forget the saving salt of the few folks in many communities who do appreciate the lecture. And I have found some committee men who care. But we live in a changing world. It is not for us to lament the changes, but to meet them. I have all faith in the young folks. Considering their parents it is a wonder that they are as good as they are! Lectures are not essential in a community which is reached by good literature, the radio and all the rest of the modern methods of communication and instruction which were unknown when I lectured on a course consisting of five lecturers—all talking to a packed house in the towns and villages where there was no other form of entertainment except the Sunday meetings and the annual revival."

Mme. Olga Samaroff, the brilliant pianist, gives a lecture recital in connection with her concerts and is doing a splendid work in making good music popular.

Yusuke Tsurumi, formerly counselor of the Imperial Railroad Board of Japan, has been lecturing in this country upon The Labor Movement and Socialism in Japan. He is speaking in the larger cities only, and reports indicate that his work is of high character and is well received. Herr Otto Stuemer, making his first concert tour in America, is with the Ernest Gamble Company and is proving a truly great artist. He is particularly happy in his interpretations of Chopin.

A good letter from Sid Landon says: "For the life of me I do not see how you get time to do anything but fill those 40 weeks you have booked." Perhaps I am a freak. To me the most terrible thing in platform life is loafing around a hotel lobby or in some country pool hall waiting for the night's "show". Hence I find that I can keep out of mischief by speaking three or four times before the schools. It is great fun and a wonderful education—for me. About two hours devoted to school talks each day, two hours devoted to Billboard copy and two hours reading—or more—with the night lecture fills in a most interesting day. Every man to his taste. Knowing Sid as I do I am sure he fills in every minute profitably. We each select our own "fillin'".

A fine letter from Will Buckner of the Dixie Jubilee Singers, from New Zealand, reports that they are having a wonderful time in that country. Their company will be available for a tour from the Pacific Coast to Chicago on its return, which probably will be in about three months.

YOUTH AND THE STAGE
AT the Comedie Francaise an irreverent audience recently had the audacity to boo, in Le Malade Imaginaire, both the veteran Sylvain and Mme. Segond-Weber, because these two societaires of the national playhouse seemed to the spectators too old for their roles. The actor admits 75 years. Gallantry has prevented any exact investigation into the years that have fallen on the head of the actress. New York theatergoers can give a little assistance on that point. She was a ripe beauty with no suggestion of immaturity when she assumed the leading roles in Mounet-Sully's company at the Knickerbocker Theater more than a quarter of a century ago. Mme. Segond-Weber refuses to retire just because a radical Minister asks her to, even if he has the authority of Napoleon and his f-mous Moscow decree behind him. She denies that she is the oldest of the company's leading actresses. Mr. Sylvain has consented to become an honor- ary member of the House of Moliere for another year with the right to certain roles. At the end of that period he will retire. Mme. Segond-Weber continues recalcitrant and declares that for the time being she will play just the roles she used to, scornfully rejecting the suggestion that she make a specialty of grandmothers. Thus do the veterans lag superfluous on the mimic stage of life. There used to be no age limit in the Theater Francaise that art could not bridge. Suzanne Reichenberg was famous for her impersonation of young girls, especially Suzel, in L'Ami Fritz. So she kept acting those young girls until she was approaching the traditional three-score years, which is cer- tainly a mature age for a flapper. Sarah Bernhardt even managed to maintain the tradition of art's triumph over the years outside the privileged walls of the national playhouse of France. It was an old theory of the French stage, else Hyppolite Clairon could not have acted Phedre with 60 past her. Yet there is always the fact that Rachel made her fame before 20. Such was the warm greeting to youth even on a stage which was supposed to yield only to art. Now that the play rather than the actor is the magnet of the public, the relation to reality must be maintained. Persons in life must look like characters in plays. Why should 50 smirk and trip so skillfully that it suggests 13 when comparative youth itself may be seen on the stage? It may be true that a woman must know so much of life to play Juliet that she can no longer resemble the heroine of Shakespeare. The public today would prefer to have her look more like the Capulet maiden and know less of life. The French have at last come to feel the same about the heroines of Cornelle and Racine and Moliere. —NEW YORK SUN.

A Sensible and Just Decision

HAVING closed one and arranged for the cleansing of two of the three plays which even their producers did not defend from charges of being pornographic, District Attorney Banton has sensibly consented to submit to the verdict of citizens' play juries the fates of other plays on Broadway on which public opinion is divided. Thruout the activity against smutty plays which arose as a result of The World's editorial warning to producers Mr. Banton has sought consistently to avoid the responsibility of public censor. Now, finding that the play-jury machinery set up three years ago by Equity actors and producers is able promptly to function, he has decided to give it an opportunity to show its usefulness. The terms of the contract between actors and managers provide that producers shall withdraw plays deemed offensive to public decency upon a 9-to-3 verdict of a play jury. Proceedings are private; publicity is denied the play under investigation; the Equity actors bind themselves not to appear in plays so stigmatized. Mr. Banton discloses—and indeed the newspapers told him this last week—that a panel of more than a hundred names has been ratified by the parties to the Equity contract. The District Attorney finds the personnel acceptable from his standpoint as responsible law officer, and instead of indicting plays like Desire Under the Elms, which many worthy citizens have indorsed as high and honest dramatic art, he has given it the same chance with a play jury which all other plays attacked as unfit will be given henceforth. If a jury acceptable to Mr. Banton should find in favor of continuing the play, he should accept that verdict. If the play jury rule adversely, the actors in and managers of the play are bound by contract to cease its presentation. This is the best possible outcome in the circumstances. The crisis faced by the New York theater was brought on by unscrupulous producing methods, and no protest from actors was loudly heard until The World denounced the methods which were beginning to incite public revolt. The effect of that denunciation has been noteworthy in suppressing that which was notoriously obscene and undefended even by those responsible. And now that it has given life to the citizens' play-jury plan it has assured to honest dramatic art all the safeguards possible under the law. The World has said, and it repeats, that it is regrettable some producers, publishers, dramatists and authors are so blinded by commercialism as to imperil their own occupations by their methods. Since the public insists on checks against license like this, the citizens' play jury is the best check available. —NEW YORK WORLD.

Credit Band Work as College Study BAND playing is now ranked with other studies as deserving of college credits at Butler College in Indianapolis. Dr. Robert J. Aley, president of the college, has announced that band work has been scheduled as a regular subject, calling for two hours of class work each week. All students taking this subject and meeting the requirements of J. E. Vandaworker, director, will receive an academic credit of one hour for each semester. This makes a total possible credit of eight hours for the college course. Any member of the band who cares to do so, may substitute four hours of band credit for four required hours of physical training. Members of the alumni have made possible the purchase of new uniforms for the band. Mr. Vandaworker is also the director of The Indianapolis News Newsboys' Band. More than 1,500 youths have been trained under Mr. Vandaworker's direction, and every year, when the "alumni" of the Newsboys' Band meet around the banquet table, there are numbered among those present some of the most prominent citizens of Indianapolis. In addition to directing the Newsboys' Band, Mr. Vandaworker has given part of his time in recent years to bands of the Indianapolis high schools and to other musical work.—From National Bureau for the Advancement of Music, 45 West 45th street, New York City.

Little Theaters

(Continued from page 45) cently gave Alice Gerstenberg's Four Plays for Four Women, viz.: Mah-Jongg, Their Husband, Ever Young and Red Weed. Miss Hildegarde reports that the bill was without a dull moment. ALVINE PLAYERS OF NEW YORK What They All Wanted, a comedy-drama of modern life in three acts, was presented by the Alvine Intimate Art Players of New York Washington's Birthday afternoon at the Masonic Temple, Jamaica, L. I., under the auspices of the Twentieth Century Club of Rich-mond Hill, L. I.

The various characters in the play were well acted, the cast including Ele-nore Gale, who formerly appeared in vaudeville and as a concert singer in first-run picture theaters; Marjorie Trik, Grace Angelo, Catherine Paukert, Ray-mond Holmes, at one time with Langdon McCormick, producer of The Storm and other thrillers; Emerson Elpers, Ray-mond Lund and Valentine Alvine.

Additional features on the holiday pro-gram were The Usual Way, a pantomime in three scenes with Raymond Lund and Misses Lavitz and Bennett; vocal solos by Miss Angelo, who has sung with the Chi-cago Civic Opera Company and is now a weekly feature on the radio from sta-tion WFBH; Interpretative dances by Miss Trik, Nyfield and Krug, and a spec-ialty by Olive LaMoy.

Associated Exhibitors Busy

Film Actress Injured

New York, Feb. 28.—Louise Carter, aged 20, motion picture actress, was slightly injured recently when an auto-mobile in which she was riding collided with a taxicab at 75th street and Central Park West. Miss Carter and Frank Woodman, aged 56, also in the party, were treated at Roosevelt Hospital.

"Harlem Rounders"

(Continued from page 52) Mysterious Bowl and the Russian finale with the fast dances of the Caucasus were perhaps the big scenes. However, there is little choosing to be done with regard to the artists, for the big cast has been selected with an excellent re-gard to variety without conflict.

Kitty Brown and Florence McClain carry the burden of the work with the chorus and they deliver. The former is an "earful", while Florence makes the greatest swing of pulchritude and dar-ling costumes that could be offered. Billy Brown does the straight work and feeds the comic effectively. Eloise Bennett has the most charming personality of any little "brownie" on the stage. She can sell her dimpled smile in any market.

But there is no use to attempt pick-ing. There is comedy, melody and fast footwork of many kinds. The show will be tightened up by the time this appears in print and be moving faster. The hardest pessimist may give it the "once over" and we will abide by the result. For once Sam Craig has stage crew enough to handle with facility the big production, and he too is delivering his unseen share in putting over a remark-able show.

Here and There Among the Folks

"Boots" Marshall is the stage man-ager of a fast revue featuring Margaret Simms at the Plantation Revue in Chicago. Mae Alex, James Jackson, the White Brothers, Billy Leadman and his mule, Clarence Lee, "Boots" Marshall's Dancing Boys, Joe Oliver's Kings of Syncopation and a dozen clever and good-looking choristers constitute the hot show that is the talk of the South Side in the Windy City.

"Shake Your Feet is just what each of the dozen members of the cast does, and the action is so rapid and the steps per-formed of such complexity that the act literally sways with speed. Will Martin, Virgie Richards, Joe Russell, assisted by a snappy chorus, manage to put into the act every ounce of energy known to colored performers in vaudeville." So speaks the critic on a Waterbury (Conn.) daily about an act that is touring the 19th Time and meeting the same success right along.

Members of the Allen and Stokes Dark-ton Bazaar Company while playing Cleveland, O., were guests of Cuyahoga Lodge of I. E. P. O. Elks of the world for a midnight reception. The show jumped from there to Pittsburgh, Pa., after which Mike Shen placed the attrac-tion in an Akron house for the final week of February. Meunwhille Nat Mortan, Columbia Circuit agent in New York, was calling for the outfit. Mrs. Wells has re-joined the show and she desires to ex-tend thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Allen, the Wootens, Coy Herndon, the Silas Green Showfolk and the many other friends who so kindly remembered her as a result of the accident which will make it impos-sible for her to work in her act for some time.

William Archer: A Last Tribute
 By GEORGE SAMPSON

I OBSERVED in several of the obituary notices a tendency to fix upon Archer the abhorrent term "highbrow" as if it were derogatory. One writer, indeed, actually called him "dull". How familiar that sounded! In the early '90s, when journalists like Clement Scott were yelping at the heels of Ibsen and his translator, "dull" was their favorite term of contempt. Their articles consisted of this one statement, disguised and varied for different occasions: "People go to the theater to be amused. The plays of Ibsen are not amusing. They are dull."
 Now if "dull" is taken as the opposite of "funny", then the charge against Archer must be cheerfully admitted. William Archer was not a funny writer. He did not assume the pose of an idiot writing for other idiots. He did not use Americanese. He wrote his critical articles for the countrymen of Shakespeare. He expected them to take serious things seriously and (what is not always the same thing) he expected them to take trivial things trivially. The text from which he was continually preaching was this: "The theater is a place for noble and serious art; you have turned it into the last abode of sham, humbug and unreality." Ibsen was part of his text. Here, he said in effect, is a man whose work is true both to the stage and to life. Cannot we have an English drama that is true both to the stage and life? The answer came in the work of Shaw, Galsworthy, Barker and their successors, to say nothing of the Irish drama which, national as it was, could not be untouched by the general influence.
 The young journalist who, in obedience to the fashion of brainlessness, called Archer "dull" can scarcely have known that for several years the solidly serious articles of Archer on drama appeared next to the amusingly serious articles of Shaw on music—a test that none of our present "low-brow" critics could survive for a fortnight. Moreover, the written words abide as a refutation. Let the reader take up the five volumes of The Theatrical World and see for himself how much "dullness" they contain.
 —THE BOOKMAN, London.

The Advantage of the Trade Directory

PERHAPS every day, every week or every month you want to buy certain goods, but do not know the dealers and address. That is the purpose of the Trade Directory. To furnish information on "where to buy" merchandise that is used or sold in the Show World. It's a buyer's guide with this important advantage. You ought to have your name and address under a heading in the Directory.

What may be printed here in reference to the Directory cannot demonstrate the value of this department so much as for you to run your eyes over the names of firms and the goods they sell. You can start here at any time.

THE BILLBOARD PUB. CO.,
 Cincinnati, Ohio:

If my name and address can be set in one line under (name heading).....insert it 52 times in The Billboard Trade Directory for $20. If it cannot be set in one line, write me about rate.

Mild Weather Aids in Speeding Work at Paola (Kan.) Quarters--H. Lehrter Back From Trip

Paola, Kan., Feb. 26.—Two weeks of mild winter weather have aided materially in speeding toward a final completion the work of the several departments at the Gentry-Patterson quarters. Superintendent H. (White) Lehrter, returned from a two weeks' trip to Chicago and St. Louis, reports that the finishing touches are being put on the new canvas at the factory and it will be shipped within a few days. Billy Cism, assistant on canvas, reported recently, coming from Beaumont, and Eugene (Spider) Harris, the other assistant, writes that he will be here shortly.

Wm. H. Harris, boss painter, has turned out all but two of the parade wagons, as well as most of the baggage wagons. The color scheme of the wagons has been changed from that of all white to more red, blue and green, and plenty of gold leaf is in evidence. Painting on the new advance car is complete except for the lettering. "Buck" Smith, who had charge of the paint shop last winter, was a recent visitor, stopping over for several days. He had just left the 101 Ranch quarters and has entirely recovered from the troublesome rheumatism of last year.

Doc, E. J. Webber, in charge of the ring barn, has the high school and menage horses working in good shape, as well as the various pony acts and drills. Doc also has broken a new January mule that is a wow, and is working on a couple of other new acts. Robert Brimley, in charge of dogs, also has his charges just about perfect in their various acts, and the same can be said of Bob Corwell's new comedy animal act. Henry D. Proffitt, general agent, was a visitor for two days the first of the week and departed after a conference with "Gov." Patterson.

Mr. Patterson, accompanied in most cases by Boss Hostler Eddie Schaeffer, and often also by Dave McKay, veteran boss hostler of the Barnum show and now 24-hour man, has been scouring the countryside of Eastern Kansas and Western Missouri for baggage horses. So far they have been rewarded with several good "finds". Henry Roberts, assisted by Chas. Murray, has the harness shop and is turning out his usual well-finished work. Bill Britton, teamster, and his men have taken advantage of the mild weather to get the stock cars and flats in shape for the painters. Work in the wardrobe department is progressing fast under the supervision of Mrs. Robt. Cottrell.

Doner E. Wade, porter on the staff car, who has been with Mr. Patterson for 20 years, is a recent arrival in quarters, coming from Dallas. Billy Edwards, athletic showman, was a recent visitor, shipping a truckload of carnival equipment that was in storage here to Snapp Bros.' quarters in California. He will be connected with that organization this season. S. F. Harris, purchasing agent, advises that he and his wife will arrive about March 1 to spend the balance of the lay-off period in Paola. B. E. Wilson, who was forced to leave the show early last season due to illness, has been engaged as assistant treasurer for this season. He is at present employed at the Osawatimie State Hospital in an executive capacity. Other trouperes at the institution for the winter are three of last year's band boys—G. C. Davis, Nick Nixon and Wiley Scott.

Moon Bros.' Circus

Ada, Ok., Feb. 27.—Work in every department of Moon Bros.' Circus is being hurried as fast as possible for the opening, which will probably be March 21 near Oklahoma City, reports Harry Shell, bandmaster. The paint crew is working late at night and on Sundays and several men have been added to the mechanical department. Some new trucks were received this week and the new light plant placed in one of them. The arena wagon, one den and light plant. In addition to six other dens, were turned over to the paint shop this week, and work has been started on the tableaux band wagon. Capt. Sharp has the recently arrived from the 101 Ranch and was placed with the mixed group—lion, dog, goat and bear. Boss Canvasman Steele is on hand and has the big top ready.

Downie's Circus Acts

Play for Rotarians at Williamsport, Pa.

Williamsport, Pa., Feb. 27.—Several acts of Andrew Downie's Circus, appearing at the Majestic Theater this week, played for the Rotary Club at the Lyeoming Hotel February 23. They include the clown band, comedy juggling by Johnny Cummings, Madame Camille's Pomeranian miniatures and others. James Heron, manager of the show, announced the acts in the absence of Andrew Downie, who is a member of the Havre de Grace (Md.) Rotary Club. George Eubb, manager of the Majestic, provided the circus for the entertainment of his fellow Rotarians. All of the money realized went into the club's Crippled Children Fund. The crippled children were guests of Mr. Eubb and the club at the circus this afternoon at the Majestic. The Downie Circus, which has been playing theaters since November 17, last, to excellent business, will close in three weeks at the Edgemont Theater, Chester, Pa.

Miller's Dog and Pony Circus

Eaton Rapids, Mich., Feb. 27.—Miller's Dog and Pony Circus will this season be transported on eight trucks, two trailers and four wagons and will carry 25 head of stock. Bart Artis is breaking a menage act at the quarters here to be worked with a number of doves. Ethel Maude Miller will have charge of this number, also the new dog act, which includes 16 beautifully marked fox-terriers. Harry Miller will have charge of all concessions. Mrs. B. Yates, the cookhouse, B. Yates the band of 12 pieces (uniforms to be green and white) and Jack Winters the advance, with one assistant. Those already signed are Ekhart and Gladys, aerial artists, and Albert Gaston, producing clown.

DeOrlo Signs With H.-W. Circus

Minert D-Orlo, well-known clown Irish policeman, the past four seasons with the Sparks Circus, has signed to appear with the Hagenbeck-Wallace Circus this year.

A. M. Cauble Renames Show

Will Bear Title of Monroe Bros.' Trained Wild Animal Shows and Open at Boerne, Tex., March 17

A. M. Cauble, old-time wagon showman and former owner of the Monroe Wagon Show, who purchased the Atterbury show last August and has been operating it under the Atterbury title, will use his own title, Monroe Bros.' Trained Wild Animal Shows, in view of the fact that R. L. Atterbury is taking out a motorized show under his name, reports Capt. Reed. The show will open at Boerne, Tex., March 17 and will be transported on 10 wagons and four trucks. Forty horses, 20 people and a nice collection of animals will be carried. Reed will be elephant trainer.

Manager Cauble did a nice business this winter and all people with the exception of Van Jerome, of the John Robinson Circus, who had to leave the show at Corpus Christi, Tex., to attend to his oil lands in California, have signed for the summer tour. The outfit is now being overhauled at the owner's home in San Antonio, Tex. The show will make some of the old Monroe territory.

Miller Bros.' 101 Ranch Show

Marland, Ok., Feb. 27.—With Miller Bros.' 101 Ranch Real Wild West and Great Far East Show this season will be one side show and one pit show. The former will be under the management of J. H. (Doc) Oyster, who is now at the ranch putting the final touches to the equipment he will have under his charge. Gene Milton will have the pit show. In putting out their show again after several years in retirement the Miller brothers will devote their ability and wealth to giving good, clean entertainment.

There has been talk in certain quarters that some of the circuses were combining to keep a Wild West show out of their favorite territory. The Miller brothers say there can be no opposition because their show will be different from any other show and that when their route is laid out they will follow it.

The construction work is proceeding according to schedule at the shops in Marland. In a few days, when the new steel flats arrive from the Mount Vernon shops, also some additional stock from Kansas City, these cars with the ones that are being overhauled at winter quarters will give the Miller brothers one of the best show trains on the road.

New Lot in Akron, O.

Akron, O., Feb. 28.—The old circus lot at Beaver and Exchange streets, where tented attractions have appeared for many years, is no more. This plot is being platted and will be sold this spring. A new lot just west of the Beaver and Exchange streets site has been secured as the local show grounds.

Tom Atkinson's Circus

The Tom Atkinson Circus, following a 10-day engagement at Mexcala, Mex., made a jump of 70 miles to Samerton, Ariz. William Kennedy will manage the side show this season, allowing Prince Ebner, the writer, to devote his time to his acts in the big show and look after the press.

Guest of Mrs. Downie

Chicago, Feb. 28.—Mrs. Josephine Reynolds has gone east to attend the celebration of the birthday anniversary of Mrs. Andrew Downie at Medina, N. Y.

Clowns Lining Up

Chicago, Feb. 28.—It's getting that near spring for the clowns to seek the tanbark. Joe Lewis has signed with the 101 Ranch Show and Bill Carross with the Sells-Floto Circus.

Ed Milce, groom in charge of the horses of the Reiffenack Sisters' act in vauclville had a great time with Manager Gordon Wrighter of Pol's Palace Theater, Springfield, Mass., during a recent visit here. They tramped together with the white tops a few years ago.

The foregoing reproduction shows those who were on the No. 2 car of the Buffalo Bill show during the season 1909. It was submitted by H. J. Simken, who has an advertising and distributing service in Brooklyn, N. Y.

I. A. B. P. & B., Local No. 5 Wm. B. Naylor Has Not Signed With S.-F. Circus

St. Louis, Feb. 27.—Jack M. Polachek, formerly on the advance of the Ringling show, stopped here a few days. He is advance agent of The Ten Commandments film and was en route from Alton, Ill., to Springfield, Mo. The writer, Ben F. Miller, received a letter from Harry Mansfield, veteran billposter and agent, who is in that city for a few weeks. He closed with the Covered Wagon film, with which he had been in advance for several months. He is likely to again be with one of the big tops this season.

Chas. Slattery, circus billposter and agent, is out of the hospital after a confinement of a year and a half. He is the first member of Local No. 5 to receive the honor of having a life membership card with this local. He is now at his home, 517 Walnut street. Charles Betts, billposter, for a number of years with the Ringling Bros.' Circus, and also connected with the St. Louis Poster Advertising Company for some years, has sold his property in this city and purchased a 16-acre farm at King Lake, 60 miles north of St. Louis. Mr. Betts intends to devote his time to raising chickens and doing farm work in general. Walter Gazzolo, financial secretary, and Robert Walker, chairman of various committees, were given gold cuff buttons by members of Local No. 5. Mr. Saches, the president, making the presentation speeches. The following outside town members were present at the last regular meeting: Jim King, Webster, Mo.; Tommy Morgan and W. Lyles, E. St. Louis, Ill.; Max Walker, advertising the Lyric Theater, on the east side, and Mr. Keiser, billposter of Granite City, Ill.

King and Bradley in Cincy

Floyd King, of the Walter L. Main Circus, and A. C. Bradley, contracting agent of the 101 Ranch Wild West Show, were in Cincinnati recently and gave The Billboard a call.

Join M. L. Clark Shows

Jack Naler and wife, who are putting on the Wild West concert, and Vernon West, who is presenting slack wire, swinging perch and clown numbers, recently joined the M. L. Clark & Son's Shows, informs A. H. Knight with the show. Some people from the Rose Killian Shows paid the Clark show a visit at Newberry, Fla., February 22. They were Otto Killian, Webb family of five, George Jenner, Frank Owens, "Shorty" Lynn, West, Sam Wicks, and Clarence Keys and wife. They had dinner with the Knights.

Sam Heilman Changes

Sam Callahan, better known as Sam Heilman, who for the past three years was ticket-seller on the John Robinson Circus, will be one of the ticket agents on the Gentry-Patterson Circus this season. He is at present employed at the Gayety Theater in Detroit.

Advertising Did It

Ringling Circus Posters Instrumental in Rapid Growth of Sarasota, Fla.

A story recently was sent out by the Sea Service, Inc., which has a clientele of 365 newspapers, relative to the rapid progress being made by the city of Sarasota, Fla. It is a city which circus posters built, Charles and John Ringling applying the methods used to make their show famous to attracting real estate buyers there. A year ago the population was 2,800 and today it is 12,000. Sarasota now has rail connections with nearly every city of importance in Florida. There are 22 millionaire citizens there, all active in civic affairs. The boom rivals that of Miami on the east coast. It is not confined to Sarasota, but takes in the entire west coast from north of Tampa to south of Nokomis. Millions are being spent in the building program, probably $6,000,000 going into hotel projects alone. A Ritz-Carlton is being constructed partly by public subscription. John Ringling subscribed $100,000 in stock and the public subscribed $300,000. In another hotel project the public subscribed $400,000 in stock.

February 13 and the following day left with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ringling and a party of friends on Mr. Ringling's yacht, the Symphonia. The cruise embraced the keys to the south and extended into the wilds of the Shark river region.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert McGee wish to express thanks to the folks on the Christy Bros. and Golden Bros. shows for aiding them when the former was ill and could not work in Beaumont, Tex. The McGees will be with Orange Bros. Shows, which will open the latter part of March.

All the advance cars of Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Combined Shows will carry posters made by the Strobbridge Lithographing Company of Cincinnati, O., exploiting the wonderful growth of Sarasota, Fla., and detailing its many advantages, and these will be liberally posted en route.

Some "remembers" from an oldtimer: "When the original W. C. Clark Circus wintered in Tuscaloosa, Ala., Kritchfield was band leader with 14 musicians. A. T. Clark was advance agent, Charley Lyles had the side show, Jim Webb was boss canvasser, Jake Passy had the stock, Charley Elliott did bars and Bob White hand balancing?"

After playing the Fort Myers (Fla.) Fair last week Abe Goldstein, clown policeman, departed for Macon, Ga., quarters of the Sparks Circus, with which he will be connected this season. States that Joe Greer will leave Tampa, Fla., shortly for New York to join the Ringling-Barnum Circus. Bernice and Wilkins and Hoagland's hippodrome act also appeared at the Fort Myers Fair.

Cy understands that Orrin Dawnport put on an excellent circus for the Shimmers in Detroit for two weeks. Charles Siegrist presented his leaping board stunt there, the first time in eight years, and it went over big. Mrs. Siegrist joined the Siegrist troupe in the Motor City. The act will again be with the Ringling-Barnum Circus, with which Mr. Siegrist will offer his leaping-board turn.

Charles (Kid) Koster, one of the best known circus and hall show agents, is convalescing at Hot Springs, Ark. The illness is the longest he ever experienced. However, he will be able to leave the springs shortly and will again be in the employ of I. H. Herk, of the Mutual Burlesque Circuit, in the capacity of special agent. Since retiring from the circus field 12 years ago Mr. Koster has been engaged in the burlesque business.

George F. Hurley, of Ft. Worth, Tex., recently had occasion to slip in a few words for shows and troupers in The Ft. Worth Press. The daily ran a story of F. J. Taylor, wealthy grain man, of Omaha, Neb., who is organizing a circus, and at the finish of the column requested readers to write and tell what they would do if they had a million dollars. Hurley stated that if he had a million he would put out a circus, adding that the circus is a wonderful amusement organization—one of the most systematic businesses of its kind in the world.

"Buck" Leahy contributes these "remembers": "When Al Salvail was with the Yankee Robinson Show? When Eddie and Fred Stone were with Dick Sutton's Circus? When Sam McCracken was a Chicago lithographer? When Chas. Barry, Ray Thompson, Gene Hamid Troupe, Frank B. Miller, Hazel Hickey and John E. Dusch were with the Howe Show? When Tip elephant on the Forepaugh Show, chased Billy Emery in parade? When the Frank A. Robbins Show played 90 stands in Pennsylvania, season 1910? When Gorton Orion was with San Bros. Shows? When Jerry Martin was with the M. L. Clark Shows? When Dan Dix, Princess Winona, Edith Tantlinger, Bill Carross, Joe Lewis, Chester Myers, Tommy Kirman, Hank Durnell, Barry Twins, Bill Andrews, Harry Robinson, Mabel Kline, Aggie Lindsay, 'Shorty' Phillips, Harry Parrish and Loretta were with the Miller Bros.' 101 Ranch Wild West Show? When Capt. Jack LeBlair was with the Al G. Barnes Show?"

Writes L. A. Furtell: "Do you remember when Big Otto (Belichtkruetz) had a wagon show? When Vester Perry and Pete Leon were on the 101 Ranch Wild West Show? When Hot Gibson, movie star, was on the Young Buffalo Wild West and Texas Rangers Show? When Chas. B. Murphy was on the Barnum & Bailey Circus? When Tom Mix, movie star, was on the 101 Ranch show? When Major Rhodes was manager of Tiger Bill's Wild West at Al Fresco Park, Peoria, Ill.? When L. A. Furtell was with the Great Train Robbery with Jim Gabriel? When Sky Clark and Bo Robinson had store shows in Los Angeles? When Wm. Purchase was animal trainer on the Bostock-Ferari Shows?"

While playing the Colonial Theater, Brockton, Mass., for Rogers & Keene with his original white-face clown turn for the first time in 20 years, with the Lon Chaney film, He Who Gets Slapped, week of February 9, Cy Green, the rube, was entertained several times by Fred Glasier, photographer, lecturer and a friend of showfolk. Says Green: "He is an exact picture of that old scout, the late Buffalo Bill, and told some good stories about showfolk, including Major Lillie and the Miller Bros., of 101 Ranch fame. In his studio he showed me a number of circus and Wild West pictures. He has one of the finest collections I have seen. The pictures were made by Glasier during the past 30 years. Among them is a beautiful oil painting, about two by four feet, of Col. Joe Miller and the well-known cowboy, Tex Cooper, both mounted on two beautiful white horses. He has made several pictures for me. Mr. Glasier never misses The Billboard and is always glad to have show people call." Green will be with the 101 Ranch Show this year.

A program of the Walter L. Main Circus, when it showed Westerville, R. I., June 18, 1898, has been received from Wm. N. Purtillo, of that city. The show was owned and managed by Walter L. Main, Wm. Sells was general advance manager, E. J. Fitzgerald, assistant manager; Chas. Bernard, treasurer; John Purvis, equestrian director, and John Gill, musical director. The performers included Prof. Ferris, Lillian Mack, lady clown; Wernitz Sisters, the Burks, Albert Randall, James McElroy, Griggs, Bell and Carl, Joseph Berris, Francis T. St. John, Delavoye and Fritz, the Dollamonds, Rosaire and Elliott, Wm. Wallett, Tony Lowande, Mile. Wallett, Amy Picard, Eddy Family, Three Great Zenos, Miaco and Lancaster, Josie Lowande, Chas. Weland; Harry Hale, Reno Fritz, Wm. Henshee, Chas. LeClair, Dutch Millard, John Lancaster, Al Miaco, Charles Fales, Billy Mack, Johnnie Purvis, Will Delavoye and Miss Hale, clowns.

WITH AUSTRALIAN CIRCUSES

By Martin C. Brennan
Sydney, Jan. 14.—St. Leon's Circus badly handicapped by the only available location, nevertheless stowed a good profit on the Auckland (N. Z.) season and is now in the Waikeato. The non-appearance of a starred act apparently made little difference.
Fred Kimo, acrobatic clown, is again an inmate of the Soldiers' Hospital.

THE CORRAL by Rowdy Waddy

Communications to 25-27 Opera Place, Cincinnati, O.)

My folks! Everybody be sociable good fellows together!

Friendliness along with competition makes things more agreeable.

A little good-natured "kidding" is all right—but no "slams".

After next issue, the big Spring Special (105,000 copies). Notice center of "Corral" last issue.

Cowgirl bulldogging is one of the events scheduled for the rodeo at Fort Worth. Fox Hastings is one of about a dozen entrants.

There are too many of the boys and girls in the game sort of "jealous" of others. Rowdy is pulling hard for harmony and friendships all around.

Tex. Smith is "ranching" this winter in Illinois. Says he has worked up some new trick riding and roping stuff and probably will be with one of the traveling shows this year.

Jack Hughes—An error is typing caused the wrong address of C. D. Ostrom to be given. It should have been P. O. Box 118, Kansas City, Kan., instead of Kansas City, Mo.

At El Paso, Tex., were seen Hugo Strickland and Red Sublette (with Red's comedy mule), en route to the rodeo at Tucson, Ariz.—then back to Fort Worth for the Stock Show Rodeo.

Buckskin Ben Stalker will have the Wild West Show with Dodson's World's Fair Shows the coming season. Ben is to leave his home at Cambridge City, Ind., the middle of this month for winter quarters of the show at Fort Arthur, Tex.

The exact dates for Tom Burnett's Triangle Ranch Rodeo have not been set, at this writing. In order not to conflict with the dates the Wichita Falls (Tex.) baseball team is playing at home. However, the baseball schedule has been framed and adopted, and Mr. Burnett will announce his dates in the near future.

Word from Oklahoma City, Ok., was that "California Frank" Haffey and his coterie of entertainers, with stock, had arrived there and were "all set" to present a hand-dancing program of Wild West acts for the entertainment of patrons of the Southwest American Live-Stock Show, starting March 1.

Secretary J. H. Healy, of the Bozeman (Mont.) Roundup, informs that they are getting an early start on preparations this year, with the idea of putting on a better and stronger show than ever, thus having opportunity to work up a very interesting program. Johnny Mullen is arena director and the dates are set for August 3, 4 and 5.

The King Bros. Attractions, headquarters this winter at Washington, D. C., and headed by that oldtimer, Jack W. King, are making extensive preparations for the coming season at fairs, celebrations and staging special events. The management is entering upon quite an extensive advertising campaign relative to the various attractions' activities during 1925.

Tex. Stanfield wrote from Venice, Calif., that he had stopped there and visited winter quarters of the Al. G. Barnes Circus while on his way to San Francisco, and met Austin King and Carl Bruce, also Mrs. Bruce, who he had not met since she and Carl were married on the Dickey Show in 1912. He says that King, aided by Bruce, has broken in a crackerjack big horse act, and with but two months' training.

In the issue of February 21 an error appeared as to the place the second annual convention of Oklahoma Indians and All-American Indians, May 18-24, is to be held. It was given as Tulsa, which should have been Ponca City, Ok., the headquarters city of the Society of Oklahoma Indians. In connection with the convention festivities this year, there is to be a merchants' display, auto and fashion shows and a historical pageant with about 500 in the cast.

Ruby and Garnett Deltrich, known as the Deltrich Sisters, are preparing to make several of the rodeos this year, according to word from Anadarko, Ok. The girls do steer, calf and goat roping, also ride bronks (feature riding without hobbling their stirrups), etc., and carry eight head of stock. They staged a rodeo last August at their ranch (known as the Deltrich Lake ranch) and expect to pull an even better one this year.

Artie Orser writes: "A few lines, Rowdy, to let you and the boys and girls know that I am in St. Vincent's Hospital, 206 South 27th st., Billings, Wyo."

Mont., and have undergone an operation. I don't know how long I will be laid up here, but hope it won't be for long. I sure would like to flop down on a clear-water creek and take a drink again (that's the way I feel). Aubrey and Mubrey M. Dowell were up to see me today, they being called here by the death of their father, James M. Dowell, an old-timer from Texas. I hope to be out in the spring and see the boys again."

From Prineville, Ore.—Creek County Post, No. 29, American Legion is planning one of the largest rodeos ever staged in this immediate section during the State convention in June. Infamous R. L. Schaefer, who is in charge of affairs. Further advice from Mr. Schaefer follows: Harry Walters and Loren Trickey, who also reside in Prineville, will be on hand to help run the show over in real Wild West style. Ed Wright, noted clown, has been engaged and Bonnie Gray already has signified her intention of coming. The dates of this show make it so that contest hands have three days in which to reach the North Idaho Stampede at Alan racetrack, Idaho; then follows the big Stampede at Calgary. Prineville plans to welcome the largest number of "real" contest hands that have ever assembled in this city, which is known as the "Cowboy Capital of Oregon." Hundreds of Indians of various tribes will take part in some of the events, as well as add color to the occasion. The Interstate Fair grounds have been secured for the affair.

Jess Morris, contractor-manager of the Griffith Trio, writes that the trio motored to Fort Worth for the forthcoming rodeo, coming thru in fine shape and are looking forward to another good season, with Master Dick doing a new one this year, riding Bronan with Curly. Relative to the rodeo at Fort Worth, Jess opines that indications point to there being a record-breaking congregation of hands there this spring, giving the following list, in addition to the Griffiths, as among those either already at Fort Worth or to be there for the "doings": Shorty Ricker, Red Sublette, Oklahoma Curly, Rose Smith, Tommie and Ben Kirnan, Fox and Mike Hastings, Tad and Buck Lucas, Bob Askins, Paddy Ryan, Joe Hertzler, Rene Haffey, Chet, Byers, Rube Roberts, Mary and Buster Blalherwick (juvenile trick ropers), Lewis Cubitz, Jonas and Ethel DeArman, Roy Quick, Ruby Roberts, Lee Robinson, Richard Merchant, Alvin and Milton Carter, Ben Johnson, Dan McAnally, Sam and Buck Stewart, Jazbo Fulkerson, Booger Red, Jr.; Wild Cat Bill Rogers, Louise Hartwig, Bohlie Chandler and Florence Hughes Penton.

Fog Horn Clancy, accompanied by his son, Pat, who already is a big hit with his rope spinning and jabber, has been pulling "em in" mightily at movie houses with his North of 78 Rodeo picture in Texas. The Houston Chronicle recently gave the Clancys a crackerjack mention, along with a two-column-wide cut, while they were on a return engagement at Houston. This recalls that about a week ago, Fred (Fog Horn) wrote the Corral: "I noticed some time ago in the 'column' where I suppose someone had asked if I would be with the 101 Ranch Show on the road next season. At that time I was figuring with the management, but I decided to stick to the rodeos, but believe me, there is no person in the world that I would rather work for than Colonel Joe Miller—he is certainly a prince with a wonderful personality, and I sure hope that they go over big. I have not fully made my plans for the season, but expect to play with my picture from one rodeo to another, and probably will confine my rodeo activities to directing for others instead of promoting for myself."

"RUBBLES" FROM SACRAMENTO, CALIF.

Dusty Ball, of Davis, just came to town to get his Billboard and a book, How To Stay in the Middle of a Break. Boys are glad the crutches he had to use for two weeks are under the barn for keeps.

Al Goss, of Browning, Mont., is here. Has his pigging ropes ready for the first show.

It is said Chub Morgan is to have a full-grown line moving by van that band of elk from Del Paso Park to Land Park in Sacramento.—Just like doing his regular stuff," so said Jimmie Esperson, of Chico, Calif.

"Montana Red" Tate made a flying trip to "Sac" from Arbuckle, Calif.—happy, prosperous and busy.

Spike Cofer, of Santa Rosa was in town for a day—shaking hands with friends and smilingly saying "howdy."

Carl (Spider) Lee, of Chico, isn't in town—it just seems that way.

"Josh" Henry says the boys and girls of this vicinity have not been doing their share toward giving this town mention. A rope spinner (think it was Ray Hill) did mention Sacramento on the stage—but maybe he only wanted to "swear nice"—at his ropes, or something."

Association Red (Gene Farwell), Murry (Tex) McBride and others of the boys all dressed up ready for Barby's Show—Bob, are you going to send those show dates in to the Corral?

Bill Stockwell, it is said, has worn out all his spinning ropes and gone to the hills with Mr. Gilde's cattle.

Jimmie Sullivan was overheard telling Bob Noble, of Dixon, Club Morgan and others about the "wild cow" hitched to a buggy at the Monterey Show. Said cow fell down. To be sure, she was unhurt. One of them "officers" came out to raise "the poor cow", but she got up and ran him off the lot, jumping over the fence. "Oh! for lots of cows like that—ah! for outdoor life!" was the expression uncocked.

"Buffalo" Vernon—Let us hear from you. One of our readers asks if you know that Jack Joyce is back, and if you recall the trip with Joyce in Europe?

Dot Vernon is living in Arizona and doing well, according to word recently received.

Member when some of the hands left the 101 Ranch Show to play contests? Understand some of them are going back to their first show, the 101, when it troups this spring.

Annie Oakley—Some of our readers are inquiring about you. Let's have the news.

"Hootis" Killinger—A reader would like to have your address, also wants to know if you are going back into the arena in 1925.

A reader wants to know if Texas and Walker and the Dallas Walker roping act in vaudeville are one and the same.

F. C. St. Louis—Yes, the Will Rogers you refer to is the one writing the tobacco ads. We understand that Rogers doesn't smoke and never did.

"Where is T. Y. Stokes, the colored cowboy?" asks a reader.

Col. Fred T. Cummins, ill at the Banning Sanitarium, Banning, Calif., is improving greatly. He will appreciate letters from friends. Write him!

That 40-Horse Hitch

George (Punch) Irving, who read the recent items in The Billboard concerning the 40-horse drivers, also the story in the February issue of the Elks' magazine, believes he can enlighten some of the "boys" regarding this matter. He says:

"With all due respect to Jake Posey, who, in my opinion, is as clever as they make them in his line, will say that in 1874 James Cameron drove 40 horses on the band wagon in the parade with the Ben Maginley Show thru the East. He closed before the season ended and J. W. Paul took his place and drove the same 40-horse hitch the remainder of the season. This I know, as I was with the show. It was a large show for those days. The management carried 200 head of stock, a menagerie and featured a two-horned rhinoceros, which was brought into the ring attached to a pole and led by its keeper. It was a good circus, and among the performers were the Carroll family of riders, including Barney Carroll, little Dolly Vardon Carroll, who rode on his father's head; Willie Carroll and Annie Carroll, also Willie Showles, who was a little boy then—10 years old. He chummed around with me every day, I being not much older. Jacob Showles, Willie's father, also was a rider and juggled globes while lying on his back on a horse going around the ring. Mrs. Showles did a strong act. The three Russian athletes also were with the show and Wm. Smith was the principal clown. Prof. Collier had the side show and Hank White had the candy stands (where I boarded the first three weeks, living on gingerbread, peanuts and lemonade) and slept in a wagon. Those were the happy days.

"In 1875 the Cameron Oriental Circus and Egyptian Caravan toured the East under Jim Cameron's name, but closed in Halifax, N. S., for reasons best known to themselves, in August.

"I think Mr. Muldoon is mistaken regarding Mr. Paul's driving 40 horses with the Murray Show in 1870, as it was only a seven-car show and did not have its own cars. I don't think there were 40 horses in all with the show, but if there are any of the folks still living, besides myself, who were with the above shows they can verify my statements. The 40 horses driven by Mr. Cameron were hooked up in the same way as was described by Mr. Posey and driven the same. It's a wonderful achievement anyway and would create a sensation today, but on account of the advent of automobiles they would almost have to be hooked up to an airship in order to get room. An air parade will be the next thing, I guess, or none at all."

Money Talks

You perhaps have heard it say "good by," which indicates that the wise use of money is a greater problem than the ability to get it.

Three dollars invested in a subscription for The Billboard is a "gilt-edge" investment.

Look for the subscription blank on another page of this issue. It makes it easier to "sign up".

season, as usual, will have several novelties for approval, so it is said. The Coogee Carnival has been doing fairly well so far this year, all things considered. The absence of anything like summer conditions has given the workers little opportunity to make big money. The Chelaflo Brothers, who have introduced the new Cage of Death, are presenting their hair-raising feat under most extraordinary conditions. The feat is being done by motor car, also by motorcycle and sidecar. The novelty is the conception of Cyclist Hagney, who was one of Australia's most prominent riders some seasons ago. The whole constitution is an Australian idea, building and presentation.

New Cambria County Fair Will Expand

Organization Already Possesses Excellent Plant

Plans are going forward for the second year of the new Cambria County Fair, Ebensburg, Pa., and quite a bit of expansion is anticipated by those in charge. The new fair, sponsored by Charles M. Schwab, the steel magnate, succeeded the old organization, which died a natural death due to lack of interest several years ago. The new organization bought the property of the old association on account of the excellent location for the track. This was rebuilt and all of the buildings on the property are new and modern.

The plant consists of about 100 acres of the best located real estate in the county, 13 buildings, grand stands and judges' stand. Additional buildings are being planned for erection this spring in order to take care of the large displays and exhibits that are sure to be offered this year.

While the plant is large, the cattle and swine departments were very crowded last year, and it is hoped to be able to overcome this at the next fair.

Plans are being worked out for the erection, in the near future, of an industrial building. Cambria County alone could fill such a building, according to Gwendolyn Berkebile, assistant secretary, as there are many and varied industries in the county aside from the mining and steel industry. This, it is believed, would prove a most educational and interesting feature.

Among the buildings on the fairgrounds is a dance pavilion. This will be opened about the Easter holidays and will continue thruout the summer and fall. A number of other features are being considered but nothing definite has been decided upon.

Collins Lands Grain Belt Fairs in N. D.

Chicago, Feb. 25.—W. J. Collins, of the World Amusement Service Association, returned last week from the Northwest and announced that he had signed free-contract contracts for the Grain Belt Circuit of fairs in North Dakota. The fairs will begin June 15 and close July 25. They are located in the towns of Bottineau, Rugby, Cando, Devils Lake, Langdon and Hamilton. It is considered one of the best early time circuits in the Northwest.

Mr. Collins also landed the entire platform amusement contract for Caro, Mich.; the fireworks contract for the fair at Saginaw, Mich., and the entire free-contract for the fair at Kalamazoo.

New Site Leased

For Central Louisiana Fair—Is Admirably Located

Alexandria, La., Feb. 21.—The Central Louisiana Fair, which for the last three years has been showing on City Park grounds, has leased for a permanent site 257 acres of land half a mile below the eastern limits of the city. The lease carries a purchase privilege that may be exercised any time within the next 10 years.

The new location is on the Pershing Way, a hard-surfaced highway, only a short distance from the end of the Third street car line, fronts on Red River, is traversed by the State canal and the L. R. & N. Railway, and is, altogether, a most admirable fair site.

The territory of the Central Louisiana Fair covers 21 parishes (counties) with a population of more than half a million. The dates for 1925 are October 19 to 24, inclusive.

Hoosac Valley Fair Earlier Than Usual

North Adams, Mass., Feb. 28.—Decision has been made to hold the annual Hoosac Valley Fair August 13, 14 and 15 this year. Selection of the three days in August was made because of the fact that no other dates were open until late fall without conflict with other fairs.

This will make the Hoosac Valley Fair one of the earliest in the East, and the first of the circuit in Eastern New York, which will enable it to offer its patrons an exceptionally good racing card and entertainment program.

International Fair in Hungary

Announcement has been made that the International Fair will be held in Budapest, Hungary, April 18-27.

The fair was organized and will be under the direction of the Chamber of Commerce of Budapest. Invitations to other nations to exhibit have been issued. The holding of this fair indicates Hungary's recovery from war conditions.

Fair To Have New Stand

Youngstown, O., Feb. 25.—One of the largest and most modern grand stands in Eastern Ohio is to be erected at the fairgrounds at Canfield by the Mahoning County Agricultural Society. The new stand, to be of steel and concrete, will cost approximately $100,000. Work is to be started immediately and should be completed before July 4.

The Schuylkill County Fair Association, Shenandoah, Pa., made a profit of $12,000 last year, the annual report shows. Receipts of the fair were $51,985 and expenditures $39,533. Racing purses for the fair totaled $12,919.

Two Fair Aid Measures in Kansas Legislature

Topeka, Kan., Feb. 24.—Two county fair aid bills were introduced in the State senate February 13, one providing for State aid and the other for county aid.

The State aid bill (S 409) would provide that county and district fairs shall receive aid not to exceed $2,000 from a $200,000 appropriation for the next biennium. Aid would be proportioned as follows: For the first $1,000 in premiums, 80 per cent; second $1,000, 70 per cent, and third $1,000, 60 per cent.

The county aid plan bill (S 394) would provide for aid voted by the county commissioners as follows: Counties of 10,000 population or less, $300; counties of between 10,000 and 20,000, $600; counties of between 20,000 and 35,000, $1,000; counties of between 35,000 and 60,000, $1,500; counties of more than 60,000, $2,500.

Similar bills were introduced in the house.

Del-Mar-Via Circuit Meets

Salisbury, Md., Feb. 24.—As guests of the Wicomico Fair Association, secretaries of the member organization comprising the Del-Mar-Via-Penn Fair and Racing Circuit met recently at the Wicomico Hotel here to outline plans for the 1925 season.

James M. Crockett, of Pocomoke, was re-elected president and David J. Ward, of this city, secretary of the parent association. Salisbury was selected for the 1926 annual meeting.

Several changes were made in dates of the circuit's fairs for this summer for the benefit of the horsemen racing at the several fairgrounds, and the carnivals. Salisbury's fair will be held from August 18 to 22.

Dates of the other fairs were fixed as follows:

Cambridge, July 21-25; Harrington, July 28 to August 1; Pocomoke, August 4-8; Tasley, August 11-15. Dates were not set for the West Chester fair.

Several representatives from carnival shows, free attractions and other features of amusement and entertainment were present at the meeting but contracts to show at the fairs were consummated at the discretion of each of the secretaries.

Stampede for Edmonton Fair

Edmonton, Alta., Feb. 25.—A stampede for the summer fair here was approved by the exhibition directors at yesterday afternoon's meeting in addition to the list of attractions reported secured for the Western Canada Fairs' Circuit.

For the spring show a high-jumping competition was approved. Government judges are to be secured again for the exhibition.

Sesquicentennial May Have "Glad Way"

Immense Stadium Also Planned for Big Philadelphia Exposition

Philadelphia, Feb. 25.—The amusement section of the Sesquicentennial Exposition to be held here next year may be known as the "Glad Way", according to tentative plans made public by Mayor Kendrick.

Just how extensive the "Glad Way" will be will depend upon future developments.

The exhibition grounds will cover about 200 acres in the extreme southern part of Philadelphia and will adjoin the Navy Yard. The central feature of the plans is the stadium, expected to be the largest in the world, seating 100,000 persons and containing terraced standing room for 150,000 additional spectators.

The grounds extend from beyond Broad street east toward the Delaware River. Around the sunken gardens and lagoons the plans provide for foreign government buildings, a federal government building and structures to be erected by the States. Every State in the union has been invited to participate.

Mayor Kendrick has named George H. Biles, director of public works in the Mayor's cabinet, to take charge of the entire building layout and construction. He will serve without extra compensation.

Records Broken by Orlando (Fla.) Fair

All records for attendance were broken by the Sub-Tropical Mid-Winter Fair at Orlando, Fla., this year. Total attendance for the first four days of the fair passed the $0,000 mark, the third and fourth days each recording an attendance of 25,000.

The attractions at the fair this year are declared to have been ahead of those previously seen here. The pageant, The History of Florida, given by Prof. Ebsen twice at the fairgrounds, was an unqualified success, every seat in the grand stand being taken.

The Johnny J. Jones Exposition had a splendid week at the fair, shows, rides and concessions getting a good play.

Montana, Dakota, Wyoming Fair Meeting

Bert Hammond, manager of the Midland Empire Fair, Billings, Mont., advises that fair secretaries and managers of Montana, Western Dakota and Northern Wyoming will hold a meeting in Billings March 18 and 19.

Calgary, Canada, is proud of the Calgary Exhibition and Stampede, and is leaving no stone unturned to give it the widest and most favorable publicity. The Cowboy Ball, held February 6 at the Palliser Hotel, Calgary, added to the New Zealand All-Black Rugby team. Several members of the team may be seen in the foreground of the picture, too, may be seen Mayor Webster (squatting with cowboy hat in hand), the Premier (standing next to the Mayor), and E. L. Richardson, manager of the exhibition, with cowboy hat in hand. On Mr. Richardson's right, with chaps on, is one of the two Maori boys who are members of the Rugby team. Only a small portion of the crowd in attendance can be seen in the picture. Fully 2,500 persons were present. The entertainment is declared to have been one of the most unique ever staged in Calgary.

She astonishes critics with her fearlessness, fearless skill and ability while in the saddle. She rides the highest going Menage Horses in the world regardless of their height. Some new feats and stunts by Miss De Shon, with four horses and a barrel on the highest seesaw in the world, that will linger long in the memories of those who witness them. A Military Drill that will put to shame any regular soldier. The only "Leap-Frog" Wife, that clears the backs of six head of ponies and mules in one jump. There was never any other. A Swinging Trapeze and Rocking Chair Pony, that phases and surprises all onlookers. Horses that imitate hobby horses. Four Bucking Mules. The owner will give $500.00 to any man who will remain on the back of either fifteen seconds after word is given. Patay, a blind wonder. He is acknowledged to be the best talking and mathematical equine ever seen. He talks in language too plain to be understood. Miss De Shon will appear with a pink-skinned beauty, hooked to carriage, without bridle or reins, controlling him by a few motions of a whip. She will start, stop, back him, trot and run him, swing him in and fro, turn him partially or wholly around at a lashing gait. In fact, go thru all the evolutions in as perfect a manner as could be done with the reins in the hands of the most skillful driver on a well-trained horse. She will give an exhibition of a horse in the act of running away while hooked to a carriage that will cause the hair of many to stand on end. For further particulars address D. M. BRISTOL, care Dr. G. E. Chesley, Rochester, New Hampshire.

For details as to the merits of above acts all parties interested are referred to DR. G. E. CHESLEY, Manager and Secretary, Rochester Fair.

J. C. Simpson Sees Prosperous Year

Thinks Combination of Conservatism and Optimism Good Omen for Fairs

Chicago, Feb. 24.—That the coming season will be a good one for the fairs, altho not a record breaker, is the opinion of James C. Simpson, president of the World Amusement Service Association, in an interview with representatives of The Billboard today.

"From all of the signs thru which I am accustomed to arrive at conclusions," said Mr. Simpson, "I look for a good and satisfactory fair season this year. I do not look for records to be shattered, but I think I see indications of an optimistic conservatism that figures as it goes and that is taking time to figure safely and intelligently. This is better than being in too much haste as has sometimes happened in the past. I do not think the fair secretaries are buying heavier in their amusement programs. Rather, I am inclined to think they are retrenching somewhat. They are figuring carefully, but they believe in the future."

Mr. Simpson spoke of an impression prevalent in some quarters that county fairs are "slipping". It is a subject that he has looked into with considerable detail.

"County fairs are not slipping," he declared. "There will always be occasional failures in fair circles, but I believe in the vast majority of cases you will find the real reason in some weakness of personnel in the management. The same rule applies to fairs that prevail in the business world at large. I believe 75 to 80 per cent of failures in fairs is due to some defect in the management of the fair that falls down and the other 25 per cent is due to rain. It is hard to beat rain. Last year was not a good year for fairs on account of the general and terrific precipitation."

"Another thing—automobiles have made the county fairs instead of injuring them, as some people predicted and perhaps still believe. One we did well to make one fair a season, where now it is easy to visit a half dozen of them and never miss the time. I see nothing basically wrong with the county fairs. Of the 1,500 or more fairs in the country there is no one fundamental weakness to be fought. Failures, as I said, are individual matters, as they are in the world of commerce."

Three-County Fair for Southeastern Idaho

Is Probable—Improvements for Twin Falls Fair—Lewiston Association Gives Up Charter

The passage by the Idaho Legislature of a bill providing a way by which district fairs may be organized and maintained will probably make possible such a three-county fair for southeastern Idaho. The Billboard is advised by J. M. Markel, secretary of the Twin Falls County Fair, Ellers, Id.

The Twin Falls Fair, Mr. Markel states, will remain under the same management as for the past eight years. P. C. Meredith is president and Mr. Markel secretary. Plans are being made for extensive permanent improvements, and the institution is amply financed. Dates for the 1925 fair are September 8-11.

The Idaho State Fair received what is probably a final knockout when the present Legislature refused to appropriate $35,000 for its biennial maintenance.

Ladd New Hawkeye Secretary

Ft. Dodge, Ia., Feb. 27.—James H. Ladd has been appointed secretary of the Hawkeye Fair and Exposition, succeeding H. S. Stanbery. At the same time Mr. Stanbery secretary of the fair since its inception several years ago, was appointed manager of the amusement park, which will be built on the fairgrounds this spring, and was placed in charge of the Exposition Park residence addition, opened to the public last fall.

Mr. Ladd comes to the fair relation with a wealth of experience in work.

He has been a prominent figure in the local association at each fair time, assisting in the live-stock divisions and in the conduct of the races. He has been associated with Southern Illinois fairs for years. His work with the fair begins March 1.

Several innovations will be made in the next fair, Mr. Ladd stated today. At a meeting of the board next week these changes will be discussed and announcement concerning them made.

Penna. Fair Men Will Meet in Harrisburg

The annual meeting of the Pennsylvania State Association of County Fairs will be held at the Bolton Hotel, Harrisburg, Pa., March 19 at 1:30 p.m. At this meeting the annual election of officers will be held and other business transacted.

FAIR NOTES AND COMMENT

H. D. Lawrence is doing field work for the Illinois Fireworks Company, of Danville, Ill.

The Hornell Fair Association, Hornell, N. Y., will take over and sponsor the annual oratorical contest that for years has been held here among the students of Hornell High School.

Arthur L. Brooke and George West, members of the executive committee of the Southeastern Exposition, Atlanta, Ga., were visitors at the South Florida Fair, Tampa.

September 28 to October 3 are the dates set for the 10th annual National Swine Show, Peoria, Ill. "There is every reason to believe this show is going to be bigger and better than ever," says Miss G. A. Fossett, secretary.

Two big celebrations are being planned by the Grundy County Fair Association, Trenton, Mo. An old-fashioned barbecue will be held in connection with a race meet and patriotic entertainment to be held at the fairgrounds July 4. The fair will be held September 1-4.

The Elko County fair board, Reno, Nev., has sent a questionnaire to all of the citizens of the county in an effort to ascertain the sentiment of the county regarding the holding of future fairs. Upon the result of the questionnaire will rest the decision of the board to hold future fairs.

S. D. Borham, who has served as secretary of the Fond du Lac County Fair, Fond du Lac, Wis., for eight years, declined re-election this year. His successor has not yet been named. S. W. Keys and Maurice Fitzsimons were re-elected president and treasurer, respectively.

Taylor G. Brown, secretary of the Winnebago County Fair, Oshkosh, Wis., is spending several weeks in Florida visiting Florida fairs. "I found the South Florida Fair at Tampa mighty interesting," Mr. Brown writes, "and I think the manager, Mr. Strieder, is building up a wonderful fair."

Plans for the construction of a new main building at the Steuben County fairs, Bath, N. Y., are being considered. Henry M. Robie, president of the Steuben County Agricultural Society;

John M. Farr, secretary, and James Fawcett, treasurer, have been appointed a committee to look into the cost of a new building and a new horse barn.

Among the free attractions at the South Florida Fair, Tampa, were Nagel's Wonder Dogs. One of them does a feat from a tall ladder and all are well trained and do interesting stunts. The troupe attracted the attention of a feature writer on one of the Tampa dailies and was given a splendid feature story told in the form of an interview with one of the dogs.

Officers of the Sesquicentennial, Philadelphia, have been moved to the old Supreme Court Building and former city hall at Fifth and Chestnut streets. In announcing plans for the sesquicentennial Col. Collier, director general, said economy of operation and absolute freedom from illegitimate money-making will mark the exposition. "Not one cent of graft for anybody," is the way he put it.

Jack W. King, general manager of King Brothers' Free Attractions, has been awarded a contract to play a return engagement at the Gloversville, N. Y., fair. "Our show went over big there last year," says Mr. King, "and I deem it an honor to play a return date. The officials are an unusually fine bunch of men and it's a pleasure to show for them."

The Hill County Fair Association, Hillsboro, Tex., which has been in the hands of a receiver for the past 10 years, has been turned back to the stockholders by Receiver Woodall. All debts have been paid and almost $1,000 is in the treasury. When it was taken over the association was in debt to the extent of nearly $10,000. It has been operated for the last five years thru an agreement between the stockholders and the receiver. The profits have been used in improvements.

The Orange Blossom Festival at Sarasota, Fla. is going to be made an annual event. The fair, which is on this week (opening March 3), promises to go over big. Gastoff, of Danville, Ill., who built many of the beautiful floats for the Gasparilla Carnival at Tampa, has built the floats for the Orange Blossom Festival and attended to the decoration of streets and buildings. Evans Takes Over Massachusetts Park

Former Luna Park Manager Believes He Has Winner in Joyland

Springfield, Mass., Feb. 26.—Herbert Evans, for nearly six years amusement manager of Luna Park, Concy Island, N. Y., and who resigned from that position last July, has taken over Joyland Park here and announces that he will throw open its gates May 30.

Mr. Evans will be remembered as having introduced the successful circus at Luna Park, a feature that made an immense hit. Joyland is located within the city limits of Springfield, on the Boston road, the main road serving Hartford, Springfield, Worcester and Boston, and is reached by trolley lines and city-owned buses. In the park is a fine ten-acre lake with splendid boating and bathing facilities. The park also includes a ten-acre tract of land. One of the buildings already on the site is a ballroom. Men are now at work installing new and up-to-date rides, free shows, games and concessions. In fact, everything that is new and original which will tend to draw and hold the people of Springfield who are seeking clean, wholesome amusement and recreation.

Mr. Evans is confident of making the park a money-making proposition. He has made a study of local conditions and says the public of Springfield is amusement hungry.

A number of picnics have already been booked and it is expected that there will be many Sunday-school and fraternal gatherings at the park during the summer. Mr. Evans has secured the services of a most efficient staff, which includes Peter Meyer, architect, connected with Luna Park for more than 20 years and who laid out the plans for Joyland, and John Schavel, Jr., auditor of Luna Park for seven years, who resigned that position last August.

The wonderful possibilities of an all-year-round park in Florida seem about to be realized. It is announced that Midway Amusement Park, St. Petersburg, Fla., will be operated 12 months in the year. Construction on this newest playground is already under way and it is expected the park will open about October 1 next. A. J. Bodkin is manager.

ELMER I. BROWN

Mr. Brown has been engaged as director of booking outings, picnics and special contests of all fairs for Woodlawn Park, Trenton, N. J.

Golden City Park

Canarsie, N. Y., Feb. 28.—All is hustle and bustle on the Canarsie shore in preparation for the opening of Golden City Park. The Rosenthal Brothers, owners and operators, have been busy all winter laying out plans for the further development of the park.

All devices and booths are being thoroughly overhauled. A full working crew of mechanics is speeding up things so that everything will be in shipshape when the bugle sounds. The work of tearing down the Niagara ride, on which location will be erected a modern mill chute, is progressing rapidly. The frolic site will be used this season for the dangler. The scooter is being enlarged and more cars added. A motordrome will be a new addition and will be located near the fun house, which is being redecorated. Fight fans will be welcomed in a newly constructed arena, with a seating capacity for several thousands.

The preliminary opening is announced for St. Patrick's Day, March 17, and from then on the park will be open on Saturdays and Sundays until May 30. Landscape Gardener Casey has returned from Palm Beach and will immediately begin laying out the floral spots which add so greatly to the beauty of the park in former years. Anna Stark, treasurer, will again be at her post, as

Kilonis and Parelli Are Chicago Visitors

Chicago, Feb. 24.—John Kilonis and Joe Parelli, who purchased Crystal Lake Park, Manchester, N. H., last year, are here arranging for shows, rides and concessions for their park. They report a very satisfactory season last year and wonderful prospects for the coming season. Many new features are being added to the park, one of which is a huge dancing pavilion. The dancing space was limited last year and was crowded to capacity all the time.

Another feature will be a large loud-speaking radio set, which is being installed as a free attraction.

Messrs. Kilonis and Parelli said no carnivals can come to their town and consequently the park gets the big play. Both boys are well known in the carnival world, having had athletic shows with nearly all of the big caravans. Both are top-notch wrestlers. They will make their headquarters in Chicago until April then go to their park in Manchester.

Contoocook River Park

Harry E. Taylor, lessee and manager of Contoocook River Park, Concord and Pentecook, N. H., is at present spending

ROSELAND, WATERBURY, CONN.

This magnificent dance palace at Luna Park, Waterbury, is a favorite resort of pleasure seekers throughout the summer. Between now and the opening date the park is to be considerably improved, and it is promised that many new features will greet the public when the 1925 season gets under way.

will have most of the concessionaires who have been associated with the park in seasons past. Jack Rosenthal has been enjoying a deserved vacation for the past 10 days at Atlantic City, while Irving Rosenthal has been attending to the many park activities.

Golden City Park promises to be more golden than heretofore and a wonderful season is anticipated by all connected.

R. R. SIMMONDS.

Woodlawn Park

Trenton, N. J., Feb. 25.—Woodlawn Park will open Saturday, May 16, for its fifth season. Very elaborate plans have been made for a big season under the management of Chas. C. Hildinger and George D. Bishop, owners.

Elmer I. Brown, of Cincinnati, O., has been engaged as director of booking outings, picnics and special contests of all kinds.

Many improvements have been made, one of special note being a covered open-air theater, equipped with a large stage and appropriate scenery. Joseph N. Ruckle will direct publicity for the park.

"The Races" Popular

New York, Feb. 28.—"The Races", the new ride being placed in numerous amusement parks by the Continental Construction Co., of Pittsburg, Pa., is attracting no end of attention, according to General Manager Ollie Rohrbacher, who, returning from a trip, announces sales not only for his ride but for manufacturers in general unusually good.

"The Races" has been on the market only two years, but is seen in many parks in this country and in South America, two having been shipped recently to Buenos Aires.

a few weeks in New York telling his friends of "the most beautiful spot in the world." This park, Mr. Taylor said, is on the Contoocook river in the hills of New Hampshire, which are noted for their beauty. This will be Mr. Taylor's eighth season at the park. Mr. Taylor says he is going to give the park the brightest color it has ever had. He is also spending a considerable amount in enlarging the park, he states.

Among the amusement features at the park will be band concerts, free outdoor fireworks, roller skating rink, dancing pavilion, cafe and restaurant, bathhouse with one of the finest beaches in New Hampshire, shooting gallery, penny arcade and various other concessions. Mr. Taylor has booked many picnics for the coming season.

Coney First in Field

New York, Feb. 28.—Probably the first amusement resort to do business during the year 1925 was Coney Island. From February 20 to 22, inclusive, the weather was unusually warm for this time of the year and it was estimated that 150,000 to 200,000 people visited the island daily during that period.

Several of the wide-awake amusement men were on the job and reaped a considerable harvest. The new Noah's Ark in front of Thyron's Steeplechase Park can continuously to capacity business. The Virginia Reel had them lined up for a solid block.

Of the concessions only two were open. The balloon race and the Coney cablot race were running a race a minute to interested players out for a holiday. Several carousels came in for a good play. All of which indicates that the public is as enthusiastic for outdoor amusement as ever.

Amusement Devices To Be Installed in Fair Park

Little Rock, Ark., Feb. 25.—Hemphill & McQuillin, of Oklahoma City, Ok., have been awarded the contract to supply the new Fair Park here with amusement devices. The contract for $10,000 worth of amusement devices was awarded this firm with approval of the executive committee of the Arkansas State Fair Association and the committee on parks and grounds of the city council. It requires that the devices shall be installed by June 1, and the company is expected to begin work within a few days.

Mayor Brickhouse says that the receipts the city will obtain under the terms of the agreement will be used to install other equipment in the park.

The duration of the contract is 10 years, the city to receive 20 per cent of the revenue derived from the devices. Other equipment will be installed from time to time.

The completion of the new Fair Park here marks the attainment of a long-felt need of the city. The park was opened last October when the State fair used the grounds. Cole Brothers' Circus is now wintering in the park, and a formal opening will probably be held early in the summer when the amusement devices are installed.

Stanbery Will Manage Park at Fort Dodge

Ft. Dodge, Ia., Feb. 27.—H. S. Stanbery, secretary of the Hawkeye Fair and Exposition since its inception, has resigned that position and has been made manager of the Exposition Park project here.

The new park, according to plans of its backers, will be built on the grounds of the fair association. Plans have been practically completed and await only warmer weather for the beginning of construction work.

According to Mr. Stanbery, E. M. Bockey of Des Moines, owner of River-view Park there, recently inspected the local project and offered to take over the concession for all riding devices. His equipment would include a $35,000 roller coaster and other riding machinery. Mr. Bockey, Stanbery stated, was satisfied with the location of the proposed park and its prospects.

Present plans are for the construction of a bathing pool, dancing and roller-skating pavilions and the riding devices.

Hardy Returns From England

James E. Hardy, the well-known high-wire artist and his family have returned from England to America on the steamship Montrose. Mr. Hardy reports that they had a very pleasant and successful business and pleasure trip of nine weeks' duration.

Hardy is now busily engaged in making preparations for the forthcoming park and fair season in the United States and Canada.

Jeff's Gardens

Hamilton, O., Feb. 26.—Herbert Jeffries & Co., of Greenville, O., have purchased a 12-acre tract of land on Dixie Highway, just south of the city limits, where they will build a new park to be known as Jeff's Gardens. Construction work will be started at once. Jeffries is part owner of the Athletic Park, Richmond, Ind.

Park Mortgaged

Bridgport, Conn., Feb. 25.—Pleasure Beach Bridge, spanning Sawlow Avenue, Bridgport, Conn., and Pleasure Beach Park, the largest amusement park in Connecticut, have been mortgaged by the resort operators to the Allegheny Lumber Company for $23,574, an amount still owed for lumber entering into the bridge construction.

Lusse Bros. Busy

Philadelphia, Feb. 24.—Lusse Bros., manufacturers and inventors of the popular ride, Lusse Scooter, are busy turning out their product, and state that they have more contracts for this time of the year than ever before. The company

Park Paragraphs

Belvedere Beach, Keansburg, N. J., promises to be a lively place this season, according to preparations now going forward. R. O. Williams, the live-wire manager, is leaving nothing undone to insure a successful year.

Orest Devany, manager of Luna Park, Millville, N. J., advises that a number of improvements will be made at the park this year.

The management of Habana Park, Havana, Cuba, has been building a large wooden stadium in a corner of its grounds in the heart of the city. It was reported that they were going to try to run some bullfights in this arena, but apparently the mayor, Senor de la Cuesta, has seen fit not to grant this privilege. The mayor gave the Habana Park management 15 days from February 21 to tear down its stadium. It appears that the park company did not have any license for the erection of this amphitheater and the police have been instructed not to allow continuation of the work.

No more stunt or fancy flying by aviators will be permitted in New Orleans, according to an order issued by Superintendent of Police Molony, as a result of the death of Frank A. Walker, of the Gates Flying Circus. Walker was drowned in the Mississippi at the foot of Canal street February 19. A plane in charge of William Brock, after several flights over the city, on which Walker did clever stunts on rings fastened to the bottom of the plane, suddenly darted toward the river. When within 15 feet of the water Walker dropped into the stream and sank immediately. Brock explained he received signals of distress that Walker could not hang on much longer, and, failing to sight a suitable landing place, flew for the river in the hope that a passing vessel might rescue the acrobat when he fell. Mr. Gates, manager of the circus, said Walker was a new man and was learning to walk the top of the plane.

Joe Laury writes that he has discontinued roller races at the Eighth Regiment Armory, Chicago, on account of other business interests. However, he states that he intends to meet Roland Cionl, Eddie Krahn, Henry Thomas, "Cap" Sofferino and Frank Hees in the near future.

Joseph F. Logsdon opened a new rink at Keyser, W. Va., in December, and writes an optimistic letter regarding business there.

Armand J. Schaub reports that the one-mile amateur race held at the Broadway Roller Rink, Brooklyn, N. Y., February 19, was won by Joe Horak, with Murray Gorman second and Steve Donegan third. Plenty of thrills and spills are said to have taken place during the race. Gold, silver and bronze medals were awarded the winners by Joe De Polo, manager of the rink. The time was 3:22 on a 16-lap track. The feature of the evening was an exhibition time race by Mollie Vuernick. The next event, a five-mile team race, will take place March 5.

Heights Theaters, Inc., based from H. M. Rembach and Oscar Grosberg, of Boston, the ice rink at 555 West 150th street, New York, for 21 years at an average annual rental of $29,000. The rink fronts 25 feet on 181st street and 150 feet on 150th street and extends back 219 feet. The new lessee contemplates the erection of a 2,000-seat theater.

Roy Boyrs, racer of 15 years ago, is now manager of the Riverside Skating Rink, Indianapolis, where he is promoting some interesting events. He reports that Ford Carmin won the amateur championship of Indianapolis February 7 and was presented with a gold watch. The rink is an 18-lap track, and the time was 3:16. Last week another series of races was held, with skaters from all parts of the State taking part. Several prizes were presented to winners by the management. A masquerade party is scheduled for St. Patrick's Day. Another feature of the rink is roller basketball, which has been attracting large crowds all winter.

The second elimination contest for the Cleveland (O.) Amateur Skating Championship was held February 24 at Luna Park Rink under auspices of The Cleveland Press. The first race was won by Tony Audler, one mile in 3:8 4-5; the second by Julia Polnichik, one mile in 3:6 4-5, and the final by John Best, in 2:59.

BALLOON ASCENSIONS AND PARACHUTE DROPS

(Communications to 25-27 Opera Place, Cincinnati, O.)

Groth Brothers, of Charter Oak, Ia., have been appointed agents for the Vincent Balloon Company, featuring Marie Hill in her famous triple parachute act from the clouds.

R. C. Burns, manager of Mabel Cody's Flying Circus, writes from Newport News, Va., that Miss Cody is doing splendidly with her picture work, and has all she can do.

Tampa, Fla., is to have an air port, and if the city shows enough interest to warrant it an aviation school and air mail service. It is said in newspaper accounts published in that city recently. The proposed site is about eight miles from Tampa.

The Russian air program for 1925 provides for the acquisition of 1,050 planes, of which number 500 are to be built in Russian factories (chiefly by the Russian Junkers Company). 350 are to be ordered from the Bekker Company in Amsterdam and 200 from several Italian firms. During the first six months of 1924 Russia bought about 700 modern airplanes in Holland and Italy.

Eugene Smith, aviator and exhibition flyer, who has been connected with the San Antonio (Tex.) Aviation School for the past year, lately visited in his home town, Wheeling, W. Va., en route to Washington, D. C., to take the necessary examination for the Aerial Mail Service. Smith formerly was engaged in the business of sky-writing advertising, and worked for well-known tobacco companies.

More than 50 civilian aviators of Southern California have organized and issued a safety code governing flying while carrying passengers. Each aviator assenting to the code pledged himself not to do stunt flying while carrying passengers. He also agreed to certain restrictions as to ordinary flying and to the condition of his plane. The acceptance of the code does not affect stunt flying by aviators while in the air alone or in motion picture or other commercial work calling for it, but refers only to safety of passengers and to consideration of persons on the ground.

Clifford B. Harmon, millionaire real estate man and pioneer aviator, has suddenly leaped into the late Gordon Bennett's place as the Maccenas of aviation. Harmon has announced two trophies and there will probably be a third next year. The two are: Harmon cup for international balloon races, to take the place of the Gordon Bennett cup, won by Belgium;

H. OF A. S. CLUB'S MASK BALL AGAIN A BIG "WOW"

Annual Dance-Party, Semi-Formally Winding Up Organization's Winter-Season Social Functions, Repeats Its Former Success From All Angles

KANSAS CITY, MO., Feb. 24.—The annual masquerade ball of the Heart of American Showman's Club took place Saturday night in the spacious ball-room of the Coates House with an enthusiastic and large attendance. This will probably be the last big, semi-formal entertainment of the club, altho the little informal, after-meeting Friday night dances will continue for the month of March at least, in the club rooms, each week.

The usual motley crowd was there, "peasants" dancing with "kings" and "aristocrats", "tramps" with ladies of high degree, black-face comedians with dainty little soubretts and Peter Pans, clowns and their "clownesses", pierrots with their ladies, and the "sheriff" mingling goodnaturedly with the "outlaw" fraternity. The affair was the big success it always has been.

It was the custom heretofore to hold this masque dance St. Patrick's Day, but it was voted by the club and the ladies' auxiliary to move its functioning up a month, as there would be more showfolks in town than during March, as some of them will have gone to show winter quarters or started on the road. The attendance was one of the largest of the 1924-1925 season of the club's social activities.

At 10:30 the grand march took place, with all the dancers masked, parading before the judging committee, which was composed of Louis Hemlinway, secretary of the club; F. W. Deem, one of the directors, and Irene Shelby, local representative of The Billboard. It was decided that Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hoskins, appearing as George and Martha Washington, had the most artistic costume, and the first prize of $5 for the best costume was awarded them. G. C. Loomis won the second prize of $3 for the most comical character as "Andy Gump".

J. C. Simpson Leaves Zeidman & Pollie

Resigns as General Manager and Severs All Connections With the Enterprise—Successor Not Yet Appointed

Spartanburg, S. C., Feb. 27.—An announcement of outstanding interest to the show world was issued today from the headquarters of the Zeidman & Pollie Shows to the effect that James C. (Jimmy) Simpson, the past year general manager of the big amusement organization, had just severed all his connections with the same, he having disposed of all his interests in the enterprise.

Announcement was also made from the executive offices of the company here that all engagement contracts for the coming season made for the show by Mr. Simpson up to February 21 will be fulfilled to the letter by the management.

When asked today Mr. Simpson refused to divulge his plans, but said that an announcement will shortly appear in The Billboard regarding his future activities.

A great deal of interest is also centered here this evening on who will fill the vacancy on the executive staff of the shows. Henry J. Pollie has been very enthusiastically and successfully active the past several weeks as their general representative, in which capacity it is possible he may continue. The appointment, however, has not up to this writing been decided on, as William Zeidman stated that no successor to Mr. Simpson as general manager had yet been appointed.

Tuesday there was an interesting incident at the winter quarters of the show when "Sheba", one of the lions, gave birth to two cubs. Hundreds of the citizenry of this vicinity have visited Camp Wadsworth to see these new arrivals. Work at the show's winter quarters is in full blast and there is much activity manifest in order to get the building, rebuilding, painting, etc., completed in good time for the scheduled opening in Spartanburg April 11.

Showman's Club, was present for a little while, but had to leave early, as he is just recuperating from a severe illness of several weeks' duration, but all were glad to see him up and about and taking active part in the club's affairs. Mrs. Viola Fairly, president of the Ladies' Auxiliary, and her husband, Noble C., motored from Leavenworth to spend the evening, and were a lively part of the scene, remaining until midnight. Mrs. George Engesser made a picturesque and comical appearance as a "rag doll"; Mrs.

Bruce Smith in Kansas City

Secures Cars for Blue Ribbon Consolidated Shows

Kansas City, Mo., Feb. 25.—Bruce A. Smith, general agent and assistant manager of the Blue Ribbon Consolidated Shows, of St. Paul, Minn., was in the city today and was a caller at The Billboard office. Mr. Smith was here from Chicago to purchase some baggage cars for his organization, which deal he consummated this afternoon and left for St. Paul. Mr. Smith informed that this show, which is to stage its initial voyage, would open at Benson, Minn., May 11, with a nifty midway of three rides, seven or eight shows and a flashy line of concessions. Mr. Smith stated that he has a hunch of fairs and celebrations lined up, commencing in June, and that it is the intention of the management to head south when cooler weather sets in next fall.

George Johnston and Hughey Brothers Launching Show

George W. Johnston, well-known outdoor showman, last season assistant manager of the Lipka Amusement Co., informed last week from New Orleans, La., that, in conjunction with Hughey Brothers, of Chicago, he will take out a gilly carnival with about four cars

Beckmann-Gerety Again Get State Fair of Texas

For Fourth Consecutive Year Wortham's World's Best Shows Will Furnish Midway at Lone Star State "Plum"

Clarence A. Wortham's World's Best Shows are to again, for the fourth consecutive year, be the midway attractions at the State Fair of Texas, at Dallas, the coming fall. While many predicted that this plum, which is considered one of the biggest fairs in America, would fall to the Beckmann & Gerety interests no official announcement of the facts was forthcoming until the close of the meeting of the fair secretaries in Chicago, when William H. Stratton, secretary of the State Fair of Texas, announced that the contract had been awarded to Beckmann & Gerety, owners and operators of Clarence A. Wortham's World's Best Shows.

Reports coming from St. Louis, where the show is wintering, indicate that its fall offerings will be decidedly different and considerably larger than in former years. It has been the aim and method of both Mr. Beckmann and Mr. Gerety to make changes in their features in former seasons and try to establish new attractions while they were new. In keeping with this they have promised the show world to give it many things that are new this season, and in the fall present at Dallas the concentration of the best they have or shall be able to muster during the season of 1925.

Mourn Passing of Kirby

A letter received early last week from R. Marshall, of J. T. Pinfold's Central States Shows, from Stuart, Fla., informed that the body of P. J. Kirby, Jr., who was killed in an auto wreck near Jupiter, Fla., had been sent to Mr. Kirby's father at Columbia, Tex. Mr. Marshall stated in his letter that the deceased was very popular with the personnel of the show and that the entire company was mourning his untimely end.

The fatal accident occurred while Kirby and a Mr. Kellum were en route on a truck loaded with show paraphernalia from Okeechobee City to Fort Pierce, when the truck turned turtle while passing around a sharp curve in the road, rolling over several times and pinning Kirby beneath it. Kellum was badly cut about the head.

C. R. Morgan's Shows

Kansas City, Mo., Feb. 26.—C. R. Morgan, of C. R. Morgan's Greater Shows, advises the local Billboard office that work is progressing rapidly at the general offices and headquarters of this show in Wichita, Kan., and that they will start their first season on the road March 30. Mr. Morgan plans to be ready on opening date with 7 shows, 2 rides and about 30 concessions. The show will play stands in Kansas, Nebraska, Missouri, Oklahoma, Texas and Arkansas.

Two Carnivals Arrange for Stands in Alton, Ill.

Alton, Ill., Feb. 24.—According to announcement recently made here two carnivals have been signed for Alton during the coming April. Licenses had been applied for from Barth Kennedy, city clerk, and leases had been taken by both companies on Sportsman's Park and Idlewild Park, the two carnival grounds of Alton. The companies are the D. D. Murphy Shows and the Barlow Big City Shows, both of which have had their winter quarters in St. Louis.

Will Wright Transfers to Conklin & Garrett Shows

Will Wright, the past four seasons on the executive staff of the Lovitt-Brown-Huggins Shows as secretary and treasurer, advised from Montana last week that he severed connection with that organization and had accepted an attractive proposition as secretary-treasurer with the Conklin & Garrett Shows. Mr. Wright stated that he was leaving the L.-H.-H. Shows in the best of friendly terms, and that he is in vaudeville for the winter and expects to join Conklin & Garrett about April 20.

FRED BECKMANN AND BARNEY GERETY

Messrs. Beckmann (in the oval) and Gerety, owners and operators of Wortham's World's Best Shows, are among the most widely and popularly known members of the outdoor amusement world.

J. H. Johnson was charming as a lovely little "Peter Pan"; Mrs. G. C. Loomis as "Sis Hopkins" (a character she has been "doing" for the past 15 years) was excellent; Duke Mills, as the "bluff Western sheriff", was right there with good-natured fun; Ellis Hughes, better known as "Alabama", was observed partaking of the gayeties; Mr. and Mrs. Lester Hutchison arrived from Montgomery, Ala., where they had been spending the winter, especially for this ball. Mickey Roscoe, well-known water clown, was there in his own "part", as were Mr. and Mrs. Brandt as "themselves", and many others. Col. Dan MacGugin officiated as door man and ticket taker, and there is none better, as handling pasteboards and receipts is his line.

C. F. (Doc) Zeiger, chairman of the Entertainment Committee, was very efficient, keeping the fun from becoming too hilarious, seeing that the six-piece colored jazz orchestra gave the right number of encores, promoting "hey" dances and everything that would be required of his position. Gertrude Parker was pleasing as a little country maid.

Mr. and Mrs. George Howk, former presidents of the club and the auxiliary, respectively, were both present and enjoying every minute of the evening and welcoming everybody cordially. A grand climax to a winter of outstanding social events was the vote of all for the fourth annual Bal Masque.

Mrs. Allen Back to the Leggette Shows' Quarters

McGehee, Ark., Feb. 26.—Mrs. Myrtle Allen, wife of Prof. Jean Allen, of the C. R. Leggette Shows, has returned to the winter quarters of the show here after undergoing an operation a few weeks ago and recuperating at Hot Springs, Ark.

and consisting of about 4 shows, 3 rides and 20 concessions. The operating title had not yet been chosen. The opening is scheduled for some point in Missouri about May 1. Hughey Brothers have for the past several months been with Miller's Midway Shows in the South. Johnston will be in charge of the advance and Robert Hughey will officiate back with the show. Mr. Johnston further advised that he had sold a half interest in his airplane swings to C. A. Merritt, who was immediately taking charge of this ride. They were preparing to leave New Orleans this week with the swings, a Ferris wheel, 1 show and 12 concessions, exhibiting on the way north.

Tipps and Frazee Soon To Leave San Antonio

San Antonio, Tex., Feb. 26.—H. H. Tipps and Sid Frazee, heads of the Royal Exposition Shows, with several other showfolks and concessionaires who have been wintering in San Antonio, will leave here March 14 for Oklahoma and make ready for the show's opening April 11. Mr. Tipps and Mr. Frazee are old hands in the outdoor show game, both having many years' experience, and are this season spending their best efforts toward the success of their organization. Mr. Tipps will act as general agent and Mr. Frazee will handle the show.

John T. Wortham Shows Re-Engage B. Aguilar

B. Aguilar, the past two seasons musical director with the John T. Wortham Shows, advised from Houston, Tex., last week that he had again been engaged as bandmaster by that organization for the coming season. He also informed that he just returned from Mexico City, Mex., where he played with a jazz orchestra at one of the prominent places of entertainment.

George Hennessey Tells About Booming Sarasota

Chicago, Feb. 26.—George Hennessey, long absent from this frontier, has written The Billboard from Orlando, Fla., where he has been selling real estate during the winter months. He writes in part as follows:
"Since closing with the circus in 1921 I returned to the carnivals, going for two seasons with the Rubin & Cherry Shows, being with the L. X. L. Ranch Wild West the season of 1923, with which I continued when it joined Johnny J. Jones' Exposition, and was with it during the season of 1924, closing at the Jacksonville (Fla.) Fair. I came to Orlando and went out with the winter show on Winkins' motordrome.

"I have associated myself with the Sarasota Beach Developers, working out of Orlando. I believe this to be Florida's fastest growing city, and that is saying a mouthful. I have recovered from the accident that California Frank, Mamie Francis and myself were in at Erie, Pa., September 23, 1916, altho my left leg troubles me some now and then. Last winter I had Weaver Gray, one of the world's greatest ropers. He is now with the Sparks Circus. This winter Bill Mossman, with the Ringling-Barnum Circus last season, a boy I consider the equal of any of them when it comes to trick and fancy riding, and an A-No. 1 roper, too, spent some time with me and filled a few vaudeville dates that I book every year down here. Bill made a wonderful hit at the Tampa Fair with his trick riding and played the fair under Joe Green's management. I may go with the Jones Show again, but shall be permanently interested every winter in Florida real estate."

Bernardi Greater Shows

New York, Feb. 23.—With Altoona, Lewiston and Lebanon, all in Pennsylvania and in the order named, added to the list of fair dates contracted by Manager William Gilek, of the Bernardi Greater Shows, this carnival already has a promising lineup of State and county association gatherings.

Mr. Gilek has surrounded himself with a helpful corps of assistants and announces that he will carry no superfluous paraphernalia to enlarge upon the appearance of his show, but will confine all space on the large train, except the sleepers, etc., to amusement devices and shows to be used for the entertainment of visitors to the showgrounds.

Recent additions with midway attractions include Jimmie Hodges, with a rifty 10-in-1; Victor Lee, formerly of the Morris & Castle Shows; Paul Vervey, with a monkey speedway, and William Purchase, with a new and novel platform attraction.

The show will play day and date on the same lot with the Ringling-Barnum Circus at Baltimore this season. All of which is according to a representative of the above show.

Hock Company Enlarges

Chicago, Feb. 27.—The E. A. Hock Company continues to enlarge its premises and facilities. This big concession supply house has just taken over another entire floor of the building at 171 North Wells street. The firm now occupies the second, third, fourth, fifth and sixth floors of the building, which covers an area of 50,000 square feet, and contemplates leasing the ground floor May 1.

Lippa on Business Trip

sive opening; everything "bing-bing!"—business!!

Harry A. Rose was one of the "early birds" in the carnival business. In fact, Harry had a taste of it on the Midway Plaisance at the Chicago World's Fair in 1893.

H. A. N.—The story of the fire at Russell Bros.' quarters appeared on page 11, last issue. However, here's thanks for the interest you manifest in sending in news.

The Rork & Clark Carnival Shows played Mexical, Mex., week ending February 14. Deb. received a copy of The Rounder, a local paper, which gave them nifty mention.

M. Pimentel, of Miner's Model Exposition of Rides, writes that work is well under way at winter quarters toward getting the outfits in good shape for the coming season. Pimentel says he wonders what has become of "Pop" Connors.

Report from East Gary, Ind., last week, was that Capt. O. E. Jellison, owner of a Deep Sea Show, formerly with the World at Home Shows, Johnny J. Jones and others, was recently elected chairman of the Church Board of that city.

J. E. Newman writes that he is "parked" in Gastonia, N. C., until the bluebirds get well rehearsed in their warblings, and he asks: "Why do we not get more news from the minute-picture men and on how their winter's work has been?"

E. H. (Bill) Cates postcard that since closing last season with the Morris & Castie Shows he purchased the Capitol Cafe at McKinney, Tex., and, as he has been doing fine with it, expects to be off the road at least one season—even the sort of hard—after 10 years of trouping.

leans and was getting ready for a long season with the A. F. Crouse Shows. He returned via North Carolina and stopped off at Mt. Holly to pay the Buffington brothers a visit. Says he found all three of 'em veritably "champing at the bit" to get back to the road and building some new concessions.

Received three communications—last week, in each of which the writer stated he would be with the "Wortham Shows". Somebody page a good mindreader (which one of 'em, Wortham's World's Best or the John T. Wortham Shows?)! Deb. tried to figure it out, but rather than give the wrong show laid all three of them aside until the communicants learn the correct title (at least the operator's name) and inform us.

Well, anyway, Deb. "scooped" Ed Salter's Johnny J. Jones Exposition News in presenting the group picture of Mr. and Mrs. Jones and Johnny J., Jr. The News dated February 15 had it, but "Deb-Dab" had talked nice to the carnival editor and it (along with a winter-quarters picture "containing" Ed and another "scoop" on the News) was in The Billboard dated February 14.

H. C. (Tom) Aiken and wife are located at Hutchinson, Kan., where H. C. is with the City News Stand. He writes that showfolk can make their rendezvous when in town at the stand and that they sell The Billboard, which holds a prominent place on their racks. Also infod: "Mrs. Belle Kehoe, who is visiting her father here, paid us trouper (my wife and me) a pleasant visit.

G. M. Fields, of the Fields Paper Products Co., of Peoria, Ill., who is vacationing in Europe, sent a group photo taken outside the Alhambra Palace Hotel, Granada, Spain (photo too dark for reproduction), and on the reverse side penned in part: "Was most agreeably surprised to find a late issue of The Billboard in the writing room of this hotel, and got quite a "kick" out of it."

H. A. Smith, formerly with the Great Patterson Shows and other caravans as agent and last season with the Brown & Dyer Shows as second man, will again be with B & D, and expects to leave Hannibal, Mo., this week for Poughkeepsie, N. Y.—winter quarters. Incidentally, Mrs. Smith presented her "hubby" with a 10 1/2-pound baby boy recently and naturally H. A. wished to play with the youngster a little before starting the season's grind.

Eddie Greeno, John Maddox and Rex Ingram and wife and mother motored from Washington, D. C., to Baltimore, where Greeno's police dog, "Peter Pan", was exhibited at the Dog Show. The canine was raised by Ingram. None of these persons will be trouping this season. Greeno is conducting kennels near the Capital city, where the Ingrams have a pet shop, in addition to their animal business in Pennsylvania.

Louis Grasser infoed that after spending a wonderful winter vacation at the home of his wife's sister at Nevada, Mo., he and Mrs. Grasser were leaving to join "Daddy" Hildreth's Dixieland Shows at Helena, Ark. Mrs. Grasser celebrated her 55th birthday anniversary recently, and there was a party with a number of old friends present. Her hubby informs that his better half has spent 23 years in the "good old show business". (Come to think of it, Mrs. Grasser, there was a chance for an "allibi"—could have been 23 candles on the cake.)

Reports from the home State of Alpine, the Florida fat girl, are that she and her manager, E. V. McGarry, are putting in a pleasant and profitable winter season with Billie Clark's Broadway Shows. During a fishing party in Punta Gorda recently Alpine used her 632 pounds as leverage in banking what is claimed as too great a catch for three men to master. She is a niece of the late Senator Blitch, of Florida, and is as socially popular in that State as she is as an attraction. At present she is making all jumps in her newly purchased auto. Early in April Alpine will rejoin the Zeldman & Polle Shows for another season.

Remember, this is no one individual's "column". It's yours, provided you are a midway man or woman. Deb. is seeking no personal "glory" and as far as the current news of the folks is concerned "he" is but a sort of "universal joint" (if you understand auto parts) in the "transmission" of it to the readers—your brother and sister showfolks. And right here let's say that there's a lot of interesting "confab"—happenings, doings of folks, etc.—not being sent in. There are no special correspondents to Midway Confab. Would have all feel that they (each person) are as much "in on it" as anybody else. So, as Gasoline Bill Baker says in his Pipes for Pitchmen, "shoot" it!

The following appeared recently in Everyone's, published at Sydney, Australia, pertaining to the head of the Ethel Jones Amusement Enterprise: "Mrs. Ethel Jones, who has been established over 25 years in the Australasian and New Zealand carnival field, now controls such attractions as Chefale Bros., in their Cage of Death; Lefty, the Canadian Giant; Coney Island Water Show, the Algerian Wonders, the Bohemian Boy Glassblower, and many others. This well-known show-woman controls a wider area of space at the Sydney showgrounds (and elsewhere) than any other carnival attraction management. Her various side shows open at the Adelaide Exhibition in March. Sid Russell, well and favorably known all over Australasia, is acting as representative for Mrs. Jones."

Read where a local business organization in Texas promised the "town dads" that if they legislated against carnivals bringing in their amusements the mem- (Continued on page 90)

bers of the "combination" would see to it there would be a "plenty" of outdoor entertainment, including band concerts on the streets and other similar attractions. Yeh, an' they even advised that they would pay the expenses. Possibly they didn't think of it, but they could also distribute cheap palm-leaf fans and trinkets among the assemblages (probably on hand except when some nearby town hasn't a carnival with joyful riding devices, professional bands, shows, free acts and a world of lights and other out-of-the-year-round ordinary amusements in it) gratis of course, having the firms' business ads on each of them.

"Irish Jack" Lynch, veteran speller, stopped off in Monroe, La., for a few weeks, and previous to the opening of the C. A. Nail Shows visited the C. Jack Shaffer Shows, meeting among others the following "oldtimers": "Whity" Kalne, glass blower; Fred Patterson, Buck Denbey, Aille Pope, C. C. Glenn, Mrs. Glenn Red Wing, Mrs. Chas. Sutton, Willard Lackey and "Hot Shot". Jack says he will handle the Minstrel Show with the Nail Shows, which opened at Monroe February 21, for a while, and that among the "oldtimers" with that caravan (in addition to Capt. Nail, with whom he tramped on the Bostock-Ferari Shows) were "Happy" Holden, L. E. Duke, Doc Stanton, "Bullhead" Johnson and others. Says Capt. Nail has a fine outfit, all last year's properties being made over in winter quarters.

According to a newspaper article, if the Community Club at Mapleton, Ia., has its way, no street carnival companies or medicine shows need apply for license to exhibit there. The article didn't detail what business members of the club are engaged in, but it did state that plans were under way to supply the town with band concerts this summer on Wednesday evenings and Sunday afternoons; also that at the next meeting of the club, March 16, the farmers of that vicinity will be invited to attend. Wonder if the town-band concerts are to substitute for the joyous riding devices, entertaining shows, etc., of the carnivals; also the comedians, singing and musical acts, etc., of the free open-air medicine shows, from the club's way of figuring? Also wonder what outdoor show fans (also citizens) at Mapleton think of the proposition?

Having spent a pleasingly restful lay-off in Dixie since the close of last season, the longitudinal T. W. (Slim) Kelly visited Cincinnati February 24 on business in connection with the framing of the side show he will have this year, for his third consecutive season, with the Zeidman & Polle Shows. Visiting that Kelly told of during a call at the offices of Billyboy included a fishing party with Col. Phil. Eisworth, announcer with the Johnny J. Jones Exposition, and Bert Davis (Uncle Hiram Birdseed) at Safety Harbor, Fla., and another meeting with these gentry and folks of the triple "J." organization at the South Florida Fair in Tampa, where "Uncle Hiram" was a conspicuous booster of the "rejuvenating qualities" of the spring waters of Safety Harbor—the widely-known "rube" exploitationist being a representative property holder of "the town without a doctor". "Slim" also renewed acquaintance

AND HERE'S TESSIE!

Tessie Ton, the jolly fat girl, exhibited with the Gentry-Patterson Circus a part of last summer and closed the season with the Walter L. Main Circus. She spent most of the winter with the winter show of Scott's Greater Shows, and is now visiting her daughter, Mrs. Ruth Hoover, in Cincinnati. She expects to return to the Scott Shows within a few weeks for the new season.

Another Eclipse Expected WITH THE SPRING NUMBER OF The Billboard ISSUED MARCH 17 DATED MARCH 21

Packed and jammed with data of vast interest to everybody in the amusement profession, those of the outdoor fields in particular. Illustrations in abundance. A cover in four brilliant colors. Appropriate lists of all kinds including, FOR THE FIRST TIME IN ANY PUBLICATION, A TABULATED CIRCUS INDEX, showing at a glance what cities and towns throughout the United States and Canada had railroad circuses of more than two cars, as well as the dates, in the past five years.

Then there will be the usual Circus and Carnival Rosters and last, but by no means least, a number of special articles by writers who KNOW their respective fields as follows:

ROBERT E. HICKEY
Former general press representative of the John Robinson Circus. Mr. Hickey is returning to that institution after a year's contract with the World Amusement Service Association, Inc. Previous to his circus connection he was publicity promoter for seven years with J. Alex Sloan. He has also been connected with many daily newspapers and the Associated Press.

PATRICK CONWAY
So wide and favorably known in the music world is Professor Conway that an introduction is hardly necessary. With his fine conductorship and superb concert programs the Conway Band has been winning many laurels at Willow Grove Park, Philadelphia, for the past 18 or 20 seasons.

AL FLUDE
Mr. Flude, editor of The Platform Department of THE BILLBOARD, is one of the best authorities in the chausauque branch of the entertainment world. His articles will deal with the lyricism.

JOS. C. MILLER
The name of "Colonel" Miller in the Wild West world is a household word. He and his brothers are returning to the fold the coming season with the famous "101 Ranch" after an absence of some years. Recuss of this article from him should be all the more interesting.

MRS. FRANK W. GASKILL, JEAN DeKREKO, GEORGE F. DORMAN, HAROLD BUSHEA, W. H. RICE

JAMES F. DONALSON
Thru his long connection with amusement enterprises, particularly circuses, as press representative, and many years devoted to the daily newspaper field as news writer, reviewer, etc., Mr. Donaldson has been able to study thoroly the connecting links between amusements and the dillies, and it is on this subject that he will contribute an article.

ROBERT F. DEMOREST
Mr. Demorest, owner and manager of the Demorest Stock Company, has been in the show business some 23 years. With cleanliness as his motto, he has established a very good reputation in the south, both in houses and under canvas.

BARRY GRAY
Mr. Gray has spent about 35 years in the show business, entering it as a singing comedian in 1883. Before retiring from the road some years ago to enter a commercial field he was connected with circus side shows, where he did a marionette act; in fact, he did marionette manipulating for approximately 31 years in vaudeville and with circuses and other shows.

W. R. HIRSCH
Mr. Hirsch is one of the best informed as well as most popular fair secretaries in the country. He has been successfully guiding the destinies of the State Fair of Louisiana for many years, first serving as president, then president-secretary, and for the past 10 years or more as secretary.

FRED W. PEARCE
Mr. Pearce is a widely known builder and operator of roller coasters and other park rides and is thoroly conversant with conditions in amusement parks throughout the United States. His long experience qualifies him to speak with authority. His subject should be of great interest to park men.

with Bedouins of Billie Clark's Broadway Shows in the Peninsular State, and dropped in at winter quarters of the Z. & P. organization in Spartanburg, S. C., for a few days while en route North. Before reaching Cincy he saw Ethel Dore, of water show fame, at her home in Washington Court House, O. Until the latter part of March, when he will return to Spartanburg, Kelly will put in most of the time at Chicago.

Nearly all showfolks east of the Mississippi River know or have heard of the veteran agent, Col. W. W. Downing (in his 70s), mention of whose recent accident, a letter from Col. Downing to Deb states that he probably will be confined to his bed or room for several weeks, that he suffers intense pain in one of his legs cannot wait on himself, and that he is badly in need of financial assistance from showfolk. He fell on an icy pavement, and for a while it seemed that his whole left side was paralyzed, which feeling, however, was later found to be caused by nerve shock, the more severe because of his advanced age. Col. Downing may be addressed to Room 37, Corona Hotel, 568-570 Main street, Buffalo, N. Y. Incidentally he also stated that he would greatly appreciate visits from outdoor showfolks in or passing thru Buffalo, if only for a few minutes' "confab".

Showfolks you meet—those who really "help":
The spreader of "sunshine" who always greets you with a smile—even tho there are dark clouds in his own business horizon.
The sensible man or woman who does not fall victim to vanity because of successes.
The thinking fellow who says "I think" instead of "I know" when he is not quite "sure".

The woman (or man) who doesn't imagine that almost every other woman (or man) is in love with her husband (or wife) because she (or he) is! (In this Deb, doesn't mean to take a slam at any individuals—it might do some good toward the peace of everybody with companies.)
The real man who does not maliciously "broadcast" your mistakes when trying to make himself appear a "big guy".
The real showman who passes a helpful idea (that he doesn't need himself) to a brother trouper without "three-sheeting": "I put him next to it!"

The concessionaire who realizes that the shows and rides are the real foundation of his stands being there—anywhere.
The carnival man or woman who has the stamina to "broadcast" the many good, winning points of their profession, and say: "The crowds visiting our midways prove that this is a popular branch of entertainment, and if we were not so popular with the general public there would be no need of opposition-knockers using their hammers!"
"Pickups" from Wise Shows:
While the "bunch" sat around the stove in the winter quarters the other day the question of ages came up, and Johnny Bullock admitted he was old enough—well, to know there is no Santa Claus.
Pat Brown, "big boss" of winter quarters, says he has built so many boxes he warns everybody not to even as much as talk about a box after the shows opens.
Dooley Ridley, who will again be the producer of the Minstrel Show, arrived in Bessemer and is starting to whip his show into shape. Dooley promises a "hot show" this year.
"Dad" Girard is not letting the "grass grow under his feet". He has been out getting ads for the show and is making wonderful headway.
The new penny arcade is about to get off the mt. The boys and visitors are good customers. Pat Brown says that if the boys are missing from the midway he will know where to find them.
Doc Angel was best man at the wedding of Otto Criss and Dorothy Howard. Doc says being best man is all right, as one has a chance to kiss the bride—and Dorothy is a beautiful blonde.

Looks Like Two Fall Festivals at Augusta

Relative to a reference in the "show letter" of the Zeidman & Poille Shows in the issue of February 21 that the show had booked the Fall Festival at Augusta, Ga., and a published communication in last issue from W. T. Buck, chairman of the Exchange Club, Augusta, that the Z. & P. Show will not play the Fall Festival under auspices of that club, as it had booked the Johnny J. Jones Exposition, the following telegram was received by The Billboard from Henry J. Poille, general representative of the show bearing his name:

"Zeidman & Poille Shows have Augusta booked under auspices of the Tall Cedars, Lebanon Forrest, No. 87, a Masonic order, for the week of November 2, and it will be called the Fall Festival on the Green showgrounds. The opposition had no agreement signed when our contract was made, therefore same was made in a showman-like way. We have no dealings with Exchange Club. Mr. Buck is right."

Harry A. Rose Goes To Golden Rule Shows

Harry A. Rose, well-known general agent, was a Billboard caller February 25 while passing thru Cincinnati from Buffalo, N. Y., to Texarkana, Tex., to join the Golden Rule Shows as general representative and traffic manager.

Harry appeared in excellent health and apparently had taken on quite a bit of flesh since his last visit to the Queen City. He has been wintering at Buffalo, and stated that the cold weather seemed the more severe to him as he had spent the previous several winters in the South. Incidentally Mr. Rose has had a great deal of general agenting experience in Texas, Oklahoma and Arkansas, in which territory the show will operate, and this doubtless will stand him well in hand in his new affiliation.

"Johnny J. Jones Exposition News"

The Johnny J. Jones Exposition News (Vol. VI, No. 1), eight eight-column pages, edited by Edward R. Salter, and, as customary, printed at Orlando, Fla., recently made its appearance. It is replete with comment on the show along with numerous cuts of its amusement attractions and personages, humor and "philosophy" by its editor, announcement of the Jones executive staff for the coming season and a very attractive, promiscuously arranged display of Orlando commercial advertising. There are also front-page articles on the Sub-Tropical Fair and the City of Orlando respectively by J. C. Brosler, editor of The Reporter-Star, and Wm. M. Glenn, editor of The Morning Sentinel.

John G. Robinson Has Three Circuses on Hand

John G. Robinson has been spending a great deal of his time the past few weeks with his connections with indoor circuses, for which he has prepared and will direct the programs.

For the program of the Indoor Circus in benefit of the Firemen's Death Fund at Pittsburgh, Pa., week of March 9, which event was originally contracted by the late Sam McCracken, and since looked after by Mrs. McCracken, Mr. Robinson has contracted the following list of acts—nearly all of which will present additional turns to their feature numbers: Hanneford Family, with Poodles; Famous Nelson Family, Pickard's Seals, Aerial Youngs, Aerial Solts, Gene Dekos Troupe, Three Mardos; Vic Bedini, with a comedy dog, pony, monkey and horse act; Robinson's Military Elephants, Five Fearless Flyers and numerous clown numbers, with Art Adair, Chas. (Shorty) Flemm and other circus "joys" participating.

For the Shrine Circus at Louisville, Ky., week of March 23, Mr. Robinson has arranged the following program of acts—including their "second turns": Hanneford Troupe, with Poodles; Jim Dutton's Society Circus (11 people—several acts), Six American Belfords, Aerial Youngs, Aerial Kelleys, Five Fearless Flyers, Robinson's Military Elephants, Three Mardos, Silvers Johnson Trio, Vic Bedini's dog, pony, etc., number; Gene Dekos Troupe, and a coterie of clowns, including "Shorty" Flemm.

For the Shrine Circus at Music Hall, Cincinnati, week of March 30, for which Mr. Robinson has arranged the big program the past two years, he will provide the same list of acts as the Louisville show.

John T. Warren, well-known circus press representative, has been engaged to attend to newspaper work for all three of these events.

Cleveland Flower Show

Cleveland, O., Feb. 28.—Displays valued at $500,000 are to be exhibited March 28 to April 4 in Cleveland's annual Flower Show. A four-week campaign designed to dispose of 20,000 tickets will open at once, with Timothy Smith in charge. Included in the displays will be castle gardens and 20 other complete gardens, models of garden planning, exhibits of flower arrangements, thousands of cut flowers and plants, royal display of orchids, retail florists' competitive exhibits, aquariums, exhibits of plants and flowers grown by school children, and the pageant of flowers, entitled The Victory of the Rose.

Bedinis Well Booked

Sir Victor Bedini's trained horses, an act in which Madame Bedini also features, were one of the big hits at the Shrine Circus in Detroit. They are at Saginaw, Mich., this week, with three weeks to follow under John Robinson's auspices at indoor circuses; then two weeks at St. Louis, and are well booked until their fair dates begin. Sir Victor's Yankee Doodle Horse (Gold Fox) has tricks which Bedini offers $5,000 to see duplicated anywhere. The Bedinis were with the Ringling Circus 1914, '15, '16, '17, and have had other important engagements since coming to this country from Europe.

Alexandria, Va., Feb. 28.—The Kiwanis Spring Carnival will be held at the armory the week of April 13-18. Harry B. Caton, chairman of the entertainment committee, is planning a number of special stunts to be put on each evening.

Wichita Shrine Circus

Chicago, Feb. 26.—Billy Lorette got back today from the Shrine Circus at Wichita, Kan., which he says was a huge success. It began the week of February 16, with Fred Whitlock as the producer. Among the acts were the Flying Wards, Blake's mules, Lillian Kinkaid, Charles Rooney's riding and comedy-riding acts, Aerial Youngs, and among the clowns were Billy Lorette, Paul Jerome, Earl Shipley, Lew Plamondin, Art Borelli, Frank Stout and "Shorty" Flemm.

Billy said he met Dan Dix, of the 101 Ranch organization, in Wichita, and took a lot of auto rides with him around town. Mr. Dix was in Wichita having his throat treated. Lorette worked the previous week at the Shrine Circus in Detroit, which was held at the Coliseum in the fairgrounds, and which opened the week of February 9 for two weeks. Lorette's next date will be at the Shrine Circus at Saginaw, Mich., the week of March 2. Orrin Davenport, who produced the circus at Detroit, also will be the producer at Saginaw. Lorette said he has been signed by the World Amusement Service Association for the A Circuit of Canadian fairs.

Sanitary refrigeration will be a feature of the exposition. Many other objects of interest to housewives will help make the show one of the best ever held in the South.

Chambers Adds to His Array of Circus Talent

The R. M. Sarasota Sets New Mark In Fireworks Displays

"The Carnival of Venice", "The Stage Coach Robbery", "Naval Warfare Practice" Among Special Festival Features

Sarasota, Fla., Feb. 28.—Charles Duffield, president of the Duffield Company, of Chicago, is giving his personal attention to the fireworks program of the Sarasota Orange Blossom Festival, and has come to this city to supervise the pyrotechnic production. The displays will be even more elaborate than originally planned.

The program the first night will include "The Carnival of Venice", and "The Auto and the Cop", special features in addition to the regular program to be presented every night, consisting of "Star of the East", "Radiant Cascades", "Cross of Malta", "Yellowstone Wonders", "Devil Wheels", "Radio Wheels", "Carnival of Imps", "Niagara Falls", "Pyro Carnival", "Screaming Geysers", "Enchanted Messengers", "The American Flag", "Grand Finale" and "Good Night".

The second night the special features will be "Naval Warfare Practice" and "The Fighting Roosters". The third night will include "The Stage Coach Robbery" and "Spark Plug". The fourth night "The Bombardment of Fort Mifflin" and a comedy, while on the fifth night "Comedy Land" and "Chase of Comedy" will be the features.

"The Carnival of Venice" was the sensation of the great State fairs last year, carrying spectators to the dreamy, fanciful city of canals and gondolas. The number will be spread across the entire field. At the end of the picture in fire will be depicted the Cathedral Santa Maria Della, bordering on the Grand Canal. Next the Venetian homes adjacent to it, and finally the beautiful Rialto bridge. Next will be shown the canal and gondolas, with fair swarthy, faithfully portrayed, all in glimmering jets of colored lance fire. Suddenly the carnival spirit will be indicated by a riotous display of colored Romans, that closes the scene in a fairy-like glow of rainbow hues. The second feature of the opening night, "The Auto and the Cop", is a laughable burlesque on the bane of every auto driver. The demon cop on his motorcycle is seen in his mad effort to overtake the auto, whose driver is using too much "gas", all outlined in fire. "Naval Warfare Practice" shows the maneuvers of the United States fleet, battleships, destroyers and submarines in target practice, exhibiting their skill in sending to the bottom an antiquated vessel. The well-directed shots from the naval guns and their telling effect in the destruction of their objective present a most thrilling spectacle. "Spark Plug", Barney Google's famous protégé, will be shown well incased in his well-known blanket, all cleverly designed and executed. "The Stage Coach Robbery" will be reproduced with all the familiar thrills of the Deadwood Gulch episode. It will be presented in a series of set pieces, portraying the different subjects in the spectacle. First will come the typical early day coach, and next the band of outlaws, mounted and on foot, surrounding their victims, followed by the barking of rifles as the shots fly back and forth between the robbers, driver and passengers. The spectacle of historical importance is "The Bombardment of Fort Mifflin", showing belching cannon returning the fire of the British ships, the Dragon and the Wasp, and, as the terrific detonation dies, the Stars and Stripes will be seen in radiant colors waving in the breeze above the fort.

On the closing night fun will prevail in keeping with the spirit of "Hi Jinks" Mardi Gras, and, besides "Spark Plug", "Mutt and Jeff", "Andy Gump and Min", and a dozen others, will be in the fireworks display. The exhibition will be staged on Golden Gate Point, the ground having been donated by the Gulf View Park Company to provide an unobstructed view from any point along the Bay Shore.

New Orleans Host to 50,000 at Mardi Gras

Carnival This Year on Magnificent Scale To Observe 98th Anniversary

New Orleans, Feb. 28.—Approximately 50,000 visitors assisted New Orleans to celebrate the 98th birthday of Mardi Gras. Promiscuous masking has been indulged in since Shrove Tuesday, 1827; Mardi Gras parades began 10 years later, and with the exception of a temporary lull during the World War have been continued with pomp and grandeur growing with each successive celebration. L. M. Pool, president of the Marine Bank, was Rex, king of the carnival, this year, while Margaret E. White ruled the court as queen.

Natchez Is Early Bird

Natchez, Miss., Feb. 28.—As a preliminary to warm up for the big doings here when the State convention of the American Legion will be held, August 17-18-19, members of Herbert J. Remondet Post will stage their fourth annual July 4 celebration by enlarging upon the affair in all its branches. In former years the legionnaires had crowds of about 5,000 participating in the celebration of this country's natal day. For the purpose of increasing the attendance this year the show will be advertised in a greater territory. It will be composed of free acts, baseball, racing, auto polo, band concerts, dancing, and a fireworks display depicting a night battle in France. Concessions will be run by members.

OUT IN THE OPEN

By Fred G. Walker

Communications to The Billboard, 1493 Broadway, N.Y.

The Coney Island Atlantics, one of the oldest organizations on the Island, will hold its annual minstrel show and ball at Stauch's Pavilion March 17.

Friends of Mrs. S. C. Edson, owner of the Monarch Exposition Shows, will be pleased to learn that she recently was removed from the hospital, where she had been quite ill for some time, to her home at Astoria, L. I. Mrs. Edson informs of the purchase of a new merry-go-round and that the situation looks very bright for a profitable coming season.

At the last general meeting of the Coney Island Chamber of Commerce that body went on record against all legislation designed to infringe on the rights and liberty of the people on Sunday. In a resolution, passed unanimously, the organization calls the proposed amendments to the Sabbath law "unreasonable, unfair, unjust and inequitable."

The opening date of the Narder Bros.' Shows is announced for April 11 at Philadelphia on a location said to be directly opposite that selected for the Sesqui-Centennial Exposition, 13th and Itzler streets. This is according to Edward K. Johnston, general agent for the shows.

James S. Sisson, who operates the cookhouse on the Otis L. Smith Shows, sends in from Tampa, Fla., a nifty collection of advertising matter exploiting the Elks' Charity Circus to be held in that city March 9-14.

John E. Friedman, well-known booking agent of circus acts, who has a number of attractions with the Santos y Artigas circus season, reports that business in Havana this year has been considerably off, but takings in other Cuban cities have been up to the standard of former years. Cafe entertainments in Havana are given as the reason for the slump.

It is understood that Roy (Champ) Jones, formerly of the Ringling-Barnum Circus, and B. H. Nye, well-known press agent, are about to launch a two-car circus under the title of B. H. Nye Great Railroad Shows. The opening date is announced for the latter part of March in Louisiana.

Ollie Rohrberger, general manager the Continental Construction Co., Pittsburgh, Pa., dropped in to the office last week from a cross-country trip, during which he exploited the redeeming qualities of his new ride, "The Races". Ollie announces having placed three in Canadian

Engage Police Band for Baby Show in Stadium

Terre Haute, Ind., Feb. 28.—A community party and drive for funds for the underprivileged children has been launched here and is gaining much publicity. Hubert and Bauman, well-known directors, are in charge of the affair, and are sparing no effort to put the proposition over in big shape. A baby show is being featured in connection with the drive. This event was started February 20, and at noon the next day the registrations had to be stopped with 235 babies registered, which was capacity for the examining committee. This committee is composed of local and Indianapolis specialists.

The drive and baby show will culminate in the community party March 17. For this occasion the New York Police Band has been engaged, and the entire local police department will act as escort for the talented New Yorkers upon their arrival in the city. Weather permitting, the party will be held in Terre Haute's new Million-Dollar Stadium, which has a seating capacity of 8,500. In the event of inclement weather, arrangements have been made for the use of the Trianon Pavilion, Terre Haute's largest dance hall.

Africa, informed that they had already secured a fine bunch of monkeys, chimps, rare birds and snakes, and expect to land in New York about June 1.

Queen Pearl, perhaps the best known midget entertainer at Coney Island, announces that she has signed for the coming season with Gollmar Bros.' Circus to sing with the big band, Pearl was first featured on the island by Thompson and Dundy, and has been an annual attraction there since with but few exceptions.

H. Shapiro, proprietor of "The Square Deal House", New York City, issues a nifty "silent salesman" displaying wares suited for outdoor purposes and announces that he will shortly have ready a large catalog depicting his numerous items of interest to streetmen, pitchmen and concessionaires.

Edward Russell Salter thinks Webster slipped a cog in allowing shirker to rhyme with worker.

The Vero (Fla.) Press, in speaking of the first Pageant of Progress recently closed, says of the free attraction: "The Flying LeMarrs were the feature of the evening. They gave their big free act, full of daring, thrilling stunts on their trapeze, in the presence of nearly everybody in the city."

A freak calf recently born on the Berkwith Lodge Farm, Harrogate, England, has six fore legs and two hind legs, two fully developed heads and two tails. The two heads are at each end of the body.—World's Fair.

The opening date of season 1925 for the Ringling Bros.-Barnum & Bailey Combined Shows at Madison Square Garden is announced as the last week in March, presumably March 28. There have been numerous requests as to the exact date, but we are unable to give other than this. The length of the engagement is understood to be five weeks.

Hot awg! Take a slant at Frank Latham's contribution to the "lie contest"!

Walter—The heading states (includes) "Medicine Shows" (In answer to your recent inquiry).

Ere a few weeks more have passed most of the "birds" south will have "few" north.

There are now many food shows, winters. Opportunities for demonstrators (Naw, no "kiddin'").

Let's have some squibs from Doc Harry Parker on the old J. T. R. Clark Show. It would be interesting to oldtimers.

W. W., Mexia—Would not know which one of the boys to direct you to for the instructions.

Heard last week that Doc Redwood and Charlie had returned to Indiana from their vacation in Florida.

Haven't had a line from James Ferdon (or Monty, either) in over a year. How goes things on the Coast, James?

The robbers are about to lose their reputation as "forecasters"—but ol' Jack Frost possibly put one over on 'em the past several weeks.

S. L. (Hot-Shot) Holman postcarded from Arkansas that he and Thomas had signed for the subs. privilege with Orange Bros.' Circus for the coming season.

Dewitt—Try Brazel Novelty Manufacturing Company, 1710 Ella street (North Side), Cincinnati, for the article you mention.

Well, who all were at the Mardi Gras at New Orleans? All of the boys got cramped fingers—so they couldn't write a few lines? Whatsay, Bill Danker?

Shanks, the novelty hustler, is still in Central Kentucky. On his postcard he stated he had been doing okeh, but at the time of writing he was "watching it rain."

LIE CONTEST
"I don't think I can compete in the 'lie contest'. I was born on Washington's birthday. Never told one in my 'whole life'."—FRANK A. LATHAM.

Have a dandy pipe from that oldtimer, business-getter Benjamin J. Brunns who is now in California, which we will use in next issue. Glad to hear from you, Ben. J.—several of the boys have been asking about you.

From Dr. Frank A. Latham, from La-

Grande, Ore.: "I opened here today to fair business—despite the wall of 'hard times', etc. Weather here, now, fine for pitching, but too cold to work nights."

Is anyone working the "ruby" glassware these days, inscribing names of purchasers thereon? It used to be a good lay for still-town workers—also concessions with carnivals. It can again be made popular.

Mrs. C. H. Conrad wishes to extend her heartfelt thanks to the many friends of her lamented husband and herself (the Darnocs) for their communications of sympathy and condolence in her hours of bereavement. Mrs. Conrad is still in Kansas City.

Jack Farrington and Harry Carson, subscriptionists, expected to reach Cincy on their trip west from Buffalo, last week, but didn't. Did anyone see a nice big car and two usually bright-faced fellows "hung up" on a big hill, somewhere?

In answer to several inquiries: Boys wishing to get complete information regarding details of the N. P. and S. P. A. No. 1, can get the data by writing the association's secretary, George Silver, P. O. Box 324, Station C, Los Angeles, Calif. All the data received by "Bill" has appeared in the "column".

G. D. Smith, well-known pen worker, arrived in Cincy last week to look over prospects for window demonstrations, expecting to stay in and around town a couple of weeks. Said he struck a local politics snag at Terre Haute, Ind. Would like pipes from John J. Taylor and J. M. Comstock.

R. M. Blair postcarded from Fort Worth that he and his partner, Slim Allurn, were leaving for El Paso. Stated that some of the local "our-home-town" overenthusiasts were very hostile preceding the Fat Stock Show and had tried to shake him down for even working in a vacant store in Main street.

A friend of Henry Collins, the book man of Brooklyn, N. Y., humorously, but good-naturedly called him "Hen" and after a moment's thought added "the Cackler". Henry, incidentally, is himself possessed of quite a wit and immediately answered: "Yep, I'm always 'laying' for orders!"

As you are reading this, doubtless (unless you're staying up all night) Bill is busy with getting the pipes ready for both the current issue and next week's big number. If you haven't sent in your bit, do so quickly—as they will go to press several days earlier than usual, for the Special.

Boys, it behoves all of you to help each other—fraternize—be good fellows (each with the other)—don't help provide "fodder" for the fires of the "knockers" who have been trying their level best to put you on the "pan" with their "us local business men" propaganda.

Chas. A. Lindsley, who has been with the DeVore Manufacturing Company, of Columbus, O., and served as its factory superintendent about two years, is now out making territory, placing Gold Seal Tonic in drug stores, and quite apparently remuneratively. Charles is spending a couple of weeks in the Cincinnati vicinity and, with his effervescent, likable personality, was a visitor to Bill's desk last week.

Jack D. (Slim) Bogard shoots his first pipe in five years, from Wheeling, W. Va.: "Have been in Wheeling and Pittsburgh all winter with novelties and pictures. Haven't seen as many of the boys as usual during winters—probably too cold in this section. Business is not so bad, considering conditions. Wonder where Ray Osborne, the sub. artist; Frank LaRue, the novelty man, also Joe Quinn and 'Dutch' Hurley are? Let's have pipes from them. Well, fellows, spring will soon be here and then we can all get busy—toward a good season."

"A few notes from the Parker Comedy Company, now playing Monroe, Wis.: We had another celebration on the show this week, it being Tom Dalton's birthday. A bounteous supper was served—we did not count the candles on his cake—Tom said there was more than Doc Parker had the week before—that was plenty. Those who sat down at the table were Harry E. Parker, wife and son; Tom and Irma Dalton, Bob Cunningham, Bert Robbins, Christie Bryant and Bud Quinn. We have no dogs as mascots," writes one of the members of the company.

From our Kansas City office: Doc Little Beaver was here for a few days organizing his No. 2 show, which will open at Smith Center, Kan., March 2. The roster includes: U. R. Sharvin, Walter Russell and Merrill Prof.

PITCHMEN, CREW WORKERS, AGENTS

James Shelton, piano; Dora Dean, featuring her hoop-rolling and novelty acts, and the "long and short of it," and Kingsley and Roberts, in slugging, talking and dancing. This is a motorized show, with all new cars this season. Much credit is given the "Crazy Indian Doctor," as he sells his goods and pleases the natives.

From New York—Charlie Roth, formerly a well-known pitchman, is a splendid example of what industry coupled with innate ability will do. Starting in the knife sharpener business, somewhat over a year ago, his business steadily grew until now his own brand of sharpeners are known to many pitchmen. He is the main cog in the wheel of the Keen-Edge Knife Sharpener Company, Inc., of New York. How that boy has progressed! Charlie still makes a pitch once in a while, just for the fun of the old game and to show his salesmen and agents what can be done with knife sharpeners when pitched intelligently.

Paint Without Oil

Remarkable Discovery That Cuts Down the Cost of Paint Seventy-Five Per Cent.

A Free Trial Package is Mailed to Everyone Who Writes

A. L. Rice, a prominent manufacturer of Adams, N. Y. discovered a process of making a new kind of paint without the use of oil. He named it Powder-Paint. It comes in the form of a dry powder and all that is required is cold water to make a paint weather proof, fire proof, sanitary and durable for outside or inside painting. It is the cement principle applied to paint. It adheres to any surface, wood, stone or brick, masonry and looks like oil paint and costs about one-fourth as much. Write to A. L. Rice, Inc., Manufacturers, 115 North St., Adams, N. Y., and a trial package will be mailed to you, also color card and full information showing you how to save a good many dollars. Write today.

In a mention contributed from "Creeks Run Community" in The Salamanca (N. Y.) Inquirer of recent date appeared the following: "Three families reside in this picturesque valley, one of whom is Rolling Thunder, an Indian medicine man of the Kiowa Indian tribe. This Indian chief has traveled over the United States and Canada selling medicine. He still has a large sale of medicine which is made entirely of herbs, known only to the Kiowa medicine men. Rolling Thunder has built a beautiful commodious home for himself and family. It is in a pleasant location with a lovely pine grove above the house, and in a spot where there is a fine view of the country around."

Howard Noonan "shot" from Birmingham, Ala.: "Got my this week's Billboard, spent a couple of hours reading it and made up my mind I was due for a pipe. Have been making expenses, but that is about all. Saw a pipe from Joe LaPoint (Chief Red Bird). Tell him thru Pipes that I am coming out there this spring and help him eat up some of those 'kumps'. Haven't seen a pipe from Daisy Dean, of Market street, St. Louis, for a long time. Tell her not to forget the boys (possibly you mean Jessie Jean, the bead worker, Howard. She isn't "Dean" any more—she's married—BILL). I expect to stop over in Cincinnati in the spring while en route westward. Would like pipes from Guy Warner and Dr. Owen Moore."

Joe Noonan, the veteran specialty pitchman, wrote from Oklahoma City: "Wish to state thru Pipes that I am still holding on to life with a tenacity worthy of a better cause, and am feeling very well at present. Am still a patient at the Tuberculosis Sanitarium. Have had quite a few visitors this winter from the folks making this town winter headquarters, among them being 'Kid' Niles and wife, Jack Isaacs, Eddie St. Mathews, Bill Young, Elmer Kane, Pete Thomas and wife, Benule Price and Mat George. I must say that the boys passing thru (Continued on page 98) here, who know me, have been exceedingly kind to me ever since I have been a patient here, also many others who have written to me. My heartfelt thanks is all I can at this time offer in return." Noonan's address is P. O. Box 1275, Oklahoma City, Ok.

"T-Bone" Ray Adams shoots some notes from Bart's Big Fun Show: "We are in our fourth week at the McDonald (Pa.) Opera House and business has been increasing nightly. Following is the roster: Dr. Harry Bart, owner and lecturer; Mrs. Bart, piano, saxophone, musical bells and xylophones, assisted by their daughter, Rosie Bart; the Tearney Family (of four, father, mother, son and daughter), jugglers, acrobats, singing and dancing, hoop rolling, wire walking, magic and a troupe of eight trained dogs; Francis La Mar, female impersonator, blues singer, dancer and pianist, and myself, fourth season 'back home' as producer, black-face song and dance comic—also play drums in band and traps in overture at night. Everybody doubles in acts and band. I also drive one of the four five-ton trucks on moving day. We are but 21 miles out from Pittsburgh at this stand!"

From Doc George M. Reed, Columbus, O.: "Well, there are quite a few of the folks here yet, including Dr. George A. Groom and wife, Dr. Allen and Dr. Stout, Wayne Garrison, Bill Stisher, Dr. Amos, of Dayton, and George W. Hatfield, the novelty man. Doc Groom and wife and Doc Harmon and wife were callers on Mrs. Reed and me last Sunday and we spent a very pleasant afternoon. The Harmon's entertained at the piano and with singing, and they are sure there with the goods. Noticed John McCluskey's pipe about the robins being in Philly. If it has been as cold in the 'Quaker City' as it has been lately in Columbus, they surely were wearing blankets. Mr. and Mrs. Dougherty (Mickey and Florence) are taking life easy here at present, altho getting ready to start out as soon as the bluebirds sing. The writer, with Mrs. Reed, expects to leave here soon, after storing our furniture and leasing our home for a year, about the time we expect to be away from Columbus."

Dr. Harry Herbert is working over in Missouri. He piped: "While I am far from being a 'gloom troubler' or 'gloom absorber', Ol' Man Dribbler almost got my goat the past few months. My health was rather poor last summer, and after not an 'over prosperous' season, both my little wife and I went into a hospital in November because of her illness and two weeks later submitted to a major operation for gallstones. However, I am happy to inform that I have fully recovered (despite my 71 years) and that I have assurance that my little 'better twidlers' will be able to leave the hospital within two months, cured. I only met a few of the boys in St. Louis, so can supply no other news of interest to pitchdom, unless it be that I am again in the 'sticks' and sure will stay in them for a while. Weather is very nice here for this season of the year. Say! What's become of some of the oldtimers, includ-

Notes from the N. P. and S. P. A., Los Angeles, from Secretary George Silver: "At the last regular meeting of the N. P. S. P. A. among the new members elected, were Jesse Marshall, Roy Pitcher, Art Ashmead, J. W. Hoffman, Jack Pells, H. F. Littlejohn, J. H. (Doc) Bryon, B. Chief, William R. Homer, Amos Mathews, Lionel Bettis, Ingraum Williams and Little Brothers, who are local jobbers. A collection of $20 was taken up among the members to be sent Buck Dorsey, whose plight we read about in the 'Pipes' (and with whom several of the boys here are acquainted), which will be sent to him at once and which we hope will be of considerable help to him. A second collection of $12.35 was taken up for Harry Kelley, 86 years old the day of the meeting and our oldest member. A feature of the evening was a little harmony by the Association Quartet, accompanied by Bob Goulden at the piano. The parody, 'You Ain't Going To Pitch No More by Bobby Sullivan, sure went over with a bang. Without a doubt, this was a grand and glorious meeting and was enjoyed by all the 62 members who attended. Correspondence is still pouring in to the association from every corner of the country, asking for information and application blanks, and from the present outlook it seems that before the close of many months the byword among pitchers will be, 'Do you hold a card yet?' These membership cards are now waiting for every pitcherman in the country. The charter will be open until April 1 and coming in now will save the initiation fee. All should write immediately. ADDITIONAL OUTDOOR NEWS

World at Home Shows

Philadelphia, Feb. 27.—With the moving here this week of the Pittsburgh offices of the World at Home Shows their activities centered in this city, and at the winter quarters in Hog Island the working crews doubled their efforts to get everything shipshape.

Special Agent Frank Haggerty has been gunshooting thru the Middle West the past few weeks and is expected to return early next week with a number of juicy contracts for engagements. I. J. Polack, general director, also in charge of the booking of the show, announced last week that the Reading (Pa.) Fair had been added to the list of fair-dates already contracted. This means that a long jump will be made, from the Detroit fairgrounds to Reading.

W. S. (Spud) Baldwin, after spending the winter with William (Billy) Klein, superintendent of concessions and legal adjuster, arrived this week and took charge of the wagon work in the winter quarters. Mr. Baldwin was surprised at the amount of work done during his absence and "opines" that the show will take to the road more beautiful in every respect than during the last five years. Mr. and Mrs. Tom Carson have also arrived in Philadelphia and Tom soon will start work on the concessions that will be under his management. The writer has been under the weather for the past 10 days and was confined to his room all last week.

CARLETON COLLINS,
(Publicity Director).

Bernardi's Exposition Shows

Salt Lake City, Utah, Feb. 25.—With spring approaching and a force of men at work around the quarters everything is rounding into shape with Bernardi's Exposition Shows for the coming season. There are about 15 men at work painting building and repairing, and all equipment will be put into first-class shape. Harry Howard, superintendent of concessions, is busy around quarters, and concessionaires are commencing to arrive and have started the building of their frames and painting up.

Mr. Bernardi, since his return from the East, has been laying out plans for several new wagon fronts. Several novel shows have been booked and new canvas purchased for them. The show has a string of fairs booked and several celebrations, among which is the Cheyenne (Wyo.) roundup. Harry L. Gordon, promoter, will be on the staff and will report for duty at an early date.

The show opens here about April 6. The show this season will be larger and better than ever.

F. J. MATTHEWS (for the Show).

C. A. Vernon Shows

Houston, Tex., Feb. 25.—Work at the winter quarters is about completed and the C. A. Vernon Shows are about ready for the road. The opening has been set for March 7, and almost every day finds new faces arriving at quarters—the writer noted 40 people one day—and many social features have been in order. One of the outstanding affairs of the past week was the party given by Mrs. Tex Chambers, wife of the well-known concessionaire, at Galveston. Mrs. Chambers motored her party to that resort town in their new sedan, and after a fine spread at the Galvex Hotel they spent the rest of the day at the beach kokaking, etc. She had as her guests Mrs. C. A. Vernon, Mrs. Louise Allen and Mrs. C. H. Tonnings, and the event was declared by all to have been the best "ever".

C. H. TONNINGS

Big Foundation Construction Contract Awarded

Coney Island, N. Y., Feb. 28.—The Board of Transportation this week recommended to the Board of Estimate the award of contract for the construction of the foundations for the main repair shops and other buildings at the Coney Island yards to John H. Duncan, Inc. The bid price was $34,702.00 and was the lowest of 17 bids received.

The Coney Island yards and shops are regarded as the most complete outfit ever devised for maintenance and repair of rolling stock for any passenger train service on the rapid transit systems of the country. When completed the outfit will have cost $10,000,000, it is estimated.

Smith's Southern Shows

Work at winter quarters of Smith's Southern Shows is progressing nicely and is almost finished. Mr. Collins has some work on the cookhouse yet. Among the late arrivals is Lee Stanley, who has purchased a new Smith & Smith chairplane and booked it on the show with his string of concessions. Dr. Naylar arrived from Jeffersonville, Ind. He will have charge of the platform show. Manager Smith is proud of his new banners and tent from the U. S. Tent & Awning Company.

Anderson Books Fairs

Boston, Feb. 28.—Sam Anderson, one of the owners of the California Shows, has returned from the New York State fairs meeting and reports that he has booked the fairs at Hudson Falls and Ballston Spa for this year. He stopped off at Beaver Falls, Pa., buying a merry mixup from the Traver Engineering Co. This makes six big rides on the show.

Among concessionaires already contracted are Sam Winston, five; Phillips, one, and Bill Tannebring, who will again have the cookhouse and juice. Tannebring's outfit looks like a regular restaurant when set up on the lot. Besides the rides, shows and concessions already mentioned there will be a Monkey Speedway, Silodrome, Athletic Show, Circus Side Show (in charge of M. Ozarf) and Ozarf's Working World with the show. The outfit will take to the road in this territory late in April.

"Benny" Meyers Doing Nicely

Report to The Billboard from Longview Hospital, Cincinnati, where B. F. (Benny) Meyers, widely known concessionaire, last season with the Greater Sheesley Shows, has been taking treatment for a nervous trouble the past several months, was that he has been doing nicely and that ere long recovery may be recorded. He has been transferred ("promoted") to Ward 4, and numerous friends have been paying him visits. A recent caller was A. L. Coen, who is to have his circus side show with the George W. Mathis Shows the coming season.

Showfolks' Hop in K. C.

Kansas City, Mo., Feb. 28.—An after-the-meeting dance was enjoyed last night in the clubrooms of the Heart of America Showman's Club by a large attendance. To C. F. (Doc) Zeiger, chairman of the entertainment committee, who has had charge of these dances, goes a great deal of credit for the pleasant way in which they have been conducted. Mr. and Mrs. George Engesser and little daughter were missed, they having gone to St. Peter, Minn., to start getting their shows ready for opening. Among the new arrivals present was J. L. Rammie, here for a few days, en route to Paris, Tex., to join the John T. Wortham Shows. The Ladies' Auxiliary will give the dance next Friday night.

Edward Ettleman, Notice!

A letter from the Hex Carnival Catering Co., Buffalo, N. Y., stated that Edward Ettleman's mother, in Providence, R. I., is sick and wants to hear from him. Anyone knowing Edward's whereabouts is requested to so notify him.

diately." Along with the above notes came mention of some local business matters in which the association was deeply interested, but apparently this was not ready for publication, as a wire from J. P. Ackerman, correspondence secretary, advised that it be omitted from this issue. Incidentally, the association has a very catchy slogan, "Co-Operation, Unity and Defense"—all of which is needed among demonstrators and pitchmen in their stands for their American rights against prejudiced "other business" oppression. Might add, also, that politicians are beginning to "take notice" of the boys at Los Angeles, courting their support at elections, as per data passed to Bill by Secretary Silver.

Hu-Hill Attractions

Birmingham, Ala., Feb. 25.—With a bumper crop of springlike sunshine bursting forth all over the Birmingham district members of the Hu-Hill attractions in winter quarters here are getting restless to open. Manager Hill is beginning to wish he had set his opening for an earlier date. However, he closed in a industry January and the "prophecy" did not encourage it.

Harry (Brushes) Roll, scenic artist, is doing the rides. The colors blend, and the merry-go-round, circle swing, caterpillar and big wheel will look like new.

George Lindahl has been busy the past month or so on the panel fronts. He has completed scenic effects for the Chocolate Cream Dandies, Little Nemo, Everglades, Monkeyland and Lola and Her Pets attractions. Rehearsals for the minstrel show will start in a few days, according to "Diamond Tooth" Billy Arnte, who will have 16 people in the cast, and not a "dummy" in the bunch.

The trucks and tractors are being worked on by a crew of mechanics and put in shape for the spring and summer strenuousness. Lieut. Gus Ross has had his hands full looking after winter quarters. Gus and the Missus have been quartered at winter quarters night and day. "Whitely" Wooten, in charge of the merry-go-round last season, has been doing "k. p." in the winter-quarters kitchen this winter. L. J. (Pete) Rodner, who had supervision of all rides and the electric plant last summer, is convalescent after an operation at the Birmingham Baptist Hospital. All of which is according to an executive of the above show.

Johnny J. Jones Exposition

Orlando, Fla., Feb. 26.—With the total attendance for the five days of the Orlando Midwinter Fair passing the 100,000 mark the Johnny J. Jones Exposition registered proportionately good receipts, marking another excellent early season week in addition to the South Florida Fair at Tampa. Incidentally, when the big show starts its trip north in April its contingents will have played a string of 10 Florida fairs. The show played 27 fair dates last season and that mark will be raised this year.

The show had so many visitors at Tampa it was quite impossible to keep a record, especially as the writer was ill at the Gordon Kellar Hospital. However, some whom the writer knew called on him at the hospital, including Messrs. John and Charles Ringling, Samuel H. H. Striplin, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Glenn, Hon. Mayor Giles, of Orlando; Frank Graham Scott, who with old friend C. Buck Turner have developed into millionaire realtors. Bishop Turner also was among those present, gallivanting with Joseph Fleishman, Col. Phil Ellsworth and William Carlton Fleming. Capt. William Sigsbee has purchased a handsome residence at Orlando. Capt. Sigsbee's son (Jess) and wife, of Coffeyville, Kan., are at present on a visit to their parents. Ellery Reynolds, known wherever people talk shows, was a visitor at Orlando and will spend a few weeks vacationing with the organization. Edward J. Madigan has been suffering an attack of la grippe. General Representative Fleming has been in the show's midst the past week. Mique Camille is entertaining his father-in-law, of Johnstown, Pa. "Bison Bill's" "Heroes and Outlaws" is doing a remarkable business, and Col. Phil Ellsworth is the lecturer. Another new attraction for this company is Gen. Nadreau's Hawaiian Singers and Dancers. Besides Nadreau, the company consists of John Kalama, Willie Holt, Bonnie Dee, Lee Drow, Bae Kalasha and Saymo Girou. Mrs. Neal Austin and daughter, Frances, have been visiting their sister and aunt, Mrs. Johnny J. Jones, "Sister Sue" (Mrs. Grant Smith) has entirely recovered from her recent illness. Mr. and Mrs. Lew Dufour and Mr. and Mrs. Hamburger have been with the organization for the past few weeks. Ira Watkins has purchased a fine new automobile.

A 20-car show will continue to play fairs and celebrations in Florida until the big show starts north. Mr. Jones, with Robert Biesby, Louis Corbell, William Sturgis and other executives, will remain at Orlando with the workmen, who will construct all the new attractions which will be assembled at Jacksonville the latter part of April with the 20-car show now en tour.

Dodson's World's Fair Shows

Fort Arthur, Tex., Feb. 25.—Buckskin Ben, who for the past 30 years operated Wild West Shows with carnivals and at fairs, has signed with Dodson's World's Fair Shows for the coming season, and it is his intention to offer a much larger show than he ever had. He will arrive in Fort Arthur and start rehearsal about March 15 in order to have his program in readiness for the opening April 4. L. H. Hardin has signed for the season for his 30-in-1. This outfit is 180 feet in length, and features a big "untamable lion" act. This will make the fourth season that Mr. and Mrs. Hardin have had their pit show (known as the Webb Jungeland) with this company. F. A. Wright, who has had the caterpillar the last two seasons, just placed his order for a new chairplane, which will give the show eight rides for this season. Dock Allen and Billy Foster have arrived and are getting their Minstrel Show in shape. The Parker three-abreast carry-us-all has been entirely worked over and a great deal of nickel and brass have been added to its appearance. Manager C. G. Dodson purchased a carload of wagon wheels, springs and axles, and 30 men in the winter quarters are assembling them. The Water Show and Beautiful Bagdad have been completely overhauled. Max Montemery is rehearsing his band. E. E. Dodson and wife, Bertie, just arrived for a few days' visit from Dallas, Tex. M. G. Dodson, general representative, has closed contracts for the show to open here on an up-town location under the auspices of the Trades and Labor Council. The show will travel in 30 cars.

Criner Amusement Co.

Bertram, Tex., Feb. 25.—The Criner Amusement Company, a small caravan organized but three weeks ago, has so far played to satisfactory business in this section. The show, booked for this place next week, this week is playing at Llano. It will play South until April and then work northward thru Oklahoma and Missouri. Among the attractions are "Stout" Jackson, a Texas heavyweight lifter and doing other feats of strength; Bobby Chlek, with the Athletic Show; a pit show and 14 concessions. At present the staff is comprised of J. H. Criner, owner; C. C. Criner, secretary; A. E. Criner, master transportation, and writer, W. D. Fey, in advance.

Dixieland Shows

Postpone Opening

J. W. Hildreth, manager the Dixieland Shows, informed The Billboard from their headquarters at Helena, Ark., Sunday, that owing to inclement weather the American Legion at Helena had postponed its Spring Celebration, by which the Dixieland Shows would not open their new season until Thursday of this week, the engagement to continue until March 14.

Outdoor Showmen's Assn. To Oppose Blue Law Bill

Eastern Organization Delegates President Gallatin To Appear Before New York Legislature

New York, Feb. 28.—At a meeting of the Outdoor Showmen's Association held last night at the Hotel Kermac Hon. Francis D. Gallatin, president of the association, also president of the Park Board of Greater New York, was selected to appear before the Legislature, now in session at Albany, to oppose, in behalf of the association, the Sunday blue law bill which comes before that body March 3. The passing of this bill would mean the closing of theaters, stores, stopping of transportation service and running of automobiles and, particularly, the moving of trucks to and from show lots after midnight on Saturday nights. This is only one of the many objects of the organizing of the Outdoor Showmen's Association, of which much promises to be heard in the immediate future.

Applications and inquiries are coming in daily and in the past few weeks the membership has jumped to 70 members, all interested in some angle or other of the outdoor show field.

Sarasota Briefs

Sarasota, Fla., Feb. 27.—The Sarasota boat races were not scheduled until the first week in March, but John Ringling's houseboat, "Zalophus", and Charles Ringling's yacht, "Symphonia", could not wait, so therefore they had a race all to themselves this week. The "Symphonia", under a handicap, won by 100 yards over a five-mile course, reports J. M. Staley. Jimmie Dooley, of the old Barnum & Bailey Circus, was a recent visitor. He has the elephants on the Johnny J. Jones Exposition. Eddie Young, of the "big show", has the rolling stock on the Jones show.

Merle Evans' Concert Band has proven such a success that it will remain here a week longer. Plans are under way for a benefit dance, the proceeds to go to the band.

Mr. and Mrs. John Ringling, Mr. and Mrs. John McGraw, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Gumpertz and Mr. (Fuzzy) Anderson, who spent a few days in Cuba, arrived here on the "Zalophus".

"Uncle Sam" Colburn Entertains Prisoners

Leavenworth, Kan., Feb. 26.—By request of Chaplain Allen, of the U. S. Penitentiary here, Frank S. Colburn, showman, songwriter, lecturer and "Uncle Sam" character impersonator, occupied most of the time allotted to devotional services Washington's Birthday giving the inmates an excellent talk on George Washington and lecturing on Patriotism and Humanity. He also introduced some of the entertainment specialties and sang two of the latest compositions, including Uncle Sam's Hat.

John T. Wortham Shows

Paris, Tex., Feb. 25.—Under the auspices of Khalid Grotto the John T. Wortham Shows will open their new season here March 21 to 28, inclusive. These dates were officially set after a recent meeting of the City Council, which granted permission for the use of the streets. The site will be the same as last year—Haymarket Square will be laid out for shows of depth, with smaller attractions, rides and concessions on adjacent streets.

The Wortham colony here continues to grow. Among the late arrivals are: A. N. (Abe) Opsal and wife, Mr. Opsal's Fun House and new ride also arrived and are now being set up for trial purposes. Clint Nogel and party, including Mrs. Nogel and daughter, "Bettie", and Tommy Pace, motored in from San Antonio. Clint is busy overhauling the Arcade. Carl Schaefer arrived from South Texas, and is remodeling the dining car and serving meals to the crews now working at the train. Wm. (Bill) Arnold is in and engaged in tuning up the engine on the rides. Wm. (Alabama) Storey arrived from Beaumont, Tex., and took charge of the blacksmith shop, turning out some very neat work. Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lawley are in from Ft. Worth. Mr. Lawley will act as secretary and treasurer this season. Many others are to arrive this week. The quarters, at the Lamar County Fair grounds, is still a very busy place. The 60 huge box wagons are now nearly ready for stripping and lettering. Wm. Spencer and crew have completed several of the new fronts and are now building a new stage wagon for the Minstrel Show, which will have all new scenery and dressing rooms for the performers. The new transformer wagon is nearly completed, also Jungledand, a new pit show. Word from the following folks states they will soon arrive: Mr. and Mrs. Henry Knight, of San Antonio; H. W. (Billy) Kittle, Aurora, Ind., manager of the Water Circus; Abe Woodyard, Bonham, Tex., carousel foreman; Smith Turner, of San Antonio, who will be assigned a position on the staff this year. Among the recent visitors was Bill Watson, secretary Ahlone (Tex.) Fair, who spent a couple of days with Mr. Wortham. Mrs. John T. Wortham motored to Sherman, Tex., Sunday to visit relatives. While all members of the shows are busy with their urgent duties they nevertheless find time for social activities, and all are now eagerly looking forward to the next big party and dance held at the quarters.

ROY E. LUDINGTON (For the Show).

Sarasota, Fla., Feb. 28.—Sam W. Gumpertz, well-known Coney Island amusement purveyor, and John H. McGraw, manager of the New York Giants, just completed a cruise as guests of John Ringling on his yacht. Mr. Gumpertz expects to return to New York about March 15.

At the Empress the Woodward Players are offering The Hottentot, with Madame X to follow next week.

Introduce Blue Law Bill

Showmen and managers here believe that the bill introduced in the Missouri House of Representatives Thursday by Representative Dr. Richard Ray, of Kansas City, which would ban every form of amusement on Sunday except religious entertainment, will immediately be defeated by an enormous majority.

The Junior Players

The Junior Players, under the direction of Alice Martin, will produce Alice in Wonderland in the little theater of the Artists' Guild March 6 and 7 as their third presentation this season, the sixth year of their existence.

Showmen's Banquet-Ball

Invitations have been extended to the Governor of Missouri, Hon. Sam A. Baker and Mayor Henry E. Kiel to be the guests of honor at the first banquet and dance of the Mississippi Valley Showmen at the American Annex Hotel March 28. The entertainment committee has secured promises from local theater managers that a galaxy of stars will be on hand to entertain following the speaking and between dances.

Pickups and Visitors

Louis K. Sidney, division manager of the Marcus Loew Enterprises, is temporarily managing Loew's State, following the resignation of Livingston Lanning, who departed for New York.

Mr. and Mrs. William Floto were Billboard visitors yesterday. In company with Mr. and Mrs. Fred Beckmann, the Flotos had a splendid week at the New Orleans Mardi Gras and stopped over en route to their home in Wichita, Kan.

Mrs. L. Hoffman, better known as Cleo Laftay, high diver with water circuses, likely will be with Elsie Calvert this year over on C. A. Wortham's World's Best Shows.

"Dutch" Rogers, last year with the D. D. Murphy Shows, has arrived in town and is undecided as to his connection for the new season.

D. F. Williams and wife, who closed recently with the Shannon Stock Company at Radford, W. Va., were Billboard callers, en route to Southern Missouri.

Ernie Cline advises that he will be here for the Showmen's banquet and ball. Neil Murphy, who will take out a small gilly show this spring, playing spots in Missouri and Arkansas, will leave for Southern Missouri next week to complete arrangements for the venture.

Harry D. Webb, owner and manager of the Coal Belt Amusement Company, was a visitor Thursday with his five-year-old son Dan, and advised that things are shaping nicely in preparation of the coming season. Ted Reed and his wife recently visited the Webbs in Carlinville, Ill., where the show is wintered.

Chas. J. Roach has been appointed general agent for the Hanscher Bros. Shows and leaves Monday to take up his duties. Last year he was with the D. D. Murphy Shows in the same capacity.

Doc Danville, general agent of the John T. Wortham Shows, was in the city for two days, en route South.

L. Clifton Kelley hobnobbed with the boys here for several days last week, on his way to Indianapolis and Chicago. Norman Vaughan, brother of the ever-popular Eddie, has been in the city for the last couple weeks and expects to return to the West Coast in about 10 days.

Phone, Tioga 3525. 908 W. Sterner St. Office Hours Until 1 P.M.

Philadelphia, Feb. 28.—Best People, a comedy, at the Broad Street Theater, is the only first-time play here this week.

The Theater Treasurers' First Annual Frolic, held at the Walnut Street Theater last Sunday midnight, was a huge success from all angles.

Business was good in most all theaters this week, thanks to inviting weather and the added attendance Washington's Birthday.

The Philadelphia Civic Opera Company presented H Trovatore at the Metropolitan Opera House Thursday night with a good cast and chorus. Alex Smallens conducted. Attendance was large.

Grace La Rue was the feature attraction at the Fox Theater this week. The Stanley had Jules Schwarz, baritone; Morris Braun, violinist, and Doris Nite, dancer, as extra features. The Lost World opened this week at the Aldine for a run.

Montague Love, screen and legitimate star, headlined at the Earl Theater this week and was given a royal welcome at the Pen and Pencil Club.

Charles Ahearn and Company and his Millionaire Jazz Band this week topped at the Allegheny Theater and Mme. Du Barry and Company featured at the Cross Keys, with the Primrose Minstrels, introducing Mrs. Geo. Primrose, heading the bill at Fay's Theater.

Belle Baker headed the bill at Keith's Theater this week with a strong surrounding cast.

Douglas Fairbanks, in The Thief of Bagdad, comes soon to the Stanton Theater for the first time showing here at popular prices. The film had a long run at the Forrest Theater some time ago.

The Way of the World, by William Congreve, is to be presented at the Broad Street Theater tomorrow evening under the auspices of the dramatic committee of the Philadelphia Art Alliance. So far no announcement has been made of any interference by the authorities for advertising and holding a Sunday show.

Another good satire at the Welch Theater is The Great Question (Shall skirts of the fair sex be shorter or longer for the summer?), by the famous Emmet Welch Minstrels.

John Francis Shows

Ft. Worth, Tex., Feb. 26.—Within a week the show equipment of the John Francis Shows will be ready, after which the working forces will give their attention to overhauling the show train under direction of J. W. Burress. Eddie Herlington is now boss painter, replacing "Chicago Dutch", who is in hospital, seriously ill of nephritis.

E. Z. Wilson has his new fun show complete with a blazing electric sign, 18-inch letters announcing its name, "Ten House". Al K. Robertson is building all new frames for his live concessions and all canvas will be new. Mabel Williams' midway restaurant has a beautiful program as a background in the main dining quarters that can be seen thru the open front and gives a wonderful effect. W. H. Thompson has arrived and is swinging his big Minstrel Show into line with daily rehearsals. Mr. Francis has purchased a pentagon-shaped sidewalk that will inclose four kiddie rides. One 10-cent ticket will entitle children to all four rides and a nurse will be in attendance to see that the kiddies are well cared for while the grownups attend the other attractions.

This show will open at the Montgomery Ward park March 16 under auspices of Azarias Temple, H. O. K. K., No. 175. The promotions are being handled by the Pythian Sisters. Proceeds are to go to Weatherford Pythian Home and the writer (the promoter) expects it to be of the season's best, with 900 enthusiastic members behind him.

Mr. Francis returned last Friday from Chicago, where he attended the Legislative Committee meeting and purchased new canvas and banners for his No. 2 pit show. V. J. YEABOUT (for the Show).

Hall & Cole Shows

Comstock, Tex., Feb. 25.—After three weeks' showing in the Rio Grande Valley country of Texas by the Doc Hall Outdoor Amusement Co., it was decided to head the show (now the Hall & Cole Shows) west. The Valley proved not as good as was expected.

This week the show is in Comstock and has started off with big crowds and good spenders, as has been the experience in other Western Texas towns this winter.

Pete Cole made a flying visit to San Antonio last week in search of new midway attractions. Newly joined people at Uvalde were J. M. Davidson and wife and daughter, with cookhouse and cigar shooting gallery; Chas. Heaton and wife, with two concessions; Claude (Treetop) Buckingham and wife, with two concessions; H. W. Hall and wife, with two concessions; Louis Goodman, with one concession, and Manuel LaBlanc, with his Hawaiian Show, consisting of six people. The Baby Emma Show continues to top the midway and seems to be a favorite with the natives. The staff includes: Doc Hall and Pete Cole, owners; Doc Hall, general agent; Pete Cole, manager; the writer, Grayce Huffer, secretary, and J. M. Davidson, electrician and let superintendent.

When the first attempt at legislation against tent shows was made in Texas early in 1923 the Actors' Equity Association strenuously opposed the measures and succeeded in either killing or so amending the bills that this type of show was exempted from paying the high fees demanded. It was a big victory for Equity because it affected a large number of these shows traveling thruout Texas. Equally important was the fact that many communities in that State had no opportunity to see shows other than those provided by traveling tent organizations. These tent shows at present are the only means of keeping interest in the spoken drama alive in thousands of communities not only thru Texas but also thru many other States in the South and West, and it is pointed out that if the motion picture interests succeed in having imical legislation passed in Texas they will do the same in other States. Already the picture interests are a rowding spoken entertainment out of more and more sections despite a manifested desire of the public in those sections for spoken entertainment, and methods of competition are invariably unfair both to the show interests and the general public.

Altho Equity has not yet announced its plans for meeting this agitation by the Texas motion picture theater owners. It is believed that action will be taken at once to forestall any possible legislation that would be injurious to tent-show interests.

Details as to the graduated tax appears in a single-column box on page 7 of this issue. In our last issue we carried an article, on page 111, in which it was stated that the Southwest Texas Fair Association at its annual meeting at Kenedy, Tex., passed resolution opposing the above-mentioned bill, furthermore, that the secretaries of the various fairs in the State wired their respective members of the legislature voicing their opposition.

Surcharge on Pullmans Stays

Those who argued for the bill declared that it wasn't Congress' business to regulate the price of anything, but alone what the Pullman Company wanted to charge for its sleepers. These men pointed out that if the Legislature should change this price, every business that was not satisfied with what others charged would come to the Senate or the House and ask them to sponsor a reduction.

Indianapolis, Feb. 27.—Indiana travelers would be relieved of payment of the railroad surtax or surcharge on Pullman fares between points inside Indiana under the provisions of a bill introduced by Senator C. Pralle Erlin, of New Albany. An emergency clause makes the bill effective immediately upon signature by the Governor.

The Pullman surcharge has been a controverted point between carriers and traveling public since the war days. The Interstate Commerce Commission recently denied a petition for termination of the surcharge.

Court Decision May Result in Marked Change in Theatrical Agency Statutes classified as an agency per se so long as advice or assistance of any nature enters into the business between such person and artist, when the former becomes a manager.

In affirming judgment of two lower courts in a suit brought by Mrs. Betty Payne Pawlowski, described as an artists' representative and manager, against Charlotte Woodruff, now appearing in the musical play, Betty Lee, the Appellate Division sustained the merits of the agent's claims for $3,795, representing unpaid commissions at 10 per cent of the salary Miss Woodruff received from engagements secured thru Mrs. Pawlowski. The agency law provides that a theatrical agency or agent may not charge more than five per cent commission from artists they have placed.

In this case the higher court has determined just what constitutes a manager, upholding the same decision by lower tribunals. It is held that an agent, so-called, becomes a manager, with all the benefits of decision given, when such agent offers any assistance in developing the artist, giving sundry advice about costumes, stage demeanor, voice, etc. The point was brought to an issue in this suit and literally gives every agent—vaudeville, dramatic, burlesque and in other lines—the rein they have sought for many years.

Unless an appeal is taken to the United States Supreme Court, which is not likely to be asked or granted, the precedent established by the highest court in New York State may operate toward a decided change in the agency law now on the statutes. Miss Woodruff went to Mrs. Pawlowski, who does not possess a license to do business as an agent, several years ago when she came to New York to seek fame in the theater as a singer. A brief contract was entered into whereby the latter was to be the personal representative of Miss Woodruff and receive 10 per cent of her salary. The term of the contract was for two years.

An audition was arranged by Mrs. Pawlowski, and Miss Woodruff subsequently engaged for a role in Artists and Models, produced in September, 1923. She appeared in the revue here and on the road, sending 10 per cent commission weekly to Mrs. Pawlowski. When, after sending this amount for 11 weeks, someone called to her attention the existence of the agency law, and that she was paying five per cent more than required, she stopped remitting the usual amount. Suit brought by Mrs. Pawlowski in Municipal Court for recovery of the amount alleged to be due her resulted in a judgment in her favor for the full amount. Attorneys for Miss Woodruff appealed the case to the Appellate term of the Supreme Court, which promptly sustained the award of the lower court and handed down decision.

Appeal to the highest court in the State then was taken. The court sustained the decision in brief words—"Determination affirmed."

People so far engaged for the Majestic Showboat for the coming season include Mr. and Mrs. John Hanson, Mr. and Mrs. Lippincott and Mr. and Mrs. Frank C. Barton. They are to present a three-act drama, Crimson Nostris, by Robert J. Sherman, and in addition there will be vaudeville specialties and music by a five-piece orchestra.

After closing his season with the Harrington-Adams Producing Company last fall, Summers again will be with the Elias Day Players. Mr. Summers is having a most successful season in the West. The Helena, Mont., Record-Herald gave two columns to a report of the Elks' annual show, directed by Mr. Summers, and by which the B. P. O. E. netted $1,500 for its charity fund. After working a show with the American Legion in Loveland, Col., Mr. Summers goes to Great Falls, Mont., for a production with the Lions' Club.

Looking Backward to Days of 10, 20 and 30

Joe Thayer, Identified With Numerous Repertoire Companies, Recalls Thespians of Earlier Shows

Joe Thayer of Lynn, Mass., submits the following to repertoire readers of The Billboard on his reflections of the days of the 10, 20 and 30-cent admission attractions. "Do you remember," he asks, "the Allie Spooner Company, with which were identified E. E. Spooner, J. H. Lewis, Jefferson Hall, Charles C. Wren, Charlie White, Louis E. Appell, Annie Harrison and Nannie Spooner?"

"Remember the Aubrey Stock, owned by the Mittenhall Bros., which had in its roster George L. Stout, Harry Siggins, Billy Walsh, Sidney Ayres, Tommy Norton, Florence Hastings, Junie Swift, Mysses Davis, Floy Crowell and W. M. Woodside? This was some show. Billy Walsh now is 24-hour man for the Sparks Circus. I met Bill last summer, also Tommy Norton, who works for the B. & M. Railroad in Waltham, Mass. Floy Crowell died in Los Angeles years ago.

"Remember the Elroy Stock Company, with Arnold Reeves, Ralph McDonald, F. A. Bigelow, Dave DeWolf, Ed Kelly, Lillian Mae Crawford, Catherine Hunt and Leslie Palmer (Mrs. Bigelow)?"

"Remember the George W. Wilson Company, one of the best in the East 25 years ago, with the veteran comedian, George Wilson, at the head of it? Mr. Wilson retired years ago and is living in Winthrop, Mass. He is one of the few surviving members of the famous Boston Museum Stock Company. With the show were Kendall Weston, Hubert Doud, John W. Barry, Helen Frost, John Moore, Frank Beal, Tommy Norton, Florence Hamilton, Louise Horner, E. D. Davenport, manager; Ralph Ward, agent, and T. Harris Ware, musical director.

"Remember the J. W. Carner Company, with Jack Donovan, Harry L. Webb, Nellie Manning, Daisy Lee Whipple, Cora Willmott, Minnie Lester, L. S. McKee, Arthur Blackaller and Ed Barton? The Bennett and Moulton companies were leaders in the Eastern States at one time, having three shows out and two or three more under their name, but owned by others who leased the title. John Meehan, Eva Williams, Herbert Cortbell, Will L. White, Leigh DeLoey, Clara Turner and Lawrence Brooks were identified with this firm for many years.

"Remember the Dan Ryan Company? It was the first show I know of to carry two carloads of scenery and 128 pieces of baggage. I was carpenter and loaded the two cars every Saturday night, assisted by Johnny Peck (Herkimer Johnny). Dan, now deceased, was a great ball player as well as a great actor, playing in the New York State League. His first partner in repertoire was Kelly, of Kelly and Pollock, now in vaudeville. Lem Reeves was his manager and Ethel Fuller was his leading woman. Others in the cast included Homer Miles, Wallace Dalton and wife, Wayne Campbell, Harry E. Allen, Jeanne Tarr, Ella Burton, Eugene Frazier, Charles Brandon, Anna Crouch, and Lon Hascall, well-known comedian of today, was the heavy man. Joe Thayer was carpenter. We featured Virginia, Othello, O'Brien the Contractor and Jim the Penman in our repertoire. Connie Roe was our agent and George Finberg, musical director.

"Remember the Maude Atkinson Repertoire Company in the South in 1898, with old Dick Johnston as manager. Ed Southers and wife, Mad-line Price, Harry Gordon, Jack Core, Joe Thayer and Walter Vondock? I met Maude on Broadway last August. It was the first time I'd seen her in 25 years, and she looked fine. Dick Johnston and Jack Core are dead. Ed Southers and wife have retired and are located at Starke, Fla. Harry Gordon, of Gordon & Bennett, is an agent out of Chicago. How many remember that bloomer trip to Key West and the return on a sponge boat?

"Remember in 1895 the Harry and Rayne Kingsley Repertoire Show, with a band, out of Bluffton, Ind.? Members included John E. Kelly, Charles Hammond, Auce Byno, Joe Thayer, Earle Craddock, J. A. (Dad) West and his wife, Minnie Pearl, Kitty Edwards (Kelly's wife) and the Kingsleys. With the help of Alec Byers we all were pirates those days.

"Remember the Woodward-Warren Company and 'Punch' Robinson Repertoire Company in the South? The late Nat Reiss was agent for the first named. Bessie Warren now is playing characters at Malden, Mass., with the Malden Stock Company. It is her second season there, and to watch her work proves that it takes the repertoire experience to make good stock people. George Arvine was the heavy man with the Robinson show. He now is managing the stock company at Waterbury, Conn. Walter Woods, the leading man for years, a partner of Monte Thompson, is located at Hollywood, Calif., writing scenarios for the Famous Players-Lasky Company.

"Remember the John Kennedy Repertoire Company, season of 1898-'99, when it had the following players: Campbell Stratton, Boh McClung, William H. Danvers, Nellie Kennedy, Joe Thayer, Priestly Morrison, W. O. Butler, J. H. Bannister, May Marshall and Emma Lathrop? Kennedy and old 'Pop' Danvers have passed on. Nellie, Kennedy's daughter, married George Stout, and Morrison is a great director on Broadway today.

"Remember the Frank Tucker Company that used to play every tank in Michigan? The Ion Carroll Company with Ray Benson and Lon Neate that played the coal mining towns of West Virginia? The Ruby Lafayette Company, always in out-of-the-way towns of Texas? The Emma Warren Company with Jim Garside, that played the sugar country in Louisiana year after year? The old reliable Rockwell People's Theater Company, who, Jap, had Fred Malcomb, Jim Malloy, Durrill Ashton, Ed Kane, Bill Cartell and wife, Evelyn Knapp, Herbert Cortbell, Joe Thayer and Clara Davenport (now Mrs. J. C. Rockwell) with it? Rockwell has retired rich and has a beautiful home at Melrose, Mass. Remember the Frost & Fanshaw Repertoire Show, a household name in Maine and Nova Scotia? Afterward Al Fanshaw left Frost and joined hands with Bill Cressy, of Cressy & Dayne, well-known sketch people in Keith vaudeville, and the Dayne-Fanshaw Company went out of Bradford, N. H. Fanshaw wrote all his plays, painted the scenery and it was some show! Remember the Gormond & Ford show? Either Gormond or Ford died years ago, but now and then I see that company still routed in Michigan. Remember Harry Brennan's Star Theater Company, with the Farnum boys, Dustin and William?

"Remember the Ben Warner show out of McGregor, Ia.? The King-Perkins Company out of Esterville, Ia.? I wonder what has become of The Opera House Reporter? What a newsy sheet that was. Now and then I read of Gordon McDowell. I wonder if he recalls the Andrew Downie-McPhee & Kiser show under tent in Northern Canada, when Lawrence Everts, Jack Sheridan, J. A. West, Charlie Mack, Joe Thayer and Mac did 11:45 parades with the canes in the big storm at Berlin, Ont.?

"Stock has replaced the repertoire show in the East, but how some of those old-time boys and girls would laugh to see some of the trouping. I don't think 10, 20 and 30 will ever come back. The living cost today will not permit it. But the public got more for its money in those yesterdays anyway, and I'll never regret all I went thru and the ups and downs we all had, nor some of the managers who used to bawl us out if we even asked for laundry money. The old ghost often was lame, and sometimes the managers drank away players' salaries as well as the money to pay for the jump to the next town. But it all came under the head of amusements, and if one didn't like it he could walk out. There was no Equity in those days.

"I remember when a jolly manager (we were doing Tom) who skipped at 6 a.m. on the milk train while we all were asleep and how, after we got up and had breakfast, seven of us walked 11 miles into Orleans, Mass., and did Tom that night to a hall packed to the doors, and we all got back to Boston okeh. We carried grips and I had a dye drop (the ice cream) and the Tom whip done up in newspapers under my arm. We kept to the railroad track, but left it two miles outside of town and sneaked in, one by one, so folks wouldn't get wise to us. We left the grips, etc., hidden in the woods until there was darkness, then brought them to the hall in a wheelbarrow. I won't mention the one woman and little girl who walked with us, for both are today in a show in New York. It was some Tom show for seven people."

DEATHS IN THE PROFESSION

GEORGE S. TRIMBLE

GEOURGE S. TRIMBLE, one of the most active and popular representatives of the Actors' Equity Association, died suddenly at his home, 2622 North Eighth street, Philadelphia, at six o'clock Monday evening, February 23, following a stroke of apoplexy. He had gone to Philadelphia the previous Friday night to spend Washington's Birthday at home with his wife, and the announcement of his death was received by long-distance telephone at the Equity headquarters the following morning just when Mr. Trimble's office associates were looking for him to come into the new home of the Association at No. 45 West Forty-seventh street with his usual jaunty air and capacity for work. James O'Neill, of Equity's office staff, and a life-long friend of Mr. Trimble, received the message, which was telephoned by a neighbor of the bereaved wife. So shocked were the officers and staff members of Equity that for several minutes all work was suspended.

Mr. Trimble was born in Brooklyn 51 years ago. He was at one time a choir boy in old Trinity Church, on Broadway near Wall street, and began his theatrical career in 1896, when he joined Charles Carroll's Country Merchant Company. His subsequent appearances included engagements in various stock companies, The College Widow, a large number of Shakespearean productions, with Louis Morrison in Faust, and in various plays with McKee Rankin, Nance O'Neill and others. His last stage part was with Irene Franklin in The Meeting of Molly.

At the time of the strike in 1919 Mr. Trimble joined the voluntary executive force of Equity. He proved so efficient that two months later, when it became necessary to increase the regular staff, he was offered a position and accepted. His work at first was with the stock companies, and he made frequent tours of inspection of this branch of Equity's work. Later he handled claims, bonding of productions and devoted much time to the relations between Equity, the now defunct Producing Managers' Association and the Managers' Protective Association. Mr. Trimble was a life member of St. Paul's Lodge, No. 59, of the Elks; Philadelphia Lodge, No. 3, of the Theater Mechanics' Association of Philadelphia; Pennsylvania Council, No. 242, of the Royal Arcanum, and the Green Room Club. His widow was at one time an actress, playing with him under the professional name of Marie Winson, but she retired from the stage after her marriage. Two sisters, residing in New York, also survive.

Funeral services were conducted Thursday afternoon, February 26, by the Rev. Charles Bratten Dubell, rector of the Church of St. Simon, at Haskman's Undertaking Establishment in Philadelphia. Frank Gillmore, executive secretary of Equity, attended the services, and there were prayers and eulogies by the honorary chaplain of the Philadelphia Lodge of the Theatrical Mutual Association, by Mr. Gillmore and by a dear friend of Mr. Trimble. The funeral parlors were filled with relatives and professional people from shows playing in Philadelphia, and among those who sent either floral offerings or telegrams or letters of condolence were: L. Lawrence Weber, secretary of the Managers' Protective Association; Abe Levy, Majestic Playhouse, of London, Can.; Temple Players, of Hamilton, Can.; Peggy Coudray, Cliff A. DIVORCES

To Members of the Profession

May Allison, film actress, began formal proceedings recently for a divorce from Robert Ellis Reel. During the past three years the actress and her husband have had several reconciliations.

Marjorie Daw, film star, recently filed suit for divorce against Eddie Sutherland, director, at Hollywood, Calif. Sutherland is at present in New York, directing Thomas Meighan.

Mrs. Ada Kendorosky, better known in the theatrical world as Billie Gilmore, is bringing an action for divorce in the Philadelphia courts alleging nonsupport and desertion.

Mrs. Louise Holmes Albee, niece of Burton Holmes, humorist and lecturer, received a final decree of divorce at White Plains, N. Y., February 26, from Reed A. Albee, son of E. F. Albee, head of the Keith-Albee interests.

Mrs. David Balaban filed suit February 25 for divorce from David Balaban in the Circuit Court at Chicago, alleging cruelty. Mr. Balaban is manager of the Riviera Theater and a member of the firm of Balaban & Katz. They were married in September, 1924, at Crown Point, Ind.

Mrs. Marjorie Klaw, daughter-in-law of Marc Klaw and wife of Joseph Klaw, theatrical manager, received a final decree of divorce February 26 in the Supreme Court of White Plains, N. Y. The couple had been living apart for some time before the trial.

Mrs. Eunice May Kirkpatrick, of the Rose-Marie Company, in which she is known as Eunice Brown, had her marriage to Wilbur Robert Kirkpatrick annulled by Supreme Court Justice Joseph Morschauer in New York February 27.

A letter to The Billboard signed Mrs. Steve (Dorothy) Batty advises that the item published in our February 23 issue regarding Lorraine Watlace, animal trainer with the John Robinson Circus, suing Steve Batty for divorce, is without foundation. She states that she is the wife of Steve Batty, and that no divorce proceedings have been brought by her. The Battys have been with the Sparks Circus for the past two seasons.

Jules Caronne, animal trainer with a French circus, is suing for divorce, alleging cruelty.

FAIRS AND FUN IN ENGLAND

By "TURNSTILE"

Pat Stands Down

London, Feb. 12.—When Pat Collins was beaten in the last Parliamentary election it was expected that some years would elapse before the president of the Showmen's Guild would be called upon to put up another fight. The winning candidate has now been disqualified, however, owing to the fact that he had accepted government contracts and so was not entitled to sit in Parliament. So Walsall is to have another election and it was announced that Pat would stand again.

But of late bad health has been his portion, and when there was talk of another election with its rush and excitement, Pat's medical man stepped in and countermanded all orders. So Pat has to stand down and, instead, Dr. Macnamara is to contest the seat in the Liberal interest.

Women Man Circus

A big success was made of an unusual event in show life last week when, at the Islington Royal Agricultural Hall, the New World's Fair Circus was run entirely by members of the fair (no pun intended!) sex. For what is believed to be the first time in the history of the tan ring game, no men took part in the entertainment. Even the ring attendants were replaced by the female of the species, and Madame Pilling and Madame Batty took charge of the ring. The sisters Austin and Miss May provided amusing clowning and the whole show went with a swing to the great delight of a big house.

Wembley Notes

It was hoped to revive at the Wembley Stadium this year the great Naval and Military Tattoo, one at the beginning and one late in the season. The War Office has, however, vetoed the double event for it is stated that sufficient troops cannot be spared to dress both the earlier Wembley event and the Royal Military Tournament at Olympia. Also, it is argued that the spring nights will be too light to obtain full value from the searchlight and torchlight illuminations.

The tattoo will therefore be held for five weeks, beginning with the month of September.

The British Government estimates its total cost of participation in Wembley during the current financial year will amount to more than $1,000,000. There was a deficiency of more than $350,000 on last year's estimates, while receipts showed an increase of some $70,000 over the anticipated amount.

Owing in part to political feeling in India, the Indian Government has decided not to participate in Wembley this year. It is expected that a private syndicate will take over the India pavilion and as a great number of Indian commercial men are anxious to participate in the second Wembley season, it is probable that they will acquire the premises formerly held by their government.

The price of admission will be 40 cents for adults and 20 cents for children under 12. These are the same as last year's prices but a change is to be made this year, the fee on Tuesday being 60 cents. And, also on the other days there will be a reduction for excursion parties, this will not apply on Tuesdays. It is hoped by this means to insure one day against the hurly-burly, so that many people who otherwise would not or could not visit the exhibition may be encouraged to make the Wembley trip.

Our and About

The arrangements for the Ladies' Dinner, which has already been held on three successive years during the run of King's Lynn Mart, are in the hands of Mrs. Charles Thurston this year. This event is proving highly popular among the ladies of the outdoor entertainment industry. The dinner will be held at the Glove Hotel, adjoining the famous market square where the mart has been held from time immemorial.

A surprise visit was paid by Glasgow police to the Kelvin Hall Carnival and a number of games and booths were closed down forthwith. A good deal of strong criticism has arisen locally as a result of the high-handed attitude of the police.

A Trades, Sports and Pastimes Exhibition is to be held in the Princess Arcade, Blackpool, from June to the end of September.

I hear that next year this go-ahead seaside resort is likely to develop a much more ambitious amusement park and beach attractions than have yet been seen there. As soon as the summer season is concluded a proper park is to be laid out and the various amusement devices at present scattered about the foreshore will be collected there. Additional attractions will also be encouraged.

The Crystal Palace Circus has just finished with a most successful record, for Sir David Burnett announced at the annual meeting of the trustees that the amount received was double that of last year's admissions, altho the period was shorter. The cash in hand on December 31 was $350,000, and the whole capital expenditure had been written off.

Foster Williams Leading Man

San Antonio, Tex., Feb. 26.—Foster Williams, well-known dramatic stock leading man, has succeeded Harry Hollingsworth, playing leads with the Sveta Nudsen Players. Mr. Williams opened February 22 in Little Old New York, coming to this city from the Saenger Players, St. Charles Theater, New Orleans.

New Theaters

J. G. Roundtree is erecting a theater at Beeville, Tex.

E. F. Knight has opened his Nome Theater at Valley View, Tex.

Ed Phillips will build a theater at Fort Worth, Tex.

Plans for a $200,000 moving picture theater to be erected at Pond du Lac avenue and 35th street, Milwaukee, Wis., were announced recently. The new building is being planned by the Keystone Investment Company. It will have a seating capacity of 1,200.

Free, prompt and far-famed, the Mail Forwarding Service of The Billboard stands alone as a safe and sure medium thru which professional people may have their mail addressed. Thousands of actors, artists and other showfolks now receive their mail thru this highly efficient department.

Mail is sometimes lost and mixups result because people do not write plainly, do not give correct address or forget to give an address at all when writing for advertised mail. Others send letters and write address and name so near postage stamp that it is obliterated in cancellation by the post-office stamping machines. In such cases and where such letters bear no return address the letter can only be forwarded to the Dead Letter Office. Help The Billboard handle your mail by complying with the following:

Write for mail when it is FIRST advertised. The following is the key to the letter list:

- Cincinnati.....(No Stars)
New York.....One Star (*)
Chicago.....Two Stars ()

If your name appears in the Letter List with stars before it write to the office holding the mail, which you will know by the method outlined above. Keep the Mail Forwarding Department supplied with your route and mail will be forwarded without the necessity of advertising it. Postage is required only for package-letter service is absolutely free. Mail is held but 30 days, and can not be recovered after it goes to the Dead Letter Office.

Mail advertised in this issue was uncollected for up to last Sunday noon. All requests for mail must be signed by the party to whom mail is addressed.

There are numerous persons receiving mail thru The Billboard's Forwarding Service who have the same names or initials. When a letter is forwarded to a person for whom it is not intended please return it so that it may be advertised again until the person for whom it is intended receives it.

Who Desire To Make Their Permanent Address in Care of The Billboard may, of course, choose any of our offices, i. e., New York, Chicago, St. Louis, San Francisco, Los Angeles or Kansas City, but you are advised, if en route, to give the home office careful consideration.

Cincinnati is but Thirty-one Miles from the Geographical Center of Population of the United States and Canada, and it follows naturally that less delay will ensue in the handling and forwarding of your mail.

We want our service to continue to be, as it always has been, the very best and promptest, and, therefore, we recommend "Permanent Address, care of The Billboard, Cincinnati."

In writing for mail it is not necessary to send self-addressed and stamped envelope—a Postal Card will do. Give your route far enough ahead to permit your mail to reach you. Write names of towns, dates and signatures legibly.

Letters Are Held Thirty Days Only, after which, if no address has been obtained, they are sent to the Dead Letter Office. It is desirable to send for mail when your name first appears in the list. Address your postal to "Mail Forwarding Service, The Billboard."

Rubin & Cherry Shows

Mr. and Mrs. Rubin Gruberg are thoroughly enjoying their brief vacation at Hot Springs, Ark., and have met many friends and acquaintances at Hotel Arlington, where they have a suite of rooms. They will return to Montgomery, Ala., about March 15. Albert Abraham, who has a host of friends with circuses and carnivals, is a nightly visitor at the "Anen Corner" in the Exchange Hotel, which is the official headquarters of the Rubin & Cherry Shows here in Montgomery. Al is looking forward to the opening of the season, and will be a guest of Mr. Gruberg during the Canadian tour.

Carl J. Lauther is back from Miami and Palm Beach, where he has extensive real estate interests. Carl is preparing his big Circus Side Shows for the road and has lined up an excellent line of attractions for the coming season. Sailor Joe, tattooer, is here. Doty Castle has an attractive bungalow at the fairgrounds, and has an offer to go with Miller Bros.' 101 Ranch Wild West to handle the elephant act. Dudley Lewis and Olive Hlager will have the Motordrome this season and have it all up on the grounds. It is a brilliant flash in black and orange, and with an electrically lighted front, and will enlist the use of three motorcycles and two miniature racing automobiles. Cliff Wilson has finished building the "largest Glass House ever constructed" and is now devoting his talents to his new "Cross-Word Puzzle" show. Doc and Mrs. A. P. Collins are getting their Diving Girls' Show and Fashion Revue in shape for the opening. Mrs. Collins recently returned from New York City, where she purchased 12 sets of costly wardrobe. Capt. Jack Lorenzo is a new addition to the Wild Animal Circus and will assist Capt. Dan Riley this season. Henry Hullin, veteran concessionaire, and with the Rubin & Cherry Shows the past 10 seasons, has arrived from New York and will be a familiar figure on the midway. Trainmaster Tom Payton has the train ready for the first movement, the work of repainting the fat cars being completed this week. Mr. and Mrs. Bernie Smucker were welcome visitors, stopping off en route from Savannah, Ga., to their home in Meridian, Miss. Everybody congratulated Bernie and the Missus on their recent appointment as general manager and chief assistant of the Georgia State Fair. Dante, the magician, was also a visitor during his local engagement. J. B. Cullen has signed some exceptional talent for his Minstrel Show and promises some clever innovations. The new attraction for Karns Brothers' Fat Family attraction is now in the hands of the decorators and Master Designer Fred Lewis says it will be one of the surprises of the season. The entire family will be here within a few days. Eddie Karns and Mrs. Karns, together with two brothers and Sister Grace, are already on hand, occupying a neat bungalow. Earl Strout, last year's bandmaster, and his wife (Alice Melville) have been in town several days. Earl and his crackband orchestra have been

T. A. Wolfe Shows

"Quietness" Manifest in Preparing Organization for Coming Season

When the T. A. Wolfe Shows move from their winter quarters at Camp Gordon, Atlanta, Ga., and offer to the public their wares of exhibitions, novelties and rides there will be revealed a real surprise, particularly so from the fact that General Manager T. A. Wolfe and his staff have worked so quietly in the preparation that even a majority of showmen have not been aware that a big change in the method of presenting week-stand outdoor amusements has been under way. The big display ads in The Billboard for thrillers, headline acts, etc.; the construction of equipment—agarratus and rigging for the "death-defying"—and the new canvas and its form and size partially tell the story of the new idea. The manner of rebuilding the show train also reveals an idea of the big change—there never has been a train like it—it will move in three sections.

It is now settled that the show will open in Atlanta early in April under auspices. The show is well booked on its season's tour and under auspices, including Shrines, Grottos, "Dokies", Eastern Star, Rotarians, Kiwanis and Lions. Mr. Wolfe is now in the East on business.

Since the last list given visitors to winter quarters have included the following: Hon. Lyde Levit of Ashland, Ky., a well-known attorney; Hon. Ed Morrow, former Governor of Kentucky; Wm. Kughan, representing a Coshocott, O., advertising novelty company; Rita Shafer, of Columbus, O.; Mae Marcum Jacobs, Indianapolis, Ind.; Marie Bayas Scott, Columbus, O.; Anna Merriam, Toledo, O.; Edward Camm, C. J. Gray, Charlie Grooks and Eddie Sampson, Ashland, Ky., and many others. The boys at winter quarters staged a minstrel show in the theater at Camp Gordon, first for their own entertainment, and since it went over so smoothly they gave it, charging admission, at Chamlee, a near-by community. There was more than $100 profit, which was turned over to Masons' Crippled Children's Hospital at Atlanta. E. A. Potter was the manager; Doc Sanger, Intercuter; Harvey Groves and Jack Raymond, principal end men; George Dobbins and Sammy Campbell were a song and dance team, and others of the ensemble presented songs, monologs, dances, etc.

DOC WADDELL ("Just Broadcasting").

Wise Shows

Ressemer, Ala., Feb. 25.—Work in the winter quarters of the Wise Shows is about completed. Practically all those to be with the show are already here. John Courtney, who will again have the front of the Minstrel show, arrived in Ressemer yesterday. Joe Hollander, who will have charge of the Athletic Show, will arrive Saturday. Joe will be assisted by "Red" Sanstrom, the "Terrible Swede". Doc Angel will have the front of the 20-in-one, which is a fine new frameup. Frank Zorda will have charge of the Large Python exhibit, Cyril Thompson the front of the Mechanical Busy City, and Dad Girard the management of the Monkey Land show. L. Miller will be chief mechanic in the penny arcade—called Peek-In. Mr. Wise just received the contract, thru General Agent L. McAbee, for Jackson, Tenn., on the streets and under the auspices of the Baseball Team, week of March 23—the first show on the streets there in several years. The first wedding of the year took place last week when Otto Criss, owner of the merry-go-round, and Dorothy Dale Howard were married by the Methodist minister here. Frank Owens will have charge of the writer's new chair-o-plane. Mrs. Owens will work a ball game for Mr. Myers, who will have four concessions. The following concession people have already shipped their concessions in: Prof. Lepore, with two; Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Bullock, three; Mr. and Mrs. Strong, two; Mr. Meyers, four; Mr. Jones, two; Earl McCormick, one; Floyd Ratliff, three; Pat Brown, two; W. H. Thompson, two, and Billy Conley, one. General Agent L. McAbee is stepping fast these days. The fair will start in August. Mr. Wise has returned after attending the meetings of the fair secretaries of Tennessee at Nashville and the Georgia fairmen at Macon.

Last Sunday was visiting day at the winter quarters and over 2,000 visitors passed thru the gates. With the weather ideal, work is going along rapidly in every department at winter quarters. The exact opening date has not yet been officially announced, but it will be the last week in March in the downtown section of Montgomery. Wilbur S. Cherry is in Chicago attending to important business, and the advance force is expected here within the next two weeks. WALTER D. NEALAND (Publicity Director).

Morris & Castle Shows

Shreveport, La., Feb. 24.—The nicer the weather the more work accomplished! For the past three weeks the winter-quarter activities of the Morris & Castle Shows here have moved most speedily. Overcoats have been discarded and short-sleeves have been the vogue. Thanks to Johnny and Milt, who purchased baseball bats and gloves, two teams have been organized under the management of "Phin" Dave Morris, comprised of those talented in this respect around winter quarters, and every afternoon the teams cross bats in most spirited contest. "Milt" is one of the most enthusiastic players, and states that he is losing weight at the rate of four pounds a week.

W. H. Huntington, artist, of Chicago, arrived the past week and is doing pictorial work on the box wagons, as all, like last season, will be decorated with real circus paintings in scrolls on both sides—giving the natives something to talk about when going thru the down-town streets while being drawn to the lot. Scout Younger (Bison Bill) and wife were visitors while driving thru on their way to Tulsa, Ok., from Tampa, Fla. It is to be remembered that Scout Younger placed his first (in fact, the first) "Law and Outlaw" exhibit on the Morris & Castle Shows last season.

Dorothy Kempf (Mrs. Irving Kempf) has gone to Austin, Tex., to visit friends. Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Murphy have arrived in their new touring car, coming from their home in Okmulgee, Ok., via Dallas, Tex., picking up Phil Little and bringing him along for his fourth trip to Shreveport during the winter months. Charles Ellsworth Jamison, musical director, announces that only five new faces will be seen with his band for the coming season out of the 22 men which he will begin the season with in April, which speaks most highly for the genial band director, also assures a most harmonious musical organization for the show.

A letter received from Robt. L. Lohmar, general representative and traffic manager, states that only five weeks of the entire season remain uncontracted, and that railroad contracts have been executed for the first two months of the coming season.

Nat Reiss Shows

Jeffersonville, Ind., Feb. 24.—Every- thing in winter quarters of the Nat Reiss Shows is going along "just fine". Artist Knight finished last Saturday one of the flashiest minstrel show fronts the writer has ever seen on a midway. Fronts for the "Cross Puzzle" fun show, the "Clouds" fun show and the Wild West have all been remodeled, primed, and within the next 10 days will be ready for the varnish. Superintendent George Elsor has completed Happy Jack's new plat- form, and promises to have the shows completed, as far as all the new building is concerned, in time for the opening, which is but seven weeks off.

Charlie Johnson, of the Caribino fame, and his crew expect to have their new outfit ready during the coming week. General Agent Robert R. (Bob) Klima returned to winter quarters Sunday, and it is now reported that with the exception of six weeks the show is contracted into Thanksgiving week. Mr. and Mrs. Fred A. Zinders have contracted their new ten-in-one with the show. Mr. and Mrs. Carl Davis, son-in-law and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. LaRose, who have the cookhouse and juice privilege, were visitors Sunday, driving from Cincinnati with Mr. and Mrs. Colman, their neighbors. It is understood that Mr. and Mrs. Davis will travel with the show this season.

General Manager J. P. Murphy is busy with a new style walk-over front for his all-new Busy City. Fred DeIvey received his last shipment of monkeys this morning, making a total of 15. Fred has his show all painted, varnished and ready for loading. Joe Landy, manager of the Big Mill wheel, arrived Monday from Milwaukee on his motorcycle, and is now in his overalls. E. A. Wright, who has the whip, and his manager, Wright Vaughn, are getting the ride in a first-class condition. August VonKleist, owner of the caterpillar, and his manager, are expected during the coming week. Fred O. Iurd, superintendent of all rides last season, has returned from a visit to Huntington, W. Va. George Sargent, last season manager of the fun show, The Clouds, reported last Thursday. George Carson, companion to Nat Reiss, arrived via auto last week. After looking about for a few days, George said: "Gee, doesn't everything look great? I can hardly wait for the season to open." Ed Davis, who will have charge of the Wild West Show, is expected to reach Jeffersonville with his live stock about March 10. Manager Murphy has decided to let Mr. Davis have a new wagon front for his show, instead of banners front used last season. With the contracting of Fred Zinders' ten-in-one, the lineup of attractions for still dates is completed, a list of which, with the staff, will be printed in the Spring Number of The Billboard.

Wrigley Bros.' Shows

Philadelphia, Feb. 26.—Everything is progressing nicely with Wrigley Bros.' Shows in preparation for their coming season. George Gehringer, well-known Philadelphia tobacco dealer, has booked his 20-foot tobacco store, which will present a fine display of what is claimed will be the biggest flash of cigars, cigaretts and smokers' articles ever seen on a midway. General Agent Joe Sheeran has been scouting for contracts and has signed three spots under Catholic church auspices.

At the main office and the winter quarters David Reedy, John Hoar, Jack Gaffney, Trueman Hunter and Eddie Cormier have been recent callers. Cormier has booked two concessions. Mrs. Migone, the treasurer's wife, who underwent several operations at the National Stomach Hospital, is about again and figuring on going to Atlantic City for a rest.

Mr. Updegraff is busy at the main office answering the mail and personal calls. Freddy Rudolph is getting his concessions in shape. Johnny Willmore booked his three concessions and will have his own truck and living auto on the caravan.

John Murry, old-time circus man, has the "fever" again for the road. Joe Walton, an old friend to showfolks and an inventor of no small means, is a daily caller at the main offices. Mr. Walton has contracted to place his novel illusion show in the lineup for this season.

E. CURRIE (for the Show).
