Dear Doctor:

This patient has indicated that he/she has a medical condition that interferes with the ability to use an ignition interlock device (IID) as required by law. The IID is a breath alcohol analyzer and is connected to a motor vehicle's ignition. To start the engine, a driver must blow 1.5 liters of air into the device for 5 seconds in a single breath. The engine will not start if an unacceptable level of alcohol is detected. The driver must complete the same procedure at periodic intervals while driving. The standard air volume setting of the IID is 1.5 liters per breath. However, based on the patient's medical condition the setting may be reduced to 1 liter per breath. If the patient is unable to blow into the device at the reduced level, he or she may be eligible for a waiver of this requirement.
