- Rarity and values of everything listed below are always in a constant state of flux. The rarity ratings listed below are a general guideline and are not constantly updated unless someone is willing to undertake this huge endeavor.
- In the "Checkbox" fields for games: C = cartridge, B = box, M = manual, Sup/Err = supplement/errata, W = warranty card
Cat = catalogue, OH = hand controller overlay and OS = super action controller overlay. If a field does not contain a checkbox, then that particular item does not exist to the best of my knowledge.
- In the "Checkbox" fields for systems and modules: S = system, E = expansion module, B = box, M = manual and OH = hand controller overlay and OS = super action controller overlay. If a field does not contain a checkbox, then that particular item does not exist to the best of my knowledge.
- In the "Checkbox" fields for controllers: C = controller, B = box, M = manual and OH = hand controller overlay and OS = super action controller overlay. If a field does not contain a checkbox, then that particular item does not exist to the best of my knowledge.
- In the "Rarity" field: LO = loose cartridge only and CB = Complete in Box (box, manual and cartridge). You can find rarity lists on www.colecovisionzone.com, www.digitalpress.com and www.rarityguide.com to compare as well.
- In the "CONTR." field: H = Hand Controller, S = Super Action Controller, R = Roller Controller, D = Exp. Mod. #2 Driving Module, P = Sketch Master Sketch Pad and T = Track & Field Controller. Also, the Roller Controller can be used in "Joystick" mode with all games to varying degrees of success... the best games to play this way are identified below.

- NOTE #1: FaceMaker was also released in a box titled "Make-A-Face" but the cartridge label and manual read "FaceMaker".
- NOTE #2: Epyx's Pitstop was released with two different cartridge shells. The first was similar to Imagic's cart shell with a tapered front at the top that forms a handle/hand grip and the label reads " for Coleco ". The second cart shell is similar to Coleco's and reads " for ColecoVision & ADAM". To make matters more confusing some of these Coleco-ish style shells also read " for Coleco ". The games Gateway to Apshai and Jumpman Jr. were only released in Coleco-ish style cart shells with labels that read "For ColecoVision & ADAM".
- NOTE #3: Evolution by Sydney/Coleco (Canada) Limitée was removed from the list above as there is no evidence of a U.S. release of this game, only the Canadian release.
- NOTE #4: Most 3rd Party U.S. releases are the same in Canada and the rest of the World.
- NOTE #5: The CAT Scheduled Oil Sampling Game was a specially designed game for C.A.T. Heavy Equipment Dealerships and only one cartridge is known to exist.
- NOTE #6: Slither (Roller Controller), Turbo (Exp. Mod. #2 Driving Controller) and Super Action Baseball (Super Action Controllers) were not supplied with a game box. However, boxes for all three games have been produced by Homebrewers. Also, Coleco did produce a box for Donkey Kong and it is one of, if not, the rarest boxes to find especially in good condition.

NOTE #7: Sunrise Software titles were released with gold cart labels with the exception of Mountain King, which used a silver cart label. Eventually, Quest for Quintana Roo also was released with a silver cart label.

NOTE #8: Coleco made two different box variations for Mr. Do!. The first had the Arcade Cabinet on the front of the box angled to the right and the corrected version, released much later, had the cabinet angled to the left like all other Coleco releases featuring arcade cabinets on the front of the box.

NOTE #9: Note deleted.

NOTE #10: Coleco produced numerous variations of their game cartridge manuals with most just being slight changes in the legal notices. The original manuals used just a "Guide No. #", while revised manuals added a letter to the end of the Guide No. # to signify Revision "A" or a "B" to signify Revision B. Following are the manuals and their Guide No.'s that are known to exist:

- Cosmic Avenger 78088 78088A
- Donkey Kong 78214 78214A 78214B
- Lady Bug 78093 78093A 78093B
- Rocky: Super Action Boxing 91882 91882A
- Smurf: Rescue in Gargamel's Castle 78089 78089A
- Space Fury 78128 78128A 78128B
- Space Panic 78136 78136A 78136B
- Super Action Baseball 78130 14314
- Turbo 55704 55704A
- Victory 78135 14338

Coleco also produced two different colored manuals probably in a cost cutting measure. The first and original manuals were printed in Blue, Black and White while the newer revisions were only printed in Black and White.

Variation manuals produced by 3rd Party companies:

- Pitstop (Part No. 60 both) Filled Pitstop text Unfilled Pitstop text

NOTE #11: Numerous other label variations (matte, glossy, slight color differences) were made for Coleco releases. There are numerous other "Printed in country" variations that include Canada and Taiwan. See Note #12 below for some examples of verified cartridge variations.

NOTE #12: Coleco cartridge shells come in four "Made in" country variations including U.S.A., Canada, Taiwan and Hong Kong. The "Made in U.S.A." cart shell is the most common and then followed by "Made in Canada". There are only a small number of games that use the "Made in Taiwan" cart shell, even fewer that use the "Made in Hong Kong" cart shell and all contain the earlier game releases. Following is a list (probably missing some) of the known Taiwan and Hong Kong shells:

GAME NAME	CART SHELL "MADE IN"	LABEL "PRINTED IN"
<input type="checkbox"/> Cosmic Avenger	Taiwan	Taiwan
<input type="checkbox"/> Donkey Kong	Taiwan	Taiwan
<input type="checkbox"/> Donkey Kong	Taiwan	Canada
<input type="checkbox"/> Looping	Taiwan	Taiwan

<input type="checkbox"/> Space Fury	Taiwan	Taiwan
<input type="checkbox"/> Space Panic	Taiwan	Taiwan
<input type="checkbox"/> Turbo	Hong Kong	U.S.A.
<input type="checkbox"/> Turbo	Hong Kong	Canada

NOTE #13: Omega Race was originally sold with Guide No. 91747 which omitted some details on setting up the game with the Roller Controller as well as omitting how to play head-to-head. A yellow single sheet supplement was provided with this manual/guide to provide the missing details. Later the game was sold with Guide No. 14320 which incorporated the missing details into the manual. As such games that were sold with Guide No. 14320 do not include the supplement.

Thanks to AtariAge member Jeff31 for the following information and other help he has provided.

NOTE #3a: There are 8 variations of CBS Electronics game manuals:

- #1 - Grey and white - single language (English, French, German or Spanish).
- #2 - Blue and white - single language (English) - used for Australian releases.
- #3 - Black and white - multilingual (English and French).
- #4 - Black and white - multilingual (English, French, German and Italian).
- #5 - Black and white - multilingual (English, German, French, Dutch and Italian).
- #6 - Black and white - multilingual (English, German, French, Dutch, Italian and Spanish).
- #7 - Black and white - multilingual (English, German, Danish, Norwegian, Swedish and Finnish).
- #8 - Black and white - multilingual (English, German, French, Dutch, Italian, Spanish, Danish, Norwegian, Swedish and Finnish).

NOTE #4: There are 8 known region codes used for CBS Electronics releases. This code is the letter, letters or letter/number at the end of the Product #:

- A - United Kingdom
- C -
- CA -
- D - Germany
- F - France
- I - Italy ?
- R1 - Europe Region 1 (English, French, German, Spanish and Italian)
- R2 - Europe Region 2 (English, German, Danish, Norwegian, Swedish and Finnish)
- R3 - Europe Region 3 (Unknown)

NOTE #5: The Bit Corp. game Strike It! may never have been officially released in Europe, but maybe a production run of only cartridges was made, purchased by Telegames U.K. and then resold. Cosmic Crisis, Meteoric Shower, Strike It! and Tank Wars were made for Bit Corp.'s Dina 2-in-1 System, a ColecoVision compatible system. They also worked in Bit's ILO-90 (Bit-90) Computer.

NOTE #6: Xonox released three DOUBLE-ENDER cartridges in Canada and Europe containing games released in the U.S. as single carts. All three are rare to very rare and the label on most has a blue background while a smaller quantity sold in Europe have a black background label. These double-enders did find their way to U.S. Stores in very small quantities.

NOTE #7: Splice made one original game, Castelo, for their ColecoVision clone called SpliceVision. All their other releases were just bootlegs of other companies games that sometimes have different names. Castelo may never have been officially produced and sold in cartridge form and is listed in the Bootlegs Section.

NOTE #8: Parker Brothers' foreign releases of their titles were made in 2 different box variations. For the Canadian market (French/Canadian) and the European market (6 languages). The company name was also shortened to Parker for these releases. All the boxes are assumed to be the 2-Piece style. Recently discovered was an Australian box for Popeye with all English text and company name Parker Brothers.

NOTE #9: The Super Action Controller overlays included with Front Line (two overlays) and Rocky - Super Action Boxing (one overlay) have different artwork/color to the US releases and include the text "CBS ColecoVision & ADAM" and "CBS ColecoVision" on them respectively.

NOTE #10: Coleco (Canada) produced numerous variations of their game cartridge manuals with most just being slight changes in the legal notices. The original manuals used just a "Guide No. #", while revised manuals added an "A" to the end of the Guide No. # to signify Revision A, a "B" to signify Revision B and a "C" to signify Revision C. Following are the manuals and their Guide No.'s that are known to exist:

- Cabbage Patch Kids: Adventures in the Park □ 17123 □ 17123A
- Donkey Kong □ 56624 □ 56624A □ 56624B
- Donkey Kong Junior □ 96292 □ 96292A
- Smurf: Rescue in Gargamel's Castle □ 56520 □ 56520A
- Space Fury □ 56522 □ 56522A
- Space Panic □ 56530 □ 56530A □ 56530B □ 56530C

NOTE #11: Canadian releases of Coleco game titles maintained a consistency with their U.S. counterparts with the exception that the boxes and manuals were bilingual (French and English) and a bilingual replacement label was included in the package that the owner could place over the U.S. (English) label if desired. There were two exceptions to this with the games "The Dam Busters" and "B.C. II: Grog's Revenge". Both of these games were supplied in different style artwork boxes, vastly different instruction manuals and B/W labels that included both English and French text. Not only was the packaging different, but the standard ColecoVision title screen was replaced with text title screens that included programmer credits.

NOTE #12: "Coleco Family Learning Software" titles were supplied in cardboard boxes in Canada where as the U.S. versions were supplied in plastic clamshell boxes with insert sheets. All artwork was identical and the only other difference was the included French text. These releases include Smurf: Paint 'n' Play Workshop, Fortune Builder, Telly Turtle, Brain Strainers and Dr. Seuss: Fix-Up the Mix-Up Puzzler. Also, Monkey Academy may have been supplied in this manner as well.

NOTE #13: Details of Energy Quizz are still sketchy at best. One is known to exist and gameplay wise, it may have been a hack of WizMath and made specifically for an energy company in Canada called Hydro Quebec.

NOTE #14: Original (no variation) cartridge release count not released in the U.S. = 6 (does not include Energy Quizz)

NOTE #1: Adam's House/eColeco has been a long time mail order vendor for all things ColecoVision and ADAM Computer. In the early 90's they started to provide ColecoVision cartridges in generic cart shells with a white label and black printed text. They also partnered with CBS Electronics to produce cartridge versions of a number of prototype games and when stock was sold off, continued to manufacture their own versions.

NOTE #2: Walters Software Co., one of the most prolific developers of ADAM software, conversions of Super Games to Disk format and much more, acquired the distribution rights to a large number of ColecoVision games in 1992-93 from, I assume, Telegames US. It is not known how many they eventually sold but they probably would have a white label with black text like their ADAM only cartridge releases. Also, the label would have been on the face of the cartridge shell and would not have included an END label. Since they acquired the rights, the games they produced are not bootlegs, rather they are reproductions.

NOTE #1: These carts found their way out the doors of Coleco as rom image files that were given to users groups or were given to authorized repair shops like Honeywell and then got spread from there.

NOTE #2: These are confirmed to exist and have been dumped to a rom image file, although they may not have all been contained in a cartridge shell, but rather a loose EProm or Prom Chip.

NOTE #1: Most are confirmed to exist and have been dumped to a rom image file, although they may not have all been contained in a cartridge shell, but rather a loose EProm or Prom Chip.

NOTE #2: Super Donkey Kong and Super Donkey Kong Junior cartridges are confirmed to have existed. The cartridges were reported to be almost double the size of a standard cartridge shell. These versions were used in conjunction with a modified ColecoVision (increased memory) at the infamous unveiling of the ADAM Computer during the 1983 Consumer Electronic Show.

NOTE #1: A Coleco In-House conversion was made from the ADAM version.

NOTE #2: Possible working title for War Room.

NOTE #3: Released by Telegames in 1986. Number Bumper renamed to Amazing Bumpman.

NOTE #4: Possible working title for Aquattack.

NOTE #5: A demo/prototype was found and dumped to a rom file.

NOTE #6: An unconfirmed prototype was found and dumped to a rom file.

NOTE #7: Working title for The Lord of the Dungeon.

NOTE #8: Released by Coleco in 1984.

NOTE #9: Title was scrapped and replaced by the released Destructor.

NOTE #10: Prototype was found and dumped to a rom file. Homebrew Scene released it on cartridge in limited quantities.

NOTE #11: A confirmed prototype was found but no rom file has been dumped.

NOTE #12: Possible working title for B.C II: Grog's Revenge.

NOTE #13: Titles were scrapped and replaced by Super Action Baseball & Football.

NOTE #14: Was released with a cart label titled Facemaker, but box read Make-A-Face.

NOTE #15: Completed titles that CAN'T be released by The Blue Sky Rangers due to licensing laws. Rom files do exist, but are closely guarded!

NOTE #16: Possible working title for It's Only Rock 'n' Roll.

NOTE #17: Never released. Telegames sells a game called Skiing... it's not the same.

NOTE #18: Never released. A terrific Homebrew version was released by Scott Huggins.

NOTE #19: Possible working titles for The Wizard of Id's WizMath.

NOTE #20: Was scrapped by Coleco after nearing completion. Can be seen in the CV Experience magazine.

NOTE #21: A Homebrew project was started around 2003 or so, but was put on hold indefinitely. Hopefully one day it will be revisited and finished.

NOTE #22: A Homebrew project to bring this game to the ColecoVision was completed and the game was released in CIB form (complete with box, manual and cart).

NOTE #23: Artist mock-up drawings exist, but nothing else has been found.

- NOTE #1: Some details as to whether a cartridge release was supplied with a box and printed manual are not currently available. I have done my best to get things listed correctly and verification/corrections would be welcome.
- NOTE #2: A large number of the above homebrews are still available to purchase thru the developer, AtariAge, Good Deal Games, etc (Rarity 1). In the case that the carts are not available for purchase anymore, the rarity/value is adjusted to R7 or more since a limited amount were produced and will increase in rarity value quickly.
- NOTE #3: A large number of cartridges listed above have been released by their author as a rom image... FOR FREE! These may not be listed below in the "HOME BREW ROM IMAGE RELEASES" section. They can be found on the Web easily.
- NOTE #4: Cye 1.x was released in three different variations. Cye 1.0 was released by CGE Services in 2007, had 28 levels and was a limited production edition of 52 carts. Cye 1.1 was released in 2008 and has 30 levels (9 are identical to 1.0). Cye 1.2 was released in 2014 with updated graphics and has 41 levels (18 from 1.0, all from 1.1 and 2 new 2-player).
- NOTE #5: Different bonus levels are included in both of the versions of Search for the Stolen Crown Jewels I after one wins the game at the highest skill level, e.g. The GDG version featured an exclusive aircraft dive performance level.
- NOTE #6: Two different versions of DacMan exist. DacMan v1.0 was released at CGEZK and later v1.3 was released that fixed a bug in the game.
- NOTE #7: CVDrum EX and CVSynth by E-Mancanics may never have been released.
- NOTE #8: A number of games that were only made available as rom images (see section below) were made available as actual cartridges with professional and/or generic labels by numerous people over the years. They show up for sale on Auction Sites and Forums from time to time.
- NOTE #9: Homebrew Hand Controller Overlays have been produced by numerous people:
 2010: The Graphic Action Game by James Carter 1 Hand Cont.
 Astro Invader by Pixelboy 2 Hand Cont.

 Dukes of Hazard, The by Phil Boland 1 Hand Cont.
 Gateway to Apsahai by James Carter 1 Hand Cont.
 Gateway to Apsahai by Pixelboy 1 Hand Cont.
 Heist, The by Phil Boland 1 Hand Cont.
 Lord of the Dungeon by Yurkie / CollectorVision 1 Hand Cont.
 Mario Bros. by Yurkie / CollectorVision (2009) 2 Hand Cont.
 Mario Bros. by Phil Boland / CollectorVision (2013) 2 Hand Cont.
 Miner 2049er by James Carter 2 Hand Cont.
 Quest for Quintana Roo by James Carter 1 Hand Cont.
 Quest for Quintana Roo by Pixelboy 1 Hand Cont.
 Quest for Quintana Roo by Yurkie 1 Hand Cont.
 Spectar by Pixelboy 2 Hand Cont.
 Super Action Football (Soccer) by Pixelboy 2 S.A.C. Cont.
- NOTE #10: Secret Game A and Secret Game B were released by Team Pixelboy as a double-box set in an outer cardboard slipcase labelled as *****.
- NOTE #11: Computer Space & Pong were released by CollectorVision as a double-box set in an outer cardboard slipcase (Product No. 9938).
- NOTE #12: The revisions of the Mario Bros. By CollectorVision are listed below:
 Rev. A - The 32k "final" version (not ADAM compatible).
 Rev. B - The official Red cart release.
 Rev. C - Never been sold to public (Missing Intermission music and Fireball sounds added).
 Rev. D - Final green cartridge release.
- NOTE #13: MemoTech MTX Series: Games Collection Vol. 1 by Claus Baekkel included the name of the buyer on the title screen.
- NOTE #14: Jawbreaker II was programmed without sounds.
- NOTE #15: Opcode Games first three "Color" line of games featured an enhanced colour palette when played on and F18A equipped ColecoVision. They come in plastic cases with a full-color double-sided sleeve and an instruction card.

NOTE #16: Opcode Games "Gray" line of "Limited Edition" games come in plastic cases with a gray sleeve and no instructions. Each cart is numbered. Visually they look the same as the later Opcode prototype game releases that commenced with Mouser.

NOTE #17: The first 42 Tank Mission carts released by CollectorVision were sold with the wrong (beta) ROM. After the first 42, the correct ROM was used and the cart colour changed to black to differentiate between the early erroneous ROM release and the later corrected release. Some of the early 42 carts were sent back to CollectorVision for replacement with the correct black carts.

NOTE #18: The Retro Electroik 192-in-1 multicart is/was sold as a board only and required the buyer to mount the board in an empty cart shell. This cam preloaded with 192 roms that were selected via a a 9 switch DIP. The ninth switch was a rom bank selector. With it off the user could select from 128 16kb roms, and with it on from 64 32kb roms.

NOTE #19: The Castle & Castle Excellent were released by CollectorVision as a double-box set in an outer cardboard slipcase (Product No. 3634). Each box set has a unique number.

NOTE #20: Each Risky Rick game came with a unique serial number indicated by a sticker on the back of the cartridge and a corresponding sticker on the plastic bag that the box came in.

NOTE #21: In 2017 Opcode Games produced boxes and replacement game labels for their early prototype game releases. More details can be found in the Homebrew Boxes section.

NOTE #22: Car Fighter was originally released with the wrong rom. This cheat rom, used by the programmer during game development, does not use fuel and was provided to CollectorVision for cart production in error. Some owners returned their carts to CollectorVision to replace the rom with the correct one. So, if buying Car Fighter double-check which rom version is in the cart.

NOTE #23: The dark blue boxed version of ##### was the "secret" CollectorVision Club 2019 game and was only available to club members. The ##### boxed version with different artwork was only available to those ColecoVision Brotherhood members who contributed money towards the project.

NOTE #24: Sydney Hunter and the Caverns of Death was also sold as an optional pack-in game sold with the CollectorVision Phoenix console.

NOTE #25: There were two different versions of Schlange CV, Monster Masher and Search for the Stolen Crown Jewels II, one version sold by GoodDealGames and the other by GameConsoles.com. The differences between the two different versions of each game is unknown.

NOTE #26: Original Releases = 280+ (roughly) limited or unfinished version. This section was the most challenging to organize, but it should be pretty accurate and complete to the best of my abilities, with the exception where info is not available as to whether the programmer released a rom image of an officially released cartridge game.

- NOTE #2: ROM images listed as WIP are work-in-progress demo releases that were made available by their author. Some were finished and released as a cartridge or a final ROM file.
- NOTE #3: A number of "mini" 4K ColecoVision games were entered into an annual (2004 to 2009) 4K mini-game competition organised by Stephen Judd. Some games were also released at the same time in a larger 8K form.
- NOTE #4: These ROMs are/were bundled free with purchase of an AtariMax Ultimate SD cartridge.
- NOTE #5: These games were bundled free, by their author nanochess, with the CoolCV emulator.
- NOTE #6: From Aug 2013 to Mar 2016 a limited number of CollectorVision ROMs were made available for download by registered "members" with a login to the CollectorVision website. This "Members" area was removed in 2016 when the website was updated.
- NOTE #7: Buyers of the Computer Space and Pong boxed set were provided with a download link for the game ROM files. This link became unusable from 2016 when the CollectorVision website was updated.
- NOTE #8: ROMs marked with this note were only released to those who paid to be members of the 2019 CollectorVision Experience Club or who purchased separate access to the ROMs. The games are referred to as being part of the CollectorVision ROM Vault. Also note that The Way of the Exploding Foot (Beta 01) ROM was later removed and replaced with Chess Challenger.
- NOTE #9: Multiple revisions/updates of some of the above ROMs were made available by their author and I will not list each one in most cases, just the last version released.
